Louisiana Senator Makes Million In Oil Lease Profits

Russell Long Claims No Conflict Of Interest In Fighting Tax Bill

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long has collected at least $329,151 in oil royalties since 1964 which has been free of federal income taxes because of the 27.5 per cent depletion allowance he now is defending in Congress.

This income is the tax-sheltered portion of the $1,196,915 which Louisiana Mineral Board records show Long has received during the past five and one-half years for his interests in four state oil and gas leases.

The Senate Finance Committee, headed by Long, currently is considering a House-passed tax bill cutting the depletion allowance to 20 per cent. Under present law, 27.5 per cent of gross income from oil, gas and other minerals is exempt from federal income taxes.

While presiding over Finance Committee hearings last week, Long agreed with oil industry witnesses who argued that reducing the depletion allowance "would be a breach of faith by Congress."

The Louisiana Democrat, who has been identified with the oil industry since he came to the Senate two decades ago, describes himself as a "very small independent" in a field dominated by giant firms.

"Most of my income is from oil and gas," Long said in an interview.

NO CONGRESS BAN

There is no ban against members of Congress having such financial holdings, and Long said, "I don't regard it as any conflict of interest."

"A long time ago I became convinced that if you have financial interests completely parallel to your state, then you have no problem," he said. "My state produces more oil and gas per acre than any other state in the Union. If I didn't represent the oil and gas industry, I wouldn't represent the state of Louisiana."

The senator said his oil interests have been "an issue in more than one campaign" and added: "I've never withheld from anyone that I've inherited and participated in wells."

'IT HURT ME'

Long said he last drilled for oil five years ago and ended up with a dry hole. "It hurt me sufficiently," he said. "I haven't been able to participate since that time."

Besides these four state leases, Louisiana records indicate the Senator has an interest in at least seven private leases. Royalty payents from private leases are not disclosed in public records.

Long also is listed as one of three trustees on family trusts which, according to records, have collected $961,443 for holdings, in state leases in five and one-half years.

The senator's personal overriding interest on the four state leases is listed as .0015625 of the gross income. The figure seems small, but the leases are so lucrative that this percentage earned Long $235,095 in royalties in the last fiscal year alone —more than five times his

New Proposal In Works For Courthouse

Since Marin County will not be able to sell the courthouse square for some time, why not let San Rafael tear down the old courthouse building and use the space for metered parking?

This proposal will be presented to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday as a joint recommendation by James McCown, acting city manager of San Rafael, and County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Under the plan, the city would pay for razing the old building, paving the area, and metering. The city would maintain the grounds. The annex portion of the building would be retained by the county.

When the county ultimately sold the property, the county would reimburse the city for capital costs incurred, but not for the cost of annual maintenance of grounds during interim use as a parking lot.

To facilitate sale of the property, the city would remove all detailed zoning requirements and require only that whoever buys the courthouse square submit a planned development plan. The city would also agree to closing Court Street and permits its use as part of the overall development.

The county, despite numerous attempts, has been unable to sell courthouse square. The century-old courthouse and its annex are scheduled to be vacated later this year when courts and allied services move into the new Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

Dr. Clyde G. Miller, suspended for 30 days with pay from his job as Marin County director of community mental health services, is the center of another controversy over a conference he attended in England last August.

The matter will be aired before the board of supervisors on Tuesday.

Nixon Firm For Haynsworth Despite Rising Pressure

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)— President Richard M. Nixon is still firmly supporting Clement F. Haynsworth for the Supreme Court, but the Florida White House acknowledged today that the President has gained new information critical of the judge since sending his name to the Senate.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a complete review of all aspects of Haynsworth's background had been made prior to the nomination and "when additional reports came up in the press, even further checking was done."

Ziegler was asked whether the Senate Republican leadership would join the President in supporting Haynsworth.

"You would have to address your question to them," Ziegler said.

The press secretary said, in response to questions, that even following the additional checking of Haynsworth, the President was convinced "of the soundness of the judge's background."

He said anew that "we expect the judiciary committee to act in a positive way and for the Senate to confirm the nomination."

Asked whether Nixon had received a letter from Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, critical of Haynsworth, Ziegler said he was not going to comment on every piece of correspondence received by the President.

However, he acknowledged that Nixon had received more than one letter from members of the Senate relating to the Haynsworth nomination, but added that not all were negative.

When asked if it would be fair to say that Nixon had not anticipated the degree of resistance his choice for the Supreme Court has met, Ziegler pointedly ignored the inquiry.

Both Republican Leader Hugh Scott and GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin refused to take sides yesterday as Nixon began to shift the full weight of his prestige into blunting criticism of Judge Haynsworth.

Scott said he still would vote in the Senate Judiciary Committee to report the nomination to the floor but that he could not predict what the Senate — or even he — would do then.

High Winds Claw At Tam

North winds of up to 110 miles an hour were reported atop Mount Tamalpais last night by personnel at the Mill Valley Air Station.

This morning winds were blowing up to 75 miles an hour, with strong gusts expected to continue through tomorrow.

According to weathermen, the winds have pushed California's fire danger to its 1969 peak. The state Division of Forestry has reported a major fire 12 miles southwest of Sonora in Tuoloumne County.

Richard Ernest, fire prevention officer for the division, said dry weather before the winds started contributed to the high danger.

"Conditions now are about the same as in 1964 when Northern California nearly burned up," Ernest said.

Peking Announces Pair Of Bomb Tests

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China announced today it has tested a hydrogen bomb and carried out its first underground nuclear explosion.

The tests were made Sept. 23 and last Monday, but Peking has remained silent about them until now, although both had been detected in the West.

Senate Hearings On Viet 'Morass'

Nixon's War Plan Is Target

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans a week of hearings on the war in South Vietnam — seeking, its chairman said Saturday, to help President Richard M. Nixon "out of the Vietnam morass."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., set that goal for public sessions which will begin on Oct. 27.

He said Secretary of State William P. Rogers has been invited to testify Oct. 30, and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird the following day.

"If the Senate is to be a full and active partner in the making of foreign policy," said Fulbright, "it has a duty to help the President in finding a way out of the Vietnam morass."

The five days of hearings, likely to be broadcast and televised nationally, could prove crucial ones in Nixon's effort to fashion Vietnam unity in Congress and the country.

LBJ ON PAN

When the same committee held a public inquiry into Vietnam policy three and one-half years ago, it became a forum for opposition to the course of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Fulbright said his committee will consider any legislative proposals on U.S. policy.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., has proposed a bill to force withdrawal of all U.S. troops by Dec. 1, 1970.

There may be other plans, too.

Red Chinese Free English Newsman

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China today free Anthony Grey, the British newsman who had not been allowed to leave his house in Peking for more than two years.

Grey has been taken to the British diplomatic compound in Peking and is expected to leave the Chinese capital within three days, a British Foreign Office spokesman in London said.

The 31-year-old newsman, a correspondent for Reuters news agency, had been confined to his home for 26 months in reprisal for the arrest of 13 Communist Chinese newsmen in Hong Kong following anti-British riots in July 1967. The last of the 13 was released yesterday.

The official New China News Agency said Chinese authorities summoned Grey to the Foreign Ministry today "and announced to him that since the Hong Kong British authorities had already released all the patriotic Chinese journalists, his freedom of movement was restored to him as of this day."

During his detention, the British newsman was kept under continous guard and was allowed only two 40-minute exercise periods in his garden each day. Communist China said the restrictions were imposed because of "persecution" of the New China News Agency correspondents in Hong Kong.

Shot-Up Russians Get Gate In Jet Theft Try

BEIRUT (UPI)—Two Russian diplomats ordered to leave Lebanon for trying to steal a Lebanese Air Force French-made Mirage IIIE jet fighter for the Soviet Union left Beirut by plane today for Moscow, one on a stretcher.

They were Alexander Khomiakov, first secretary at the Soviet embassy in Beirut, and Vladimir Vassiliev, employed in the embassy trade section and described as a Russian agent.

Both were shot in a gunbattle Tuesday when Lebanese security police broke into Vassiliev's apartment. Also wounded was Hasan Badawi, who was dismissed from the Lebanese Air Force five years ago on bad conduct charges, and also accused of involvement in the plot.

Khomiakov was reported to have been hit in the stomach by five bullets. A source close to the Soviet embassy said he is "critically ill" and would need urgent surgery on his arrival in Moscow. Khomiakov was carried aboard the plane on a stretcher.

Vassiliev was reported to have suffered only minor wounds and boarded the plane unaided.

The Mirage IIIE is the super secret French fighter which outfought Soviet-built MIG 21s in every aerial duel during and after the 1967 Mideast War.

The two Russians and the Lebanese pilot was reported trying to steal the plane and fly it to Baku in the Soviet Union.

Badawi is being held in a special isolated cell at the Beirut military prison. Informed sources said he would be tried on spy charges.

Actual fires deliberately set and fought by Marin County fire departments will open Fire Prevention Week tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Redwood High School, Larkspur.

The third annual Fire-O-Rama will feature equipment demonstrations in the school cafeteria from 10 a.m. to noon. The fire prevention and training sections of the departments and private fire equipment companies will have underwater rescue teams and resuscitation teams explaining their equipment and techniques and will describe fire safety around the home.

At noon the Hamilton Air Force Base band will play and about 20 pieces of fire equipment will be displayed in the school parking lot.

From 1 to 3 p.m. Marin County Fire Department will simulate a cliff rescue using a two-story building and a private helicopter representing the Coast Guard chopper that normally would be used.

Father Shot To Death In Error-Riddled Dope Raid

WHITTIER (AP) — As Hayward Henry Dyer, 22, stood in the middle of a room cradling his infant son, a stray rifle shot from the apartment above crashed through the ceiling and struck him in the head.

Dyer was killed instantly yesterday. He dropped 22-month-old Francis as he crumbled to the floor. The tot suffered minor cuts.

Officers said the shot was fired accidentally by a policeman—one of 12 officers who had mistakenly crashed into Dyer's mother-in-law's apartment moments before. Armed with search warrants, they were making a predawn raid for marijuana and had come to the wrong apartment.

Dyer who lived upstairs—but not in the apartment police wanted to search—heard his mother-in-law, Francis Meehan, and her 12-year-old daughter Susie screaming at the officers.

He ran down to his mother-in-law's apartment to investigate, as officers—realizing their mistake—went upstairs to the apartment listed on their warrant.

It was directly above Mrs. Meehan's apartment. The .22-caliber shot was fired by Vernon Detective Sgt. Frank Sweeney as he held his rifle, barrel down, pointed at the floor above Mrs. Meehan's ceiling, Vernon Police Chief Robert H. Backhacker said.

The chief said the sergeant was asked to join seven state narcotics agents and four sheriff's deputies on the raid. Backhacker said he did not know why Sweeney carried a rifle, and said there would be an investigation.

Sweeney, he said, was "pretty shaken up about it."

Officers had instructions to search apartments B and D of 8033 S. Comstock Ave., and they burst into Mrs. Meehan's apartment B of 8031 S. Comstock Ave. Both addresses are in the same building.

"I saw three men," Mrs. Meehan said. "One of them grabbed me by the arm. I screamed and I ran out. I thought one of them was going to attack me."

Said Susan: "They just grabbed mommy by the arms and said they had a search warrant for marijuana."

That's when Dyer and his pregnant wife arrived with their infant.

Officers said no arrests were made in the upstairs apartment B. One man in apartment D—above and to the side of Mrs. Meehan's—was arrested for investigation of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Antitrust Watchdogs Eye Oil Merger Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has threatened court action to prevent huge British Petroleum Co. from gaining a bigger foothold in the United States through a merger of its U.S. subsidiary with Standard Oil of Ohio.

The Justice Department's antitrust chief, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, claimed yesterday the proposed consolidation violates merger guidelines laid down last year.

Under the proposal, BP Oil Corp., U.S. subsidiary of the London-based firm, would be acquired by Sohio.

McLaren contended no nationalistic interests were involved in the government's decision to oppose the merger.

"In evaluating this merger," he said, "we accorded British Petroleum no more and no less favorable treatment than we would give an American company in BP's position."

Besides BP Oil Corp. and Sohio, McLaren said, the parent company and two other subsidiaries, British Petroleum N.V. and British Petroleum Holdings Inc., would be named defendants in any government suit "because of the nature of the merger agreement."

But the department said no effort would be made to block an Oct. 9 meeting of Sohio shareholders, whose approval is the only roadblock left before the merger is consummated.

Moreover, the announcement added, the government will not try to thwart a stock exchange, scheduled under the agreement for Oct. 10.

Discussions between government antitrust lawyers and Sohio-BP representatives will continue in the meantime, officials said, in an effort to resolve the dispute out of court.

Both Sohio and BP had no comment on the matter pending a study of the decision. McLaren said he informed attorneys of the planned action before making the announcement.

With worldwide sales last year of almost $5 billion, BP gained its first foothold in the U.S. petroleum market last February when it acquired marketing outlets in 16 Eastern Seaboard states from Atlantic Richfield.

But its holdings on Alaska's North Slope is expected to multiply the British firm's output of U.S. oil.

Sohio President Charles E. Spahr contended last month that his firm's potential over the next 10 years "dazzles the imagination" because of growth expected from the merger.

As soon as the consolidation is finalized, he said, "we have the prospect of nearly doubling our size . . . in terms of petroleum products volume."

Sohio, which had sales last year of $880 million, estimated the BP properties in Alaska's Prudhoe Bay area will ultimately yield at least 4.8 billion gross barrels of recoverable oil.

The merger arrangement would grant the British concern an initial 25 per cent interest in the new combine and rights to a majority interest depending on the anticipated Alaska production.

McLaren did not disclose the grounds under which a complaint would be brought against the consolidation.

Small Plane Crash Costs Five Lives

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Five persons were killed and two injured last night when a twin-engine commuter plane crashed at the edge of Lowry Air Force Base in a blinding snowstorm.

The Metro Commuter Airlines plane, on a return flight from Rawlins, Laramie and Cheyenne, Wyo., apparently overshot an approach to Stapleton International Airport, officials said. It crashed on the south edge of the air base, which is not regularly used as a landing strip.

The coroner's office identified two of the victims as James Leonard Faull, 25, Denver, pilot of the twin-engine Beechcraft, and Floyd Wayne Frizell, 24, of suburban Aurora, the copilot.

The Denver coroner's office identified passengers killed in the accident as Kenneth Eldon Reisinger, 59, Eldora, Iowa; Howard Wade Vesey, 63, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Richard Joseph Donnelly, 50, Minneapolis, Minn.

One of the injured passengers, Robert DeWeese, in his late 30s of Tulsa, Okla., was listed in serious condition at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital. Authorities at Denver General Hospital said the other, Jack Rowe, 57, of either Reno, Nev., or Laramie, Wyo., suffered a broken arm.

High winds accompanied the storm and more than seven inches of snow covered the ground before the crash.

Meany-Reuther Split Widens With Expulsion

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The battle between labor leaders George Meany and Walter Reuther has escalated with the expulsion from the AFL-CIO of the International Chemical Workers Union.

The 1,000 delegates at the AFL-CIO convention, representing some 13 million workers, voted overwhelmingly yesterday to oust the chemical workers.

The 29-man AFL-CIO executive council, headed by labor federation President Meany, had unanimously recommended the action against the 110,000-member union for joining a "hostile" labor group, the Reuther-sponsored Alliance For Labor Action.

The AFL-CIO charged the alliance with raiding AFL-CIO unions.

Reuther pulled his Auto Workers Union out of the AFL-CIO last year after charging Meany with stagnant leadership and joined acting President Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters Union in creating the Alliance.

The expulsion was the first such action since the AFL-CIO kicked out the Teamsters and two smaller unions on corruption charges 12 years ago.

Chemical Workers President Thomas E. Boyle protested: "We have done nothing wrong."

Meany labeled as "bunk" scattered protests that the ouster was vengeful and would further split the nation's labor movement.

Meany said only the AFL-CIO's no-raiding agreement among its unions has kept the federation together since he and Reuther founded it 14 years ago and that no union could live up to the constitutions of both the alliance and the AFL-CIO.

"Walter says this is not a rival federation. I don't believe Walter. I know him," said the 75-year-old Meany, the only president in AFL-CIO history.

Lawmaker Sees New Bill Against Smog

SEATTLE (AP) —Sen. Warren Magnuson said yesterday he plans to step up his campaign against air pollution by offering a bill in the next Congress calling on the federal government to procure low-emission vehicles.

The Washington Democrat said the government uses nearly 400,000 vehicles and that this market would be a powerful inducement for manufactuers to make such cars.

William Lear, president of the Lear Motors Corp., Santa Monica, which is making experimental steam and gas-electric autos, echoed Magnunson's concern.

"Time is running out on us," he said. "There now are 100 million vehicles on our roads; there will be 220 million in 30 years."

Also attending the meeting was Reine J. Corbeil, project Engineer for Pacific Lighting Service and Supply Co. of Los Angeles, which has converted five vehicles in California to use natural gas.

Corbeil said natural gas eliminates 90 per cent of the pollutant emissions from vehicles. He said the conversion is quite simple and safe. One drawback, he said, is that natural gas is not as available now as is gasoline, but it is cheaper to use, he added.

Border Dope Shakedown Ires Commissioners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the U.S.-Mexico Border Commission on Development and Friendship say they've gotten no information from the government on Operation Intercept, but have heard plenty from local officials on both sides of the 2,000-mile border.

"Our telephones have been ringing all day long," said Antonio Rodriguez, executive director of the commission's U.S. unit, in an interview.

STORES COMPLAIN

Operation Intercept, the government's much-publicized crackdown on narcotics traffic across the border, has caused massive automobile congestion at crossings and businessmen on both sides are complaining.

"Mayors, representatives of chambers of commerce and other people are saying their business is being drastically hurt—in some places as much as 62 per cent," Rodriguez said.

"Personally, I think it may—emphasizing the may—be too soon to say that commerce is going to suffer to the point where it cannot recover," he said.

Part of question is how long Operation Intercept will continue, Rodriguez said. And he can give callers no assurances it will end any time soon.

COMMISSION IGNORED

Rodriguez said the federal agencies involved in Operation Intercept gave the commission no details before it went into effect 11 days ago, nor has the commission been briefed since.

The commission was formed two years ago to promote joint projects aimed at making the border a better place to live.

With the inception of Operation Intercept at least one—a binational planning commission meeting scheduled Oct. 16-17 in El Paso, Tex.—has been postponed indefinitely, Rodriguez said.

Refinery Is Still Ablaze

CARTABENA, Spain (AP) — For the third consecutive day, hundreds of firemen and army troops fought the fire at the huge Escombreras oil refinery today. Five men have been burned to death in the blaze.

The cause of the fire remains unknown, but saboteurs are suspected.

About 157,000 metric tons of oil and some key installations have been destroyed. Damage is unofficially estimated at $28.5 million.

Three workers seriously burned were reported improving.

Spock Plans Marches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. Benjamin Spock announced yesterday what he called the latest offensive of the anti-Vietnam war movement with demonstrations panned for San Francisco and Washington Nov. 15.

The famed baby doctor, appearing at a news conference, said the "antiwar and majority march" was expected to attract more than 500,000 persons.

Spock said the marchers will carry fake coffins in the Washington demonstration while their San Francisco counterparts will carry white flags with black boarders containing statistics of persons killed in Vietnam.

"The purpose of the march is to give the majority of Americans an opportunity to demonstrate their opposition to the war in Vietnam, to stop aggression abroad, to end the war in Vietnam by immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all U.S. military personnel and facilities," Spock said.

Fugitive Blasted

BAD BRAMSTEDT, Germany (UPI) — A young would-be refugee from East Germany lay severely injured in no-man's land for five hours after a landmine exploded along the border during an escape attempt yesterday.

Western border officals said they heard the young man cry for help only a short time and speculated he may have bled to death before an East German ambulance arrived five hours after the explosion. They said they tried to alert East German guards by shouts and telephone calls.

More Oil Slick

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Offshore winds have blown oil in the Santa Barbara Channel into the harbor and ashore reminiscent of the massive oil slick eight months ago but not nearly in the same quantity.

The oil has been leaking slowly from the ocean floor around Union Oil's platforms A and B. It was Platform A that blew out eight months ago causing a giant oil slick which coated beaches in the area.

A change in winds Thursday night brought the new oil ashore, leaving traces along a 25-mile stretch and fouling the hulls of pleasure boats in the harbor at the water line.

The situation eased yesterday and there did not appear to be any more oil coming onto land today.

London Fire Peril

LONDON (AP) — London firemen were called to 300 fires today as people tried to burn mounting piles of rubbish left by the 12-day-old garbagemen's strike.

Fire brigade spokesman said an alarming feature was that some residents in tall apartment blocks had tried to clear garbage chutes by setting fire to trash.

Toddler Missing

PACIFICIA (UPI) —Police, Coast Guardsmen, deputies and volunteers spent yesterday searching in vain here for three-year-old Danny Byrum.

Danny disappeared from his home Thursday afternoon after telling a playmate he was going to Sharp Park Beach, about one block from the Byrum home.

A Coast Guard helicopter swept the beach area for several hours with no findings.

'Survival Day'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Zero Population Growth, Inc., says it will hold a "survival Day" parade Oct. 25 to protest the "decline in quality of life" brought by overpopulation.

A spokesman for the organization said yesterday a dozen environmental action groups will participate in the march from Lafayette Square to the Civic Center where a teach-in and discussions about ecology and population will be held.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Paul Ehrlich, head of the department of ecology and biological sciences at Stanford University; Stephanie Mills, recent Mills College graduate now working for Planned Parenthood, and congressman Pete McCloskey.

Columbia Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire damaged the Columbia University offices of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps early today and fire officials termed the blaze "definitely suspicious."

The fire began about 4:30 a.m. in the offices located in the first floor of the 10-story Hartley Hall, a men's dormitory. As smoke filled the upper halls the sleeping students were roused and ran outside.

Women Fliers Die

Mrs. Minia "Polly" Stoehr was at the controls of the light aircraft. The other victim was Mrs. Della L. Kerfoot, 68, of Monrovia, also a pilot.

The plane burned after the crash. It struck a tree on impact.

Stripper Sheds Mate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stripper Tempest Storm, 51, has asked Superior Court to end her 10-year marriage to singer Herb Jeffries charging him with extreme cruelty.

Miss Storm said she and her husband separated Monday. The marriage was Miss Storm's fourth and the third for Jeffries, 58. They have one child. Patricia Ann, 6.

There are now more than 380 million radio sets throughout the world.

Roosevelt Weds

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP) — James Roosevelt, 61, eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has made a 32-yeard-old English schoolteacher his fourth wife.

Roosevlet married Mary L. Winskill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Windskill of Bromborough, England, in a civil ceremony yesterday, three weeks after divorcing his third wife.

Roosevelt received his recent divorce on the grounds of incompatability from his third wife, the former Gladys Irene Kitchenmaster, who was accused of stabbing him a week after he filed for the divorce last spring.

The couple will live in Geneva, Switzerland, where Roosevelt, a former six-term congressman from California, is an executive of Investors Overseas Services, an international mutual funds group.

Smog Balks Talk

DETROIT (AP) — A federal official's scheduled speech in Detroit on air pollution was foiled yesterday by air pollution.

Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare for health and scientific affairs, was to speak at a women's club banquet. But his plane was unable to land at Metropolitan Airport because smoke and fog reduced visibility.

"We circled Detroit for an hour and 45 minutes," Egeberg said. "Finally the pilot said that becasue of smoke and fog, we couldn't land. He said there was a 100-foot ceiling and visibility was a quarter of a mile."

The commercial flight finally landed in Cleveland.

Typhoon Hits

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Typhoon Flossie unleashed deluges of rain today that flooded more than two-thirds of Taipei and forced more than 10,000 persons from their homes.

Public officials said there were fears the 12 inches of rain since Thursday might collapse dikes on the already overflowing Tansui and Kelng rivers.

At least 20 persons were missing and presumed dead, a police spokesman said and floodwaters were 10 feet deep in parts of Taipei.

Hope For All

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — Gov. Forrest Anderson says recent events have proved once again that anything is possible in America.

"How can we be afraid to dream," Anderson asked, "when there is an inspiration like the New York Mets?"

Sen. Long's Fortune From Tax-Break Oil

$42,500 annual salary as a senator.

The tax-free portion of last fiscal year's royalties—$64,651—was in itself greater than his Senate salary.

Mineral Board Chairman Thomas Leigh refused to allow a reporter to inspect all state lease records. He was courteous but firm:

"My lawyer says I've got to let you see our records on Lease 340 and any others you know and ask for. But I'm not just going to open my books and make them a happy hunting ground. Maybe I've got to legally, but as a matter of procedure, I'm not going to do it now."

State Lease 340, to which Leigh referred, rambles for 20 miles along the Louisiana coastline. It is at least 50 times bigger than any other state lease, which generally consist of 5,000 acres.

Besides being the biggest, Lease 340 is one of the most productive in Louisiana. Long's royalties from this lease since 1964 have totaled $666,136, records disclose.

The federal government also has been active in leasing tracts off the Louisiana coast. But an Interior Department spokesman said "most of our leases are held by corporations, not by individuals. And our records do not reflect what payments might be made in overriding royalties from the companies to individuals."

Long's name on the state leases first appears in records dated Feb. 1, 1951, about the time he and other then-listed stockholders dissolved the Independent Oil & Gas Co. Inc., originally known as the Win or Lose Corp.

Win or Lose, involved in controversy and scandal throughout the five years in the 1950s during which it carried that name, was known in the state as the company of Huey P. Long—governor, senator, the "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics and the father of Russell Long.

Russell Long, in the interview, said he inherited the bulk of his oil holdings from his father, who was assassinated in 1935.

Since his own election to the Senate in 1948, Long has been a constant champion of oil industry causes.

ences in England during that time.

Since Dr. Miller was off a total of 39 days, but had only 30 days accumulated vacation, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell deducted $803 from his Aug. 31 paycheck. At the time, County Administrator Alan Bruce agreed with Mitchell on the deduction.

When Miller returned from vacation and pointed out that Bryce had authorized the payment of registration for the London conferences, Bruce decided he was in error and asked the auditor to pay the nine-days' salary which had been deducted.

The county counsel's office ruled that Dr. Miller was legally authorized to attend the conferences and is therefore entitled to his full August salary.

Mitchell, however, disagreed. He contended that whenever a county official attends a conference outside the state, the matter must be submitted to the supervisors for prior approval. He said a conference in England is an unusual occurrence and should have been brought to the attention of the supervisors.

FIRE

Novato Fire Department will demonstrate its new 85-foot snorkel boom truck.

At 1:40 p.m. cars will be set afire to represent a highway collision. Firemen will extinguish the flames and use a special saw to cut into the cars and remove a dummy.

At 2 p.m. a ship loading dock will be simulated to show effects of a petroleum fire and how it is fought.

At 2:15 p.m. Jet Ax, a shaped explosive charge for entering through walls, will be shown cutting through a steel plate.

At 2:30 the highway crash and at 2:45 p.m. the loading dock fire will be repeated.

The events have been prepared by the Marin County Fire Chiefs Association committee headed by Chief Richard K. Oswald of Tamalpais Fire District.

Other events planned by fire departments in the county include:

SAN RAFAEL — Wednesday and Friday 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the Northgate Shopping Mall fire engine rides will be given to youngsters. At various times during the week, fire engines will be driven to elementary schools and talks will be given to youngsters. Saturday from 10 to 4 p.m. engine rides and equipment displays will be held in the Northgate mall.

FAIRFAX — Open house 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. all week.

ROSS — Open house 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. all week.

MARIN COUNTY — Open house, distribute literature in schools.

TAMALPAIS FIRE DISTRICT — Open house all week.

KENTFIELD — Engines will be driven to and displayed at some elementary schools and open house will be held.

TERRA LINDA — Trucks and use of fire hoses will be displayed at schools.

MARINWOOD — Open house and possible visits to schools.

SAN ANSELMO — Open house 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Visit and talk to youngsters in schools, kindergarten through third grades.

NOVATO — Monday 9 a.m. the city will dedicate a rest area on Grant Avenue at Highway 101 to the late Chief George J. Cavallero. The fire department will visit all elementary schools during the week and will have open house.

MILL VALLEY — Open house 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the week.

CORTE MADERA — Open house during week, will visit schools, grades kindergarten through third.

ALTO — Open house 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during week; home safety inspection sheets will be distributed to school youngsters and equipment shown to them at schools.

TIBURON — Distribute fire prevention literature in schools; open house 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

HAMILTON — Conduct fire drills at schools, give lectures in schools and at fire station various times during the week.

PETALUMA — Fire safety and escape routes from homes and schools will be shown to fifth grade classes, downtown window displays and radio interviews will be given.

SAUSALITO — Prizes will be awarded school children who submit the best essays on fire prevention during the week. Equipment demonstrations will be given at the schools and Smokey the Bear will participate. Open house 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week.

Red Teacher To Be Paid; Cannot Teach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California regents have ruled that a Communist teacher, already fired, must not teach on the Los Angeles campus while she appeals her case.

However, Angela Davis, 25, a Negro, will continue to receive her salary in the interim, the governing board of the nine-campus university ruled in a 14-6 secret vote yesterday.

A minority of regents said Miss Davis, who says she is a Communist and was ordered fired Sept. 19, should be allowed to teach while she follows appeals procedures approved by regents.

"I think it's mistake," UCLA Chancellor Charles E. Young said of the board's vote.

But Young smilingly told reporters: "I am going to have to play out the scenario a bit."

Some regents contacted after the meeting said they believed a compromise could be worked out whereby Miss Davis would be permitted to lecture, but not for credit courses.

They said they were trying to prevent any trouble.

However, William Comblentz, a regent from San Francisco, told newsmen: "I think we're going to have a confrontation. I hope it's not too serious."

Two Accidents Hurt Two Persons

Two persons received minor injuries in separate auto accidents in Corte Madera last night.

Susan Jane Lerro, 22, 939 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead. Police said her car struck the side of a hill on Corte Madera Avenue at 8:45 p.m.

A rear-end collision on Tamalpais Drive, off the Highway 101 Overpass, resulted in a back sprain for Marvin A. Gunn, 56, of 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Police said Gunn's car apparently stopped suddenly and was struck by a vehicle driven by John Brown, 39, of 24 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera. Gunn was treated at Marin General following the 10:45 p.m. accident.

Little Change In Inflation Battle Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflationary pressures appear likely to continue into next year despite a slowing down in the growth rate of the economy, a member of the Federal Reserve Board said today.

Given this prospect, said Andrew F. Brimmer, "I personally see no reason to deviate from the present course of monetary restraint," including high interest rates.

Brimmer said the cooling of the economy should continue through the last three months of 1969 and into 1970. But he added:

"At the same time, unfortunately, we may see very little lessening in inflationary pressures . . . Moreover, there appears to be a real prospect that inflationary pressures will persist on into the early months of next year."

Dropoffs late in 1969 are expected in business investments and spending by federal, state and local governments, Brimmer said in a 22-page report to the 16th annual bankers forum at Georgetown University. The depressed housing situation may even decline further, he added.

"Nevertheless," he said, "I think the task we face is so pressing that we should not run the risk of relaxing credit restraint until it is clear that we have a reasonable chance of making a noticeable dent in inflationary expectations."

Prison Strike Still Is On

Black prisoners in San Quentin Prison's disciplinary section moved into the fourth day of a hunger strike today, but the number of men refusing meals fluctuated between 42 and 65.

Although 65 men refused breakfast yesterday, the number was down to 42 at lunch. Sixty-two men did not eat dinner and 63 sent back their breakfasts today.

Prison officials said the strike — intended to reinforce 10 demands submitted by the inmates — was still confined to the disciplinary unit and there was no indication it would spread.

The strike was organized Wednesday by a group calling itself "Panther Power to the Vanguard."

"Everything is very calm here," Associate Warden A. R. Jacobs told the Independent-Journal this morning. "This is a nonviolent protest and I don't think we are going to have any serious trouble," he added.

Jacobs said he felt the strike would eventually fade.

The striking prisoners said their protest was "made in good faith" but added that if the demands were met by "indifference or official violence," they would "use any means possible" to attain their goals.

The demands included calls for black doctors, nurses, parole board members and a black warden, as well as release of the 88 blacks now in the disciplinary unit.

Alleged Mafia Boss Arrested In Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The FBI today arrested reputed Mafia leader Joseph Bonanno Sr. and Peter Joe Notaro on federal charges involving perjury and extortion.

enemy to settlement.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said the United States should consider saturation bombing of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong, and destruction of rice field dikes along the Red river.

Goldwater, in a speech prepared for the Alabama Air Force Association convention at Huntsville, said Nixon "should very soon" threaten those steps unless the Communists move toward a peace agreement in Paris.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., wrote his constituents that the United States will soon have to consider new military options, including the renewal of bombing raids against North Vietnam.

"I don't believe that we should regard victory as either an evil word or an unattainable goal," Tower said.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., No. 2 Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, endorsed Nixon's current conduct of the war.

"I think President Nixon is following a good program of gradually pulling out troops as fast as he can," Sparkman said, "taking into account that every fighting man that we pull out must be replaced by a prepared fighting man of South Vietnam."

But Sparkman said he does not think all U.S. forces can be withdrawn by Dec. 1, 1970.

Meanwhile, the Florida White House pointedly declined to deny today a report of secret contacts between Washington and the new leadership in Hanoi.

And President Nixon was described as engaged in very thorough discussions of the Vietnam situation over the weekend in Key Biscayne, Fla., with his special adviser on national security affairs, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

situation over the weekend here with his special adviser on national security affairs, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

These reactions from presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler left open the possibility that the United States might be making some new approach to the North Vietnamese since the death of Ho Chi Minh.

Ziegler was asked about a Washington dispatch from James McCartney of the Knight newspaper chain that the Nixon administration has made secret contact with the North Vietnamese regime to seek a negotiated settlement of the war and that this was directly related to recent administration efforts to get a moratorium on Vietnam war criticism.

"We have made it our position not to discuss one way or another whether or not there are discussions with the other side outside of the public sessions in Paris," Ziegler said.

He added, "We have always said we will watch very carefully every development in South Vietnam and we are doing that in this case." He repeated this same answer when asked about the meaning of the latest lull in Vietnam fighting.

City Manager To Be Chosen

The San Rafael City Council is expected to choose a new city manager, replacing the late Dan E. Andersen, at a special meeting beginning at 7 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The appointment is expected after a review of applicants in closed session.

James H. McCown, acting city manager, is considered a leading candidate for the post, which will pay between $20,000 and $24,000 a year.

In its regular session scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., the council will consider development of courthouse square, new plans for the corporation yard and annexation to the city of property east of Highway 101 at Santa Venetia, including the Marin Civic Center.

Focus on Today

The promises of Christ Jesus, the Prophets, and Apostles are timeless; but to make them practical now, we need to know their deeper spiritual meanings. ### CHRISSIE RIGGINS

Chrissie Riggins, mother of three Marin residents, died yesterday in a Novato hospital after an illness. A native of Scotland, she came to California as an infant and had lived most of her life in San Francisco.

She is survived by a son, James R. Riggins of Novato; two daughters, Mrs. James C. Scripture of Kentfield and Mrs. Sally Hurst of Sausalito; a sister, Mrs. Georgina Mackenzie of San Francisco, and eight grandchildren.

Private funeral will be at 11 a.m. Monday at the Noble Chapel, Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma. The family prefers contributions to the Heart Association.

KARSTEN BAUER

Funeral for Capt. Karsten N. Bauer, 81, father of Edna Nielsen of San Geronimo, will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at the Chapel of the Highlands in Millbrae.

Bauer, a sea captain for 50 years, died at his home in Millbrae Thursday after a long illness.

A native of Norway, he had worked for the United Fruit Co. for 31 years, retiring in 1953 as commodore of the company's shipping fleet.

Bauer is also survived by his wife, Lina; two sons, John C. Bauer of Burlingame and Capt. Ralph W. Bauer of Wyckoff, N. J.; another daughter, Dorothy Kislingbury of Burlingame, and six grandchildren.

Burial will be in Alta Mesa cemetery in Palo Alto.

QuakeBlamed On Secondary Fault Line

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — That big earthquake which rocked Santa Rosa and most of the north California coast this week wasn't caused by the San Andreas fault after all.

Instead, University of Californkia seismologists are blaming the small Healdsburg fault that parallels the San Andreas fault. The numerous small faults running just below the earth's crust make Santa Rosa real "earthquake country."

A temblor in one of these faults of 5.6 intensity such as struck Wednesdtay night caused much more damage than would a deeper earthquake of the same magnitude in the San Andreas fault, the seismologists explained.

Meanwhile, Mayor Jack Ryerson yesterday said damage may hit $5 million or $10 million, instead of the original estimate of between $1 million and $2 million.

Ryerson explained that the higher estimate came after city engineers discovered that many buildings showing no damage nonetheless suffered severe structural damage.

He said that damage at the Santa Rosa Memorial hospital alone was almost $1 million. Fire caused by the temblor destroyed the Paul B. Kelly cardiovascular institute and a chemistry laboratory.

F. Robert Preece, president of the Structural Engineers Association of California, said hundreds of buildings would have collapsed had the first and biggest tremor Wednesday night. "lasted a few seconds longer."

Dr. Harry Byerly, professor emeritus of seismology at U.C., gave Santa Rosa one note of optimism.

"There is no reason to expect anything in the way of 'big' earthquakes in the Santa Rosa area for the next 10-15 years," said Byerly.

Rock Group To Play For Demos' Outing

"This Ole World," a San Francisco rock group, will perform at a family picnic sponsored by the Marin Democratic Central Committee at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Forest Farms Camp in Forest Knolls.

The picnic will also feature swimming, basketball, volleyball, horseshoes, table tennis, touch football, canvas tumbling, arm wrestling and a barbecue.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Forget The Summer Romance, Reality Might Ruin The Dream

DEAR HELEN:

On summer vacation, I met this fellow named Gordon. All I know is, he will be going to the university in Cincinnati and he has a twin sister. Before I could learn anything more, the sheriff took him and his friend off to jail because they were camping on private property. When guys have motorcycles, police think the worst. My family left before they were released.

I want to get in touch with him, Helen. It's sort of like an unfinished symphony. Maybe it wouldn't work out, but I have to know. — HOW?

DEAR HOW:

The boy's name and address would be on court records if you had access to them. Otherwise your chances of finding Gordon are slim, and perhaps it's just as well. Summer romances, like summer flowers, can look pretty wilted come November.

P.S. This goes for all you gals and guys who write, "I realized too late I fell in love this summer, but we forgot to exchange addresses. . . ." If sleuthing doesn't work (guest book registrations, mutual friends, etc.) then resign yourself to a lovely memory. Reality might ruin the dream. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Some of us girls put copies of "Dropped and Hurting's" letter and your good answer on the bulletin boards of the men's dorms here at college. We couldn't agree more.

If a fellow wants to drop a girl, that's his privilege, but a nice guy will level with her, not just leave her hanging, wondering what she did wrong, or whether he will ever come back. These guys who give a girl a big play, then just disappear — they don't know what it does to her morale.

I was just put down by a boy I was sure I was in love with. But at this moment I have more respect for him than ever. He gave me the story straight. It hurt, but not half as much as if he had lied or just drifted away. This goes for girls too, when it's break-up time. — ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR HELEN:

I'm going steady — or was — with Sally. We were in her father's den, watching TV, playing records, and making out a little, when we got to arguing about a girl at school whom she dislikes. She got mad and accused me of flirting. It went on from there and things got pretty hot. Finally she picked up my jacket and threw it on the floor and told me to get out, she never wanted to see me again.

I had enough. Something came over me all of a sudden, and I picked her up, turned her across my knee and gave her about six good whacks. I guess they were harder than I thought because Sally began to cry. I told her I was sorry, and she said she was the one to apologize, but I was so embarrassed I left.

I haven't seen her in five weeks because I don't dare. We don't go to the same school, so I can avoid her pretty easily. I still like her a lot, and friends tell me she still likes me.

Helen, would I make a big fool of myself if I called her up? — PUZZLED

DEAR PUZ:

You'd be a big fool if you didn't. What's a little spanking between friends, (if it doesn't happen again) when the girl admits she deserved it? —H.

Art Deco Reflects The Past

Exactly what is art deco?

It is a style which captures the mood of the Twenties and Thirties and flashes it on today.

The name "Art Deco" comes from the 1925 exhibition of "Arts Decoratifs" in Paris conceived to stimulate designers to use forms that could easily be adapted to modern mass production.

In fashion, it's characterized by fluid body-following lines; soft geometrics in prints; deep-colored geometric shapes in jewelry and imaginative uses and combinations of colors and materials.

Art Deco's geometric suns and clouds began to emerge late in 1966. Then came "Bonnie and Clyde" to infatuate the fashion world even further with the 1930 kids' way with berets, long scarves and kipper ties. The all-over patterns of curved and straight lines in stepped shapes were originally inspired by the Aztec temples of Mexico — the Thirties was the era when D. H. Lawrence and Huxley proclaimed that the land of golden dreams lay south of the border.

In handbags, the Art Deco direction takes to swingy little mesh bags, grained leathers and distinctive trims such as mirror effects, buckles and other belted looks. Box handbags fill the need for trim-line accessories to complete dress and suit turnouts. Shapes are square, elongated or oval treasure chest types.

Enameled jewelry in important to a very-1969 Thirties wardrobe. Crimson, orange, purple and jade green on moons, suns and clouds in geometric shapes are what to watch for, on everything: rings, bracelets, chokers, pins and clips, belts. The jewelry's riot of color, too, is directly from the Thirties: Russian ballet was the rage, and the strong colors of the sets and costumes influenced the Art Deco creators.

Animal jewelry is a favorite — serpent and ram's head bracelets and rings, turtle, fish and zodiac jewelry.

Necklaces are close to the neck in heavy choker and jewel-collar styles. Others are simple gold wires, with an ornament at the throat.

Earrings are large, and many have a dangling, symmetrical Far Eastern look.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS D. SCAHILL

Diana Grout Is Bride Of Thomas D. Scahill

Thomas D. Scahill claimed Diana L. Grout as his bride Saturday at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax.

Diana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Grout of San Rafael, chose as her maid of honor, Cathy Colaputro of San Anselmo.

The best man was Steve Scahill, the bridegroom's brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scahill of Fairfax.

After a wedding trip to Yosemite National Park the couple will live in San Rafael.

Diana was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed at Capital Business Service in Oakland. Mrs. Terry Gordon of San Bruno is the bride's sister.

Thomas attended Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed at H and S Brakes in San Francisco.

Elderly Sleep

It's generally been the theory that the need for sleep diminishes as a person passes middle age. Recent research has shown, however, that while elderly people may sleep for shorter periods during the night, they make up the difference in cat naps during the day.

To Clean Filters

Most new air conditioners have permanent filters which don't need to be replaced but do need to be kept clean. Lift the filter out, shake off loose dust (onto paper) and then dip the filter up and down in suds. Rinse, dry and apply a coat of special filter oil to help "trap" and hold the next batch of soil.

Jeffrey Allen To Wed Kathleen Manz Dec. 27

The engagement of Kathleen Manz to Jeffrey T. Allen has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Manz Jr. of San Rafael.

The sister of Ken Manz of Berkeley and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon S. Taylor of Redwood City and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Manz Sr. of San Mateo, Kathleen is a San Rafael High School graduate. She attends the University of California at Davis and is employed with the Blue Chip Stamp redemption store in Sacramento.

Jeffrey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paterson B. Allen of San Rafael and the brother of James B. Allen. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Allen of Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gosland of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Jeffrey also is a San Rafael High School graduate, attends U.C. at Davis and is employed with the Blue Chip Co.

The couple are planning a Dec. 27 wedding.

Sew New Holiday Dress With Sleeves

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

Your helpful column has given me so much courage that I am going to make my first dressy dress for the coming holiday season. In your opinion, how soon can a dress of this type be worn and should it have sleeves? — MRS. L. T. W.

DEAR MRS. L. T. W.:

You can begin wearing holiday-type, cocktail dresses right now. Whatever you do, don't wait until Christmas week to make and wear them. You'll get twice as much fun out of them if you begin ahead of the season instead of the very end when you can't wear them more than once to twice.

As to sleeves, this is a very personal decision you will have to make. Many of the newest clothes that are found in ready-to-wear departments will feature long sleeves this year. They really are a little newer and a welcome change. They are also more flattering if your arms aren't quite as nice as they were.

However, if you don't choose a dress with sleeves, perhaps you will want to add a jacket or coat making it an ensemble. Coats of velvets, brocades, alaskines and satins are very practical and fun to wear. You can wear them for almost any occasion that begins late in the day.

One word of advice on working with unfamiliar fabrics which often require special handling, be sure to test a sample with your machine stitching. It may be necessary to change the length of stitch. Also be sure to press a small sample of your fabric to avoid disastrous results; never press any fabric on the right side.

I'm proud that you are beginning to have more courage and to branch out; however, these are the kind of clothes that give you the greatest pleasure to wear and where you will save the most money. It's always great fun to work on a garment that you know will make you look beautiful!

DEAR EUNICE:

I bought some very expensive fabric for a dressy dress, and the content was wool and silk. When the dress was completed, I noticed several dark threads through the material and wonder if I got a piece of fabric that wasn't perfect. They look monstrous to me, yet no one seemed to notice them when I wore the dress. MRS. T. W. E.

DEAR MRS. T. W. E.:

The dark threads you noticed that occasionally ran through the fabric were not thread at all, but small pieces of lint that blew into the looms when your fabric was woven at the mill. These are usually not noticeable in dark fabrics but appear occasionally in light weight wools, as well as other textured fabrics. I have been told by people who work directly with the mills that it is much more costly to weave light colored fabrics than dark (white is the worst), because no matter how good the ventilating system is, there is always a danger that you will find an occasional piece of lint woven into the fabric.

I don't find this too noticeable and suggest you leave it in your fabric instead of trying to remove it which in turn might leave a blank spot in the fabric. These small things that are noticeable to you will probably never cause a second glance when your garment is worn. It is definitely not a flaw and you might find it in all better quality fabrics.

DEAR EUNICE:

Surely those sashes and belts with the long fringe aren't coming back in style again? I remember when I used to wear them and thought they were great until I looked through some old picture albums some years later and couldn't believe them. Lately, all the high-fashion clothes seem to look like they did when I was a young woman. I wish I had saved some of my old clothes. — MRS. J. G.

DEAR MRS. J. G.:

Yes, the new look today is very much like the look of the 20s, and fringe used almost anywhere is new. This is one of my pet suggestions for revamping an old dress -- sash it with a silk sash, either solid or print that will hang down almost to the hem of your dress and definitely have fringed ends.

The scarves you see for the neckline also have changed shapes, they may be worn fringed or not, but the new look requires a very long scarf, 6 or 7 feet long. These can be made for a fraction of the cost of a ready made scarf and only takes a minute to make, they also make great gifts for special friends.

Hospital Volunteers To Present Awards At Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers will be held Wednesday at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda, Mrs. Peter Behr, chairman of the Council of Volunteers, announced.

A business meeting, presentation of awards and a fashion show featuring designs by teen-agers will highlight the session. Also on the program are a luncheon and a talk on the master plan for Marin General Hospital by Jan C. Smekens, an associate in the firm of Rex Whitaker Allen and Associates of San Francisco, the hospital's architectural consultants.

The business session will review the volunteer program for the past fiscal year and will report the total fund-raising effort. The awards for service to the hospital will be presented by Dr. Gwendolyn Campion, vice president of the board of directors of the Marin Hospital District.

MRS. MARTIN Silverman of Sausalito, organizer of the Bay Area Committee to Save Biafran Children, will speak at the dessert meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation Rodef Sholom at the temple in San Rafael Thursday. The 12:30 p.m. program will feature a film shown by Mrs. Silverman on the Biafran aid.

THE MARIN County Optometric Society Women's Auxiliary donated 50 additional copies of "Mommy and Daddy, You Can Help Me Learn to See," to the Marin County Health Department for use in the Public Nursing Division. Last year the group donated 150 copies and more were needed.

Mmes. Samuel Mann, Gerald Belanger and Howard Levenson presented the booklets to the health department as a public service project requested by the department. The booklets are authored by Dr. G. N. Getman, director of vision rehabilitation at Pathanay school for exceptional children, and Dr. J. W. Streff, vision consultant to Gesell Institute of Child Development.

The booklet is directed to parents of newborn children. It is in storybook form with the child telling the parents in the first person how his vision develops. Then it continues to tell how they can help arrange his environment to help his eyesight development.

Individual copies of the booklets are available to parents from members of the Marin County Optometric Society.

MILL VALLEY Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 205 will have a salad luncheon and card party Wednesday in the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

Express Your Mood With Shirt Style

AP Newsfeature

This season shirts are the must fashion, an expression of our everchanging time . . . varied and inventive.

How shirts are worn depends on how one feels and one's image of the moment. This is the period where everything goes.

Shirts can be worn opened all the way down to the navel with lots of chain and pearl necklaces. Or, they can be buttoned all the way up with large ties and body chains.

Shirts can look very soft, feminine and demure with a mixture of tiny pearls to long pearl ropes of the 1930s.

Melanges of scarves worn together on the wrist, around the waist or ties around the neck, all add new freshness. Large thick ropes found originally in upholstery firms are worn knot-tied accented with a brooch or scarf around the neck.

And, a simple shirt can be part of a folk costume, just by the addition of right accessories — Indian beads, gypsy fringe scarf, or a cowboy leather belt and scarf.

ACT New York Debut Draws Jealous Raves

NEW YOR (AP) — American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco opened last night at the Anta Theater with "A Flea in Her Ear," earning a glowing review from the New York Times critic, who wants to keep them in New York.

Clive Barnes said in his review in the Times:

"Fly at once, fly to the Anta Theater and see the American Conservatory Theater in Feydeau's 'A Flea in Her Ear.'

"It is witty, graceful, and I assure you, it provides one of the best evenings, and certainly one of the funniest, you will get in the theater this season...

"The cast was excellent, following Mr. Champon's relentless pace with genuine histrionic athleticism. This San Francisco troupe is surely the best acting company in the country, and I wish it could somehow be persuaded to stay here.

"After all, San Francisco has all that sun, all those Chinese restaurants and that enormous bridge. What on earth does it need with actors? They, and the company's general director, William Ball, would be much better off with us.

"...Apart from individual felicities, I admired most the general look and feel of the production. It had style. Better, even, it had class. This was champagne – and, with all respect to this California company, the champagne was blissfully not domestic."

Classes Canceled

HONOLULU (AP) — Harlan Cleveland, president of the University of Hawaii, will give students the day off Oct. 15 to talk about the Vietnam war.

A Vietnam Moratorium Day was proposed by student groups and Cleveland, a former U.S. ambassador to NATO, agreed to cancel classes.

The conservative-oriented Young Americans for Freedom challenged the plan. YAF attorney Albert W. Evensen contended that Cleveland acted beyond his authority, and said he would seek a court injunction forbidding the day off.

Red TV Tower

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht dedicated the 1,204-foot East Berlin television tower Friday night and inaugurated his country's first color television. The news service ADN said the tower—four years in construction — is Europe's second highest building after the 1,756 foot Moscow television tower.

Topless Case Judge Spurns Reply To Critic

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Earl Warren Jr. said yesterday he would not get into a public feud with the Sacramento County sheriff and district attorney over how he conducted the bottomless dancers' trial.

Warren said the trial was properly conducted. A jury found two nude dancers innocent of lewd conduct and indecent exposure.

After the verdict was reached Thursday, Sheriff John Misterly said he would continue to arrest bottomless dancers.

"I was amazed how the judge tampered with the jury and practically forced a not guilty verdict," Misterly said.

And Dist. Atty. John Price said, "The jury was literally coerced into acquitting those people."

SPLIT VERDICT

The jury at one point wanted to render a split verdict, finding the girls guilty of one charge but not the other. Rereading his instructions about the law, Judge Warren, son of the former U.S. chief justice, said the law did not permit that sort of decision.

The girls could not be found guilty of one charge and innocent on the other — by definition of the charges, Warren said.

The jurors continued deliberations and later acquitted the two dancers, Suzanne Haines, 22, and Sheila Brendenson, 22, employees of the Pink Pussy Kat beer bar in suburban Orangevale.

Bar owner Leonard Glancy, 59, also charged and acquitted, said he planned to resume bottomless dancing with Suzanne the star of the show.

But Glancy said he wants his lawyer to get a federal court injunction preventing Misterly from arresting his dancers.

Miss Brendenson decided to quit the business to write a book she wants to call "Naked Justice."

Warren said yesterday of Misterly and Price, "They stated their positions rather strongly yesterday but I'm not going to respond to them other than to say the trial was properly conducted.

'I'M A FIGHTER'

"A guy's natural reaction is to fight back and I'm a fighter. But I'm not going to do it. To have any public squabble like this makes it difficult for the public to understand that there is a pretty good continuity between police work, prosecution and judging."

Warren added that he had never "passed the buck to the jury or to anyone else. In the past when the evidence could only result in a not guilty verdict or, as a matter of law, I saw that the defendants were not guilty, I have always taken the burden on myself."

Warren said he won't back down from his oath to defend the constitution.

"This is an oath my family always has stood for," he said.

Meters Yanked Out

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — This southern Oregon city of 24,000 began plucking its 850 parking meters out of the ground yesterday after the city council voted to remove all time restrictions on parking.

The idea was proposed by local merchants in hopes of stimulating trade.

'Enter Laughing' Set For Petaluma Staging

Petaluma's Little Hills community theater will produce the comedy, "Enter Laughing," as its next venture.

Readings for the comedy will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Petaluma High School multiuse room on Fair Street.

Little Hills Theater is part of the adult education program of Petaluma High School and is open to any interested area resident. Annual class fee is $2.50.

Rehearsals for the upcoming show will be held Tuesdays through Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m.

"Enter Laughing," written by Joseph Stein, is based on a novel by noted television comedian-producer Carl Reiner. It is set in New York during the depression and follows the antics of a young man trying to break into the theater, over the objections of his conservative Jewish parents.

The play was one of the season's 10 best on Broadway in 1963 and later was made into a successful movie.

Roles are available for 11 men and 10 women. Men are particularly needed for the show, according to Elizabeth Martin, director. The male parts include some very strong character roles, including an adventerous but naive older teen-ager, a boozing English gentleman, a Jewish papa and a cranky old shopkeeper. Several young men also are needed.

Persons interested in acting and all phases of backstage work should attend auditions next Tuesday and Wednesday, said Mrs. Martin.

Rock Music Fans Swarm Into Mother Lode Town

JACKSON (AP) — Rock music fans were lined up seven abreast for more than a mile today as they trudged a gold country road to hear 17 hours of rock music.

Amador County sheriff's deputies estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons were on hand when the music started at 9 a.m., but one of the men behind the event said he would guess 40,000 to 50,000 persons were there.

Site of the "Gold Rush" music festival is a 40-acre hillside overlooking Lake Amador, a tiny lake in the Sierra foothills where miners panned and dug for gold a century ago.

The lake is in the west end of Amador County (population 12,000) about 30 miles southeast of Sacramento. The lake is about 10 miles west of Jackson, the county seat.

Sheriff's officers reported traffic was backed up about five miles at times on roads leading into the area.

Sheriff Joseph P. Martin said his deputies were patrolling roads around the recreation area, but would not enter the festival grounds itself unless there was trouble.

One officer said there had been no reports of trouble, except for the traffic jams.

The show sponsor, Dr. James S. Davis of Stockton, could not be reached. He had said no liquor would be allowed on the festival grounds, and ordered the private policemen he hired to confiscate any they discovered.

Wagner Opera Preview Set

A preview of Richard Wagner's "Gotterdammerung" will be given by John Rockwell, opera critic and University of California teaching assistant, at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the Caroline S. Livermore Room at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The last preview of the series, discussion of "La Forza del Destino," is scheduled for Oct. 30.

Mrs. Carlo Fowler of Kentfield is ticket chairman.

Orange Crate Derby Slated For Novato

The Northern California Orange Crate Derby, sponsored by the California State Jaycees, will start at noon tomorrow on San Marin Drive at San Carlos Way in Novato, according to John Stuber, state chairman for the derby.

There are 26 contestants from 12 cities — all winners from recent derbies held elsewhere in the state. The Novato Jaycees is tomorrow's host.

MRS: GILBERT MILLER
"You're a pet"

Navy Queried By Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A spokesman for 20th Century-Fox said yesterday the studio feels the U.S. Navy's charges for transporting company planes to Honolulu for a new film were excessive.

The studio said the Navy is asking $134,376 for transporting 33 world War II planes to Hawaii aboard the aircraft carrier Yorktown last december for "Tora, Tora, Tora."

In a letter to Capt. G. C. Nelson of the Navy transportation department in Washington, the studio said the planes were returned by barge at a cost of $82,180.

Charlottetown is the capital of Canada's Prince Edward province and is the only city in the district.

Jewel Thief Steals Kiss, Nearly Gets Self Nabbed

LONDON (UPI)—The elderly widow of American theatrical producer Gilbert Miller was robbed of a quarter of a million dollars in jewels at her luxurious Mayfair home yesterday by a "tall, dark and rather attractive" thief who also stole a kiss before fleeing.

The kiss nearly did him in.

Mrs. Kathryn Miller was breakfasting in bed when a masked raider burst into her boudoir. While his accomplices forced the household staff, at gunpoint, to lie face down on the floor, he snatched diamond bracelets and necklaces worth $250,000.

Before fleeing, the intruder—whom Mrs. Miller described as "tall, dark and rather attractive," leaned over her bed, told her "You are a pet, you really are," and kissed her lightly on the cheek.

"I told him I would have to go and wash my face and he answered 'Don't be wicked,' said the indignant widow.

She pressed a secret alarm button linked to the police station when the bandit leaned over the bed. When the intruders realized what she had done, they sped out of the house —dropping handfuls of jewelry valued at $48,000 on the way.

Detectives arrived at the home as the three men scrambled away—two in a stolen truck and one on foot.

"This wouldn't have happened if my husband had been alive," said Mrs. Miller, who is in her 70s. "He was a champion boxer."

Gilbert Miller, who died in January at the age of 84, produced plays in London and New York. His last in London was Harold Pinter's "The Caretaker" in 1961.

San Franciscan Faces Charges In Girl Attack

A San Francisco man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of armed robbery, rape and kidnapping after he allegedly assaulted a girl in Tamalpais Valley.

Nels Martin Jr., 42, was held in lieu of $25,000 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday.

Sheriff's deputies said the 20-year-old victim reported she was waiting for a taxi at Marina Green in San Francisco when Martin drove up and pulled her into his car.

She said Martin drove her to a fire trail near Peace Lutheran Church, 205 Tennessee Valley Road, forced her at gunpoint to disrobe and raped her. After the attack, which occurred about 7 a.m., the girl ran naked from where police were called.

Deputies found the car parked in the same spot and Martin was located in the underbrush. Deputies said a .22 caliber revolver and the girl's clothes were located inside the car trunk.

The first American multicolored postage stamp to be produced featured the flag flying over the White House.

Arrival Of Birds Means 'Do Not Disturb' Sign Up

The Richardson Bay sanctuary of the National Audubon Society will be closed to boating and hunting starting Oct. 11 due to the arrival of migrating waterfowl. The sanctuary will remain closed until next spring when the waterfowl leave, announced warden Fred Ross.

The Marin Audubon Society has announced October field trips.

Monday, Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley will lead a hike to a salamander pond beyond the Point Reyes Bird Observatory in Bolinas. Hikers will meet at 9:15 a.m. at the Purity store parking lot, East Blithedale and Camino Alto in Mill Valley. Late hikers may join the group at 10 a.m. at the Observatory at the end of Mesa Road, Bolinas.

Oct. 13 Mrs. Terwilliger will lead a canoe trip on the Novato Creek. Anyone who can swim is invited to join the group at Bel Marin Keys Community Center Dock No. 4, Montego Key, at 10 a.m. Canoeists should wear gloves.

On Oct. 19 a boat trip to the Farallon Islands will leave the Spinnaker Pier in Sausalito at 7 a.m. Boaters are urged to dress for wet and cold conditions. Reservations on a first come, first serve basis, may be made with the Marin Audubon Society, Box 441, Tiburon.

Mrs. Terwilliger will lead a bicycle trek along the Corte Madera waterfront Oct. 20 starting from the parking lot behind the Corte Madera City Hall at 10 a.m.

An auto caravan for nonhikers and short walkers will be led by Mrs. Terwilliger from the Mill Valley Purity store parking lot on Oct. 27 at 10 a.m.

Unruh Calls For Point Reyes Cash

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Democratic leader Jesse M. Unruh urged the Nixon and Reagan administrations yesterday to put up the money needed to complete the purchase of private lands in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

"Nearly 35,000 acres of prime recreational and scenic land remains to be purchased by the National Park Service, and if no action is taken by the federal government this year, private landowners will sell much of this property to private developers, and it will be lost to the people forever," Unruh said in a statement.

Unruh criticized the Republican administrations of President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan for not acting to buy the land.

Mill Valley Library Use Off; New Charges Blamed

Book circulation at the Mill Valley public library dropped 19 per cent in September from the same time last year, Librarian Dorothy Thomas told the Mill Valley library board Thursday night.

Mrs. Thomas attributed the circulation drop from 20,366 books in September 1968 to 16,546 last month to the library use charge levied against nonresident users.

She said the library has collected $5,039 since July in library card fees from selling 311 family cards at $14 each, 59 student cards at $5 each and $1,561 from charging 25 cents for individual book loans to persons who refuse to buy a card.

Board members asked Mrs. Thomas to prepare a report for the 8 p.m. Nov. 6 meeting in the library on how to cut library costs since the use card revenues might be less than the $14,000 estimated in June, she said.

Truck Hijacker Losses Soaring In New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — In spite of intensified police protection, truck hijacking cost shippers in the New York metropolitan area $2.2 million more in the first seven months of this year than in the same period last year, according to the New York State Motor Truck Association.

The loss through July this year was $8.22 million against $5.97 million a year earlier. Recovered property this year was $2.94 million, down from $3.05 million a year earlier. The worst hijacking usually is in the final quarter of the year and, at the current rate, this year's loss could be $16 million against $10 million for all of 1968.

"The Christas stealing season is yet to come," the association said.

The trucking companies in the metropolitan area have begun a type of emergency loan by which a company hit by a hijacking can draw small sums from a sepcial fund set up by the association. The funds are to be used to pay rewards and investigative costs to recover hijacked property.

Communion Sunday

The Presbyterian Church of Novato, 710 Wilson Avenue, will observe the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow in commemoration of the Worldwide Communion Sunday, according to Rev. D. M. Rayment.

Reappointments Requested To Alto Fire Board Seats

Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District directors have asked the board of supervisors to appoint incumbent Directors Milton L. Stannard and Leonard W. Lewis to the two expired board terms since no one else had filed for the two posts, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

The board, at Thursday night's meeting, also asked the county to review and update its Civil Defense program, canceled by the state in July, so that firemen can participate in state-sponsored disaster and civil defense programs.

Directors also rejected a request by the board of supervisors that they support publicly acquisition of the Point Reyes National Seashore because the seashore is outside their jurisdiction and "the supervisors are the ones that represent the people on these matters," Heynen said.

More Backing Given To Bonds

Three more organizations have joined the list to endorse the Oct. 14 $12.7 million Petaluma and Rohnert Park high school bond election.

Urging passage of the election are the East Petaluma Civic Association, Penngrove Citizens Advisory Council and the Dunham School Parent-Teacher Association.

The election will seek approval for $3.6 million in bonds and $9.1 million in state loans to finance a 10-year building program for junior and senior high schools in Petaluma and Rohnert Park.

Sophomore Class Elects Officers

Other officers chosen were Melody Miller, vice president; Teresia Kunkel, secretary; Mary Forestler, treasurer, and Susan Harris, class representative to the student cabinet.

Undegrounding Lines On Agenda

The Rohnert Park City Council meeting Monday at 7 p.m. will include consideration of an ordinance requiring all new developments to underground utility lines.

On planning matters, the council will consider the request of Mrs. Margie Horst, 7459 Boris Court, to operate a gift, craft and book sales shop at her home.

A closed-door session is planned to consider appointments to the cultural arts commission and housing element committee.

WHEN'S NEXT QUAKE?

Scientists Measuring Earth Crust's Stress

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Scientists, using instruments deep underground, are trying to learn whether there is a link between earthquakes and the rapid buildup of tension in rock.

They say they have noted a quick increase in rock tension several days before tremors or earth slippages in the Salt Lake Valley. Then the rock compresses and the tension buildup starts all over again.

Drs. Kenneth Cook of the University of Utah and Maurice W. Major of the Colorado School of Mines began measuring the tension buildup last October, using instruments designed by Major.

The equipment was installed in the records vault of the Mormon Church about 20 miles southeast of Salt Lake City and 2,000 feet underground in the Wasatch Mountains.

Cook says a tremor which measured 2.3 on the Richter scale Jan. 23 came at the peak of the lunar tide and after a rapid buildup of rock tension.

"Our observation on Jan. 23 may have hit the jackpot," he said. "But on the other hand it may have been a mere coincidence. We need more data to prove or disprove the tidal theory."

He noted that the next tremor, which registered 2.2 on the Richter scale, happened when the tide was not strong. Again, however, there had been a rapid buildup of rock tension several days before the tremor.

Cook says the causes of the buildup in rock tension are not known and that much more study is needed.

"Our results so far offer the hope — but not the promise — for earthquake prediction in the future," Cook said. "We may have to operate our instruments for several years to gather sufficient data."

Cook and Major are measuring slippage of the Wasatch fault, about 1.5 miles west of the records vault. They have attached measuring devices to long quartz rods, which they say can detect movement down to one-one-hundred-thousandth of an inch on a rod 100 feet long.

The scientists say the underground records chamber is ideal because of the constant temperature control and because of the unique location deep in granite. The methods they are using have been used before in other places, but not in a location as well suited to such tests.

Cook says valleys in Utah and in Africa both were formed by the earth's crust pulling apart. He says huge portions of the earth are gradually cracking apart.

Cook predicts that if this process continues, millions of years from now a great body of water — like the Red Sea — will separate the United States through Utah and Arizona.

Tiburon To Eye Parking Rule Changes

Amendments to the parking and loading ordinance revising parking requirements for bars, restaurants and retail commercial establishments will be considered by the Tiburon Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The amendments as proposed by Planning Director Wayne E. Moody woud require restaurants and bars to provide one parking place per three seats for the first 100 seats, one per four seats for the next 100 seats and one for five seats for anything over 200 seats. The rule now is a flat one space per four seats.

Further, it requires one off-street parking space for each 150 square feet of gross floor area for retail space, excluding restrooms and mechanical space.

The parking ordinance amendments proposed also would define the size of a parking space, require landscaping as part of a parking plan, and require that parking improvements be completed before building occupancy. It also would allow day and nighttime uses to share the same parking space.

The planning commission also will review precise plans for remodeling the Mobil Oil Co. station at 1600 Tiburon Boulevard and hear an appeal by Ted W. Steiger on the planning director's denial of a minor subdivision.

10—Help Wanted

MARIN
Agency
SNELLING AND SNELLING

MESSAGE OF THE DAY
We have a complete department that specializes in sales, technical and administrative positions. Counselors are experienced consultants, skilled in their professions. Our facilities are larger and better equipped than most big city offices. Snelling and Snelling has over 500 offices thruout the United States and 16 in the Bay Area.

★ JOB OF THE DAY ★
VARITYPIST. Outstanding local busy firm has an opening for one of these. They need an experienced person with a desire to do a professional job. If you are working in the city and are tired of the commute — call us quick. You start at $450.
Call Peggy Lee

FRUSTRATED. Are you unhappy on your present job? Is the commute getting you down? Then throw back your shoulders, hold your head up high and call us about this one. You can start a new career, the company will train you, if you have it — you'll be in management in 2½ years. High school grad, stable, mature, aggressive, neat and the company pays the service charge. You get at least $450 to start with raises. Call Peggy Lee or Karen Lyn.

RECEPTIONIST. Some typing — good telephone voice and personality. Sharp - mature attitude, able to think a little. $500. This is a good job. I hope you can land it. Call Pat Kelly.

BOOKKEEPER. If you knew how many employers needed good bookkeepers, either full charge or trainees, you would get all excited like we are. Listen to this — full charge, work in Marin County, make to $600 to start—prestige firm — nice people — much opportunity — no commute — no smog — nice and warm. Call Pat Kelly.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY. Typing — shorthand — organizing things — scheduling appointments—generally act like and be a big shot. $500.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY for married man or mature single. By the way, you must be able to WORK. You don't sell anything, you just do a good job, work hard, and have a pride in what you're doing — you start at $2.75 per hour, more if you're worth it. Call Karen Lyn or Peggy Lee.

EMPLOYMENT COUNSELORS
We need 3 at Snelling and Snelling because we are expanding — if you are sales minded — money motivated — able to use the phone — aggressive — want to work in pleasant surroundings with nice people — then this is for you. Do you have confidence that you can work with commissions as the basis of your earnings. Our present counselors are happy, doing well, and won't pass you to the manager if you don't fit. Commissions average $600 plus per month, after the training period. During the 3 month training period, you will not become wealthy. Call the Snelling and Snelling Company for appointment.

★ WE NEED ★ LISTINGS!

Our participation in 475 sales last year and over 380 sales since Jan. 1st this year has seriously depleted our supply of homes to advertise and sell. . . . If you want ACTION phone your nearest Timmer office and engage the services of MARIN'S LEADING BROKER! No charge for our service unless we find a buyer suitable to you. . . . And then standard Marin County rates apply.

Unbelievable Opportunity
At Lake Tahoe
A commercial acre of level land, studded with giant trees, with 200 ft. on Highway 89, facing the lake. This beautiful property consists of a 6 unit lodge, a 2-story rustic chalet type home, with 2 bathrooms, 2 duplexes, a gift shop and a restaurant and coffee shop. This choice property is sandwiched in between 2 new ski lifts, and offers unlimited opportunity for year around operation. The price of $125,000 would not replace the improvements alone. Absentee owner is selling due to illness.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

High Cholesterol Hardens Even Plastic Arteries?

VAN DELLEN

Several facets of arteriosclerosis are difficult to understand. Take, for example, the many persons walking about with a Teflon or Dacron graft that was inserted to bypass an obstructed artery.

The blood flows through the plastic tubing for many years without difficulty. But now and then the inner lining of the graft acts like a living vessel and develops atherosclerosis. How embarrassing this must be to those who believe that the hardening process occurs only in living arteries.

I AM A FIRM, but not a fanatic, believer in the relationship between high cholesterol levels in the blood and hardening of the arteries. It is a theory that has merit.

Furthermore, it is easy to lower a high cholesterol level. A diet low in animal fats supplemented with vegetable oils and spreads is helpful; drugs such as clofibrate and thyroid do the same. Even exercise and tranquility help.

BUT HOW HIGH must the cholesterol go before it is considered abnormal? The accepted normal level in the blood ranges from 130 to 250 mg. per 100 ml. Readings above 250 are not always easy to evaluate.

The test is difficult to do and when the blood from one person is given to several laboratories, the readings vary considerably. Recent studies on 10,000 clinically normal individuals showed that the upper limits of normal may exceed 250 and the level generally increases with age. The 130 to 250 reading applies to a 20-year-old; but at 30, the limit goes to 290; at 40, 315; at 50, 340; and in 60-year-old men and women the level is 321 and 356, respectively.

These readings are on the high side. Many of the 10,000 men and women in the study had levels far below those mentioned above. These people were considered to be normal when the blood was tested.

On the other hand, we do not know whether those with levels above 250 or 300 will develop heart attacks from one to four years later.

DURING THE LAST 10 years a dozen such projects have been conducted in this country. Large numbers of people have reported annually and many who had elevated cholesterol levels have sustained heart attacks. This is why a high cholesterol reading is considered a risk factor.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

EYES OF BROWN — AND BLUE

A reader writes: I am 15 years old and was born with one blue and one brown eye. Is it possible to change my eyes either to brown or blue?

REPLY

Yes 8— by wearing contact lesses. But why?

HYSTERECTOMY INDICATIONS

M.W. writes: Is hysterectomy done only when cancer is present?

REPLY

No. Most women undergo the procedure because of fibroids of the uterus.

CONTACT LENSES

S.T. writes: Are contact lenses effective in astigmatism?

REPLY

Yes. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on contact lenses.

ACUTE ANXIETY MEANS FEARFUL

S.T. writes: What is meant by the diagnosis, acute anxiety?

REPLY

Worry or concern of short duration and often of sudden onset.

Marin Requests State To Share Concert Costs

If the state is going to permit a folk music concert at Mount Tamalpais State Park, it must assume any added cost needed to handle the expected congestion, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows declared yesterday in a letter to the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

The letter expressed concern over a folk music concert planned at the Mountain Theater on Oct. 19.

Barrows pointed out that a similar concert held in June of 1967 brought such crowds that the highway patrol asked for help from the county sheriff, and the overtime bill for the sheriff came to $2,700.

The state should reimburse such costs, said Barrows. "If assurance of state reimbursement is not forthcoming before Oct. 19, we will recommend that the Marin County Board of Supervisors direct the sheriff to withhold any assistance that might be needed by the Highway Patrol or the state Department of Parks and Recreation personnel," he declared.

Barrows will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tue sday to support his letter.

Wind Fells Limb; Motorists Hurt

A falling tree branch loosened by high winds struck a moving automobile in Penngrove last night, sending the car's two occupants to the hospital, the California Highway Patrol said.

The driver of the car, Mark Joerger, 17, of 113 Live Oak Drive, Petaluma, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma. He suffered scalp cuts in the accident, which occurred at 11:15 p.m.

His companion, Susan Blundell, 17, of 450 Adrian Court, Rohnert Park, was reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with head cuts.

Near-Collision Puts Driver Into Fence

Daniel T. Phipps, 22, of 228 Union Street, San Rafael, was treated for a head bruise today at Marin General Hospital following an accident on Highway 101 near San Rafael.

Phipps said his car was forced off the freeway onto Francisco Boulevard, tearing up 75 feet of chain link fence, when a car swerved in front of him at 2:50 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

A nesting hen pheasant must have at least 45 days in an undisturbed nesting site to produce a brood.

Senator Slates Hearings On Cable TV Regulations

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate Public Utilities Committee will hold hearings on proposed State Public Utility Commission regulation of cable television systems.

The hearings will be in San Francisco Oct. 14, Los Angeles Nov. 3 and San Diego Nov. 19, said Sen. George Danielson, D-Los Angeles, the committee chairman.

Danielson said he will draft a bill for the 1970 session of the Legislature that would bring cable TV systems under statewide control. A similar bill failed to pass this year.

"The objective is to bring about uniform statewide regulation and coordination of a fast-growing industry which up to now has been subject to varying requirements of the individual cities and counties," Danielson said.

"California is a fertile field for cable TV, and because of its potential growth now is the time to provide for orderly — but not penalizing — regulation and coordination on a statewide basis," Danielson said.

In cable or community television systems, the firm picks up signals of various commercial stations from other cities and pipes them into homes via direct cable, somewhat like a telephone system. The subscriber normally pays a one-time installation fee and then a monthly payment.

Southern Marin Scene From The Sky

Richardson Bay communities of Strawberry, Sausalito and Belvedere appear peaceful in this aerial view toward San Francisco. Strawberry, however, seems crowded in contrast to the pastoral look it presents from land. Its view is marred only by the wrench-shaped fill area jutting along the left side of the peninsula. Strawberry was once part of a Spanish land grant of the C. J. Reid family and much of it was purchased for developing in 1945 by the late Samuel R. Neider. On the southern half of the peninsula is Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary which celebrated its 10th anniversary this year. Across the bay is Sausalito with its growing houseboat colony appearing as a larger development than the city itself. The often criticized drydocks look more like a tiny boat from above. The tip of Belvedere is the extreme left and the San Francisco shoreline edges the top of the photo by Ed Brady of Aero Photographers of Sausalito.

Today is Saturday, Oct. 4, the 277th day of 1969 with 88 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1890 Mormons in Utah renounced the practice of polygamy, having more than one wife at a time.

In 1927 Al Jolson starred in "The Jazz Singer," the first full-length talking movie.

In 1938 Dr. Eduard Benes resigned as president of Czechoslovakia under German pressure.

In 1955 a United Air Lines DC4 hit Medicine Bow peak in southern Wyoming, killing 66 persons.

A thought for the day: Shakespeare said, "Striving to better, oft we mar what's well."

Developing Of Parks On Agenda

Development and use of parks will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a member of the Recreation, Music and Parks Commission, will report on a proposed picnic grove at Lucchesi Park and the uses of Baseball diamonds by Little League teams at Lucchesi and Kenilworth Parks.

A new member of the commission is also expected to be appointed.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Risky Business – Basing Play Upon An Opponent's Manner

According to the traditional ethics of bridge, you are not supposed to notice or to be influenced by your partner's speed or hesitation, or other manner. You may base your play upon an opponent's manner, but you do so at your own risk. The point is illustrated in a hand played in the match between the United States and the Republic of China in the 1969 world championships.

CONTINUES HEARTS

West led the ace of hearts and continued with the jack of hearts. Billy Eisenberg, playing the South hand for the United States, ruffed the second heart in his hand, and led a diamond to the king.

When West's queen appeared, Eisenberg had to decide whether this was a singleton or a false card from the doubleton queen-jack. We know what it was, but Eisenberg did not have our advantage of looking at the Eart-West cards.

Eisenberg swiftly led the next card from the dummy: the king of hearts; and East unhesitatingly discarded a spade. Now Eisenberg knew who had the jack of diamonds.

WOULD RUFF

If East had started with only the doubleton 9-7 of diamonds, he would almost surely ruff the king of hearts. South might need a discard, and East's remaining nine of trumps would not seem worth keeping.

If East were a very thoughtful player he might wonder why South was trying for a discard on the king of hearts before drawing trumps. After a second or two of consideration, East might see the plot and might discard even if he had started only with two worthless trumps.

SLAM FINESSE

But what defender could work out the situation so quickly as to discard without the slightest hesitation on dummy's king of hearts? Eisenberg shrewdly decided that East's prompt discard was based on a desire to hang onto the J-9 of trumps. Declarer took a finesse with the ten of trumps and made his slam.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Your singleton king of clubs is not really worth three points as a high card as well as two points for being a singleton. It is probably worth only three or at most four points. But the hand is still worth an opening bid.

Two Airlines Talk Merger in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — American Airlines and Western Airlines reportedly have held extensive talks about merging.

The airlines are still far from agreement and for the moment no further talks are scheduled, however, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

STUMBLING BLOCK

The stumbling block to a quick agreement is Las Vegas financier Kirk Kerkorian, who acquired a 28 per cent interest in Western through a tender offer earlier in the year.

Officials at Western, headquartered here, declined to comment on the report.

It was indicated that American and Western have talked tentatively in terms of American's offering to exchange one share of its stock for each share of Western, according to the Times. American's stock traded at $32.37 a share yesterday and Western at $25.75.

MUM ON TALKS

Both American and Kerkorian aides, according to the Times, refuse to confirm or deny that Kerkorian met recently with George A. Spater, American's president, on the merger question. Kerkorian aides will say only that there have been "no meaningful" discussions.

The Times reported that a high-placed American official said his line is holding merger talks with a number of other carriers but would not identify them.

SECOND LARGEST

The official, when asked whether American might be willing to raise its offer to possibly attract Kerkorian, said if terms could be agreed upon that were equitable to stockholders of American, they would be interested.

Ultimately, if the lines reach an agreement and it is approved by federal authorities, the merger would create the nation's second largest airline just behind United.

Charges Withheld Following Arrest

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Creighton Scott Wyatt, 23, of Mill Valley, pending further investigation by the district attorney's office.

He was arrested Thursday in Sausalito on suspicion of battery and possession of dangerious drugs and marijuana following a fight with a Marin City man in Vina del Mar Park.

Species of mosquitoes vary in their favorite biting targets. Aedes aegypti, the dreaded yellow-fever carrier, prefers the body, while most other mosquitoes seem to favor the face and ankles.

EISENHOWER CARTWHEEL

Drawing of a proposed one dollar coin bearing the likeness of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower has been displayed to the House Banking Committee in Washington. The committee yesterday approved a bill authorizing minting of the coin, which like others in recent years, will be of "sandwich" metal rather than solid silver. (AP Wirephoto)

New Group Will Aid Senior Citizens

A new volunteer group, Senior Visitors, is being formed by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council to instruct art classes, organize games and lead music and story programs at the San Rafael Convalescent Hospital, announced executive director Edward Ryken.

Anyone interested in joining may obtain information from Ryken at council headquarters, 914 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Chiefs of the Northwest tribes — the Haida, Tsimshian, Tlingit, among others — strove to outdo each other's totem poles by taking on new names and emblems, and then having these self-proclaimed honors carved on larger and larger totems.

Three Would-Be Customers Sue Inn Over Service

A San Rafael real estate man and a young couple accompanying him who were refused service at the Mountain Home Inn on Mount Tamalpais have filed suit in Marin Superior Court asking $3,000 damages from the restaurant owners.

Peter Sterner said that on Sept. 9 he had been showing homes to Jerry and Sherry Finkelstein, both of whom he described as well clothed and shod, when they decided to stop at the restaurant for lunch.

The proprietor, P. T. Vincent, declared however, that the Finkelsteins were "hippies," and said "we don't want your kind here." Sterner added that Finkelstein has long hair, but that he and his wife are not "hippies."

For the "humiliation and embarrassment" suffered, the trio is asking $1,000 and an additional $2,000 in punitive damages from Mr. and Mrs. Vincent.

College Of Marin Runoff Election Due Next Week

A runoff election for a freshman men's representative will be held Wednesday and Thursday at College of Marin after none of three candidates gained a majority in the two-day election ending yesterday, student body parliamentarian Delman Jackson reported.

Hal Pritchard drew a plurality, 131 votes, while Philip C. Scott drew 103 and Martin Schaaf 29 votes.

Three other class representatives were elected, and two amendments to the Associated Students constitution failed to win the necessary two-thirds vote.

Steve Berringer defeated William Acosta, 138 to 128, for sophomore men's representative. Sherri Evans defeated Elaine Strahlendorf, 122 to 51, for freshman women's representative. Rosie Shortino, who was unopposed, won 126 votes for sophomore women's representative.

The two amendments drew 159 votes, but total votes cast were 297, meaning 198 yes votes were necessary for passage, according to David Garber, coordinator of student activity.

One amendment would have given executive council officers one-year terms instead of one semester.

The other, which none of the election officials mentioned in pre-election statements, would have allowed the student body president to make his appointments within two weeks of his election in May instead of waiting until the fall semester opens.

WINE DISCOVERIES
Call 456-6660

WHEN? Very soon!
Cooperage, fermenter, lab equipment are in, so our federal license as a Bonded Winery should now be issued quickly. We have in mind the production of an unusual wine rarely found in this country, but more of that later. There will, of course, be all those distinctive "Wine Discoveries" — one or more a month; the best wines of California and the world, selected by a panel of judges headed by Fred Cherry. Memberships in the "Wine Discovery of the Month" Club keep coming in, for delivery after we open. Twelve international adventures in wine drinking, with enlightening descriptions, sent anywhere in the state — $10 per quarter, $35 per year. A great Christmas gift! Better write in for priority; great wines are in short supply, so memberships will be restricted.

HELP WANTED (Wine Lovers)
We will need all kinds of help — part time and full, paid and volunteer — as classroom assistants, tasting room salesmen, sommeliers, order takers, phone advisory service, mail order and shipping, wine making tasters. The one essential requirement: dedication to and love of wine. Drop me a line or phone 456-6660. Describe your special wine interest and we'll set up a glass of wine and an interview.

A SPECIAL INVITATION
will be sent to you for one of the hour-long lectured tastings of "Wine Discoveries" during our Opening Week. Send name and address and number in your party. Indicate day (Wednesday through Sunday) and whether you prefer an invitation for afternoon or evening.

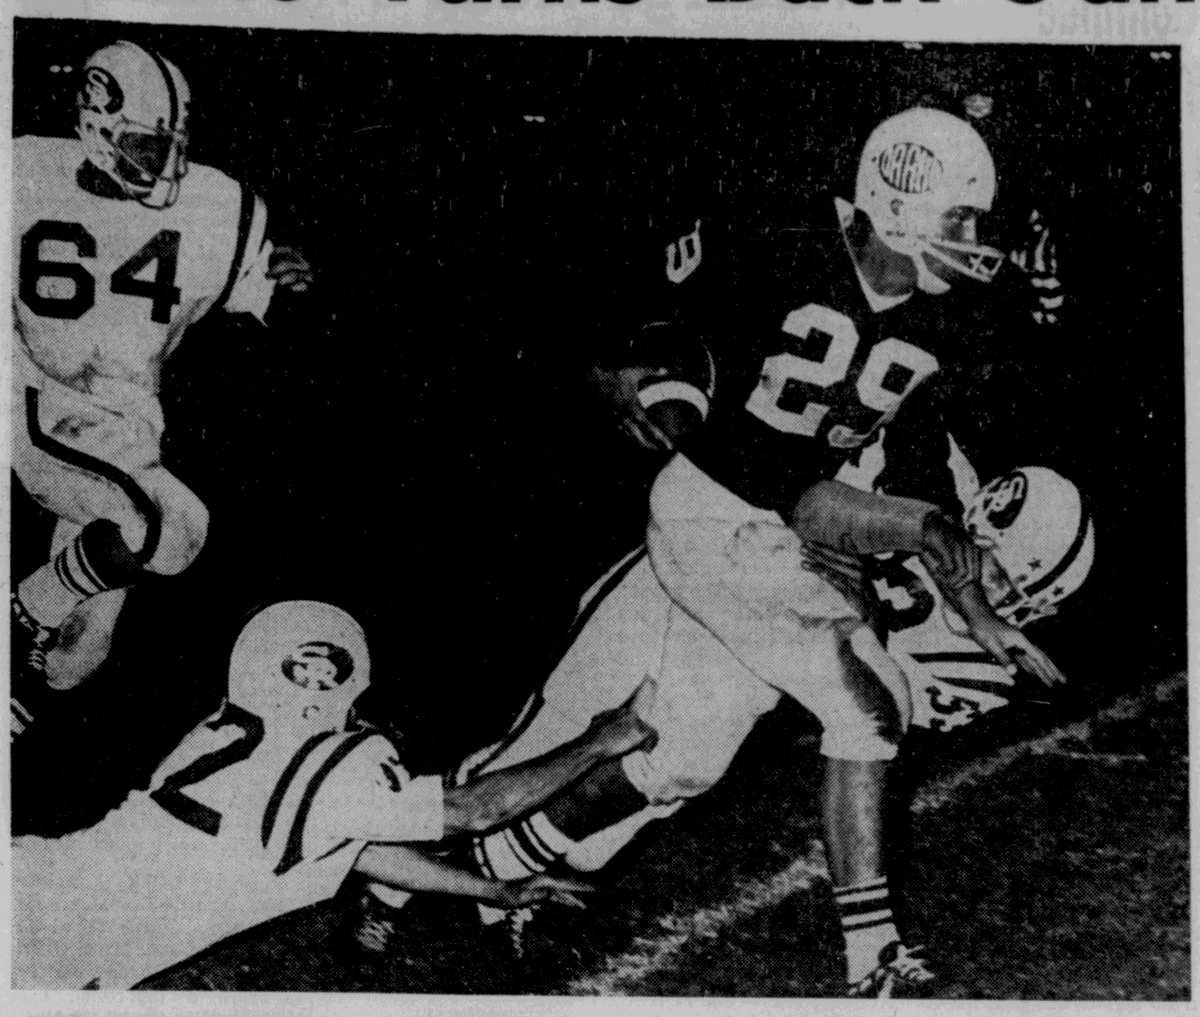
Drake Turns Back San Rafael; Petaluma Loses



THE LAST TOUCHDOWN — Drake senior fullback Bob Sutherland rambles 15 yards for what is probably his last high school touchdown as San Rafael defenders Dan Jordan (64), Lowell Widmer (12, on ground) and Dan Meredith (33) try in vain to stop him. Sutherland suffered torn knee ligaments later in the game and will be out for the season.

COMING SOON: 'OH! CALCUTTA!'

Redwood High School football coach Bob Troppmann, embroiled in an athletic hair-grooming controversy which prompted him to resign as school athletic director, found his name on the marquee as he addressed the Corte Madera Lions Club Thursday night. Troppmann, whose policy against long-haired athletes was temporhairily rescinded by Tamalpais District Supt. Bob Torrey, reportedly told the Lions some shaggy dog stories. The issue will be brought before the Tam District School Board meeting Monday night at Redwood High's Little Theater. Who gets top billing hasn't been determined as yet. (Ed Sabo photo)

Vallejo Stops Trojans

By STEVE WYNNE

VALLEJO — When a team makes scoring a regular habit, it becomes a tough club to beat.

Vallejo High's undefeated Apaches were just that last night as they scored every time they had the ball in the first three periods to roll to a 48-26 win over Petaluma's previously undefeated Trojans in the North Bay League football opener for both clubs.

Quarterback Greg Carter blended a good passing attack with a vaunted ground game to help Vallejo jump ahead 12-0 in the first quarter.

But they Trojans did what they weren't supposed to against Vallejo — ran — and used their passing to its fullest advantage to drive to a score in the opening minutes of the second stanza. Quarterback Fred Klemenok hit half Steve Hing with a 14-yard pass to the Apache 1-yard line to set up the score, coming moments later on a Hing run.

Vallejo drove to another touchdown to take an 18-8 lead before a 56-yard Klemenok-to-Bob Garcia aerial set up the second Petaluma score, a 2-yard pass from Klemenok to Kurt Jastrow.

PASS PRODUCTION

The Apaches scored on the last play of the first half and the Trojans the second play of the second half. That touchdown was another Klemenok-to-Gracia production, a 51-yard scoring pass.

The final Klemenok touchdown strike was a 3-yard toss to Garcia in the game's final minutes.

Klemenok had another good game in the air, completing an unofficial 11 of 22 passes for 243 yards and three touchdowns. Seven of the tosses were to Garcia, good for 209 yards and 2 scores.

The Petaluma offense was built around Klemenok's passing and the running of Hing, who was the leading Trojan rusher despite coming out of the game in the third quarter.

Linebacker John Fadelli and lineman Dave Antognini were standouts on the overworked Petaluma defensive effort.

China Golf Team Leads U.S. By Two

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Taiwan team of Hsieh Yung Yo and Hsu Chi San fired a three-under par 139 today to take a two-stroke lead over the United States in the third round of the 17th World Cup Golf Tournament.

Americans Orville Moody and Lee Trevino shot a combined 140 to complete the third cycle of the four-day tournament with a total 418 to trail the Chinese pairs 416.

Thailand's youthful Sukree Onsham and Suchin Suwanapongse returned a duplicate 140 for the round but tallied a three-round aggregate of 419, one stroke behind the United States for third place going into the final round.

INDIVIDUAL LEADER

Hsieh's 35-34—69 gave him a three-day individual card of 205 two strokes up in the individual competition for the International Trophy.

Sukree tied with Eleuterio Nival of the Philippines at 67 for the day's low score. Sukree, 26, was helped to his day's low with an eagle 3 on the 467-yard 15th hole.

Pirates Finally Come Alive To Post First Victory, 17-7

By GARY TISCHLER

Drake High School defeated San Rafael High, 17-7, in the Marin County Athletic League football opener for both teams last night before some 1,500 fans at San Rafael.

That terse bit of news could be nothing but bad news for some MCAL teams.

What happened was that the Pirates of San Anselmo just may have found themselves after staggering around in the dark for an awful long time, losing their first two games by wide margins to Petaluma and Vallejo.

The game started out in gruesomely typical fashion for the Pirates, who where whomped in two non-league outings. After almost an entire half, they had been pushed around by the Bulldogs, had yet to gain a first down or complete a pass that gained yardage and they were sitting not too pretty on their own 41 yard line.

KEY PLAY

Right about then, things started to click. The key play was a fourth and five on the San Rafael 46, which the Pirates made good with a 17-yard pass from quarterback Kevin Peak to Jim Forni.

Two plays later, the combination worked for a 34-yard touchdown toss and, amazingly, the Pirates were ahead, 7-0. They padded it to 14-0 in the third quarter on a 15-yard blast by fullback Bob Sutherland, set up on a nifty 25-yard pass from Peak to end Jim Dominguez. And they made it 17-0 on a 20-yard field goal by kicker John Loane, who later had a 22-yarder nullified by a penalty.

For once, the Drake defense, which had been severely punished for 66 points in earlier games, held up. In fact, the pass defense, most vulnerable to the bomb in two previous outings, was the star of the show as Drake defenders nipped off three interceptions and held three San Rafael quarterbacks to a 7-for-24 showing.

NO KEYHOLE

For San Rafael, it was a matter of not coming through with the big play at the right time. For most of the first half, the Bulldogs knocked loudly, but couldn't find the keyhole. The drove to the six and missed a field goal, they drove to the four and were stacked up, while dominating play for most of the first half.

They didn't find themselves until the whole thing was over, with Lowell Widmer finally igniting a long drive that came through with a two-yard scoring sneak by Widmer, with just 14 seconds left.

PIRATE STAR OUT FOR YEAR

Drake High School's 17-7 Marin County Athletic League football win over San Rafael last night was a costly one.

The Pirates lost top fullback and defensive end Bob Sutherland for the season. Sutherland suffered torn ligaments inside his knee after a run in the third quarter.

Sutherland was the league's leading rusher last year.

SAD SONG FOR GIANTS: IT'S BYE-BYE, ORGAN

The San Francisco Giants, who let another ball club grab first place for the fifth successive year, had something else plucked from their grasp yesterday. Someone stole the Giants' electric organ.

The portable organ was missing from its home in the right field mezzanine box at Candlestick Park.

Marin Catholic Ties Rancho Cotate, 21-21

PETALUMA — Marin Catholic High School's football team finally got its offense into a going thing last night, but it was a little too late and not quite enough as the Wildcats rallied to gain a 21-21 tie with Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park at Durst Field.

The Wildcats trailed 21-7 in the final period when they put together scoring drives of 40 and 60 yards to get the tie. Dennis Finnegan scored with eight minutes left from one yard out and a conversion run by Mark Lewis made it 21-15.

Quarterback Matt Hamilton then scored on a four-yard rollout with two minutes left to tie it, but kicker Pat Charters missed the extra point which would have won the game. He also failed in a try for a field goal from 44 yards out with 17 seconds left.

The Wildcats had taken a 7-0 lead on a weird opening kickoff, when Lewis returned it to the 45-yard line, bobbled it and teammate Jerry Rupiper picked it off in midair and ran it the rest of the way in on a play that covered 85 yards.

From there on in it was mostly Rancho Cotate as halfback Mike Stephens scored three touchdowns, two on short runs and one on a an 11-yard pass from quarterback Steve Wlodarczyk.

Marin Catholic's running game was in fine form, as the Wildcats rolled up 306 yards rushing, topped by Lewis with 133 yards in 11 carries and Finnegan with 92 yards in 16 carries.

Barry Tells Warriors: 'I Will Return'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rick Barry says he will return to the San Francisco Warriors after his contract with the Washington Caps expires.

The five-year contract Barry recently signed with the National Basketball Association team calls for $1 million, the Washington Post said it had learned.

Barry's contract with the American Basketball Association's defending champions has two years remaining, at $76,000 a year, with a one-year option.

A U.S. district court in San Francisco has ruled that, pending trial, Barry must play with the Caps or no one else.

VERBAL AGREEMENT

Barry contends he had a verbal agreement that he would not have to leave the Bay Area if the Oakland Oaks moved. The Oaks were sold and moved to Washington this season.

Barry said yesterday he expects a merger of the ABA and the NBA soon.

"Salaries have skyrocketed. These guys ought to count their blessings. I can't conceive the price structure going any higher," Barry said.

Former Giant O'Connell Killed

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Danny O'Connell, 40, former third baseman for the Washington Senators, was killed yesterday when the car he was driving hit a utility pole here, police said.

Passaic County officials said O'Connell apparently suffered a heart attack prior to the accident.

O'Connell, who lived in Bloomfield, also played with the Milwaukee Braves, Pittsburgh Pirates, New York and San Francisco Giants.

Miami, Idaho Continue TD Parade

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The touchdown parade continues in college football.

Miami of Florida whipped North Carolina State 23-13 and Idaho turned back Southern Mississippi 31-21 last night to continue the high scores compiled during the opening weeks of the 1969 season.

The Miami Hurricanes came from behind a 13-10 halftime deficit to down the Wolfpack in the Orange Bowl. Vince Opalsky, who rushed for 120 yards in 26 carries, swept left end for 24 yards to get Miami's go-ahead touchdown drive started. Soph Tom Sullivan bucked over from the three to put Miami in front for good at 17-13.

THREE GOALS

Three field goals by Jim Huff, from 22, 29 and 37 yards, out, put the icing on the cake for the Hurricanes.

Quarterback Steve Olson and split end Jerry Henden connected on three touchdown passes to lead Idaho over Southern Mississippi at Mobile, Ala.

Altogether Olson completed 32 passes and Henden snared 16 passes, both Idaho School records. One of the Olson-to Henden TD aerials was good for 41 yards. Olson also scored a touchdown himself on a keeper from the two.

Redlegs Keep The Faith, Rehire General Manager

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds have retained Robert Howsam as general manager, giving him a two-year contract, while promising word on the future of manager Dave Bristol by World Series time.

Cincinnati president Francis Dale announced at a news conference that Howsam, who came to the Reds in 1967 from the St. Louis Cardinals, had been given a two-year contract, praising Howsam as an "astute baseball man."

"I think we should have won," Howsam said of the 1969 season in which the Reds finished third in the National League's Western Division. He promised that the club would "probably have something to say," about Bristol by World Series time.

Mullins Hot As Warriors Top Rockets

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors and the Los Angeles Lakers, winners in a National Basketball Association double header here last night, play each other here tonight in the feature of another twin bill.

The San Diego Rockets, stopped by the Warriors 124-114 in last night's opener, go against the Phoenix Suns, who lost in the second game to Los Angeles 111-107.

Jeff Mullins led a third-quarter Warrior charge that decided what up to then had been a see-saw contest. He finished with 32 points. His teammate, Nate Thurmond had 21. Elvin Hayes, NBA rookie of last season, paced San Diego with 25.

Phoenix, behind 18 points in the third quarter, narrowed the gap to two points with a minute left.

Gail Goodrich, who had 31 points, and Connie Hawkins led the Suns' charge. Jerry West was high with 32 for the Lakers, who also got fine shooting from Keith Erickson in a rally that overcame a six-point halftime deficit.

San Rafael's Cadets Fall

Disaster, by now something of a regular diet for the San Rafael Military Academy's football team, came up in big servings last night when the Cadets were blasted by Kelseyville in Lake County, 58-0.

It was the Cadets' second straight loss and the third game in which they were shut out. They have yet to score, being tied 0-0 in their opener and losing their second game, 26-0.

Last night's game was strictly a slaughter, as Kelseyville scored 26 points in the second quarter for a 38-0 halftime lead.

The Cadets never got further than the Kelseyville 48-yard line. They came out in the hole offensively, being held to minus 34 yards rushing, and just one yard passing.

Walking Catfish Banned By State

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Fish and Game Commission has banned the importation, possession or sale of the so-called walking catfish which could crowd out game fish if released into public waters.

The commission said yesterday that the fish had been imported from Africa and Asia as a pet and is a predator.

In other action, a special antlerless deer hunt in Humboldt County from Nov. 15-30 was approved to control excess damage of seedling trees.

The commission said 600 permits will be issued by public drawing for the hunt which will be held in the Six Rivers National Forest and adjacent private lands.

The commission also limited waterfowl hunting to Wednesdays and Sundays after the Oct. 10 opening day on five areas in the San Joaquin Valley.

Buick Open Tourney Dropped; Out Of Gas

DETROIT (AP) — The profit squeeze in the automotive industry, scheduling problems and the inability to draw the biggest names in golf are being blamed for the death of the 12-year-old Buick Open Golf Tournament.

Buick Division of General Motors announced yesterday that it was dropping sponsorship of the tournament, which has carried a purse of $125,000 in recent years.

The Buick has never been able to draw golf's top names. One problem has been the schedule, which has alternated between early June and early July. The early June date fell just before the U.S. Open and July fell just before the British Open. Either way, most golfers shooting for the prestige tournaments chose to sit the Buick out.

RIVAL AUTOS

Another problem has been the fact that the Buick was sponsored by Buick. Some major stars, such as Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, have tie-ins with other automakers.

The schedule problem might have been solved by moving the tournament, which was played at the Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club in the Flint, Mich., suburb of Grand Blanc, to an available late summer date. But again the automotive sponsorship interfered—a late summer schedule would conflict with preparations for introduction of new models.

Jerry Rideout, public relations chief for Buick and tournament director for the past 10 years, said in announcing cancellation of the tournament that it was a victim of a reassessment of company publicity practices.

PROFITS FALL

The estimated cost of sponsorship was $225,000 and while that's not much for a corporation which had profits of about $1.5 billion last year, the auto industry is in a period of retrenchment as profits continue to fall despite rising sales.

The death of the Buick will leave Michigan without a major PGA event next summer. An attempt to start a second major tournament this summer ended in a fiasco when the sponsors of the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic were unable to come up with the promised prize money at the end of the tournament.

Smith, Koch Gain Semi-Finals In Coast Tennis

BERKELEY (AP) — Stan Smith and Thomas Koch of Brazil moved into the semi-finals of the Pacific Coast International Tennis Tournament Friday.

Smith, a U. S. Davis Cup player from Pasadena, beat Australian Bob Carmichael, 6-4, 6-4 and Koch defeated Roy Barth of San Deigo, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Moving into the women's semifinals were Leslie Hunt, a 19-year-old Australian, who beat Eseme Emanuel of South Africa, 10-8, 3-6, 6-3, and Winnie Shaw of Scotland, who defeated Pixie Lamm of UCLA, 1-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Smith was to face Koch in the semifinals today. Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., was to face No. 1-seeded Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va.

Sonoma High Ties Analy

SEBASTOPOL — The Sonoma High Dragons came within inches of winning their North Bay League Section II football opener here last night but settled for a 13-13 deadlock with the Analy Tigers.

Down 13-0 at the half, the Dragons rallied behind the running of halfback Tom Xavier and passing of quarterback Dan Briggs to tie the game up with touchdowns in the third and fourth stanzas.

A bad snap from center on the extra point kick attempt in the final quarter was the difference between a win and a tie for Sonoma.

Xavier carried 15 times for 62 yards and Briggs completed 7 of 17 passes for 68 yards. Coach Bill Leone also said guard John Kelly and tackle Brian Dillman were standouts.

Raiders To Test Miami's Griese

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Griese, who has lost his title "the AFL's best young quarterback" to Cincinnati's Greg Cook, now must fight being labeled "the AFL's lease-productive veteran quarterback."

A success story for two seasons, the likeable kid from Purdue is finding it tough in American Football League year No. 3.

Miami is 0-3 and Griese's aerial statistics put him at the bottom of the league in percentage. Bob has hit only 42-of-103 tosses for 40.3 per cent, 718 yards and just two touchdowns. He was a 52 per cent thrower last fall and hit for 21 TDs.

Griese tries to pull himself out of the losing role tonight when the Dolphins meet undefeated Oakland in an early-season rematch. (The game will be televised on Channel 32 at 5 o'clock.)

Oakland rode George Blanda's last-minute field goal to a 20-17 win over Miami two weeks ago. The Dolphins played their very best and still got booted.

The Raiders, co-favorites in the AFL Western Division along with Kansas City, haven't been smooth despite their spotless record. Daryl Lamonica finally began to hit in last week's 38-23 win over Boston with four touchdown passes.

Hewritt Dixon has started slow in the rushing section, but second-year man Charley Smith has taken up the slack. Smith's 225 yards lead the AFL after three weeks.

Jim Kiick is the top Miami gainer with 169 yards and has zipped in for three touchdowns—more than any other AFL runner. Larry Csonka, 240-pound fullback from Syracuse, returns to action after five weeks on the sidelines with head injuries. Stan Mitchell, the starter with Csonka ill, was lost last week against Houston with a shoulder separation.

Miami has returned Olympic sprint king Jimmy Hines to the active list, but early-week workouts showed the Californian still has trouble holding onto the football.

49ers Actually FAVORED! In Home Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Still looking for their first victory, the San Francisco 49ers open their home season tomorrow against the Washington Redskins, 1 p.m.

Winless in six exhibition games and two regular-season encounters, the 49ers are actually favored to win this one, mostly because of Redskin weaknesses rather than their own strengths.

In his first season as Washington coach, the redoubtable Vince Lombardi has led the Skins to a 1-1 record so far with an opening-game victory over New Orleans and a close defeat by Cleveland.

The 49ers have two major problems in this one; stopping the passing game of Sonny Jurgensen and getting their own offense moving.

Against Green Bay last week, the defense performed well, but quarterback John Brodie once again had difficulty getting any points on the board.

Still, Brodie passed for 282 yards and a touchdown. The running game, most of it handled by fullback Ken Willard, rolled up only 112 yards.

The 49ers welcome back defensive end Stan Hindman to full-scale action after a shoulder injury. Running back Bill Tucker is also slated for action .

While 49er Coach Dick Nolan is concerned about Jurgensen's passing, he is also worried about the running of rookie Larry Brown, who piled up 95 yards in 14 carries against the Browns.

BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

A Smashing Debut By Marin Newcomer

Judy Hutton of San Rafael is new to Marin County bowling, so her 597 series in the Lutheran Late League at San Rafael's Country Club Bowl is quite a start.

Since she doesn't have a Marin County average, she was in the process of establishing one when she strung out games of 220, 183 and 194. It was during her third week of league play, so established her average at 163.

"I haven't been bowling in league for two years," explained Judy, a supervisor in the IBM department of a San Rafael type-setting company. "I bowled in a league in Montana two years ago and had a 142 average. Yes, that 597 series is my highest ever."

STRIKES TO SPARE — Ron Baccei's big 674 series in the 910 Travel League at Greenbrae Lanes was topped by a 261 game. . . . Bill Poulopoulos' 617 series 870 Limited Scratch League at Greenbrae included a 258 line. . . . Jerri Scheiner of the Winter Wonders League at Country Club Bowl had her highest game ever when she rolled that 233 game (an apology for that typographical error last week that called Jerri's game 223) . . . Joe Filippo of the 910 Classic was high man at Country Club Bowl with his 257 game and 632 series . . . Jarth Oates rolled a 255 line in the Twilite Twirlers League at Country Club Bowl. . . . Larry Martin rolled a 256 game to feature scores in the Northern California Merchants League at Greenbrae Lanes.

THIS AND THAT — In the Coffee Cuppers League at Greenbrae Lanes, Hilda Wickersham's 232 game led a total of six games of 200 or more . . . At Country Club Bowl, Dede Gotelli picked up a 6-7 split in the Agents 1108 League and Eileen Duane did the same in the Bowlerettes. . . . New bowler Eleanor Gamba, 119 average, rolled her first 200, a 203 in the Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. . . . Kitty Mathews was star of the San Quentin Four League with her 214-570. . . . Bob Wright (137 avg.) rolled a 211 line in the Hawaiian League at Nave Lanes . . . Barbara Eastland missed a 169 triplicate by two pins in the Mixed Mates League and Midge Moore missed an 81 triplicate by one pin in the Hi-Lo's, both at Country Club. Wayne Tobin's 573 was high score in the Hi-Lo's.

WARDS Riverside

WARDS RIVERSIDE 4-SQUARE PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

GUARANTEED AGAINST FAILURE due to road hazards (except repairable punctures) or from defects in materials or workmanship for the life of the original tread. In case of failure, Wards will exchange tire for a new one, charging only that portion of the current price (plus Federal Excise Tax) equivalent to the percent of tread used.

GUARANTEED AGAINST TREAD WEAROUT for months specified or for miles specified. In case tread wears out, Wards will exchange tire for a new one, charging only the difference between the current price (plus Federal Excise Tax) and a specific dollar allowance (Tread wear guarantee does not apply to tires used commercially.)

NATIONWIDE SERVICE. Guarantee honored at any Wards Retail or Catalog store.

Yosemite Ever-Beautiful, Also Ever-Changing

IS THE NATURAL BEAUTY of Yosemite National Park being ruined by the onslaught of automobiles and hordes of visitors?

Is the ecology being upset by the inroads of civilization?

If you listen to some alarmists, you would think so.

If you visit the park, you will find it beautiful as ever.

FOR THREE DOLLARS per person, you can take a two-hour ride around the floor of the valley on the new tramcar tour recently introduced. Unfortunately, the tramcars were designed for touring Universal (movie) Studios (whence they are leased) and are not very well adapted for sightseeing in Yosemite Valley. Their long, broad metal tops effectively cut off the upward view. They are underpowered and have to labor precariously to drag their loads up the grade to the vista point at the tunnel on the Wawona Road. On downhill runs their brakes squeak and squeal, leading one to wonder if they will hold.

The guide explains that newly designed trams are on order and, presumably, will afford better vision for passengers, more power for upgrades and more brakes for downgrades.

The advent of the tramcars unquestionably reduces automobile traffic. It is more pleasant to see the valley and its vistas from the sightseeing tram than in your own car.

The guide's spiel is better than having to extract information from a guide book or pamphlet.

But the guide's spiel at times involves some propaganda innaccuracies.

NATURE IS NOT A STATIC thing; it is dynamic.

The human view that a wilderness unvisited by civilization looks the same today as it has for a thousand years is more likely to be false than true.

Much of the Sierra Nevada Mountain range, including Yosemite, is still in the process of emerging from the ice age. It is still evolving.

An alpine-type mountain meadow is an example. It began when a glacier scooped out a hollow and perhaps deposited a moraine at its lower end.

When the glacier melts, a shallow lake or pond remains. Little by little over the ages, eroded material fills the lake or pond. Grass is the first thing to grow there; it has become an alpine meadow.

As the shore of the lake recedes, first grass, then underbrush and finally larger trees encroach onto what was lake shore. They wind up surrounding the meadow. In a few hundred years, they will overrun the meadow and it will be just a part of a forest.

WHEN JOHN MUIR and other naturalists first went to Yosemite valley about a century ago, one of the impressive facts which they recorded was the vast extent of the meadowlands, which, being open, afforded breathtaking views of the sheer granite walls rising 3,000 feet above the valley floor. Then, as now, waterfalls abounded (in season).

The park superintendent can show you some of the earliest photographs of the valley from Inspiration Point which illustrate what the earliest visitors saw.

Contemporary photos from the same point show how the meadows have shrunk as the forest continues its encroachment.

It is known that for hundreds of years before white man's arrival, Indians have periodically burned the meadows and underbrush of the valley so as to make hunting easier and to facilitate finding acorns and roots for food.

Unwittingly, they had preserved the meadows.

When white man and civilization intruded, the Indians were driven away.

White man brought cattle and sheep. Grazing performed the same function as burning. It preserved the meadows.

IN 1906, THE U.S. CAVALRY arrived to begin a 20-year stay as protectors of the area until the National Park Service was established to take over.

The tour guide will tell you that the cavalrymen drove off the cattlemen and sheepmen, protecting the valley from their desecrations.

The historic photographs will show you that the beautiful meadows began their retrogression with the arrival of the cavalry and departure of the cattle and sheep.

The Yosemite Natural History Association says that the meadows you see today "are mere remenants of the wide meadows that inspired early park visitors, including the men who had Congress set aside Yosemite Valley 'for all time' with their open park-like views of waterfalls and rock formations. Conscious of its responsibility to maintain the valley's natural beauty, the National Park Service is conducting scientific studies of the plant successions now going on."

Apparently uninformed of all this, the tour guide says simply, the meadows will maintain themselves if their natural ecology is maintained.

Obviously, the guide's zealous espousal of the cause of conservation has blinded him to the dynamics of nature.

YOSEMITE IS STILL BEAUTIFUL and as conducive to relaxation and rest as ever. Accommodations continue to improve.

Last Saturday on the travel pages of the I-J's Marin Magazine supplement there appeared an advertisement describing a Yosemite fall vacation package plan. Those of us who have tried it recommend it.

The only real disappointment is that the Park Service girl employees don't give as good slide talks as the male ranger-naturalists did in yesteryear.

Fog Dissipation

Besides costing the airlines $75 million a year and tying up maritime traffic on the bay, fog contributes greatly to creating hazardous highway conditions. Anyone who has suddenly found himself enveloped in the soft, white stuff as he drove to San Francisco knows what we mean.

Mechanical and physical methods of fog dissipating have not proved very effective. But scientists at Cornell University have found that seeding fog with tiny particles of sodium chloride works quite well. The size of the particles is the critical factor. To do a good job they must be about a hundredth the size of common table salt.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Afro-American Study Not Regional

I find the letter dated Sept. 10 to your newspaper by Ian K. McDougall both unfortunate and contradicting . . .

In his letter, Ian K. McDougall (who claims to be from Africa) advises the Tam students to "identify with America, be Americans for freedom, then Afro-Americans; be honest about the true Africa, and learn not to follow their ways but instead, lead them to ours." The last part of this advise (sic) seems to be among the myths that have existed for so long which seem to imply that African ways are inferior and hence not worth following.

Ian K. McDougall also complains that "every article deals with Kenya, and the language Swahili." I don't think that all the I-J articles have dealt with Kenya — at least the ones that I have read so far. Another point that McDougall mentioned was: "If those Negro children knew more of the real history of Africa, and its truth and facts, they might conclude that another race and language is truer of their idolization . . . than the 'Johnny Come Lately' from Kenya."

I am not sure whether McDougall has any evidence indicating that the content of the "Afro-American" courses at Tam are regional rather than continental. Furthermore, here at Tam we are not catering for the black students alone but to all the students who want to learn about African culture and Swahili. Also, since McDougall is from Africa, it would be in order if he could tell the Americans of another lanugage in Africa spoken by more black nations than Swahili. If he can name any, maybe it would be a better alternative than Swahili . .

We're Pavlov's Dog, But Who's Pavlov?

In your Friday (Sept. 26) editorial you said, "Mental health did not even appear in the Marin County budget until fiscal 1964. In the budget that year was a $10,000 item to finance the mental health advisory board in setting up a program to qualify for federal funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

"This year's county budget calls for an outlay of $2,215,000 for mental health."

Actually $1,844,876 comes from the state and federal government for which we pay for in various ways, plus $395,302 that comes from county property taxes.

In five years this is a hefty overall increase of 21,000 per cent and a 3,800 per cent increase from a county property tax funds.

When the property tax bills come out later this month, John Q. Public will understand that somebody got brainwashed. Little doubt will remain who the dog is, but how can he identify Pavlov?

LINES ON LIVING

Teach My Little Girl, Oh! School Of Life

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

The little figure moved out of the house, with her tiny hand waving in a bright, early morning. She went to school, my tiny daughter. She was happy and she was afraid. For this was her first step in the big world, the first tiny leap all by her little self. Be kind to her, World. Show her that the sweet, innocent world she knows is real, even while she may have to work hard to discover it.

Be patient with my little girl, School of Life; be understanding to her, even when she cries her temperamental tears of pampered childishness, even while she makes her screaming demands.

YOU SEE, we spoiled her a little; we didn't mind it, in fact we enjoyed it. In the home, she was boss. Everything she wanted in her young life — almost everything — she took. But the world gives no one everything he wants. Teach her, therefore, that the wisdom of life is to love what we have rather than to have everything we love. Tell her, School of Life, patiently and lovingly, that the world she will have will be the world of life she will make — not what she will take from life, but what she will give to life; not what she will grasp and hold, but what she will perceive and experience; not what life will do to her, but what she will do to life.

Teach my little girl, School of Life, what wiser living men have discovered a long time ago, that the sweetest and most precious things of life come free and must be enjoyed freely by brave spirits. And that those earned gifts are the reward of stout hearts and willing hands. And if she wills and dreams and longs long enough, she will never lose, even if she is not victor. Because the fun of life is not so much in having won, but in having dreamt, not in having gained triumph but in having tried to compete and to excel.

TEACH MY little youngster, School of Life, to be honest, to be true. Never mind the crooks, never mind the cheats, never mind the bullies. The world is still full of people who prize honesty above gold and gentleness above all power. Teach her, therefore, to have faith in humanity, even if she can't keep faith in all humans.

She will need faith. It will be everything in life to her. Give her, then, faith in peace, in hope, in truth, in the loveliness of life and light. Give her faith in herself: to believe that the individual makes a world of difference because one person, one soul is a whole world. Give her the wisdom to use that power of individuality to join the righteous cause; and the courage to defy evil even if she has to stand alone.

Teach her, School of Life, humility but not withdrawal; determination but not violence; bravery but not recklessness; gallantry but not defiance; freedom but not anarchy. And teach her to be respectful not only of the possessions of others but also of their dignity and person. Let her know that shouting is not dialogue and insult is no winning ace. Inform her that the still small voice is still the mightiest medium of communication and the lubricating oil of tenderness and persuasion is still mightier than the fist.

TEACH HER, dear School of Life, that the greatest heartaches of life are not in the things we do, but in the things we leave undone, in the dreams that haven't been dreamt, in the smiles that have not been awakened, in the friendships that haven't been evoked, in the love that hasn't been invoked — in all the thousands of little things that make the great life of man a joy or a regret.

And finally, dear, dear School of Life, be kind to my little girl and help her to be strong, for there is much to bear; to care, for there is much to do; to be brave, for there is much cowardice; to be true, for there is much hypocrisy — to find meaning in "I" and glory in "We."

How about it, School of Life? Can you do it? Try. I will do my best to try in my little School of Life — my home, my little girl's home.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

"Of course I play golf," a new arrival at a Catskill resort assured a long-time guest there. "I play in the low 70s." The guest had just whistled admiringly when the newcomer added, "If it gets one degree cooler, I go back to the clubhouse."

Henny Youngman has discovered two things that virtually nobody will believe: how a man got a black eye and how a woman got a mink coat.

Gromyko Genial, Noncommital, While Arms Race Grows Apace

NEW YORK — It hardly comes under the heading of social notes from all over and yet, in its significance, it rates little more than that. After spending 10 days at the United Nations, Andrei Gromyko has departed for home by way of a courtesy stop in Canada.

Gloomy Grom, as he is sometimes known, could not have been more genial. At the exchange of dinners with Secretary of State William P. Rogers the humorous anecdotes flowed with the vodka and the champagne. And these humorous little tales were occasionally at the expense of the rigidities and contradictions in the Soviet system.

The impression grew that Gromyko had nothing on his mind or, at any rate, nothing he was ready to disclose. His arrival in New York with Russian Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had been largely anticipated in the belief that he was bringing word of the start of the long-delayed strategic arms limitation talks. In Moscow in July Gromyko in a speech to the Supreme Soviet had spoken hopefully of an early start, looking to the limitation and reduction of both offensive and defensive nuclear weapons.

In New York he said merely that the answer would come soon and it would be favorable.

SO THE DRIFT continues for an indeterminate time and the spiral of the nuclear arms race thrusts relentlessly upward. United States tests of the multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle, MIRV, are well into the second year. The Russians are believed to be conducting firing tests of their own MIRV. America's Poseidon submarines are getting additional missiles to an ultimate total of 160. The widely held view in Washington is that the Russians are advancing rapidly on all nuclear fronts.

Each advance makes it that much more difficult to arrive at a pause and stock-taking. The threatening shadow of an accident or the consequences of the fear of a rival first-strike capability grow ever darker.

In November the Russians were eager for arms talks. The outgoing Johnson administration was anxious to make at least a token start. The incoming Nixon team said no, since they wanted to make their own survey of the lay of the land.

What has happened in the interval of nearly a year to cool the Russian approach? Is it resentment of the long American delay?

THE BEST GUESS is Moscow's preoccupation with China. This is of such obsessive concern that the men in the Kremlin relegate everything else to second place.

The theory is that announcement of the date for forthcoming arms talks between the United States and the Soviet Union would be seized on by Peking as evidence of collusion between the two nuclear giants. It would chill the possibility of abating hostilities along the 400-mile border where gunfire punctuates the propaganda war.

Another guess grows out of Gromyko's attitude during his encounter with Rogers and the Rogers team at the U.N. When pressed on policy matters he seemed to lack authority. It was as though a divided Kremlin had failed to give him clear marching orders. His one stress, after saying that the answer would be favorable and soon, was: don't prod and, above all, don't prod publicly.

More of the same, that is the cynical way to shrug this off. But for those who want to believe mankind has a future on this planet that is small consolation.

Dangerous New Revolutionist Attacks Anti-Establishment

WASHINGTON — I know no one will believe me, but you're just going to have to take my word for it. I met a college student the other day who said that all he wanted out of life was success and financial security.

He asked me not to use his name because he didn't want to embarrass his parents, so I shall call him Hiram.

"HIRAM," I asked him, "why did you decide to take this revolutionary attitude toward society?"

"I don't know exactly when it happened. I was like most of the rest of the students. I wanted to tear down the school, the society, the Establishment. I was just another conformist, and I never questioned why I was doing all the things that were expected of me.

"Then one day I thought to myself, 'There's got to be more to life than getting hit over the head by the cops.' I looked around me and saw nothing but sheep. Every student was doing his thing because someone else had done his thing, and no one was doing or saying anything new."

"SO YOU DECIDED to drop out of the student movement and become a millionaire?"

"Not at first. But I met this girl. She was really way out. She wore a chasmere sweater, a plaid skirt and she had on shoes and socks — I couldn't believe anyone would dress like that. But I got to talking to her, and she started making sense.

"She said it wasn't enough to lock yourself in a building or go on a hunger strike in your dorm. If you really wanted to change the world, you had to make a lot of money, and then people wouldn't tell you what to do."

"That's radical thinking," I said.

"Then she gave me a book by Prof. Horatio Alger, and I guess no book I ever read has had more of an effect on me."

"WASN'T PROFESSOR Alger the one who came out first with the success syndrome theory?"

"That's he. His story floored me. I mean a whole new world opened for me, and I knew no matter what the consequences were and no matter what other people thought, I was going to work hard and become rich and successful. Life finally took on some meaning for me, and for the first time I felt like a free man."

"What did you do then?"

"I discovered through this girl that there were other students on campus who felt the way I did — not many, but there were enough. So we formed a group called the 'Students for a Successful Society.' At first we had to go underground, because the administration wouldn't acknowledge us as a legitimate campus organization. But as more and more students heard about us, the SSS kept growing. We've been able to radicalize at least 200 students who would rather be rich than do their thing."

"WHAT ARE SOME of your activities to get more supporters?"

"We sell the Wall Street Journal on campus. We've opened a coffeehouse where you can read back copies of Fortune. We have a stock market ticker tape in the back of the room, and on weekends we have readings from the National Association of Manufacturers Bulletins."

"Hiram, I know this all sounds great. But is it possible that this success syndrome movement is just a passing fad?"

"No, it isn't. I know everyone calls us kooks and weirdos, but no one is going to push us around. We've already had inquiries from other campuses that want to set up similar chapters, and I wouldn't be surprised in the next few years to see what is now a minority movement become the strongest force in the country. After all, nothing succeeds like success."

Pilot, 16, Eagerly Awaits A License

By PAT ANGLE

It could happen soon in a San Rafael household: the 16-year-old son comes into the living room and asks his father if he can have the keys — to the plane.

At an age when most youngsters are worrying about getting their driver's licenses, Bruce Bell, a junior at San Rafael High School, has already completed his first airplane solo.

Last week was a big week for Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Bell of 74 Biscayne Drive. On Thursday, just 10 days after his 16th birthday, Bruce went up in a plane by himself, a single-engine Piper Cherokee Commanche.

On Friday he took and passed the test for his driver's license; for some reason, he wasn't very nervous about that.

The solo was a slightly different matter. "My father (also a pilot) warned me I'd get up there and wonder what I was doing and feel I must be crazy," Bruce recalls. "I didn't believe him — until I was up alone in that plane. I kept looking over at the empty seat and realized there was no instructor. If anything happened, it was going to be just me and the plane."

But after he made his first landing ("the hardest thing to learn"), Bruce just sat back and enjoyed the experience. "It was great — no traffic," he exclaimed.

Bruce would appear to be a natural for flying, since his father has been flying small planes for eight years and he has grown up around airplanes. Bruce made his first flight when 8, a family trip to Mexico. When he was 12 his father took the family on a trip which included stops in 48 of the 50 states (except Alaska and Hawaii) and trips to most of the major scenic attractions in the U.S.

Bruce is very proud that he was allowed to solo after only ten hours of instruction. "It took my Dad 11 hours before he soloed," he said, grinning.

He is obviously enjoying the new competition with his father immensely. "I used to think my dad was the world's greatest pilot, that he was perfect," he said. "Now I know he's a good pilot, but he does make these little mistakes occasionally and I love to catch him and correct him.

"I've even been teaching him a few new things," he continued happily.

His parents are delighted at their son's flying success; they gave him the lessons for a Christmas present last year. "My mom is happy because pretty soon I'll be able to relieve my dad on long trips," Bruce explained.

"Pretty soon" means nearly a year, since Bruce cannot get his pilot's license until he is 17. Until then he can only fly solo or with an instructor.

As soon as he gets his license, he wants to take his family up and show them what he can do. Soon after, he'd like to fly to Hawaii ("I've been there and it's a great place"). Transoceanic flight in a small plane will present Bruce with certain technical problems. "I won't be able to take any passengers or luggage," he explained, "because I'll have to have the whole plane filled with gasoline." He is more than willing to send his luggage on ahead.

Hawaii will be a challenge, but Bruce sensibly admits he wants to start off small when he first gets the license. He has already decided he will make his first licensed trip to — of all places — Chico. Why does he want to fly there? "Because my dad says it is a nice field" and, perhaps more importantly, "because it's an easy flight and there are no big mountains in the way."

Flying has opened up exciting new career possibilities for the teen-ager, who has just about decided he's he'd like to become a commercial pilot, "unless something better comes along."

Bruce is enthusiastic about the advantages of being able to fly. "My dad has taken several men on various trips, like fishing in Mexico, and the men pay for the trip," he said. "I'd like to do something like that when I get my license."

ONLY ANSWER — Sharon Walter, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walter of Kentfield, plans to devote the next two years working with the Campus Crusade for Christ. She believes that Christ is the only answer to many of the problems facing collegians today. (Independent-Journal photo)

CAMPUS CRUSADE TEAM

Recent U.C. Graduate Will Sell Christ To Collegians

By ANNE BARDWELL

A young Kent Woodlands woman who believes Christ is the only answer to the current radical student movement plans to spend the next two years selling Christ to college students.

Student involvement in radical causes, drugs and violence is an outward manifestation of an inward search for something positive in which to believe, says 22-year-old Sharon Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walter of 99 Upland Road, and a June graduate of the University of California at Berkeley.

"Christ, that is a personal relationship with Christ, presents an alternative solution for them," Sharon says.

Sharon believes so strongly that Christ is where it's at, she has donated the next two years of her life to work as a staff member of the Campus Crusade for Christ, an evangelical Christian movement for young people.

Campus Crusade does not try to sell organized religion to students, she says, but, instead, tries to reach as many students as possible with its message about the benefits of a personal relationship with Christ.

"Churches take away your religious freedom," Sharon argues, because "they don't emphasize the personal relationship; they set up laws, not relationships."

The main thrust of Campus Crusade is toward freshmen — "We want to talk to freshmen before they get sucked into the other kind of activities" — and this is the field in which Sharon will work once she completes her training.

"Students need something to commit themselves to," Sharon says, and the "radical force can be very powerful with students who are looking for something to join, something to hang onto."

Although she also believes change is necessary if the society is to survive, Sharon rejects the student radicalism because "it's a destructive force."

Radical students, she says, "want to destroy in order to create" and she believes that progress will come only through changing people, not institutions. "Once the people change the institutions will change," she argues.

Students are receptive to the Christ message, Sharon says and many are actively seeking some kind of personal faith. "I've never found anyone who is unwilling to talk to me."

In fact, she says, the need for faith is so strong that one out of every four freshmen contacted by Campus Crusade "accepts Christ."

Sharon herself "accepted Christ" in December following a personal crisis which culminated in her dropping out of the University of California at Davis, which she had attended for three years, and entering Berkeley.

Although she was majoring in sociology, Sharon says she really didn't have any idea of what she wanted to do with her life. "I was learning how to earn a living, but I didn't feel I was learning how to live," she says.

"I was looking for something and sought it in relationships with people, trying to fill a vacuum which only can be filled by a relationship with Christ."

And in this, Sharon believes she is just like thousands of college students across the country.

"There will be riots and revolution unless students find an acceptable alternative for their lives," she warns. "I want them to choose Christ as that alternative."

Fall Retreat Scheduled At Seminary

The Marin Ecumenical Committee for Action (MECA) will hold a fall retreat Oct. 17 and 18 on the St. Peter Chanel Seminary campus in San Rafael to make plans for the coming year.

Opening speaker at 8 p.m. Oct. 17 will be Rev. John O'Connor of St. Raphael's Catholic Church, who is also a director of the Catholic Social Services Agency of Marin.

The following day workshops will be held on housing, education, youth and economic development.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Jan Bergman, 9 Diego Drive, San Rafael.

GUEST — Rev. William Scholes, a field services executive of the National Council of Churches, will be guest speaker at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. His appearance is part of the church's observance of Worldwide Communion Sunday.

Gate-Crashing Tactics Now Thing Of Past

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — What started out as only an individual, a list of names and a bristling manifesto—which shocked and often angered white Christians—is a developing organization today, with new officers, a staff, a growing budget and moderated mood.

It also is increasingly manned by ministers of the gospel—Negro clergymen both of mainly white and black denominations, Protestant and Roman Catholic. Its church gate-crashing demonstrations have ceased, at least for the time being.

"From the beginning, we knew the whole confrontation thing would pass in time," says Rev. Calvin B. Marshall, recently elected president of the Black Economic Development Conference. "At this stage, it's in the background."

INITIAL PROCESSES

The organization has cleared initial processes for incorporation under New York State law, set up offices in a Brooklyn church, and in addition to its immediate working capital, appears marked to receive much more from the churches.

But a prime asset—and the one which made the financial prospects possible through action of the predominantly white Episcopal Church and leaders of 33 denominations in the National Council of Churches—was the firm backing of Negro clergymen.

Their influence, and the confidence shown in their assessment of the situation by white fellow churchmen, is what produced the large-scale potential funding of an agency that started with little but roving disruptions and wordy belligerence led by James Forman.

"We've entered into a new phase now of honest negotiations, feasibility studies and program development," Dr. Marshall, 37, said in an interview. "Real progress is being made. We're taking on definite structure, with some staff, many volunteers and with field inquiries and research studies going on."

A BIG PLEDGE

The commitment of church money has stirred sharp criticism.

But church officials say it was a matter of upholding trust in those most aware of needs in the black community—the churches of Negro clergymen, who were designated to receive the funds to use for black economic advancement.

Officials also point out that the actions specifically rejected the manifesto's inflammatory ideology, and they maintain that the organization that issued it is taking on a modified nature, under black clergy influence.

Makeup of the organization's 25-member steering committee has been altered to make it more representative, particularly of black churchmen. It now includes eight clergymen and several church lay leaders.

Among them are Rev. J. Metz Rollins, a United Presbyterian, and the Rev. M. L. Wilson, a Baptist pastor, both of New York, both top officers of the National Committee of Black Churchmen named to get the major church funds.

The committee also includes black notables in other fields.

Forman, the original leader, was made director of a fund-raising arm, United Black Appeal. Although black clergymen consistently defend him publicly, some privately deplore his abrasive manifesto ideology and disruptive tactics. Although sidelined from his leading role, he remains a steering committee member.

'DON'T DOMINATE'

Dr. Marshall, pastor of the Varick Memorial (AME) Zion church in Brooklyn where the organization has its main office, said it "now has a broad representation of churchmen, but they don't dominate it."

He said committee members hold varying views of the manifesto's ideology but all are united on its program proposals, including a Southern land bank to underwrite cooperative farms, black industrial, printing and communications trading facilities, a black skills research center and other projects.

Besides the potential large church funds, the organization already has received about $24,000 from individual congregations and church groups.

PIPERS LAUNCH CENTENNIAL

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael is currently observing its 100th anniversary. Centennial events began a week ago Friday night with a Scottish supper complete with Scottish bagpipes and dancers. Leading the procession was the Prince Charles Junior Pipe Band. Leading the group into Canoles Hall was Jeff McNear.

TO LEAD SERVICES—Othor A. Daniels, pastor of the Church of Christ, 18 West Crescent Drive, San Rafael, will speak at a series of meetings to begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday through the following Friday. General theme of the talks will be "New Testament Christianity."

Folk Songs To Be Featured At Special Service

Aldersgate Methodist Church of San Rafael will mark Worldwide Communion Sunday tomorrow at 10 a.m. in a contemporary setting with the use of folk songs as liturgical music.

The choir will be composed of members of St. Anselm's Catholic Parish in San Anselmo and Aldersgate.

A special offering will be taken to support work among the refugees of the Middle East, to supply food and medicine to Biafra and work in Vietnam.

Mill Valley Speaker

James E. Pike, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday at the First Church of Christ Scientist of Mill Valley. His lecture is titled, "Life Without Doubt."

MORTGAGE TO BE BURNED AT RITES

St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax will celebrate final payment of its parish debt with a mortgage burning ceremony tomorrow.

Preceding the ceremony an all Latin High Mass will be celebrated at 5 p.m. by Rev. Jeremiah Gleeson, pastor of St. Rita's. The mortgage will be burned during a reception in the parish hall.

A BUILDING

Dialogue On Unity Turns To Reality

LONDON (AP) — A parish where Roman Catholic and Church of England theologians met to talk about unity two years ago is now building Britain's first comprehensive Catholic-Anglican church.

The theologians, appointed by Pope Paul VI and Archbishop Michael Ramsey of Canterbury, wound up their debates by declaring that "a principal concern is the possible common use of churches. We believe that the witness and mission of the Church make such action imperative."

The Rev. Alan Carey, vicar of Cippenham near Slough, an industrial suburb 20 miles west of London, and the Rev. David Woodward, his Roman Catholic colleague, took the leaders at their word.

THE ANSWER

The Anglicans were pressed for space and were thinking of a new church anyway; the Roman Catholics had been hearing Mass in a wartime hut and private homes. The two priests decided a joint church was the answer.

The Anglican and Catholic bishops for the area approved. Catholic Bishop Thomas Parker also approved "occasional joint services" although he ruled against joint Eucharistic services.

The energetic parish priests have taken a 99-year lease, from the body which handles Church of England real estate deals and investments, on a two-acre site near the Slough (pronounced as in now) industrial development. They have formed their congrations into a company, which has been registered as a charitable trust to avoid taxation.

"One of our aims," they say, "is to demonstrate to everyone the remarkable measure of reconciliation that exists between us—by the design of our new building, by pooling our resourses, working together in charity, by the enjoyment of each other socially and by the shared concern for each other's likes and dislikes."

PRO DIRECTING

The task of finding $72,000 for the building has been handed to a professional fund-raising body, backed by lunches and coffee meetings, and gifts pledged from collections in some churches in Holland.

The seating area for 300 will be arranged so that several activities can take place in the church at the same time, set off by screens.. The Stations of the Cross will be moveable and so will the confessional.

Cippenham has about 20,000 nominal Anglicans, although only about a hundred are regular churchgoers. The Roman Catholics claim 700 communicants.

NEW VICAR—Rev. David Scofield will celebrate his first Holy Eucharist as vicar of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Inverness at the 9:30 a.m. services tomorrow. Selected last spring to succeed Rev. Francis W. Read, Father Scofield's last post was as first assistant priest of the Church of Our Most Holy Redeemer, Clerkenwell, London. He was ordained an Episcopal priest in May 1964.

Drinking Drivers On Probation

Eight persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Nellie Louise Martin, 57, of Redwood City, arrested Sept. 22 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $100.

Robert Wilfred Wychoff, 37, of San Francisco, arrested May 26 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $150.

Rudolf Vogel, 54, of 1151 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, was placed on six months' probation and fined $200. He was arrested June 14 on Highway 101.

Leland M. Ryan, 34, of 65 Rodeo Avenue, Sausalito, arrested July 17 on Tiburon Boulevard, was placed on six months' probation and fined $150.

Horace Richard Oakley, 47, of San Francisco, arrested July 4 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $100.

Joseph Wesley Cothran, 55, of 16 Alma Court, Petaluma, was placed on three years' probation, fined $250 and ordered to serve 10 days in jail. He was arrested May 19 in San Rafael.

Allen Ralph Kelly, 28 of 51C Lomita Drive, Mill Valley, was placed on six months' probation and fined $125. He was arrested June 3 in Sausalito.

Harry Paul Vidler, 40, of 5 Yolo Street, Corte Madera, arrested Sept. 18 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $200.

Special Meeting On Ferry Strike

A special meeting of the Marin Transit District board will be held at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in the supervisors' chambers of the Civic Center.

Seymour Kashin, district general manager, said directors will be asked to loan to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District one of his staff members on a temporary basis to help operate the Tiburon ferry, which is now on strike.

The bridge and highway district is considering chartering two ferries from strikebound Harbor Carriers and resuming service to San Francisco.

Communion Sunday

Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Tiburon will observe Worldwide Communion Sunday tomorrow with Holy Communion at the 9 and 11:15 a.m. services.

Bruce Strafed On Aviation Viewpoint

Chairman David B. Vail of the Marin County Aviation Commission lashed back today at the Marin County Administrator for suggesting that the commission could be phased out because "it tends primarily to be a special purpose lobby."

Vail, in a letter to the Board of Supervisors, accused Administrator Alan Bruce of being prejudiced and power hungry.

The county's concerns in aviation are much broader than the present Gnoss Field north of Novato, declared Vail.

"Aviation means much more to this county than weekend pilots flying Piper Cubs; it is big business and big transportation and getting bigger."

A well-rounded commission with a variety of backgrounds and experience can give much more valuable advice to the county supervisors than a county staff whose resources available for aviation are extremely limited, he declared.

"There is a further reason, however, for independent advisory commissions . . . the administrator's office appears to be in the position of being able to stifle and suppress staff opinions at variance with the administrator. This is particularly true in the case of aviation toward which the administrator has long displayed ill-concealed hostility . . .

"We also have reason to believe that the administrator has muzzled staff members and has even interfered in their communications with the commission. And we know that the administrator's control over the board's agenda can keep matters disfavored by him from coming before the board."

This, said Vail, is all the more reason why an independent commission should be able to bring to the supervisors "views other than those that reflect the administrator's personal prejudices."

"We record our distress that the principal executive responsibility of the county is entrusted to one who horizons are so narrowed by prejudice and whose judgments are so encumbered by pique and the desire for personal power."

Folk Mass To Be Service Feature

"The Winds of God," a folk mass, will be presented tomorrow at the 10 a.m. service at St. Luke Presbyterian Church, San Pedro Road, corner of Bayview Drive, San Rafael.

Participating under the direction of James Groves are the chancel choir, Jubal Bell Ringers, and six guitarists from St. Raphael's Catholic Church, directed by Barbara Reardon.

SWITCHBOARD HAS ANSWERS ONCE AGAIN

Switchboard of Marin has reopened after a summer of reorganization.

The telephone information and referral service will be open from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily to provide information on jobs, housing, counselling, recreation and entertainment and emergency services such as temporary housing and legal, medical and psychiatric assistance.

High school students may participate for credit in work experience programs at Switchboard, director Guy Bachelis reported. The volunteers work with a trained staff.

Switchboard is working toward formation of a community center which would also house other groups interested in service, he said.

Bachelis said volunteer help is still needed and interested persons may call or come to the office at 1017 D Street, San Rafael.

Suit Versus Rafferty Censorship Is Killed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An appeals court has thrown out the San Francisco Board of Education textbook censorship suit against state schools chief Max Rafferty, saying Rafferty had agreed not to threaten to revoke credentials of teachers who use two textbooks he considers obscene.

In a three-page opinion yesterday, the 3rd District Court of Appeal ruled that because of Rafferty's official reply to the lawsuit, the subject was moot and "no useful purpose will be served by issuing a restraining writ."

The San Francisco Unified School District had sought a restraining order to keep Rafferty from following through on a threat to revoke the credentials of teachers who used the two books.

Rafferty said he considers both books — Eldridge Cleaver's "Soul On Ice" and two plays by LeRoi Jones, "Dutchman" and "The Slave"—to be patently obscene.

The school district had approved both as supplementary textbooks for use in senior high school classes on "literature by black authors."

The suit stems from a letter by Rafferty on Aug. 15 in which he said both books were "obscene and profane." He also said individual teachers might be placing their credentials in jeopardy by permitting the use of the books in classrooms.

In their ruling, the appellate judges said Rafferty's reply to the charges conceded "that as a general proposition it is doubtful that the state Board of Education has authority to revoke the teaching credential of an employee using a book adopted by the employee's governing board."

The reply also said Rafferty and the Board of Education and the Committee of Credentials "have no intention of threatening, and will not so threaten, the revocation of teaching credentials . . . for use of books. . . ."

Rolling Car Breaks Motorist's Leg

A 68-year-old San Rafael woman fractured her left leg yesterday when her car rolled down a hill, crashed throough a fence and did extensive damage to a house and swimming pool at 852 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, police said.

Ann Wallner of 1012 Mission Street was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital. Police said the reason the car rolled down Denning Way and into John C. Reynold's house is unclear at this point.

Light Pole Collision Injures Teen-Agers

Two 18-year-old San Rafael youths were injured at 1:30 a.m. today when a car struck a light pole on Embarcadero Way, San Rafael, police said.

Driver Lazaro G. Mejia of 210 Mission Street was in fair condition with facial cuts and a broken right arm and Larry Suldickas of the same address was in fair condition with facial cuts.

San Rafael Chamber Sets Water Fete

A marine holiday, featuring a giant boat parade and free boat rides, will be held on the San Rafael Canal Nov. 2, sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

The event, similar to ones held other years, is expected to draw about 200 boats for the parade, Bruce Thompson of the planning committee indicated.

Trophies will be given for outstanding boats in four categories: best holiday theme; most unique design; best overall decoration, and most representative by a yacht club.

Deadline for entries is Oct. 17 at the chamber, 824 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The boat parade will begin at 1 p.m. at the Birdcage marker and judges will be commodores of local yacht clubs.

During the morning, from 9 a.m. to noon, free boat rides will be available at Seaway Marine and Channel Boat Sales, through the San Rafael Canal.

Santa Rosan Is Fined $500 On Firearms Count

A Santa Rosa man has been fined $500 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court after changing an innocent plea to guilty on the charge of exhibiting and firing a gun which stemmed from a motorcycle gang brawl in Petaluma on May 16.

Arthur Eugene Worrell, 27, previously had been charged with attempted murder, but the charge was dropped on July 2 by Judge Alexander J. McMahon when witnesses called by the district attorney's office failed to identify Worrell as the person who shot at them during the fight on Hopper Street.

Worrell, also charged with hit-run driving at the time of the attempted murder charge, heard that charge dismissed when he pleaded guilty to the lesser count.

In addition to the $500 fine, Worrell was given a 90-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year.

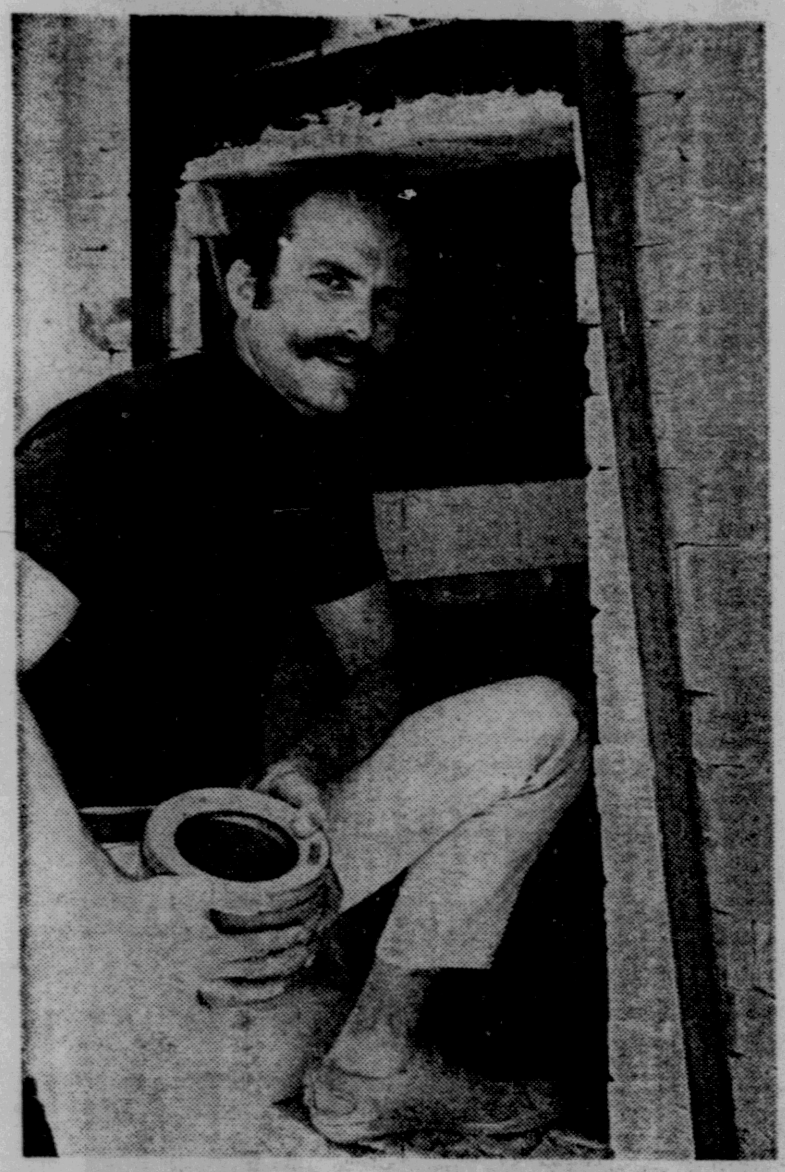
Craft Gives Stinson Beach Potter Both His Livelihood And Pleasure

Dale Roush Creates Ceramics With The Flavor Of Ancient China



POTTER Dale Roush poses with some completed ash trays that he has taken from one of the two kilns he designed and built himself for his Stinson Beach home studio.

No mere leisure-time artist and craftsman is potter Dale Roush of Stinson Beach.

From his clay-bodied, glazed creations he earns his livelihood, and that of his wife, Lone, and their 2-year-old daughter, Michele.

Yet no hobbyist gets more pure pleasure from his craft than does Roush.

"Pottery is just a hell of a lot of fun," he says.

BEHIND ROUSH is an outstanding educational background that includes a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from the University of Illinois in industrial design, another from the same school in crafts, and a Master of Fine Arts Degree in pottery from the New York State School of Ceramics (Alfred).

For some time he was resident potter of the Archie Bray Foundation at Helena, Mont.

Now he and Lone, a fine potter in her own right, operate their own pottery along Shoreline Highway overlooking the Stinson Beach lagoon.

ROUSH IS ONE of those rare ceramists who do all their own work, from beginning to end, and glories in it. Thus he formulates all his own clay bodies and glazes, often working with the local clays.

Too, he has designed and constructed two kilns for his pottery. One is used especially for salt glazing, a process in which he has a special interest. His works are fired at stoneware temperatures.

Roush's pottery tends to have an Eastern feeling, reminding many viewers of ancient Chinese bronze work. Yet it still maintains a strong stoneware appearance.

THE TALENTED and sensitive hands of Stinson Beach potter Dale Roush carefully shape a ceramics piece to one of his original designs, while he throws at the wheel. Roush will be one of many artists and craftsmen who will be displaying their work next Saturday and Sunday at the Mill Valley Art Festival at Old Mill Park.

HIS DESIGNS are always original, and the results both decorative and functional.

Says wife Lone of her husband: "He respects the materials with which he works, and his pottery shows it."

Roush has exhibited at the

Marin Potter Finds Fun In His Work

California Design Ten Show and at the Crocker Art Gallery's Pacific Dimension Show where he won a purchase award. He has shown his pottery in many national shows and collected numerous awards.

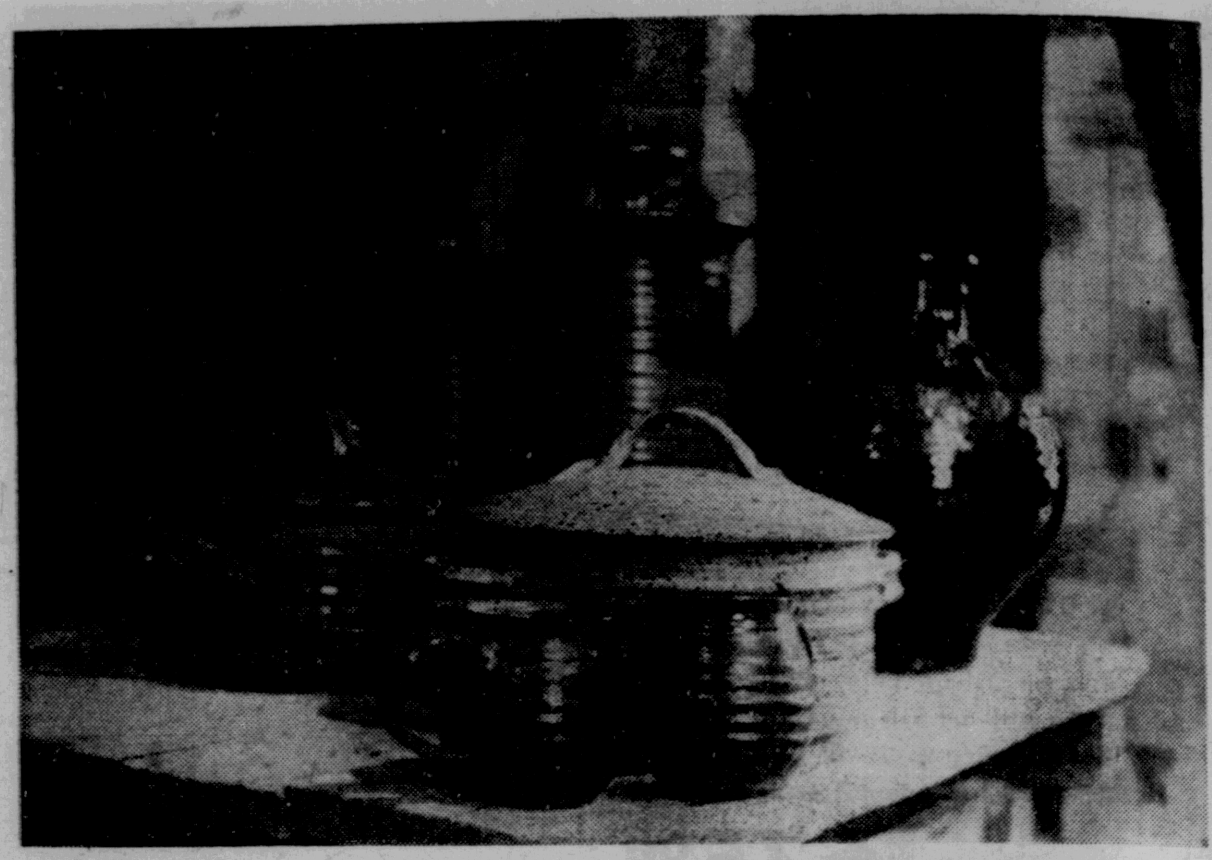
His work has been seen frequently in Marin County and elsewhere in the Bay Area.

MARINITES WILL have another opportunity next weekend to inspect and admire Roush's pottery when he exhibits at the annual Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival to be held 9 a.m. to dusk Saturday and Sunday in Mill Valley's Old Mill Park.

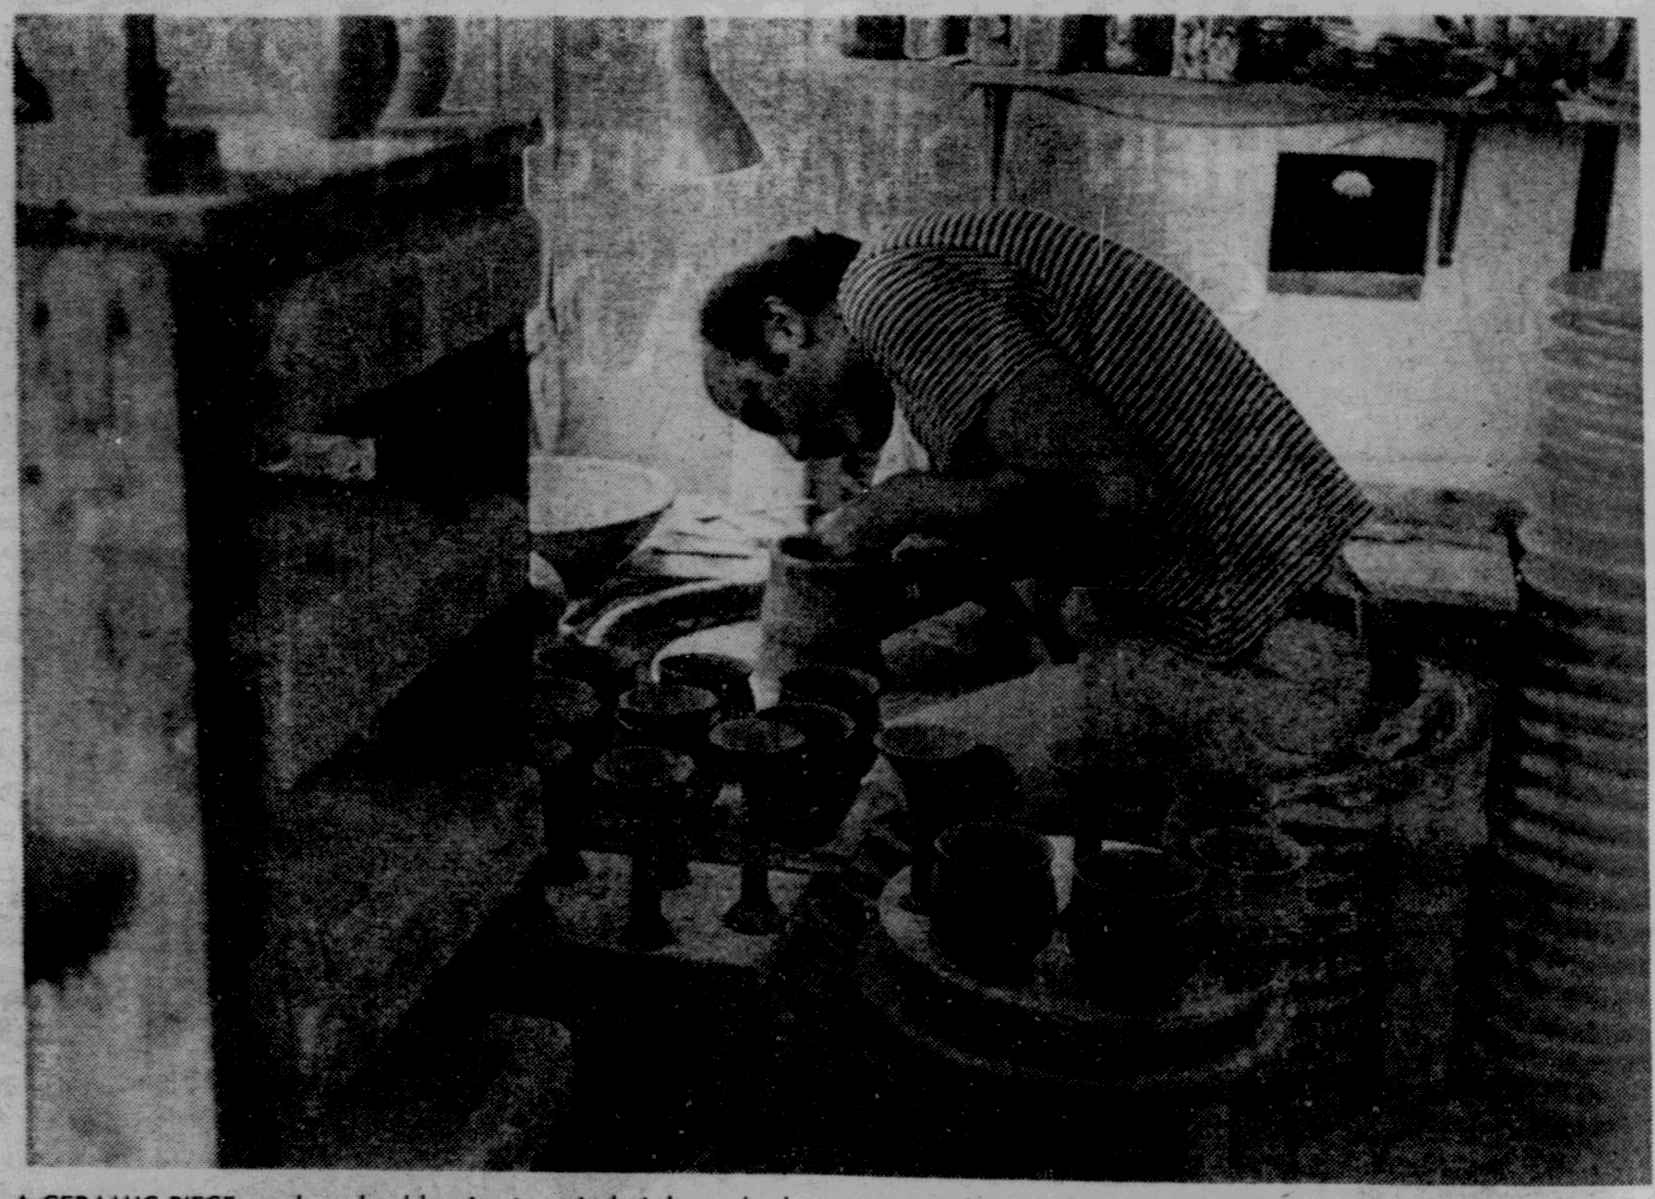
In his booth Roush will be featuring a wide variety of ceramics including hanging planters, wine sets, mugs, bowls, steins, platters, goblets, spice jars and other decorative pieces.

All around him, other dedicated and gifted artists and craftsmen will also be showing their work.

Roush and others like him are proof that an art or craft can be both a very serious endeavor and "a lot of fun."



SOME OF Dale Roush's finished ceramic pieces rest on a table after firing. Note the varied shapes and sizes, and the differing textures and qualities of the glazes. Roush formulates all his own clay bodies and glazes.



A CERAMIC PIECE on the wheel begins to gain height and take shape as potter Dale Roush bends over it and works carefully. His finished products often take on something of the appearance of ancient Chinese bronze work, even while retaining a strong stonework look. Both decorative and functional attributes are stressed.

"Will My Moire Dress Dryclean Acceptably?"

Very likely it will, but—Moire is a design which is applied to the surface of a fabric. It is set by the pressure of hot rollers. Taffeta, plain weave cottons, velvets, fur pile and printed fabrics may receive patterns by the use of chemicals and mechanical methods. However, because the moire lustre and shadows are applied with heat, pressure and moisture, sometimes these same agents may dull or remove the design.

Sometimes moire designs are permanently applied on heat sensitive fibers like acetate and nylon. Also, a resin treatment will make the moire design on some cottons permanent. A fabric treated for water repellency or crease resistance will be more likely to retain its pattern. At any rate, consult your professional drycleaner for his opinion on cleaning any moire design.

The Men Who Trace The Boundary Lines

They've Played Key Role In Development Of County

By DON KEOWN

Surveying is an old practice dating back to the dawn of history when man first began building structures and calling the land around him his own.

Records chronicle the activities of Babylonian and Egyptian surveyors, the latter, recognized as among the nobility, being charged with the tremendous responsibility for retracing the boundaries of landholdings in the fabulously fertile Nile River Delta after the yearly floods.

Yet most Americans today have only some faint ideas as to the work performed and the responsibilities assumed by the land surveyor.

THEY KNOW that George Washington was the most famous of our surveyors as well as the most prominent and beloved American of his time and all-time.

They know that the surveyor works with something called a transit.

As they know that he deals with boundaries, right-of-ways and easement lines, sometimes in a manner involving something called "metes and bounds."

But beyond that, their information is hazy and even incorrect.

IT IS TO fill in the gaps and to correct the misinformation that Marin County surveyors are joining their colleagues across the state in a Land Surveyor Week observance starting today that will be devoted largely to an educational program.

In California, the observance is being conducted by the California Land Surveyors Association, and in this county by that association's Marin chapter.

The state association was formed in 1966 with a number of Northern California surveyors active in its organization.

IN APRIL, 1967, an organizational meeting for a Marin chapter was held, and the unit here became the first to apply to the state association for a charter as an affiliate. The certificate was received in December, 1967.

The state organization boasts a membership of more than 300 land surveyors, while the Marin chapter claims better than 75 per cent of the more than 20 practicing surveyors in this county.

Once a month meetings are held on the second Thursday with every third gathering being a dinner affair. The October meeting will be held next Thursday at Sabella's restaurant.

GENE LOCKTON, the current Marin chapter chairman, says the organization has done much to encourage cooperation in the profession. Previously, surveying was very much a field of individualists, with each surveyor generally going his own way.

The surveyors' tasks in Marin County have, from the outset, been complicated by the fact that most of its land was originally laid out by the Mexicans and Spanish as large ranchos, with boundary lines meandering over hills and through valleys.

A typical description was that given for the church holdings in 1834 when the Mexican government secularized the Mission San Rafael Arcangel:

"... FROM THE Arroya de las Animas down the Canada of the Arroya de las Baulenas to the shore, and on the opposite or southern side of the Arroya de San Antonio de las Tomales, and from Puenta de Quentin to the mouth of San Antonio Creek along the Bay."

Confronted with such terminology and perhaps the worst boundary confusion of any California county, surveyors working in Marin outside those few parcels of land laid out later in a rectangular pattern under the direction of the U.S. Land Office had to rely upon a method called "metes and bounds."

The method, in essence, describes land boundaries in terms of cardinal directions and measured distances that tie in with permanent objects or landmarks and with already existing boundaries.

A RESULT has been parcels in irregular shapes and often never really precisely determined.

Using modern instruments and techniques, today's surveyor still finds himself engaged frequently in retracing those old descriptions and attempting to coordinate those instructions with the conditions he finds existing now.

"This," says Lockton, "is where the land surveyor must exercise the skills of his profession."

"One of the major tenets guiding the surveyor in a determination of a boundary," he continues, "is the rule that he can survey only by adhering as closely as possible to the intent of the original survey.

"IN OTHER words, he cannot make independent decisions or changes. This is the province of the courts."

Marin newspapers have recorded 1850 as the date for the first "official survey" of San Rafael, in which Myers and McCullough laid out blocks in 300-foot squares to accommodate 12 houses plus barns, stables and other outlying buildings. Four years later, G. Black surveyed the land around the mission.

LAND SURVEYORS

They Work With Transit And Chain

Through the years that followed, surveyors played key roles in the development of the county.

NAMES SUCH as those of a Captain Eskoot (Marin's first county surveyor, taking office in 1850), Hiram Austin, George M. Dodge, George L. Richardson and John C. Oglesby (the last elected county surveyor) deserve prominent places in any Marin history.

Today's surveyors work with the aid of new instruments as well as techniques that were not available to their predecessors.

From the early days of the settlement of our country until the end of the 19th Century, the "chain" was the normal measuring device.

IT WAS QUITE literally what the name implies — a metal chain of 100 links, 66 feet in length. Thus 80 "chains" made 5,280 feet or a mile, with one square mile comprising 640 acres or a section of land. This section could then be easily divided into halves, quarters, etc. And a quarter section could be measured as a square with sides 40 "chains" in length.

Direction in the earlier days was determined by compass, which was succeeded by the surveyor's transit, a refinement permitting excellent accuracy in the measurement of angles.

The steel tape replaced the "chain" as another step forward, making the measurement of distances, thanks to its lighter weight, a much less laborious task. In surveyors' terminology, however, the tape is still referred to as "a chain."

IN THE EARLY 1920s, European instrument-makers produced new concepts in angle-measuring instruments, manufacturing transits that were available to the average surveyor at a reasonable price and could measure directly and accurately to a few seconds of arc.

These transits, called theodolites, are used today by most professionals in land surveying.

Along with the development of finer instruments for ground work came rapid improvement in the art of photogrammetry or aerial surveying. Until lately, its principal use was for the production of contour maps showing the configuration of the land. Recent advances, however, allow the surveyor to employ it in surveying and defining points to be used in certain larger boundary surveys.

AND WHILE the steel tape is still the most often used distance measuring tool, the electronic field has produced devices that measure distance through light and radio waves, the most common equipment of this kind are the Geodimeter (using light waves) and the Tellurometer (using micro waves).

The computer, too, is having its impact on the surveying profession, freeing the surveyor from much tedious office computation.

Yet more refined instruments that will measure angles and distances quite literally by the push of a button are in the research and development stage with the electronic industry.

EVEN WITH these, Lockton stresses, "the greater part of the surveyor's work will still be dependent upon his know-how and his ethics."

It will continue to be dependent, too, upon the "monuments" that serve as the fixed points in boundary descriptions.

Both commonlaw and California state statutes give priority to a figure designated on the ground according to these stakes or other monuments placed in the soil at the time of a land division over the surveyor's written description in terms of "metes and bounds."

When a conflict exists, the monuments prevail. Or as an old saying in the profession goes: "The corner is where the surveyor puts it; not where he said he put it."

Thus a surveyor on an assignment usually begins by searching out the point where the original stakes were placed when the land was first divided.

"THE BEST possible survey," says Lockton, "is the survey made with a shovel that uncovers the original corners."

If those original corners cannot be located, the latter-day surveyor must then "retrace" the steps of the original surveyor in accordance with the description made at the time of the division, sometimes abandoning his theodolite for a compass in order to approximate more closely the work of the original surveyor.

At times the "monument" involved is not a stake at all. It may be as abstract as the boundary line of an adjoining property. Or it may be a natural landmark. In Marin County, Red Hill serves as an example of one of the most important such monuments around for survey purposes.

"IN THE FIELD," Carlos Talamantez of Engineering Field Services, San Rafael, sights a transit, while James Thompson, seated on curb, studies maps and notes. The two men are searching out the corners of a property lot, the most common task of the land surveyor today.

AGAIN, OLD and carefully constructed fences bounding small parcels may be considered as "secondary monuments" on the commonsense assumption that a prudent man would not knowingly build such a fence other than along his correct property line. When property parcels were so large as to warrant indifference toward the exact dimensions of his holdings, or where motives might be subject to question, are other matters.

Marin surveyors note with approval the increasing attention being paid by local governments to the perpetuation of landmarks, with planning agencies requiring permanent, easily accessible monuments at frequent intervals in new subdivisions.

Today, Marin County has nearly one million recorded descriptions of land parcels. Many are duplications, but all hold a prime or potential interest for the surveyor when he turns explorer and historian to retrace the history of a boundary line.

WHO EMPLOYS a land surveyor and why?

George Colson of San Rafael, secretary-treasurer of the state association, answers:

"A person generally has the occasion to employ a land surveyor only once in a lifetime — but it is an important occasion. And since such employment is so infrequent, the average person is not always aware of when or how he should go about selecting a surveyor or what to expect of him.

"A survey should be made before purchasing real estate, before dividing any parcel of land for sale, and prior to the construction of any structures on property in which you have an interest.

"THE SERVICES of a surveyor then can be far less costly in time, money and worry than the expense of moving a building or defending a law suit later."

The surveyor should be employed, Colson adds, on the basis of competency, not price. And a competent surveyor should have entered the profession with the advantages of "a

Old Profession Honored By An Observance

sound mathematical education, a good imagination and a strong back."

An average of 10 years of practical experience is required to develop a young aspirant to a professional level as a land surveyor. He can then apply to the state for his land surveyor's license. To qualify, he will have to be verified as to background by four professionals and will have to prove the required experience.

HE NEXT takes an examination given in two parts of eight hours each on two separate days. Upon successful completion of the examination, he is issued his state license to practice land surveying.

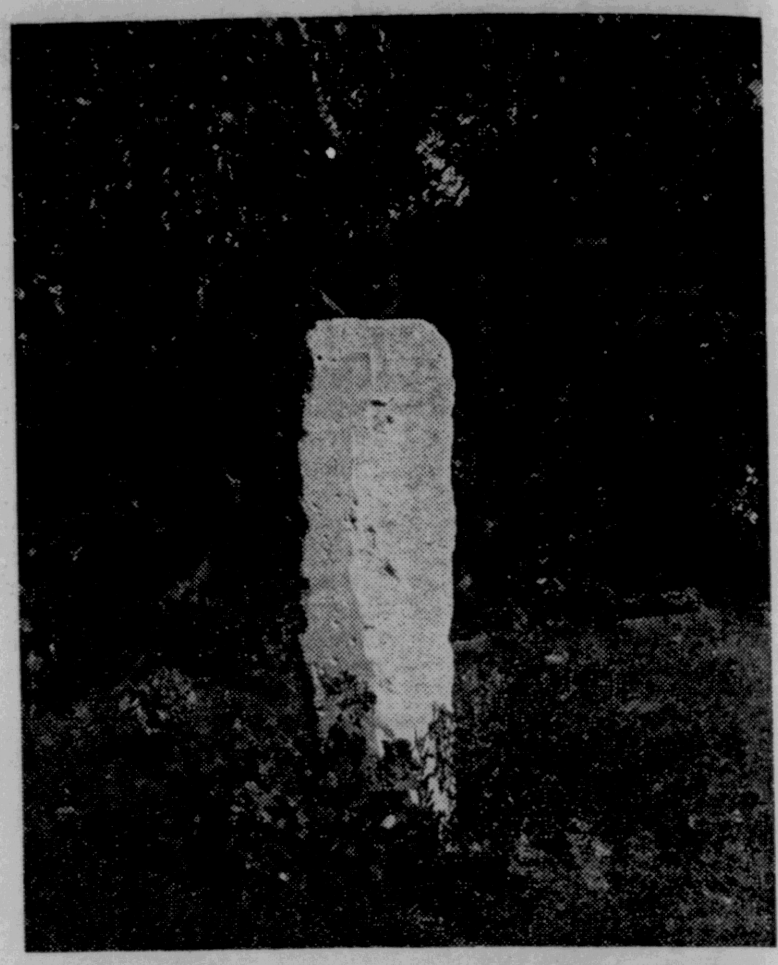
California has been licensing its land surveyors since 1891.

One of the complaints of California land surveyors and a subject of controversy is that state law through an exemption also permits registered civil engineers to practice land surveying without what the surveyors feel to be the necessary specialized training and experience.

THE SURVEYORS' state association is advocating legislation to end this exception to the otherwise tight licensing requirements.

Bill Lockett, secretary-treasurer of the Marin chapter, stresses that it is not the surveyor's purpose to tell the holder what land he owns, but rather to work from the legal description and mark off physically what that description represents.

NINO FARIA, a chain man for land surveyor Gene Lockton, uncovers and "gives the line" on an old granite monument marking the boundary of the Rancho Punta de Quentin as surveyed by "Mathewson, U. S. Deputy Surveyor," in September of 1858.



A VERY RARE old U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey marble monument that once stood on the hill above Santa Margarita Drive in San Rafael, where it was placed around the turn of a century, is now preserved and protected in a nearby garden.

If requested to do so, he will report encroachments on the property. He will mark property corners with stakes or other monuments. And he will furnish a map showing those markings.

THERE ARE, Lockett says, four types of surveys:

The lot survey with a monument set in each corner of the parcel involved; a topographic survey showing features such as buildings, fences, unusual elevations, etc.; an architectural survey, showing the same features as the lot and topographic surveys plus utilities, building setbacks, future streets, zoning, etc.; and the American Land Title Association or extended coverage survey required to supply a title company with the location data necessary for issuing extended coverage title insurance.

The surveyor, Lockett says, cannot ordinarily tell a client in advance what his charges will be, "since the difficulties encountered normally cannot be anticipated, and the cost is based on the time required to make the survey."

HE POINTS out that "the land surveyor renders a highly technical and complex service, working as a member of a professional team that may also include an attorney, the title company, an architect and an engineer.

"Quite literally, he prepares the foundation upon which your project is built.

"In cases of controversy he appears in court as your expert witness if necessary. No one other than he can assume responsibility for the correctness and accuracy of his work."

IN MARIN, the land surveyor may be seen at work at jobs other than boundary surveys, often as the employees of public bodies.

Marin County Public Works Department surveyors, for instance, are involved in road right-of-way and construction surveys. Water and sewer districts employ surveyors, as do the utility companies.

Sometimes their work takes Marin surveyors outside their home county.

George Colson's Engineering Field Services, for instance, has been active in extensive surveying for the huge Bay Area Rapid Transit construction project, putting to use one of Colson's own inventions, a system controlling tunneling machines by the use of laser, in more than three miles of tunnel construction.

FROM METAL chain and compass to laser beam, computer and push-button electronics represents a drastic change for the profession.

What must remain unchanged, Marin's land surveyors are determined, are the ethics and integrity of their profession.

It is to that goal that they have dedicated their association and the Land Surveyors Week they will be celebrating during the next seven days.

For, in the words of the proclamation signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan: "The property rights of the citizens of this state are made meaningful through the skill and dedication of responsible land surveyors who locate, landmark and map property lines . . . ."

WYNN WESTOVER
The musicians must communicate

Breaking Down The Barriers Between Music And Listeners

Marin's Wynn Westover Has His Own Approach To Problem

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Sausalito conductor-teacher Wynn Westover believes that, because many music lovers no longer listen to and really hear music, special effort is required to enable musicians to communicate with their audiences.

He is also convinced that in order to do this barriers must be broken down between the conductor and performers and their audiences. This is the objective of his Westover Chamber Orchestra, which he recently moved from San Francisco to Sausalito.

WESTOVER WILL demonstrate his theories tonight in the first program in a three-concert series he will conduct this season. The program of classic, romantic, impressionistic and modern music, featuring pianist Mario Fenninger and baritone

CONDUCTOR-TEACHER Wynn Westover, left, of Sausalito, leads his Westover Chamber Music Orchestra at a Martin Luther King memorial concert last year at the Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco. A soloist was opera baritone Walter Hinton, right, who will be a soloist tonight for the orchestra's concert at the College of Marin's Fine Arts Theater.

WYNN WESTOVER believes in preparing audiences for the music to be heard in his Wynn Westover Chamber Orchestra concerts. An important preparation technique is to offer introductory comments about the over-all concert program and before each piece.

PEOPLE OF ALL ages enjoy participating in the concerts of the Wynn Westover Chamber Music Orchestra. Here Westover sings one of the important themes from a work about to be performed, then has the audience repeat it with him.

How To Make Good Listeners Out Of A Concert Audience

Wynn Westover Has Developed His Own Special Techniques

Walter Hinton as soloists, will be performed at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater of the College of Marin Fine Arts Building in Kentfield.

Before relaying the Westover explanation of how he overcomes non-listening habits to really communicate music, a brief resume of his musical background will show how he has developed to this point.

Westover holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree with high distinction and honors from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. He attended Columbia University graduate school in New York City for two and a half years and received one associate and two licentiate diplomas in music from Trinity College of Music in London, England. (Stanford considers the licentiate equivalent to its Master's degree.)

HE STUDIED conducting with various conductors before directing a number of chorus and orchestra groups in and around San Francisco since 1966. He has also been a reviewer for San Francisco symphony and opera seasons since 1966 and has performed as a violin soloist.

Since 1965 Westover has taught his own method of sight-reading, rhythm and ear-training that stresses mental hearing of music as it is read, in the adult education program of the College of Marin and, since 1966, for the University of California extension division.

His most recent activities have been as director of the Tillmany Orchestra in San Francisco and as instructor of music theory, orchestration and conducting at the Community Music Center in San Francisco.

LAST YEAR Westover founded his present orchestra, which performed John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King memorial concerts at Nourse Auditorium and the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco.

In the current concert season of this orchestra he plans to demonstrate his beliefs on changing listening habits and his theories for breaking down musician-audience barriers.

"Destructive, non-musical sounds of our modern civilization and the meaningless, constant presence of some kind of music," he says, "have brought about the condition in which people no longer listen.

"SOUNDS OF traffic — rumble of trucks, auto horns, running motors, jet planes — added to the bombardment in the home of electric appliances and the continual noise of radio and TV have blunted our ability to care about what is heard.

"The teen-age rock and roll with its fantastic volume of sound is the young people's way of circumventing the non-listening habit. Unfortunately the high decibels lead to deafness. There must be another way."

One way, in concerts at least, he believes, is to break down barriers between audiences and performers.

"ALTHOUGH THIS is the trend in all the arts," he says, "because the need to communicate is very strong in society today, I came to the idea myself because communicating fully is a deep-seated necessity for me.

"I found that many people may come to concerts with either a preconceived notion of what the music will be, and therefore feel they know all about it, or with no idea at all of what to expect. Either way is bad."

But before anything can be done about either attitude, Westover maintains, the environment must be right. Careful attention to comfort so that people can enjoy the music is important, he insists. Proper ventilation and light are crucial as well as a friendly, informal atmosphere permitting the concert-goers to respond not only as individuals but as a group, feeling free to communicate with each other.

THE NEXT problem, says Westover, is one of focusing attention, since people come in from the street influenced by many sounds and sights and with psychological attitudes determined by immediately preceding experiences.

The same approach is possible, he explains, whether they come with preconceived or no ideas at all about the music, which ranges in style from baroque and classical to contemporary.

In either case, Westover, having arranged for as comfortable and friendly an environment as possible, may begin by giving an introduction to the entire concert, then continuing with comments before each piece.

HE SAYS HE relies most heavily on audience participation to focus attention, singing the important themes of a piece himself and then having the audience sing them with him or perhaps clap the rhythm.

With classical music, to establish a fresh point of view, he promises to emphasize in his comments what is pertinent to modern-day audiences and conditions, possibly disclosing little-known or recently-discovered information about the music.

One advantage of contemporary music, Westover says, is that it can help to break down barriers more easily since people are not so likely to have preconceived notions about it.

WESTOVER SAYS, "Music is a vital necessity in day-to-day

CLAPPING THE RHYTHMS of a work to be performed by his Westover Chamber Music Orchestra is another technique conductor-teacher Wynn Westover uses to increase audience attention to and appreciation of the music. So here he both sings and claps as he prepares an audience for a piece the orchestra will then perform.

and minute-to-minute living so that changing the approach to concert going is extremely important.

"Music affects our lives unconsciously when we are awake or asleep. Behind every activity is some rhythm to which we move and do our chores or play. Every person experiences the energizing effect of marches, the flow of the waltz or bossa nova or the intellectual stimulation of a Bach fugue.

"There are melodic, harmonic and rhythmic vibrations in our natures that we are mostly unaware of except when consciously listening to or playing music.

"OUR FEELINGS and thoughts are strongly affected by the last music we played or sang or heard on radio, television or at a concert. This music may determine our reactions to problems, our thoughts and decisions.

"Who has not had moments when he could not stand to hear a certain piece or kind of music? Many times our own inner rhythms and harmony demand to be heard.

"Frequently we notice how words that are trite and superficial as spoken become, when accompanied by appropriate harmonies, filled with genuine feeling and communication. For example, in movies or on television the music of the sound track legitimizes the scene and dignifies the words.

"I BELIEVE every person has his own vibration rate, rhythms and harmonies. Too often our unconscious music vibrations may sway us from logic and reason or bind us in conformity. Or they may make us more aware of the presence of God in nature and us — yet, on the other hand, may dull our awareness of spiritual values.

"Many of us sense that we are different persons with different people. Upon first meeting we sense the vibration of a new acquaintance and frequently temper our own vibration to fit the new person and situation. We adjust for better communication of ideas and feelings — all too frequently simply to expedite material matters, ignoring our own basic need to vibrate musically as ourselves.

"All artists, whether in music, drama, literature, painting or dance, communicate their intentions and emotions to their audience. A nervous person, overly concerned with acceptance, will strike that same chord in his audience."

THE PRIMARY intention of the Westover Chamber Orchestra, Westover says, is to play music so that it quiets superficial vibrations and allows the audience to experience their own inner responses, free from alien influences.

The program to be heard tonight will be performed again at the San Francisco College for Women and at Chabot College in Hayward.

On Nov. 16 Westover will return to the College of Marin with an ensemble concert featuring late romantic French composers.

ALERT AND HAPPY expressions on the faces of some of the members of an audience at a Wynn Westover Chamber Music Orchestra concert demonstrate the success of conductor Westover's techniques for breaking down barriers between audiences and musicians so that listeners can become totally involved in the music. Such a response is, for Westover, ample reward for his special efforts.

The Travel Pages

ONE OF THE fascinating tours available to visitors to Bangkok is the two (by air) or three-day (by motorcoach) visit to the Angkor Wat ruins at Siem Reap just across the Thailand border in Cambodia. Terraces, monuments, temples and towering statuary date back centuries and awe the western tourist.

Touring Out Of Bangkok

Thai Company Offers Trips To Up-Country

Want to take in the "elephant roundup" that highlights the fall season in Thailand's "up-country" at Surin north of Bangkok?

Or does a two to four-day trek to Chiengmai, the picturesque capital of Northern Thailand, hold more appeal?

Or you may prefer a tour to Angkor Wat, across the border in Cambodia to inspect some of southeastern Asia's most fabulous ruins.

Better yet, if time permits, take in all three of these unforgettable sights while you visit what was once known as the Kingdom of Siam.

MARY PRICE of San Rafael Travel Service, recently returned from two months in the South Pacific, Orient and East Asia, says all three excursions are available through the Cheshire Cat Travel Service in Bangkok.

And Cheshire Cat's president, Mrs. Pussadee Napombejara, was in the Bay Area this summer to acquaint travel advisers of the area with the tour possibilities in her country.

One of the most popular excursions for western tourists, she said, is the full-day "forest-train tour" of traveling by private car or train to witness the roundup of elephants, as well as domesticized elephants at work.

THERE ARE even free rides on a tame jumbo for would-be cowboys, Thailand-style.

Mrs. Napombejara recommends that the trip be made by train for the most rewarding scenery enroute.

The trip to Chiengmai can be made by air with a two or three night stay in an air-conditioned room with bath. A four-day trip by train also includes a first class sleeping berth with the rail ticket.

CHIENGMAI dates back some 700 years and is famed for its silver work and other metal crafts, as well as its cotton products and its beautiful girls.

At 1,000 feet elevation, it offers an escape from hot and humid weather that is especially pleasant in October and November.

After visits to the silver and weaving villages, many travelers take a short excursion on to Mount Suthep and its famous temple.

Thailand State Railways trains are comfortable and offer an express service to Chiengmai.

THREE DAYS, according to Mrs. Napombejara and to Mrs. Price, are the minimum one should spend at Angkor. The Great Wat or Angkor Wat is but a part of the temples and monuments to be seen and admired. The Bayon in the center of Angkor Thom is a series of terraces and galleries with towers covered by colossal stone faces — 200 smiling gods whose sweetness of expression contrasts with their awesome size.

King Javarman VII, a busy builder, was responsible for most of the monuments.

The traveler who views them will be seeing great works that many tourists have never even heard of, let alone seen.

CHESHIRE CAT offers a three-day all-inclusive motorcoach trip. If time is short, there is a two-day air trip.

There are a number of full and half-day tours from Bangkok into the countryside including one to the former capital city of Ayuthaya with its massive and ancient bronze Buddha, its elephant corral and a summer palace. It can be reached by boat, coach, car or train.

Then there is the Kra Peninsula some 25 miles west of Bangkok with the famous shrine, The Golden Cheddi, towering 350 feet into the air.

TO THE northwest a motorcoach takes you to the famous "bridge over the River Kwai," built by Allied prisoners during World War II, connecting Thailand and Burma over the Three Pagodas Pass, and immortalized by the fine movie. There's a full-day boat ride through jungle and mountains.

Cheshire Cat also offers a schedule of city tours in Bangkok, taking in such sights as the national museum, the Imperial Palace, the Emerald Buddha and the Wat Benchama Bopit marble temple.

Sports contests including Thai boxing matches are yet another attraction.

Mrs. Napombejara did not over-estimate the attractions of her colorful country, according to Mrs. Price, during her visit to this area. And more and more westerners are making Thailand their destination or a stopping point when they travel westward.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

World Academy Schools for Foreign Study, Post Office Box 2385, Cincinnati, Ohio, has added two new courses of study that will include Soviet Russia and Israel in its 1970 study-and-travel programs and bring to 18 its number of accredited courses. . . . P & O Lines has published an expanded 1970 edition of its brochure, "The Six Worlds of P & O," that can be obtained by writing the steamship company at 155 Post Street, San Francisco. . . . Through Dec. 15 and again from Jan. 10 through Jan. 31, Switzerland is offering reduced transportation and hotel rates for senior citizens traveling in that country.

Icelandic Airlines is offering a rate of $265 per person for two traveling together for its two-week ski vacation package, with planes departing New York on Fridays and Saturdays for Luxembourg, where there are overnight accommodations and a rental car to carry the traveler on to the Chalet Vagabond in Leysin, Switzerland, for lodging and breakfasts in dormitory-style rooms. . . . American President Lines has scheduled a six-day round trip cruise to Baja California from San Francisco Dec. 27 for its SS President Wilson.

'But Where Is My Baggage?'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every day in scores of airports around the world, thousands of plane passengers and airlines personnel are faced with the problem of "The Mystery of the Missing Bags."

It happens so often that guide books and those pocket-sized language dictionaries should include "Where is my luggage?" in their lists of helpful and common phrases for the traveler.

AIRLINES spokesmen admit baggage handling is one of their biggest headaches.

And it could get worse when the 350-passenger Boeing 747 super jetliner goes into service.

No overall figures are available but the Civil Aeronautics Board reported that two major American airlines alone shelled out two and a half million dollars for lost baggage claims in 1967.

Industry sources estimate about two million bags will be "misdirected" or otherwise "mishandled" this year. They note that will be only a small percentage of the total 225 million pieces the airlines expect to handle, while conceding this is little consolation for the traveler whose bags have vanished somewhere in the wild blue yonder.

THE PRIMARY responsibility for seeing that your bags arrive at the same time you do rests on the airlines. But there are some precautions the traveler should take on his own.

Here are some tips from veteran air travelers and the Air Transport Assn., which includes most of the U.S. air carriers:

Make sure you can easily identify your bags. A common cause for missing luggage is the look-alike bag. Some travelers don't even bother to check baggage tags and will grab the first one that looks familiar. Put some distinctive personal identification, such as tags or stickers, on the outside of the bag. I have a dab of red paint on the corners of my popular brand suitcase; another veteran traveler ties brightly-colored ribbons on the handles of his bags.

PASTE A business, personal card or identification sticker available from most airlines, in the inside of the bag just in case the outside tags and markers are torn or scraped off during handling.

Remove all old destination tags and stickers when getting ready for the next flight, at home and along the way. Baggage handlers may be confused by old routing tags and leave the luggage on the plane when it should be taken off, or unload it at the wrong airport.

If your trip involves changing planes or airlines, make certain your ticket is written up with ample time between connections for checked-through luggage to be transferred. And on long flights, make allowances for weather, mechanical and other delays between connecting planes.

BAGGAGE CARRIED free of charge on international flights is limited to 66 pounds for first class and 44 pounds for tourist and economy. In addition, passengers may bring aboard airlines or similar type bag, coat, camera and other such items which can fit under the seat.

Domestic airlines go by size rather than weight. Each passenger may check two suitcases: one with total measurements of 62 inches — length, breadth and thickness—and another of up to 55 inches total measurement. Carry on regulations are about the same as for international flights.

But travel as light as possible.

GAINING POPULARITY on overnight and weekend trips are the small suitcases which slide under the seat. Garment bags also can be carried aboard most planes and stowed in the overhead compartment or in the coat rack.

But extra insurance should be taken out to cover possible loss if you carry valuables in your luggage.

If you can't find your luggage when you arrive at your destination, contact the airline representative. He will start the back-checking.

IN THE SUBMARINE gardens off Bermuda, two skindivers pause to take in the underwater beauty of coral formations, semi-tropical fish and multi-colored vegetation.

The Wonder World Under Water

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

While man looks forward to exploring the mysteries of outer space, millions of American and other adventurers already are discovering a strange new world here on earth.

It is the world under the oceans and seas.

Thanks to the mask, snorkel and fin, skindiving has become one of the most popular aquatic pastimes for young and old around the world. Estimates of the number of skindivers in the United States alone run to more than 10 million.

IN PAST YEARS, most tourists had to be content with viewing coral reefs and sea gardens from aboard a glass-bottomed boat. Diving equipment was expensive and only for the experienced.

Now, virtually anybody in good health who can swim can go down for a closer look at the colorful formations, strange vegetation and unusual creatures of the sea. And the cost of mask, snorkel and flippers is well within the average vacation budget.

Today, too, jet planes have brought the best diving sites in the Caribbean, Mediterranean and Red Seas—and even in far-off Australia — only hours flying time from the United States.

I GOT MY baptism as a snorkler in the Caribbean off Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands. I got hooked after reading a little folder called "Flora, Fauna and the Sea" which I found in my room at the Little Dix Bay resort, containing information on the reefs, fish and plant life in the area.

Snorkeling is, in fact, the number one guest activity at the secluded resort on the island which lies across Sir Francis Drake Channel from the U.S. Virgin Islands.

I made my first dive at The Baths, a jumble of huge granite boulders in the sea which form quiet pools where schools of tropical fish dart in, around and through underwater grottoes.

"IT'S REALLY amazing," said General Manager David Brewer of the boom in snorkeling. "Guests sit around reading books on fish instead of dancing at night. They get to the point that if they don't see a barracuda, they feel hurt."

Little Dix Bay offers regularly scheduled guided tours to offshore reefs. Equipment may be rented and instructors are available.

The guide and his party usually swim along the surface, looking down at the reef through their glass-faced masks and breathing through their snorkels. When visibility is poor, snorkelers must hold their breath when diving under water for a closeup view.

THE LEADER "ups divers" by a prearranged signal and then provides information on the reef and fish. The pace is slow to permit swimmers a full inspection of the underwater world.

What goes on underwater?

It's a silent but colorful world, with surprising visibility — as much as 200 feet and sometimes more. Thousands of reef fish, splashed with brilliant colors, sweep back and forth in close formation as if on cue. They range from tiny guppies to ugly groupers which can weigh up to 200 pounds. Other game fish common to Caribbean waters include mackerel, kingfish, snappers, amberjacks, jewfish, hogfish and dolphins.

IN DEEPER waters or the more isolated reefs — which novice skindivers should avoid — there may be sharks and barracuda, huge turtles and giant moray eels. Even experienced skin and scuba divers give them a wide berth.

There are numerous excellent shallow and deep water diving sites off the American and British Virgin Islands. Guides, equipment and boats are available on the main islands.

For the more experienced divers, there are the reefs near Anegada Island — about 10 miles north of Virgin Gorda but still relatively unexplored because of the difficulty of getting there.

JUST ACROSS Pillsbury Sound from St. Thomas is St. John, site of the U.S. Virgin Island National Park which includes Trunk Bay with a beautiful reef in shallow water for the less-experienced skin diver. Park rangers guide snorkelers along the reef where the various types of fish and coral are identified and described by underwater markers.

Skindiving could add a new dimension for the traveler seeking the unusual — after all, more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface is covered by water.

How The Wolfpack Lost Sea

THE GERMAN NAVY IN WORLD WAR II by Edward P. Von der Porten; Crowell, 274 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

Wolfpacks of German submarines came very close to sinking England in World War II's early days.

Between June and November, 1940, more than 200 merchant ships were sunk in the North Atlantic Ocean. A million tons of foodstuffs, fuel, raw materials, arms and other goods never reached the desperate isles.

Edward Von der Porten looks at this epic struggle for survival with a dispassionate eye. He describes the strategy and tactics of Grand Adm. Karl Donitz and his U-boat commanders.

Outweighed by British men-of-war, Donitz used his own surface ships cautiously, while going all-out in submarine warfare.

Concentrating his attacks in shipping lanes west of the British Isles, Donitz developed deadly techniques such as the wolfpacks.

The German goal was to torpedo more ships than England and her allies could construct. They almost succeeded. Hundreds of ships went to the bottom, carrying thousands of sailors to sea-bottom graves.

Early in the war, U-boat commanders surfaced and picked up survivors. This maneuver made tham sitting ducks for British destroyers and the practice was abandoned. Some passenger ships were torpedoed, but the evidence indicates that German U-boat captains usually thought they were attacking troop transports—fair game.

British radar and American mass production eventually defeated the U-boats. British techniques for locating and depth-charging subs became so efficient that in "Black May" of 1943 41 U-boats—one-third of Donitz' subs at sea—failed to return. Donitz withdrew his underwater fleet from the North Atlantic.

ADM. KARL DONITZ
Deadly techniques

Adolf Hitler apparently never grasped the function of naval and submarine operations. If more subs had been built, the British might have been forced to capitulate by 1941—another of history's ifs.

The name Von der Porten sounds like a German naval historian whose work is made known through translation. The author is actually a native son living no farther away than Santa Rosa, where he is an instructor at the junior college.

He has put together a crisp, well-organized history, in fact done well enough to bear an imprimatur from Admiral Donitz himself — still alive in West Germany.

Many books have been devoted to such episodes as the sinking of the Bismarck, the scuttling of the Graf Spee and action in the North Atlantic . . . episodes which Von der Porten covers. While his treatment of such incidents is briefer and less dramatic, an overall perspective is given which enables the reader to grasp the successes and failures of the Hitler-dominated German naval strategy.

A Critical Look At Controversial Soldier

MACARTHUR AS MILITARY COMMANDER by Gavin Long; Batsford/Van Nostrand, 243 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

When he died in April, 1964, at 84, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was still an enigmatic, controversial figure. And the victim of the biggest sacking in American military history.

This biography by Australian military historian Gavin Long is not likely to clarify matters or to set well with the general's admirers.

Long pictures him as egocentric, supersensitive, melodramatic, imperious; an erratic military strategist, and perennially suspicious of civilian leaders in Washington.

He was brilliant, Long points out, born to command, handsome, lucky, courageous and idealistic — and something of an anachronism all his life.

Some of the men who worked with and under MacArthur were intense in their loyalty and admiration — most were otherwise.

"I studied dramatics under MacArthur for five years in Washington and four years in the Philippines," was the way Gen. Dwight Eisenhower described his staff service.

Long was a newspaperman covering MacArthur and the Southwest Pacific area operations against the Japanese in World War II. He observed a MacArthur who stayed in his Brisbane command post for a year before visiting island battlefronts while second-guessing tactics. He heard the general make victory claims that squared not with combat results. MacArthur managed news so as to glorify victories and minimize all else. Australian victories were given short shrift and Australian combat superiority to both Americans and Japanese in jungle warfare was ignored, the author states. He claims the general regarded news as a political and military weapon and a means for self-glorification.

Long does not rate MacArthur as a brilliant strategist either in the Southwest Pacific, in World War I, or in Korea later. The general was cautious, too cautious, in pushing the Japanese out of the islands threatening Australia. Others conceived the island-skipping attacks that isolated thousands of enemy troops — jumping from Guadalcanal to Bougainville in the Solomon Islands, and eventually beyond Rabaul to Morotai and the Spice Islands, then to Leyte, Samar and finally the recapture of Luzon and Manila.

When the A-bomb ended the war, MacArthur handled the surrender and reached the apex of his career with military rule of Japan from 1945 to 1950. He got along well with Asian leaders and offered enlightened democratic ideals for reshaping Japanese institutions. This was done with shrewdness and a quality of statesmanship. He overcame problems that could have disrupted the relatively smooth resolution of Japanese-American animosities.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR
As World War II general

When North Korea invaded South Korea, MacArthur assumed command of a United Nations army, mostly Americans. His daring landing at Inchon was a brilliant success and led to defeat of the North Korean army. But MacArthur, and most others, misread China's intentions. A surprise Chinese invasion almost defeated the allies.

Eventually a stalemate was achieved, but MacArthur wanted the support and approval to attack China. He bolstered his purview with a public statement that found support in Congress. Harry S. Truman was outraged, as he had been many times before, and sacked the general for advocating his own brand of foreign policy.

MacArthur returned to his homeland a hero, gave his "old soldiers never die" speech and faded from global prominence. Eighteen years later, the man and his views on fighting Communism in Asia, are still relevant, still controversial.

Long's biography is a reasonable man's look at a man who was often unreasonable. But the author misses the length and breadth of his subject — a man for the ages, right or wrong. MacArthur awaits an Andre Maurois to tell his story.

Warm Glow Of Wisdom From New Chaim Potok Novel

THE PROMISE by Chaim Potok; Knopf, 359 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Suzanne D. Stamler.

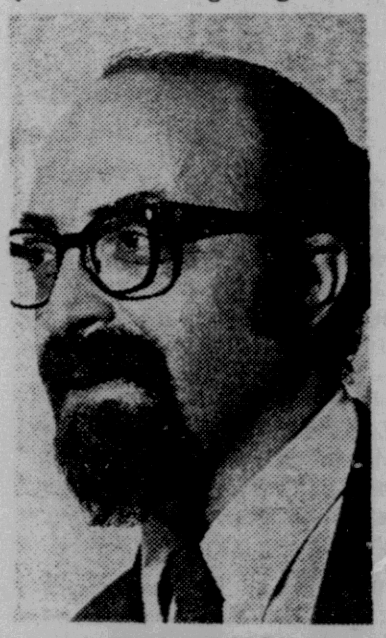
Growing up in a ghetto in Brooklyn amidst dark, brooding Jewish orthodoxy and Hasidic fanaticism, the young are faced with the ordeal of remaining loyal to their ancient heritage without breaking their sacred promise to be true to themselves and their scholarship.

The two boys whose childhood friendship began in Chaim Potok's earlier book, "The Chosen," deepens as they approach manhood in "The Promise"—a manhood fraught with frenzied religious and political cross-currents of McCarthyism and extremism generated by the wary who survived World War II with a death camp religious ferocity or a political paranoia.

Reuven Malter is the gentle son of an enlightened rabbi. His scrupulous scholarship and simple honesty challenge the hypocrisy and danger of blind religious devotion and the authenticity of unscholarly passages in the Talmud, the ancient book of Jewish law. Striving to emulate the breadth of his father's vision and liberate himself from a narrow adherence to Jewish life and law, Reuven, in preparing for the rabbinate, undergoes the test of coming to terms with his rebellion against dogma. Bitterly assailed and ridiculed by his unbending orthodox teacher, Rav Kalman, who fights him with the same ruthlessness with which he fought to survive in Nazi death camps, Reuven quietly and respectfully maintains a scholarly and tenable position. Gradually he gains the respect of his adversaries and succeeds in achieving a coveted position in the graduate school of rabbinical studies.

Deeply dedicated, Danny Saunders is driven to attain perfection in a secular profession after refusing to fulfill his destiny as a spiritual leader of the Hasids, his religious sect.

With a holiness akin to Alyosha Karamazov and an alertness of an Albert Einstein, Danny's brilliant beginnings as a clinical psychologist are seriously jeopardized when he chooses to follow an unorthodox form of treatment to cure young Michael Jordan, the precocious son of a much maligned free-thinking father and professor of Jewish philosophy.



CHAIM POTOK
Two from a ghetto

Tension builds as Danny summons Reuven to enter with him into the twilight world of Michael's catatonic silence.

Finally in a dramatic explosion of energy, Michael returns to reality, writhing with hatred for his parents.

"How can you love a religion that makes people hate other human beings? I hated it — God, God, God I hated it. I wanted to crush it — I wanted to burn it. And my father is trying to teach it. He loves it, Reuven — I hate anything that does that to human beings. It wasn't only his name 'they' attacked . . . it was my name too!"

In the end, Danny's daring and Reuven's courage result in dazzling breakthroughs for both.

Chaim Potok writes with an urgency that evokes empathy and nourishes the soul.

"The Promise" is a book of complex plots and double climaxes. It is here that the author, in trying to amplify his theme, falls short of real excellence.

In attempting to heighten the impact of his message, he tends to exaggerate events and out comes implausibility. He would have us believe in the severity of Michael's illness without offering convincing background information outside the pale of societal pressure.

The love affair between Danny and Rachael lacks credibility and obviously is drawn to restate the difference between 20th Century Judaism and parochial Hasidism.

All in all, however, the book has the warm glow of wisdom that reaches beyond the mind and pierces the heart.

Jessica Mitford Covers A Trial

By DON KEOWN

THE TRIAL OF DR. SPOCK by Jessica Mitford; Knopf, 272 pages, $5.95.

SAN FRANCISCO by editors of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine; Lane, 288 pages, $9.95 until Dec. 31, 1969, and $11.75 thereafter.

During the trial of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four other critics of our Vietnam policies in Boston's federal court on charges of conspiring to aid, abet and counsel violations of the selective service laws, Jessica Mitford sat with the press.

There was, however, not the slightest chance that this intellectually brilliant, sharp-tongued and opinionated woman would render anything like the objective and impartial account to which the newspaper reporter traditionally aspires.

She was a fully committed advocate, as bitterly opposed to the draft laws and the war in Vietnam as any of the defendants.

Her book, "The Trial of Dr. Spock," is, therefore, a highly subjective document, sympathetic to the defendants, scornful of the prosecution, the court and the "establishment" for which they acted.

Yet, despite this deep personal involvement in the cause, it should be added that this book does not find Jessica Mitford at her best. She is not quite the bitingly witty author, for instance, who took on the undertakers so devastatingly in "The American Way of Death." There are times when we come upon the rapier-like thrusts of the old Jessica Mitford. But more often, she seems to have allowed her personal feelings to get in the way of her writing and to blunt its usual cold, sharp edge.

Nevertheless, the book serves well as a resume of the case, providing one reads it for the decidedly partisan report that it is.

Dr. Benjamin Spock, Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Michael Ferber, Mitchell Goodman and Marcus Raskin, she tells us, deliberately courted arrest because they desired to test the legality of the war in Vietnam and the draft laws, and to establish the extent to which the private citizen's freedom of expression is protected by the Bill of Rights.

But, she charges, the government dodged such a confrontation by charging the five men, not directly with violations of the draft laws, but with a conspiracy. And the conspiracy theory, she continues, is so confused, so vague, so shadowy and so complex that not even the experts can agree upon its definition.

Thus, she concludes, the country was denied a clearcut ruling on the issues at a time when such a decision was vital to the nation. And the risks and sacrifices of the five men largely were wasted.

She seems genuinely surprised, as well as angered, that the government did not play by the rules proposed by Dr. Spock and his co-defendants. But there was never any evidence that the two sides were even engaged in the same "game."

She views the growing use of conspiracy charges, particularly in politically oriented cases, with a grave concern that seems well merited. An ultimate appellate court decision in favor of the defendants did nothing, she adds, to nullify or really control this dangerous weapon, but instead charted a safer course for its employment by later prosecutors against other dissidents.

Miss Mitford's coverage of the trial itself is most noteworthy for its spotlighting of the bias of the presiding judge, 85-year-old Francis J. W. Ford, as prejudiced against the defendants as Miss Mitford was in their favor. And a prejudiced judge is a far more serious matter than a prejudiced writer. Miss Mitford is not the only observer to note the judge's injudicious imbalance, and she documents it convincingly.

Her account, too, points up the disunity among the defendants and their lawyers, a strange situation among alleged conspirators. In so doing, she brings again to our attention an old problem among liberals and radicals who rarely can subordinate their personalities to group action on behalf of the ideas and causes to which they are committed. They are often prima donnas and disdain the chorus.

Only Dr. Spock and his attorney, Leonard Boudin, really appear to have acted consistently with selfless wisdom and courage, although the other defendants were high-minded and also have their moments.

Those jurors who did agree to discuss the case with Miss Mitford after the verdicts displayed a dismal lack of understanding of the issues and the evidence. For instance, there seemed not the slightest reason other than whim for acquitting Raskin while convicting the other four. And they plainly took their cue from Judge Ford.

It is an interesting book on an important legal case that might have been far more significant, had the issues been truly joined. And Jessica Mitford, even in a below par performance, is anything but dull or lacking in persuasion.

Sleuths & Suspense

GATE OF IVORY, GATE OF HORN by Philip Craig; Doubleday, 191 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

Author Philip Craig, an English professor, has concocted a story that is suspenseful, at times thrilling, at times zany, and nearly always very funny.

Thrown together are a professor of English who wants to find Beowulf's tomb, his niece, his niece's boy friend — Luther Martingale — and a Swede named Beorn Wiglafson.

It's Martingale and the Swede — drinking, playing poker, sailing the Atlantic in a small boat, reading selections from Beowulf — who provide a fast pace, color and a good knock-down-drag-out fight. The professor and his niece, however, are nutty, too, and along with the other two barely survive shipwreck in the Baltic Sea.

But Beowulf's tomb? Even if there was a Beowulf? Pointless questions.

There was never a "Gate of Ivory, Gate of Horn" except in fiction — this and other fiction — but author Craig makes it seem real in an unusual way. Don't look for the conventional murder mystery — not here.

THE EDITORS of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine have contributed another hefty and impressive addition to the growing library that covers San Francisco pictorially.

Entitled simply "San Francisco," this newest volume has a number of things to recommend it to admirers of the fascinating city beside the Golden Gate.

To begin with, it combines history with the present. You get a resume of the city's past before sampling its contemporary sights and moods. The more than 400 illustrations include both scenes from San Francisco's youth and from its maturity.

The Sunset staff has striven for photographs that depict this much photographed city differently, and to a considerable degree has succeeded, although the book is not without its pictorial cliches. An evaluation of the originality of photographs is, of course, an individual thing, and some will find this collection fresher and more satisfying than others.

The major disappointment of the book lies in its use of color, a field in which Sunset can excel. Too many of the 32 pages of full-color plates in this book have taken on a gaudy, unnatural appearance in their reproduction, pretty perhaps, but unreal. The black and white photos fare much better.

Such Marin photographers as Michael Bry, Madison Devlin, Phil Palmer, Hal Roth, Anna-Jean Cole and Pirkle Jones are represented, as are the likes of Ansel Adams, Richard Brooks and Phiz Mozesson.

A major asset of the book is the appendix on rough paper that contains a chronology of highlights from San Francisco history, an explanation of street and place names, a description of Bay Area historical landmarks, and a bibliography of selected readings on San Francisco compiled by Richard Dillon.

Sunset is uniquely fitted to produce a book on San Francisco because of its long association with the city and its considerable resources in this area. It has done a commendable, if not brilliant, job, and "San Francisco" will undoubtedly find its way into many, many Bay Area homes as a cherished possession to be made available to visitors to introduce them to the sights, the flavor and the moods of one of America's most fascinating metropolitan regions. And many of these, no doubt, will want to take a copy home with them.

"MARRIED Today, Single Tomorrow" (Doubleday, $6.95) is an attempt by a husband and wife, Sacramento attorney Kenneth Donelson and legal researcher Irene Donelson, to provide counsel that will ease the distress and problems resulting from a marital breakup.

The Donelsons emphasize the legal aspects of divorce, but do not confine themselves wholly to that facet. They also offer guidance on the emotional, financial, sexual and social problems and questions that arise. The advice is applicable principally to women, but men as well can benefit from the contents.

The book represents, its co-authors says, the "distillation" of experience from thousands of divorce cases that they have studied. Their final word: Divorce need not mean the end of living, but instead can mark a beginning, if approached and carried out with commonsense.

Some New Books For Juniors

Guide dogs for the blind receiving their training on the streets of San Rafael and elsewhere in Marin are a common and heartwarming sight.

Then "Banner Forward!" (Dutton, $6.95), by the Los Angeles professional photographer and animal breeder Eva Rappaport, should hold a special appeal for Marin youngsters.

With her typewriter and her camera, Mrs. Rappaport tells the story of one dog, Banner, a golden retriever, from birth, through puppyhood to maturity and status as a fully trained guide dog serving a blind mistress.

The schooling takes place at and around the Guide Dogs for the Blind center just outside of San Rafael, so that the pictures have the added attraction of familiar settings. And Mrs. Rappaport has re-created with careful authenticity exactly what goes into the preparation of a guide dog and its companion.

The result is an unusually meaningful and interesting book.

Some other new books for the juniors:

"Sing, Little Mouse" (Crowell, $3.95) is an unusually rewarding nature book by Aileen Fisher about one boy's search for a mouse that could sing like a bird. The verse by which Miss Fisher tells the story has a musical quality in itself that is irresistible. And her nature and animal lore is authentic and fascinating. To this add some splendid illustrations by Symeon Shimin, and you have an extraordinary book.

"The Train" (Grosset and Dunlap, $1) by Jean Fritz, with illustrations by Jean Simpson, is part of a Ready-to-Read Series worked out with educators for children just mastering the printed word. In this one, the readers share little Pedro's excitement and activities during a train trip, made all the more entertaining by some excellent artwork. Some other new titles in what promises to be a popular series with small ones and parents: "The Dog and the Wolf" by Annie Decaprio and Victor Lazzaro, "The Dinosaur and the Dodo" by Miss Decaprio and Allen Shapiro, and "The Hippopotamus" by Bobbi Herne and Jeanne Hunt Miller. The last is especially well-done.

Will television ever completely replace the parent-told bedtime story in the affections of children? Let us hope not. Let there always be a place in the home for such books as "A Treasury of Bedtime Stories" (Grosset and Dunlap, $3.95), a collection of favorites that have been proven certain tot-pleasers through the decades. Such stories as "The Gingerbread Boy," "Rumpelstiltskin" and "The Emperor's New Clothes" have retained their charm through generations. The 37 stories included in this book should be good for many hours of pleasure.

For 3 to 8-year-olds, "Nobody Scares a Porcupine" (Westminster, $3.75) by Jean Horton Berg tells why nothing frightens Little Porcupine, except, that is, for one small thing. And from it all the other animals learn a lesson about courage. Robert L. Jefferson's sketches are simple and pleasing to the eyes of small ones.

"Words to Know" (Doubleday, $5.95) by Harry Bricker and Yvonne Beckwith, New Standard Encyclopedia editors, is one of the best "learning" books for small children to come along in some time. Described as "a new picture dictionary in simple story form," it introduces the child to a number of useful words beginning with each letter of the alphabet and uses them in sentences that contribute to a little story. Each such sentence carries its own illustration by Dan Siculan. And each featured letter has its own color key. "Words to Know" will serve beautifully as a picture book for the pre-schooler and even better as an engaging learning tool for the child just beginning to read.

Eight of France's 12 Nobel Prize for Literature winners are represented in "Voices From France" (Doubleday, $3.95), selected by Miriam Morton. What results is an anthology of 10 short stories by the likes of Albert Camus, Anatole France, Romain Rolland, Jean-Paul Sartre, Francois Mauriac, Andre Gide, Frederic Mistral and Roger Martin du Gard. Miss Morton has chosen stories of enduring or contemporary interest with strong appeal for young people, and, with one exception, has done the translations herself. It is literature at its finest.

Janosch is one of those rare author-illustrators still producing entertaining children's books in the tradition of the past. The latest is "Bollerbam" (Walck, $4.75) and it begins, appropriately, "Once upon a time. . . ." It goes on to tell with pleasing text and splashy, colorful pictures the story of a cross-eyed cannoneer in a mythological kingdom and winds up with a little lesson on peace. Refna Wilkin did the translation. An amusing book imaginatively done, but somewhat overpriced.

In "The Origins of Man" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50) writer John Napier and artist Maurice Wilson explain evolution to young readers. Napier is the famed head of the primate biology unit at Queen Elizabeth College, London, and director of the Smithsonian Institution's primate biology program as well. The book is a strictly scientific explanation of man's development, avoiding oversimplification and writing down to the young reader. Not all children will be interested, but some will find the subject fascinating.

A Coloring Book With A Lesson In Tolerance

Morrie Turner, the self-taught black cartoonist whose "Wee Pals" is a popular comic strip with Independent-Journal readers, has done a different kind of coloring book for San Francisco's Troubador Press.

Entitled "Black and White Coloring Book," it uses the integrated child characters that Turner does so well to offer some simple and interesting lessons about minority contributions to our culture and country, and about the value of tolerance.

Famous black figures from our history are portrayed full-page, and facing them the Wee Pals characters discuss their accomplishments. There is coloring to be done on both pages.

Mal Whyte, the Marinite who heads Troubador Press, calls the book "the only one of its type of its quality" and reports that it is receiving an enthusiastic reception, especially from schools and from such groups as the National Council of Christians and Jews which bought a gross of the books for its regional offices.

On The Stereo Scene

By WILLIAM LAFFLER

Two kings of the keyboard play some beautiful music on their newest records.

And both—Roger Williams and Peter Nero—lean heavily on the movies for source material.

On "Love Theme from 'Romeo and Juliet' and Other Great Movie Themes" (Kapp KS-3610), Williams builds up his own brand of excitement in rippling through 11 compositions written for films.

Some of the numbers, such as "I Will Wait For You" from "The Umbrellas" and "More" from "Mondo Cane," are almost ancient, but Roger's vibrant fingers breathe new life into them.

In addition to the "Romeo and Juliet" title number, there are a couple of contemporary themes—"And I Love Her" from "A Hard Day's Night" and "Georgy Girl."

Williams, as usual, takes charge, but he has a fine orchestral backdrop.

On "Love Trip" (RCA Victor ISP-4205), Nero plays "Theme from 'The Quiller Memorandum'," better known as "Wednesday's Child," and other film numbers, among them "You Are There" from "The Naked Runner" and "The Right to Love" from "Two on a Guillotine."

And he adds some non-movie selections, such as "Blue Fantasy" and "If You've Got a Heart."

Phil Moore Jr., a highly regarded jazz pianist, switches to wind instruments and gets odd but pleasant effects on "Right On" (Atco SD 1530). Moore plays an Electra Melodica, an Echoplex, the Hohner clavinet and also a Fender-Rhodeselectric piano.

Four of the numbers, including "Nappy Head Child" and "Right On," are Phil's own compositions. He is supported by a good percussion band.

Tape deck reel-to-reel: "Enoch Light and the Brass Menagerie" (Project 3 X 5036), an Ampex tape release, puts an all-time great orchestra leader before a responsive group of musicians in a selection that includes "Blowin' in the Wind," Lennon and McCartney's "Fool on the Hill," "Wichita Lineman," "I've Gotta Be Me" and others.

Cassette of the Week—"Stage and Screen Spectacular" by Ronnie Aldrich, Stanley Black and Frank Chacksfield (London X 84130).

A NURSERY RHYME FABLE

"Mary, Mary, visionary,
How does your garden grow?"
"With weeds, dead seeds, and cockleburrs
And dream flowers all in a row."

"Arthur, Arthur, idleness-scoffer,
How does your garden grow?"
"Filled and tilled and pulverized
And real flowers all in a row."

"Mary, Mary, visionary,
How long does your garden last?"
"Through summer drought and autumn storm
And winter's wildest blast."

"Arthur, Arthur, idleness-scoffer,
How long does your garden last?"
"From early spring through blossoming
If I work in it all the year past."

"Mary, can you smell those dream flowers?"
"No, but if you dream them up good enough,
Does it matter?"

"Arthur, what is the scent of your real flowers?"
"It is the sweet experience
On which my Mary builds her dreams."

Safety Is First Rule In Power Tool Use

Today's do-it-yourselfer usually has a home workshop that's a powerhouse of equipment.

The never-ending list of new electrical power tools on the market has made every man a handyman. But, although they're great time and labor savers, these tools must be handled with care.

Like any electrical equipment, safety first is the key to their proper use. And this means that every operator should know all the safety rules.

The speed at which a power tool operates is the first safety point to bear in mind. An electrical power saw, for instance, can cause serious injury in less time than it takes to make one motion with a hand-operated saw.

THE OWNER'S manual is the best source for each particular tool's applications and limitations. A power tool is a very serious responsibility, and the manual should be read and understood thoroughly before a tool is even taken out of its box.

Ground every electrical tool unless double-insulated. Ungrounded tools can cause burns and shock capable of killing. Even a slight shock can lead to loss of control of the tool, which could result in injury.

Moisture, such as perspiration or standing on a wet surface, can lower your resistance to voltage and then even a low-voltage current would be able to pass through your body.

SO, IF A TOOL is equipped with a three-wire grounding system, it should be plugged into a three-prong receptacle. If an adapter is used to fit a two-prong receptacle, the adapter wire must be attached to a grounded circuit. Under no circumstances should the third prong ever be removed.

Inspect your power tools often. Grinding wheels do crack; electric cords do wear and fray; saw blades do loosen. A poorly maintained tool wears out faster and is more hazardous.

But, if you are going to repair a power tool, first disconnect the source of power. Plan your work, make sure you know what you are doing and take whatever precautions are needed for safety.

TRADITIONALLY home workshops have been catch-alls for everything from old newspapers to stray pieces of lumber. Cluttered areas or benches and power tools just don't mix. Make sure there's plenty of clear work space with good lighting.

Keep the area clear of children and pets. Visitors and wandering guests could get everybody into a lot of trouble — no one should be in your work area but you.

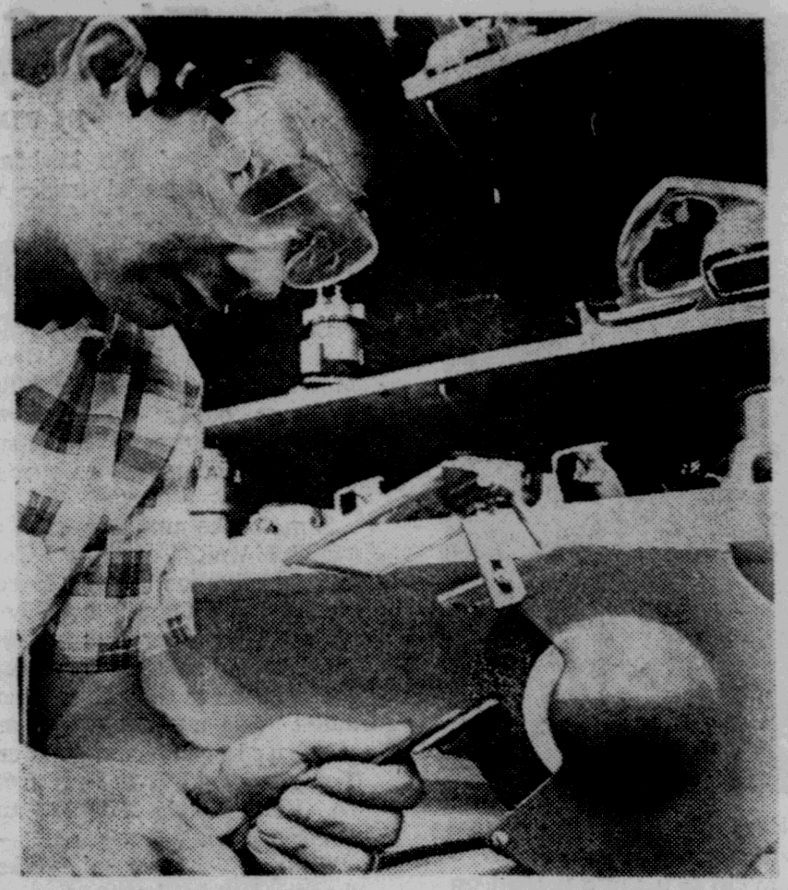
Other important safety precautions offered by the Power Tool Institute:

Don't force a tool—It will do the job better at the rate for which it was designed. And a small tool or attachment was not designed to do the job cut out for a heavy-duty tool.

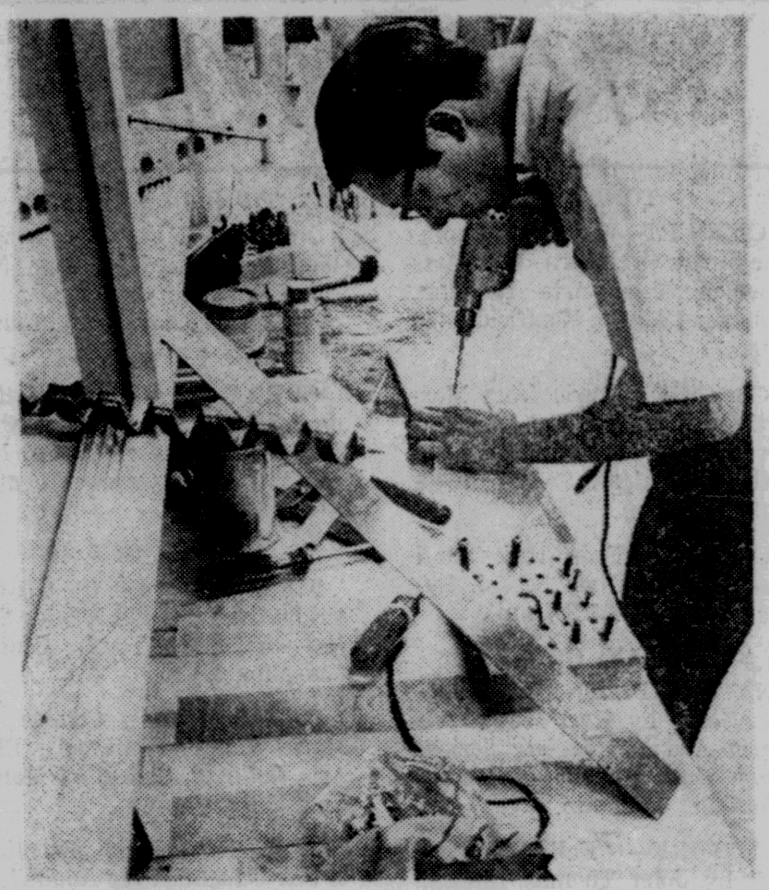
WEAR PROPER apparel—Do not wear loose-fitting clothing, gloves or neckties when you are around tools that rotate. And wear face shields, goggles or glasses when working with grinders, drills or if the cutting operation is dusty.

Secure work — Use clamps or a vise to hold work. It's safer than using your hand and it frees both hands to operate the tool. Make sure you are secure also. Keep proper footing and balance at all times.

Store idle tools — When not in use, tools should be stored in a dry, high, locked-up place, out of the reach of children.



WEAR PROPER apparel in the workshop. Avoid loose fitting clothing, gloves or neckties while around tools that rotate. And wear face shields, goggles or glasses when working with grinders, drills, etc., or if the cutting operation is a dusty one. Protect those eyes at all times.



THE OWNER'S manual is the best source for each particular power tool's applications and limitations. Before a new tool is even taken from its box, the manual should be read carefully and the instructions understood thoroughly. A power tool is a very serious responsibility.

Installing The New Floor Covers

Professional house services are dwindling, but manufacturers are providing alternatives.

New products are being introduced that will make it possible for a homemaker to do some jobs with a minimum of skills.

For example, carpet tiles with adhesive backing are available, and one needs only a bump-free floor and a good back to pull off a pretty good job. Individual tiles can be removed for washing, and with adhesive backing renewed, they may be set again into place.

A DEN MAY provide a small area for experimentation.

These carpet tiles — and those being introduced from Europe that are touted as requiring no adhesive — will be a boon to stores where storage of bulky home furnishings may be a problem. Some manufacturers predict that all carpet eventually will go the way of tiles.

Vinyl tiles also have become a do-it-yourself project now that a proper adhesive has been found to insure a permanent floor by do-it-yourselfers.

A new "instant floor," recently introduced by Goodyear, emphasizes the ease with which a floor may be put down. Each carton of adhesive-backed vinyl contains eight 12-by-12-inch tiles (eight square feet). The cost is about five cents more a square foot per tile than the company's conventional tiles, which require adhesive and a professional tiler.

DIRECTIONS ON the package may appear to be involved, but the job dissolves into these basics: Determine how much tile is needed, prepare the floor surface by smoothing and removing protuberances, find the starting point, lay tiles and fit border tiles into place.

The tile is cut before backing paper is removed.

If one has qualms about such a project, one might do a trial tile run in a closet or another small area.

Sheet vinyls may be installed without adhesive by a do-it-yourselfer. A 12-foot roll may provide a seamless floor if the room is no larger. The manufacturer (Armstrong) suggests using a molding around the floor or doors where the vinyl ends for a smooth finish.

If room is larger than 12 feet, adhesive may be used at seams.

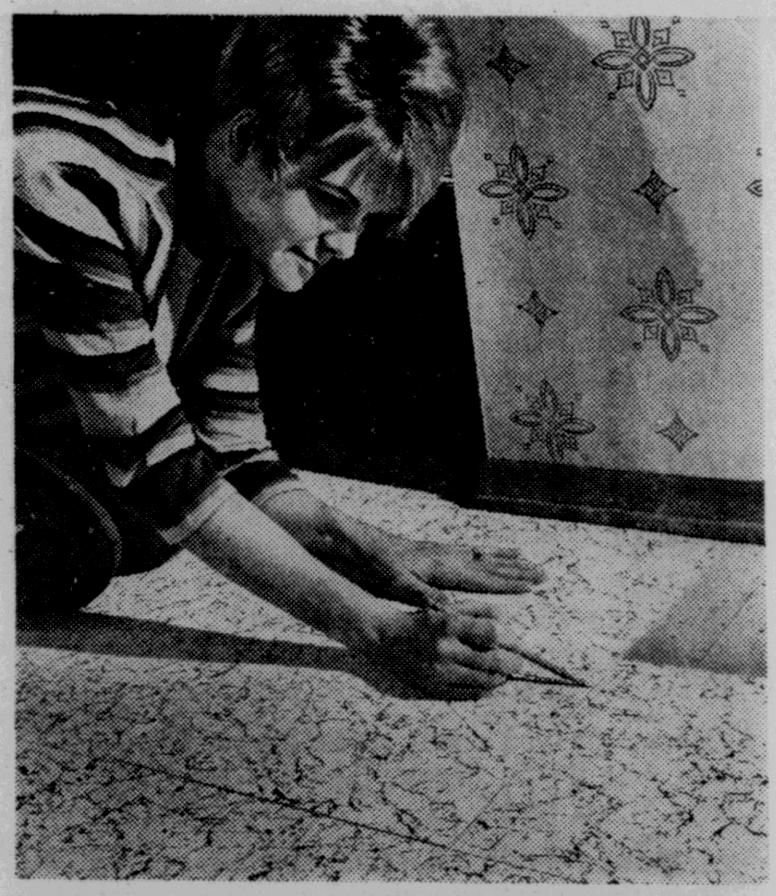
A GOOD FLOOR venture for a lady do-it-yourselfer might be putting down bathroom carpet using one of the kits. These give instructions, and provide a pattern for fitting carpet around fixtures. It gives her an opportunity to test her skills for larger jobs.

Another great help to home decorators is a window shade kit that comes with everything except the fabric. The directions on the box, packaged by Stauffer, are complete, but one must have patience.

The pre-cut shade cloth has an adhesive coating on one side that is activated with heat. The four-step method suggests that you apply your decorator fabric to it with a hot iron, and says that the permanent bond will seal the special cloth and fabric.

THE SHADE cloth has been available to do-it-yourselfers for some time, but the advantage of the complete kit is that, in addition, it contains roller, slat, shade pull, mounting brackets and screws.

The homemade shade can provide a unified look. You can match the shade's fabric to chairs, bedcovers, wallpapers or whatever to make the room look more interesting.



THE FINAL STEP in laying an all-vinyl floor is fitting the border. Tile should be measured and marked before adhesive backing is removed.

WHY FALL IS BEST AS PLANTING SEASON

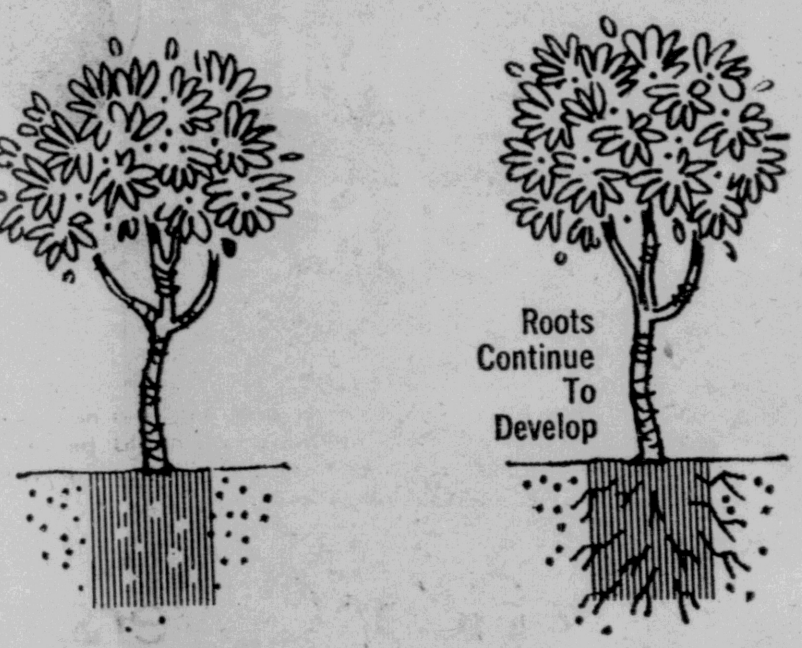
There are four good reasons why you should plant your trees or shrubs in the autumn.

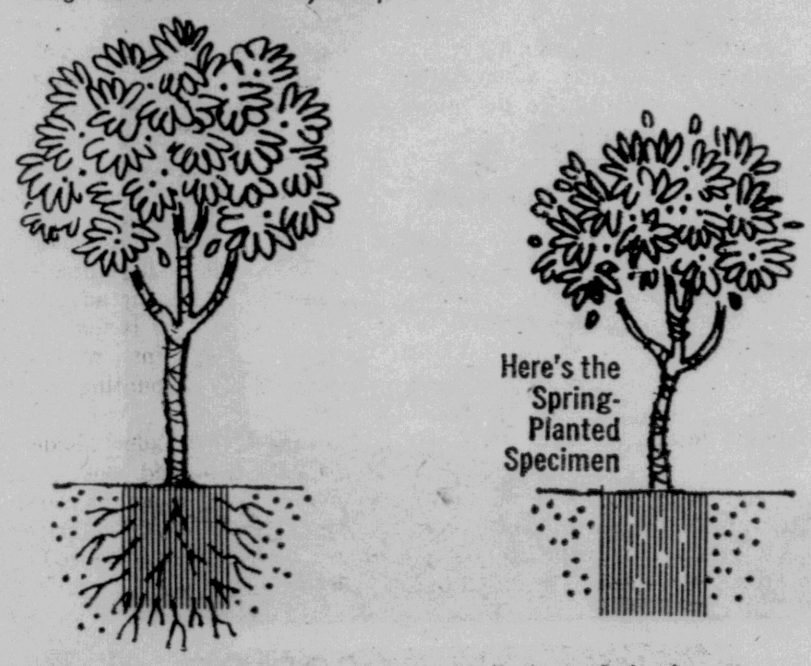
Fall planting follows and escapes the heat of the summer. Fall planting precedes the cold of winter. Fall planting takes advantage of the winter rains. And fall planting makes full use of that vital surge of early spring growth.

In Marin, almost all shrubs, trees, annuals, perennials and groundcovers can be planted in the fall. There are a few exceptions such as the citrus, hibiscus, lantana, philodendron and other frost-tender tropicals.

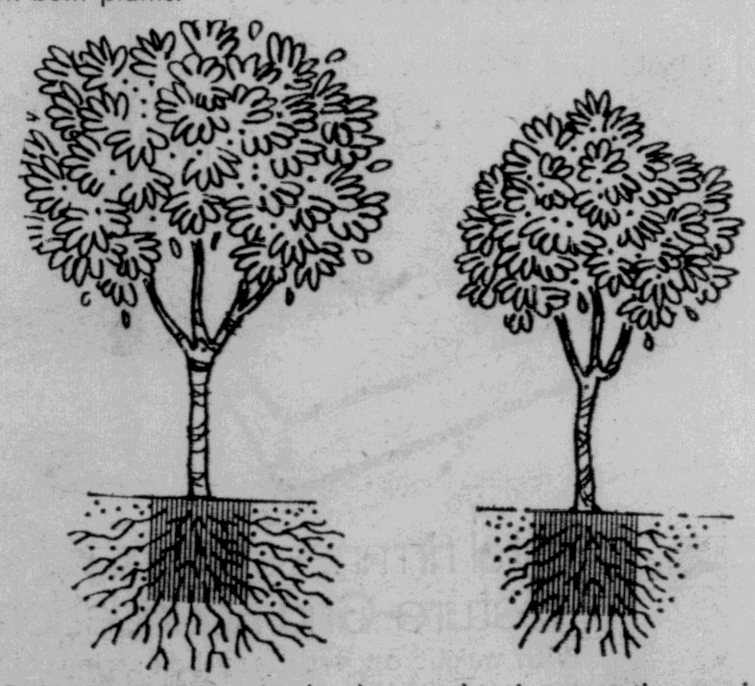
But visit the nearest nursery now and you will see a wide array of beautiful plants waiting to be set in the soil of your garden. Early October is the ideal time to do so.



THE FALL-PLANTED tree or shrub takes advantage of the warmth retained by the soil and at left begins to send its roots out. And while, at right, there will be little or no top growth in winter, the roots will continue to develop slowly, using the food stored by the plant.



THEN COMES spring. Roots of the fall-planted shrub or tree at left are still developing in the cool, moist soil of early spring. But the roots of the specimen planted in the spring are developing but slowly. Top growth is beginning to show on both plants.



BY LATE SPRING, the lovely weather is promoting rapid progress. But the fall-planted specimen at left with its well-developed root system has a decided head start over the more recently planted one at right. It has been able to take full advantage of the surge of spring growth.

It's Time To Plant Vegetables, But Select The Proper Ones

Gardening Page

A recent national garden survey reveals that Americans are growing more vegetables now than they have since the wartime days of the Victory Gardens.

And, gardeners in Marin are no exception. Nurserymen report greater-than-usual interest in vegetable gardening.

This fact comes as no surprise, especially at this time of year. California gardeners can plant in October and count on a bountiful harvest in a season when most easterners can only dream of it.

Chief consideration of cool-season vegetable gardening is what to plant.

FOR WINTER, plant the vegetables that bear edible roots or tops. Of all the fruiting vegetables, only peas are to be planted now. Frost-tender items such as tomatoes are warm-season crops.

The likes of carrots, radishes, beets, turnips are cool-season crops. Likewise spinach, chard, lettuce, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower.

Some items are available as small transplants in nursery flats. Ask your nurseryman whether you should plant seeds or transplants from nursery flats.

HALF THE FUN of harvesting a home crop is reaping a quality product. To insure the best possible return, prepare the soil before planting.

One way is to turn the soil deeply ahead of time and add liberal amounts of manure or compost before planting. If time is a factor, use a nurseryman's planter mix, which can be turned into the soil. Seed or transplants may be set-out immediately into this composition.

Keep the new planting moist at all times. Winter rains are just ahead, but don't rely on them to do the job for you.

Finally, prepare for possible heavy rainfall by insuring good drainage.

Louisiana Senator Makes Million In Oil Lease Profits

Russell Long Claims No Conflict Of Interest In Fighting Tax Bill

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long has collected at least $329,151 in oil royalties since 1964 which has been free of federal income taxes because of the 27.5 per cent depletion allowance he now is defending in Congress.

This income is the tax-sheltered portion of the $1,196,915 which Louisiana Mineral Board records show Long has received during the past five and one-half years for his interests in four state oil and gas leases.

The Senate Finance Committee, headed by Long, currently is considering a House-passed tax bill cutting the depletion allowance to 20 per cent. Under present law, 27.5 per cent of gross income from oil, gas and other minerals is exempt from federal income taxes.

While presiding over Finance Committee hearings last week, Long agreed with oil industry witnesses who argued that reducing the depletion allowance "would be a breach of faith by Congress."

The Louisiana Democrat, who has been identified with the oil industry since he came to the Senate two decades ago, describes himself as a "very small independent" in a field dominated by giant firms.

"Most of my income is from oil and gas," Long said in an interview.

NO CONGRESS BAN

There is no ban against members of Congress having such financial holdings, and Long said, "I don't regard it as any conflict of interest."

"A long time ago I became convinced that if you have financial interests completely parallel to your state, then you have no problem," he said. "My state produces more oil and gas per acre than any other state in the Union. If I didn't represent the oil and gas industry, I wouldn't represent the state of Louisiana."

The senator said his oil interests have been "an issue in more than one campaign" and added: "I've never withheld from anyone that I've inherited and participated in wells."

'IT HURT ME'

Long said he last drilled for oil five years ago and ended up with a dry hole. "It hurt me sufficiently," he said. "I haven't been able to participate since that time."

Besides these four state leases, Louisiana records indicate the Senator has an interest in at least seven private leases. Royalty payents from private leases are not disclosed in public records.

Long also is listed as one of three trustees on family trusts which, according to records, have collected $961,443 for holdings, in state leases in five and one-half years.

The senator's personal overriding interest on the four state leases is listed as .0015625 of the gross income. The figure seems small, but the leases are so lucrative that this percentage earned Long $235,095 in royalties in the last fiscal year alone —more than five times his

New Proposal In Works For Courthouse

Since Marin County will not be able to sell the courthouse square for some time, why not let San Rafael tear down the old courthouse building and use the space for metered parking?

This proposal will be presented to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday as a joint recommendation by James McCown, acting city manager of San Rafael, and County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Under the plan, the city would pay for razing the old building, paving the area, and metering. The city would maintain the grounds. The annex portion of the building would be retained by the county.

When the county ultimately sold the property, the county would reimburse the city for capital costs incurred, but not for the cost of annual maintenance of grounds during interim use as a parking lot.

To facilitate sale of the property, the city would remove all detailed zoning requirements and require only that whoever buys the courthouse square submit a planned development plan. The city would also agree to closing Court Street and permits its use as part of the overall development.

The county, despite numerous attempts, has been unable to sell courthouse square. The century-old courthouse and its annex are scheduled to be vacated later this year when courts and allied services move into the new Hall of Justice at the Civic Center.

Another Squabble Over Doctor Pay For Vacation

Dr. Clyde G. Miller, suspended for 30 days with pay from his job as Marin County director of community mental health services, is the center of another controversy over a conference he attended in England last August.

The matter will be aired before the board of supervisors on Tuesday.

Dr. Miller went on vacation to Europe in July and August and attended mental health confer-

Nixon Firm For Haynsworth Despite Rising Pressure

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)— President Richard M. Nixon is still firmly supporting Clement F. Haynsworth for the Supreme Court, but the Florida White House acknowledged today that the President has gained new information critical of the judge since sending his name to the Senate.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a complete review of all aspects of Haynsworth's background had been made prior to the nomination and "when additional reports came up in the press, even further checking was done."

Ziegler was asked whether the Senate Republican leadership would join the President in supporting Haynsworth.

"You would have to address your question to them," Ziegler said.

The press secretary said, in response to questions, that even following the additional checking of Haynsworth, the President was convinced "of the soundness of the judge's background."

He said anew that "we expect the judiciary committee to act in a positive way and for the Senate to confirm the nomination."

Asked whether Nixon had received a letter from Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, critical of Haynsworth, Ziegler said he was not going to comment on every piece of correspondence received by the President.

However, he acknowledged that Nixon had received more than one letter from members of the Senate relating to the Haynsworth nomination, but added that not all were negative.

When asked if it would be fair to say that Nixon had not anticipated the degree of resistance his choice for the Supreme Court has met, Ziegler pointedly ignored the inquiry.

Both Republican Leader Hugh Scott and GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin refused to take sides yesterday as Nixon began to shift the full weight of his prestige into blunting criticism of Judge Haynsworth.

Scott said he still would vote in the Senate Judiciary Committee to report the nomination to the floor but that he could not predict what the Senate — or even he — would do then.

High Winds Claw At Tam

North winds of up to 110 miles an hour were reported atop Mount Tamalpais last night by personnel at the Mill Valley Air Station.

This morning winds were blowing up to 75 miles an hour, with strong gusts expected to continue through tomorrow.

According to weathermen, the winds have pushed California's fire danger to its 1969 peak. The state Division of Forestry has reported a major fire 12 miles southwest of Sonora in Tuolumne County.

Richard Ernest, fire prevention officer for the division, said dry weather before the winds started contributed to the high danger.

"Conditions now are about the same as in 1964 when Northern California nearly burned up," Ernest said.

Peking Announces Pair Of Bomb Tests

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China announced today it has tested a hydrogen bomb and carried out its first underground nuclear explosion.

The tests were made Sept. 23 and last Monday, but Peking has remained silent about them until now, although both had been detected in the West.

Senate Hearings On Viet 'Morass'

Nixon's War Plan Is Target

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans a week of hearings on the war in South Vietnam — seeking, its chairman said Saturday, to help President Richard M. Nixon "out of the Vietnam morass."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., set that goal for public sessions which will begin on Oct. 27.

He said Secretary of State William P. Rogers has been invited to testify Oct. 30, and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird the following day.

"If the Senate is to be a full and active partner in the making of foreign policy," said Fulbright, "it has a duty to help the President in finding a way out of the Vietnam morass."

The five days of hearings, likely to be broadcast and televised nationally, could prove crucial ones in Nixon's effort to fashion Vietnam unity in Congress and the country.

When the same committee held a public inquiry into Vietnam policy three and one-half years ago, it became a forum for opposition to the course of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Fulbright said his committee will consider any legislative proposals on U.S. policy.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., has proposed a bill to force withdrawal of all U.S. troops by Dec. 1, 1970.

There may be other plans, too.

Red Chinese Free English Newsman

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China today free Anthony Grey, the British newsman who had not been allowed to leave his house in Peking for more than two years.

Grey has been taken to the British diplomatic compound in Peking and is expected to leave the Chinese capital within three days, a British Foreign Office spokesman in London said.

The 31-year-old newsman, a correspondent for Reuters news agency, had been confined to his home for 26 months in reprisal for the arrest of 13 Communist Chinese newsmen in Hong Kong following anti-British riots in July 1967. The last of the 13 was released yesterday.

The official New China News Agency said Chinese authorities summoned Grey to the Foreign Ministry today "and announced to him that since the Hong Kong British authorities had already released all the patriotic Chinese journalists, his freedom of movement was restored to him as of this day."

During his detention, the British newsman was kept under continous guard and was allowed only two 40-minute exercise periods in his garden each day. Communist China said the restrictions were imposed because of "persecution" of the New China News Agency correspondents in Hong Kong.

Shot-Up Russians Get Gate In Jet Theft Try

BEIRUT (UPI)—Two Russian diplomats ordered to leave Lebanon for trying to steal a Lebanese Air Force French-made Mirage IIIE jet fighter for the Soviet Union left Beirut by plane today for Moscow, one on a stretcher.

They were Alexander Khomiakov, first secretary at the Soviet embassy in Beirut, and Vladimir Vassiliev, employed in the embassy trade section and described as a Russian agent.

Both were shot in a gunbattle Tuesday when Lebanese security police broke into Vassiliev's apartment. Also wounded was Hasan Badawi, who was dismissed from the Lebanese Air Force five years ago on bad conduct charges, and also accused of involvement in the plot.

Khomiakov was reported to have been hit in the stomach by five bullets. A source close to the Soviet embassy said he is "critically ill" and would need urgent surgery on his arrival in Moscow. Khomiakov was carried aboard the plane on a stretcher.

Vassiliev was reported to have suffered only minor wounds and boarded the plane unaided.

The Mirage IIIE is the super secret French fighter which outfought Soviet-built MIG 21s in every aerial duel during and after the 1967 Mideast War.

The two Russians and the Lebanese pilot was reported trying to steal the plane and fly it to Baku in the Soviet Union.

Badawi is being held in a special isolated cell at the Beirut military prison. Informed sources said he would be tried on spy charges.

Firemen To Display Skills At Redwood High Event

Actual fires deliberately set and fought by Marin County fire departments will open Fire Prevention Week tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Redwood High School, Larkspur.

The third annual Fire-O-Rama will feature equipment demonstrations in the school cafeteria from 10 a.m. to noon. The fire prevention and training sections of the departments and private fire equipment companies will have underwater rescue teams and resuscitation teams explaining their equipment and techniques and will describe fire safety around the home.

At noon the Hamilton Air Force Base band will play and about 20 pieces of fire equipment will be displayed in the school parking lot.

From 1 to 3 p.m. Marin County Fire Department will simulate a cliff rescue using a two-story building and a private helicopter representing the Coast Guard chopper that normally would be used.

Father Shot To Death In Error-Riddled Dope Raid

WHITTIER (AP) — As Hayward Henry Dyer, 22, stood in the middle of a room cradling his infant son, a stray rifle shot from the apartment above crashed through the ceiling and struck him in the head.

Dyer was killed instantly yesterday. He dropped 22-month-old Francis as he crumbled to the floor. The tot suffered minor cuts.

Officers said the shot was fired accidentally by a policeman—one of 12 officers who had mistakenly crashed into Dyer's mother-in-law's apartment moments before. Armed with search warrants, they were making a predawn raid for marijuana and had come to the wrong apartment.

Dyer who lived upstairs—but not in the apartment police wanted to search—heard his mother-in-law, Francis Meehan, and her 12-year-old daughter Susie screaming at the officers.

He ran down to his mother-in-law's apartment to investigate, as officers—realizing their mistake—went upstairs to the apartment listed on their warrant.

It was directly above Mrs. Meehan's apartment. The .22-caliber shot was fired by Vernon Detective Sgt. Frank Sweeney as he held his rifle, barrel down, pointed at the floor above Mrs. Meehan's ceiling, Vernon Police Chief Robert H. Backhacker said.

The chief said the sergeant was asked to join seven state narcotics agents and four sheriff's deputies on the raid. Backhacker said he did not know why Sweeney carried a rifle, and said there would be an investigation.

Sweeney, he said, was "pretty shaken up about it."

Officers had instructions to search apartments B and D of 8033 S. Comstock Ave., and they burst into Mrs. Meehan's apartment B of 8031 S. Comstock Ave. Both addresses are in the same building.

"I saw three men," Mrs. Meehan said. "One of them grabbed me by the arm. I screamed and I ran out. I thought one of them was going to attack me."

Said Susan: "They just grabbed mommy by the arms and said they had a search warrant for marijuana."

That's when Dyer and his pregnant wife arrived with their infant.

Officers said no arrests were made in the upstairs apartment B. One man in apartment D—above and to the side of Mrs. Meehan's—was arrested for investigation of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Antitrust Watchdogs Eye Oil Merger Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has threatened court action to prevent huge British Petroleum Co. from gaining a bigger foothold in the United States through a merger of its U.S. subsidiary with Standard Oil of Ohio.

The Justice Department's antitrust chief, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, claimed yesterday the proposed consolidation violates merger guidelines laid down last year.

Under the proposal, BP Oil Corp., U.S. subsidiary of the London-based firm, would be acquired by Sohio.

McLaren contended no nationalistic interests were involved in the government's decision to oppose the merger.

"In evaluating this merger," he said, "we accorded British Petroleum no more and no less favorable treatment than we would give an American company in BP's position."

Besides BP Oil Corp. and Sohio, McLaren said, the parent company and two other subsidiaries, British Petroleum N.V. and British Petroleum Holdings Inc., would be named defendants in any government suit "because of the nature of the merger agreement."

But the department said no effort would be made to block an Oct. 9 meeting of Sohio shareholders, whose approval is the only roadblock left before the merger is consummated.

Moreover, the announcement added, the government will not try to thwart a stock exchange, scheduled under the agreement for Oct. 10.

Discussions between government antitrust lawyers and Sohio-BP representatives will continue in the meantime, officials said, in an effort to resolve the dispute out of court.

Both Sohio and BP had no comment on the matter pending a study of the decision. McLaren said he informed attorneys of the planned action before making the announcement.

With worldwide sales last year of almost $5 billion, BP gained its first foothold in the U.S. petroleum market last February when it acquired marketing outlets in 16 Eastern Seaboard states from Atlantic Richfield.

But its holdings on Alaska's North Slope is expected to multiply the British firm's output of U.S. oil.

Sohio President Charles E. Spahr contended last month that his firm's potential over the next 10 years "dazzles the imagination" because of growth expected from the merger.

As soon as the consolidation is finalized, he said, "we have the prospect of nearly doubling our size . . . in terms of petroleum products volume."

Sohio, which had sales last year of $880 million, estimated the BP properties in Alaska's Prudhoe Bay area will ultimately yield at least 4.8 billion gross barrels of recoverable oil.

The merger arrangement would grant the British concern an initial 25 per cent interest in the new combine and rights to a majority interest depending on the anticipated Alaska production.

McLaren did not disclose the grounds under which a complaint would be brought against the consolidation.

Cholera Outbreak

SEOUL (AP) — Cholera continued to spread in South Korea as 24 cases were reported and four more persons died in one day, the Health Ministry announced today.

A total of 1,231 persons have been stricken since the first case was reported in late August, with 113 reported dead.

Small Plane Crash Costs Five Lives

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Five persons were killed and two injured last night when a twin-engine commuter plane crashed at the edge of Lowry Air Force Base in a blinding snowstorm.

The Metro Commuter Airlines plane, on a return flight from Rawlins, Laramie and Cheyenne, Wyo., apparently overshot an approach to Stapleton International Airport, officials said. It crashed on the south edge of the air base, which is not regularly used as a landing strip.

The coroner's office identified two of the victims as James Leonard Faull, 25, Denver, pilot of the twin-engine Beechcraft, and Floyd Wayne Frizell, 24, of suburban Aurora, the copilot.

The Denver coroner's office identified passengers killed in the accident as Kenneth Eldon Reisinger, 59, Eldora, Iowa; Howard Wade Vesey, 63, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Richard Joseph Donnelly, 50, Minneapolis, Minn.

One of the injured passengers, Robert DeWeese, in his late 30s of Tulsa, Okla., was listed in serious condition at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital. Authorities at Denver General Hospital said the other, Jack Rowe, 57, of either Reno, Nev., or Laramie, Wyo., suffered a broken arm.

High winds accompanied the storm and more than seven inches of snow covered the ground before the crash.

Meany-Reuther Split Widens With Expulsion

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The battle between labor leaders George Meany and Walter Reuther has escalated with the expulsion from the AFL-CIO of the International Chemical Workers Union.

The 1,000 delegates at the AFL-CIO convention, representing some 13 million workers, voted overwhelmingly yesterday to oust the chemical workers.

The 29-man AFL-CIO executive council, headed by labor federation President Meany, had unanimously recommended the action against the 110,000-member union for joining a "hostile" labor group, the Reuther-sponsored Alliance For Labor Action.

The AFL-CIO charged the alliance with raiding AFL-CIO unions.

Reuther pulled his Auto Workers Union out of the AFL-CIO last year after charging Meany with stagnant leadership and joined acting President Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters Union in creating the Alliance.

The expulsion was the first such action since the AFL-CIO kicked out the Teamsters and two smaller unions on corruption charges 12 years ago.

Chemical Workers President Thomas E. Boyle protested: "We have done nothing wrong."

Meany labeled as "bunk" scattered protests that the ouster was vengeful and would further split the nation's labor movement.

Meany said only the AFL-CIO's no-raiding agreement among its unions has kept the federation together since he and Reuther founded it 14 years ago and that no union could live up to the constitutions of both the alliance and the AFL-CIO.

"Walter says this is not a rival federation. I don't believe Walter. I know him," said the 75-year-old Meany, the only president in AFL-CIO history.

Lawmaker Sees New Bill Against Smog

SEATTLE (AP) —Sen. Warren Magnuson said yesterday he plans to step up his campaign against air pollution by offering a bill in the next Congress calling on the federal government to procure low-emission vehicles.

The Washington Democrat said the government uses nearly 400,000 vehicles and that this market would be a powerful inducement for manufactuers to make such cars.

William Lear, president of the Lear Motors Corp., Santa Monica, which is making experimental steam and gas-electric autos, echoed Magnunson's concern.

"Time is running out on us," he said. "There now are 100 million vehicles on our roads; there will be 220 million in 30 years."

Also attending the meeting was Reine J. Corbeil, project Engineer for Pacific Lighting Service and Supply Co. of Los Angeles, which has converted five vehicles in California to use natural gas.

Corbeil said natural gas eliminates 90 per cent of the pollutant emissions from vehicles. He said the conversion is quite simple and safe. One drawback, he said, is that natural gas is not as available now as is gasoline, but it is cheaper to use, he added.

Border Dope Shakedown Ires Commissioners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the U.S.-Mexico Border Commission on Development and Friendship say they've gotten no information from the government on Operation Intercept, but have heard plenty from local officials on both sides of the 2,000-mile border.

"Our telephones have been ringing all day long," said Antonio Rodriguez, executive director of the commission's U.S. unit, in an interview.

STORES COMPLAIN

Operation Intercept, the government's much-publicized crackdown on narcotics traffic across the border, has caused massive automobile congestion at crossings and businessmen on both sides are complaining.

"Mayors, representatives of chambers of commerce and other people are saying their business is being drastically hurt—in some places as much as 62 per cent," Rodriguez said.

"Personally, I think it may—emphasizing the may—be too soon to say that commerce is going to suffer to the point where it cannot recover," he said.

Part of question is how long Operation Intercept will continue, Rodriguez said. And he can give callers no assurances it will end any time soon.

COMMISSION IGNORED

Rodriguez said the federal agencies involved in Operation Intercept gave the commission no details before it went into effect 11 days ago, nor has the commission been briefed since.

The commission was formed two years ago to promote joint projects aimed at making the border a better place to live.

With the inception of Operation Intercept at least one—a binational planning commission meeting scheduled Oct. 16-17 in El Paso, Tex.—has been postponed indefinitely, Rodriguez said.

Refinery Is Still Ablaze

CARTABENA, Spain (AP) — For the third consecutive day, hundreds of firemen and army troops fought the fire at the huge Escombreras oil refinery today. Five men have been burned to death in the blaze.

The cause of the fire remains unknown, but saboteurs are suspected.

About 157,000 metric tons of oil and some key installations have been destroyed. Damage is unofficially estimated at $28.5 million.

Three workers seriously burned were reported improving.

Spock Plans Marches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. Benjamin Spock announced yesterday what he called the latest offensive of the anti-Vietnam war movement with demonstrations panned for San Francisco and Washington Nov. 15.

The famed baby doctor, appearing at a news conference, said the "antiwar and majority march" was expected to attract more than 500,000 persons.

Spock said the marchers will carry fake coffins in the Washington demonstration while their San Francisco counterparts will carry white flags with black boarders containing statistics of persons killed in Vietnam.

"The purpose of the march is to give the majority of Americans an opportunity to demonstrate their opposition to the war in Vietnam, to stop aggression abroad, to end the war in Vietnam by immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all U.S. military personnel and facilities," Spock said.

Fugitive Blasted

BAD BRAMSTEDT, Germany (UPI) — A young would-be refugee from East Germany lay severely injured in no-man's land for five hours after a landmine exploded along the border during an escape attempt yesterday.

Western border officals said they heard the young man cry for help only a short time and speculated he may have bled to death before an East German ambulance arrived five hours after the explosion. They said they tried to alert East German guards by shouts and telephone calls.

More Oil Slick

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Offshore winds have blown oil in the Santa Barbara Channel into the harbor and ashore reminiscent of the massive oil slick eight months ago but not nearly in the same quantity.

The oil has been leaking slowly from the ocean floor around Union Oil's platforms A and B. It was Platform A that blew out eight months ago causing a giant oil slick which coated beaches in the area.

A change in winds Thursday night brought the new oil ashore, leaving traces along a 25-mile stretch and fouling the hulls of pleasure boats in the harbor at the water line.

The situation eased yesterday and there did not appear to be any more oil coming onto land today.

London Fire Peril

LONDON (AP) — London firemen were called to 300 fires today as people tried to burn mounting piles of rubbish left by the 12-day-old garbagemen's strike.

Fire brigade spokesman said an alarming feature was that some residents in tall apartment blocks had tried to clear garbage chutes by setting fire to trash.

Toddler Missing

PACIFICIA (UPI) —Police, Coast Guardsmen, deputies and volunteers spent yesterday searching in vain here for three-year-old Danny Byrum.

Danny disappeared from his home Thursday afternoon after telling a playmate he was going to Sharp Park Beach, about one block from the Byrum home.

A Coast Guard helicopter swept the beach area for several hours with no findings.

'Survival Day'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Zero Population Growth, Inc., says it will hold a "survival Day" parade Oct. 25 to protest the "decline in quality of life" brought by overpopulation.

A spokesman for the organization said yesterday a dozen environmental action groups will participate in the march from Lafayette Square to the Civic Center where a teach-in and discussions about ecology and population will be held.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Paul Ehrlich, head of the department of ecology and biological sciences at Stanford University; Stephanie Mills, recent Mills College graduate now working for Planned Parenthood, and congressman Pete McCloskey.

Columbia Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire damaged the Columbia University offices of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps early today and fire officials termed the blaze "definitely suspicious."

The fire began about 4:30 a.m. in the offices located in the first floor of the 10-story Hartley Hall, a men's dormitory. As smoke filled the upper halls the sleeping students were roused and ran outside.

Women Fliers Die

WHITTIER (UPI) — A 79-year-old flying grandmother from Pasadena and another woman were killed yesterday when their single-egine plane crashed into a vacant lot.

Mrs. Minia "Polly" Stoehr was at the controls of the light aircraft. The other victim was Mrs. Della L. Kerfoot, 68, of Monrovia, also a pilot.

The plane burned after the crash. It struck a tree on impact.

Stripper Sheds Mate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stripper Tempest Storm, 51, has asked Superior Court to end her 10-year marriage to singer Herb Jeffries charging him with extreme cruelty.

Miss Storm said she and her husband separated Monday. The marriage was Miss Storm's fourth and the third for Jeffries, 58. They have one child, Patricia Ann, 6.

There are now more than 380 million radio sets throughout the world.

Roosevelt Weds

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP) — James Roosevelt, 61, eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has made a 32-yeard-old English schoolteacher his fourth wife.

Roosevlet married Mary L. Winskill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Windskill of Bromborough, England, in a civil ceremony yesterday, three weeks after divorcing his third wife.

Roosevelt received his recent divorce on the grounds of incompatability from his third wife, the former Gladys Irene Kitchenmaster, who was accused of stabbing him a week after he filed for the divorce last spring.

The couple will live in Geneva, Switzerland, where Roosevelt, a former six-term congressman from California, is an executive of Investors Overseas Services, an international mutual funds group.

Smog Balks Talk

DETROIT (AP) — A federal official's scheduled speech in Detroit on air pollution was foiled yesterday by air pollution.

Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare for health and scientific affairs, was to speak at a women's club banquet. But his plane was unable to land at Metropolitan Airport because smoke and fog reduced visibility.

"We circled Detroit for an hour and 45 minutes," Egeberg said. "Finally the pilot said that becasue of smoke and fog, we couldn't land. He said there was a 100-foot ceiling and visibility was a quarter of a mile."

The commercial flight finally landed in Cleveland.

Typhoon Hits

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Typhoon Flossie unleashed deluges of rain today that flooded more than two-thirds of Taipei and forced more than 10,000 persons from their homes.

Public officials said there were fears the 12 inches of rain since Thursday might collapse dikes on the already overflowing Tansui and Kelng rivers.

At least 20 persons were missing and presumed dead, a police spokesman said and floodwaters were 10 feet deep in parts of Taipei.

Hope For All

$42,500 annual salary as a senator.

The tax-free portion of last fiscal year's royalties—$64,651—was in itself greater than his Senate salary.

Mineral Board Chairman Thomas Leigh refused to allow a reporter to inspect all state lease records. He was courteous but firm:

"My lawyer says I've got to let you see our records on Lease 340 and any others you know and ask for. But I'm not just going to open my books and make them a happy hunting ground. Maybe I've got to legally, but as a matter of procedure, I'm not going to do it now."

State Lease 340, to which Leigh referred, rambles for 20 miles along the Louisiana coastline. It is at least 50 times bigger than any other state lease, which generally consist of 5,000 acres.

Besides being the biggest, Lease 340 is one of the most productive in Louisiana. Long's royalties from this lease since 1964 have totaled $666,136, records disclose.

The federal government also has been active in leasing tracts off the Louisiana coast. But an Interior Department spokesman said "most of our leases are held by corporations, not by individuals. And our records do not reflect what payments might be made in overriding royalties from the companies to individuals."

Long's name on the state leases first appears in records dated Feb. 1, 1951, about the time he and other then-listed stockholders dissolved the Independent Oil & Gas Co. Inc., originally known as the Win or Lose Corp.

Win or Lose, involved in controversy and scandal throughout the five years in the 1950s during which it carried that name, was known in the state as the company of Huey P. Long—governor, senator, the "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics and the father of Russell Long.

Russell Long, in the interview, said he inherited the bulk of his oil holdings from his father, who was assassinated in 1935.

Since his own election to the Senate in 1948, Long has been a constant champion of oil industry causes.

ences in England during that time.

Since Dr. Miller was off a total of 39 days, but had only 30 days accumulated vacation, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell deducted $803 from his Aug. 31 paycheck. At the time, County Administrator Alan Bruce agreed with Mitchell on the deduction.

When Miller returned from vacation and pointed out that Bryce had authorized the payment of registration for the London conferences, Bruce decided he was in error and asked the auditor to pay the nine-days' salary which had been deducted.

The county counsel's office ruled that Dr. Miller was legally authorized to attend the conferences and is therefore entitled to his full August salary.

Mitchell, however, disagreed. He contended that whenever a county official attends a conference outside the state, the matter must be submitted to the supervisors for prior approval. He said a conference in England is an unusual occurrence and should have been brought to the attention of the supervisors.

Red Teacher To Be Paid; Cannot Teach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — University of California regents have ruled that a Communist teacher, already fired, must not teach on the Los Angeles campus while she appeals her case.

However, Angela Davis, 25, a Negro, will continue to receive her salary in the interim, the governing board of the nine-campus university ruled in a 14-6 secret vote yesterday.

A minority of regents said Miss Davis, who says she is a Communist and was ordered fired Sept. 19, should be allowed to teach while she follows appeals procedures approved by regents.

"I think it's mistake," UCLA Chancellor Charles E. Young said of the board's vote.

But Young smilingly told reporters: "I am going to have to play out the scenario a bit."

Some regents contacted after the meeting said they believed a compromise could be worked out whereby Miss Davis would be permitted to lecture, but not for credit courses.

They said they were trying to prevent any trouble.

However, William Comblentz, a regent from San Francisco, told newsmen: "I think we're going to have a confrontation. I hope it's not too serious."

Two Accidents Hurt Two Persons

Two persons received minor injuries in separate auto accidents in Corte Madera last night.

Susan Jane Lerro, 22, 939 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead. Police said her car struck the side of a hill on Corte Madera Avenue at 8:45 p.m.

A rear-end collision on Tamalpais Drive, off the Highway 101 Overpass, resulted in a back sprain for Marvin A. Gunn, 56, of 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Police said Gunn's car apparently stopped suddenly and was struck by a vehicle driven by John Brown, 39, of 24 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera. Gunn was treated at Marin General following the 10:45 p.m. accident.

Little Change In Inflation Battle Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflationary pressures appear likely to continue into next year despite a slowing down in the growth rate of the economy, a member of the Federal Reserve Board said today.

Given this prospect, said Andrew F. Brimmer, "I personally see no reason to deviate from the present course of monetary restraint," including high interest rates.

Brimmer said the cooling of the economy should continue through the last three months of 1969 and into 1970. But he added:

"At the same time, unfortunately, we may see very little lessening in inflationary pressures . . . Moreover, there appears to be a real prospect that inflationary pressures will persist on into the early months of next year."

Dropoffs late in 1969 are expected in business investments and spending by federal, state and local governments, Brimmer said in a 22-page report to the 16th annual bankers forum at Georgetown University. The depressed housing situation may even decline further, he added.

"Nevertheless," he said, "I think the task we face is so pressing that we should not run the risk of relaxing credit restraint until it is clear that we have a reasonable chance of making a noticeable dent in inflationary expectations."

Prison Strike Still Is On

Black prisoners in San Quentin Prison's disciplinary section moved into the fourth day of a hunger strike today, but the number of men refusing meals fluctuated between 42 and 65.

Although 65 men refused breakfast yesterday, the number was down to 42 at lunch. Sixty-two men did not eat dinner and 63 sent back their breakfasts today.

Prison officials said the strike — intended to reinforce 10 demands submitted by the inmates — was still confined to the disciplinary unit and there was no indication it would spread.

The strike was organized Wednesday by a group calling itself "Panther Power to the Vanguard."

"Everything is very calm here," Associate Warden A. R. Jacobs told the Independent-Journal this morning. "This is a nonviolent protest and I don't think we are going to have any serious trouble," he added.

Jacobs said he felt the strike would eventually fade.

The striking prisoners said their protest was "made in good faith" but added that if the demands were met by "indifference or official violence," they would "use any means possible" to attain their goals.

The demands included calls for black doctors, nurses, parole board members and a black warden, as well as release of the 88 blacks now in the disciplinary unit.

Alleged Mafia Boss Arrested In Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The FBI today arrested reputed Mafia leader Joseph Bonanno Sr. and Peter Joe Notaro on federal charges involving perjury and extortion.

enemy to settlement.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said the United States should consider saturation bombing of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong, and destruction of rice field dikes along the Red river.

Goldwater, in a speech prepared for the Alabama Air Force Association convention at Huntsville, said Nixon "should very soon" threaten those steps unless the Communists move toward a peace agreement in Paris.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., wrote his constituents that the United States will soon have to consider new military options, including the renewal of bombing raids against North Vietnam.

"I don't believe that we should regard victory as either an evil word or an unattainable goal," Tower said.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., No. 2 Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, endorsed Nixon's current conduct of the war.

"I think President Nixon is following a good program of gradually pulling out troops as fast as he can," Sparkman said, "taking into account that every fighting man that we pull out must be replaced by a prepared fighting man of South Vietnam."

But Sparkman said he does not think all U.S. forces can be withdrawn by Dec. 1, 1970.

Meanwhile, the Florida White House pointedly declined to deny today a report of secret contacts between Washington and the new leadership in Hanoi.

And President Nixon was described as engaged in very thorough discussions of the Vietnam situation over the weekend in Key Biscayne, Fla., with his special adviser on national security affairs, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

situation over the weekend here with his special adviser on national security affairs, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

These reactions from presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler left open the possibility that the United States might be making some new approach to the North Vietnamese since the death of Ho Chi Minh.

Ziegler was asked about a Washington dispatch from James McCartney of the Knight newspaper chain that the Nixon administration has made secret contact with the North Vietnamese regime to seek a negotiated settlement of the war and that this was directly related to recent administration efforts to get a moratorium on Vietnam war criticism.

"We have made it our position not to discuss one way or another whether or not there are discussions with the other side outside of the public sessions in Paris," Ziegler said.

He added, "We have always said we will watch very carefully every development in South Vietnam and we are doing that in this case." He repeated this same answer when asked about the meaning of the latest lull in Vietnam fighting.

City Manager To Be Chosen

The San Rafael City Council is expected to choose a new city manager, replacing the late Dan E. Andersen, at a special meeting beginning at 7 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The appointment is expected after a review of applicants in closed session.

James H. McCown, acting city manager, is considered a leading candidate for the post, which will pay between $20,000 and $24,000 a year.

In its regular session scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., the council will consider development of courthouse square, new plans for the corporation yard and annexation to the city of property east of Highway 101 at Santa Venetia, including the Marin Civic Center.

Focus on Today

The promises of Christ Jesus, the Prophets, and Apostles are timeless; but to make them practical now, we need to know their deeper spiritual meanings. Burial will be in Alta Mesa cemetery in Palo Alto.

QuakeBlamed On Secondary Fault Line

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — That big earthquake which rocked Santa Rosa and most of the north California coast this week wasn't caused by the San Andreas fault after all.

Instead, University of Californkia seismologists are blaming the small Healdsburg fault that parallels the San Andreas fault. The numerous small faults running just below the earth's crust make Santa Rosa real "earthquake country."

A temblor in one of these faults of 5.6 intensity such as struck Wednesdtay night caused much more damage than would a deeper earthquake of the same magnitude in the San Andreas fault, the seismologists explained.

Meanwhile, Mayor Jack Ryerson yesterday said damage may hit $5 million or $10 million, instead of the original estimate of between $1 million and $2 million.

Ryerson explained that the higher estimate came after city engineers discovered that many buildings showing no damage nonetheless suffered severe structural damage.

He said that damage at the Santa Rosa Memorial hospital alone was almost $1 million. Fire caused by the temblor destroyed the Paul B. Kelly cardiovascular institute and a chemistry laboratory.

F. Robert Preece, president of the Structural Engineers Association of California, said hundreds of buildings would have collapsed had the first and biggest tremor Wednesday night. "lasted a few seconds longer."

Dr. Harry Byerly, professor emeritus of seismology at U.C., gave Santa Rosa one note of optimism.

"There is no reason to expect anything in the way of 'big' earthquakes in the Santa Rosa area for the next 10-15 years," said Byerly.

Rock Group To Play For Demos' Outing

"This Ole World," a San Francisco rock group, will perform at a family picnic sponsored by the Marin Democratic Central Committee at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Forest Farms Camp in Forest Knolls.

The picnic will also feature swimming, basketball, volleyball, horseshoes, table tennis, touch football, canvas tumbling, arm wrestling and a barbecue.

Forget The Summer Romance, Reality Might Ruin The Dream

DEAR HELEN:

On summer vacation, I met this fellow named Gordon. All I know is, he will be going to the university in Cincinnati and he has a twin sister. Before I could learn anything more, the sheriff took him and his friend off to jail because they were camping on private property. When guys have motorcycles, police think the worst. My family left before they were released.

I want to get in touch with him, Helen. It's sort of like an unfinished symphony. Maybe it wouldn't work out, but I have to know. — HOW?

DEAR HOW:

The boy's name and address would be on court records if you had access to them. Otherwise your chances of finding Gordon are slim, and perhaps it's just as well. Summer romances, like summer flowers, can look pretty wilted come November.

P.S. This goes for all you gals and guys who write, "I realized too late I fell in love this summer, but we forgot to exchange addresses. . . ." If sleuthing doesn't work (guest book registrations, mutual friends, etc.) then resign yourself to a lovely memory. Reality might ruin the dream. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Some of us girls put copies of "Dropped and Hurting's" letter and your good answer on the bulletin boards of the men's dorms here at college. We couldn't agree more.

If a fellow wants to drop a girl, that's his privilege, but a nice guy will level with her, not just leave her hanging, wondering what she did wrong, or whether he will ever come back. These guys who give a girl a big play, then just disappear — they don't know what it does to her morale.

I was just put down by a boy I was sure I was in love with. But at this moment I have more respect for him than ever. He gave me the story straight. It hurt, but not half as much as if he had lied or just drifted away. This goes for girls too, when it's break-up time. — ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR HELEN:

I'm going steady — or was — with Sally. We were in her father's den, watching TV, playing records, and making out a little, when we got to arguing about a girl at school whom she dislikes. She got mad and accused me of flirting. It went on from there and things got pretty hot. Finally she picked up my jacket and threw it on the floor and told me to get out, she never wanted to see me again.

I had enough. Something came over me all of a sudden, and I picked her up, turned her across my knee and gave her about six good whacks. I guess they were harder than I thought because Sally began to cry. I told her I was sorry, and she said she was the one to apologize, but I was so embarrassed I left.

I haven't seen her in five weeks because I don't dare. We don't go to the same school, so I can avoid her pretty easily. I still like her a lot, and friends tell me she still likes me.

Helen, would I make a big fool of myself if I called her up? — PUZZLED

DEAR PUZ:

You'd be a big fool if you didn't. What's a little spanking between friends, (if it doesn't happen again) when the girl admits she deserved it? —H.

Art Deco Reflects The Past

Exactly what is art deco?

It is a style which captures the mood of the Twenties and Thirties and flashes it on today.

The name "Art Deco" comes from the 1925 exhibition of "Arts Decoratifs" in Paris conceived to stimulate designers to use forms that could easily be adapted to modern mass production.

In fashion, it's characterized by fluid body-following lines; soft geometrics in prints; deep-colored geometric shapes in jewelry and imaginative uses and combinations of colors and materials.

Art Deco's geometric suns and clouds began to emerge late in 1966. Then came "Bonnie and Clyde" to infatuate the fashion world even further with the 1930 kids' way with berets, long scarves and kipper ties. The all-over patterns of curved and straight lines in stepped shapes were originally inspired by the Aztec temples of Mexico — the Thirties was the era when D. H. Lawrence and Huxley proclaimed that the land of golden dreams lay south of the border.

In handbags, the Art Deco direction takes to swingy little mesh bags, grained leathers and distinctive trims such as mirror effects, buckles and other belted looks. Box handbags fill the need for trim-line accessories to complete dress and suit turnouts. Shapes are square, elongated or oval treasure chest types.

Enameled jewelry in important to a very-1969 Thirties wardrobe. Crimson, orange, purple and jade green on moons, suns and clouds in geometric shapes are what to watch for, on everything: rings, bracelets, chokers, pins and clips, belts. The jewelry's riot of color, too, is directly from the Thirties: Russian ballet was the rage, and the strong colors of the sets and costumes influenced the Art Deco creators.

Animal jewelry is a favorite — serpent and ram's head bracelets and rings, turtle, fish and zodiac jewelry.

Necklaces are close to the neck in heavy choker and jewel-collar styles. Others are simple gold wires, with an ornament at the throat.

Earrings are large, and many have a dangling, symmetrical Far Eastern look.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS D. SCAHILL

Diana Grout Is Bride Of Thomas D. Scahill

Thomas D. Scahill claimed Diana L. Grout as his bride Saturday at St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax.

Diana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Grout of San Rafael, chose as her maid of honor, Cathy Colaputro of San Anselmo.

The best man was Steve Scahill, the bridegroom's brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scahill of Fairfax.

After a wedding trip to Yosemite National Park the couple will live in San Rafael.

Diana was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed at Capital Business Service in Oakland. Mrs. Terry Gordon of San Bruno is the bride's sister.

Thomas attended Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed at H and S Brakes in San Francisco.

Elderly Sleep

It's generally been the theory that the need for sleep diminishes as a person passes middle age. Recent research has shown, however, that while elderly people may sleep for shorter periods during the night, they make up the difference in cat naps during the day.

To Clean Filters

Most new air conditioners have permanent filters which don't need to be replaced but do need to be kept clean. Lift the filter out, shake off loose dust (onto paper) and then dip the filter up and down in suds. Rinse, dry and apply a coat of special filter oil to help "trap" and hold the next batch of soil.

Jeffrey Allen To Wed Kathleen Manz Dec. 27

The engagement of Kathleen Manz to Jeffrey T. Allen has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Manz Jr. of San Rafael.

The sister of Ken Manz of Berkeley and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon S. Taylor of Redwood City and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Manz Sr. of San Mateo, Kathleen is a San Rafael High School graduate. She attends the University of California at Davis and is employed with the Blue Chip Stamp redemption store in Sacramento.

Jeffrey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paterson B. Allen of San Rafael and the brother of James B. Allen. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Allen of Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gosland of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Jeffrey also is a San Rafael High School graduate, attends U.C. at Davis and is employed with the Blue Chip Co.

The couple are planning a Dec. 27 wedding.

Sherie Cross To Manage Tiburon Peninsula Club

Mrs. Sheret B. Cross has been appointed the manager of the Tiburon Peninsula Club, Alan W. Cundall, president of the board of governors, announced.

Mrs. Cross has been club secretary for three years and was recently named acting manager upon the resignation of Mrs. Howard Blethen who accepted a management position with the Sacred Heart Convent School in San Francisco.

Mrs. Cross is a native of Brockport, N.Y., where she attended the State University of New York. Prior to moving to California, she owned and operated a weekly newspaper in Brockport. She resides in Tiburon with her six children.

Sherie, as she is known, is an avid skier and tennis player, with interests in painting and the ballet.

Her duties will include the supervision of lifeguards, tennis assistants, maintenance workers and the others who operate the all-year swimming and tennis facility in Tiburon.

Sew New Holiday Dress With Sleeves

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

Your helpful column has given me so much courage that I am going to make my first dressy dress for the coming holiday season. In your opinion, how soon can a dress of this type be worn and should it have sleeves? — MRS. L. T. W.

DEAR MRS. L. T. W.:

You can begin wearing holiday-type, cocktail dresses right now. Whatever you do, don't wait until Christmas week to make and wear them. You'll get twice as much fun out of them if you begin ahead of the season instead of the very end when you can't wear them more than once to twice.

As to sleeves, this is a very personal decision you will have to make. Many of the newest clothes that are found in ready-to-wear departments will feature long sleeves this year. They really are a little newer and a welcome change. They are also more flattering if your arms aren't quite as nice as they were.

However, if you don't choose a dress with sleeves, perhaps you will want to add a jacket or coat making it an ensemble. Coats of velvets, brocades, alaskines and satins are very practical and fun to wear. You can wear them for almost any occasion that begins late in the day.

One word of advice on working with unfamiliar fabrics which often require special handling, be sure to test a sample with your machine stitching. It may be necessary to change the length of stitch. Also be sure to press a small sample of your fabric to avoid disastrous results; never press any fabric on the right side.

I'm proud that you are beginning to have more courage and to branch out; however, these are the kind of clothes that give you the greatest pleasure to wear and where you will save the most money. It's always great fun to work on a garment that you know will make you look beautiful!

DEAR EUNICE:

I bought some very expensive fabric for a dressy dress, and the content was wool and silk. When the dress was completed, I noticed several dark threads through the material and wonder if I got a piece of fabric that wasn't perfect. They look monstrous to me, yet no one seemed to notice them when I wore the dress. MRS. T. W. E.

DEAR MRS. T. W. E.:

The dark threads you noticed that occasionally ran through the fabric were not thread at all, but small pieces of lint that blew into the looms when your fabric was woven at the mill. These are usually not noticeable in dark fabrics but appear occasionally in light weight wools, as well as other textured fabrics. I have been told by people who work directly with the mills that it is much more costly to weave light colored fabrics than dark (white is the worst), because no matter how good the ventilating system is, there is always a danger that you will find an occasional piece of lint woven into the fabric.

I don't find this too noticeable and suggest you leave it in your fabric instead of trying to remove it which in turn might leave a blank spot in the fabric. These small things that are noticeable to you will probably never cause a second glance when your garment is worn. It is definitely not a flaw and you might find it in all better quality fabrics.

DEAR EUNICE:

Surely those sashes and belts with the long fringe aren't coming back in style again? I remember when I used to wear them and thought they were great until I looked through some old picture albums some years later and couldn't believe them. Lately, all the high-fashion clothes seem to look like they did when I was a young woman. I wish I had saved some of my old clothes. — MRS. J. G.

DEAR MRS. J. G.:

Yes, the new look today is very much like the look of the 20s, and fringe used almost anywhere is new. This is one of my pet suggestions for revamping an old dress — sash it with a silk sash, either solid or print that will hang down almost to the hem of your dress and definitely have fringed ends.

The scarves you see for the neckline also have changed shapes, they may be worn fringed or not, but the new look requires a very long scarf, 6 or 7 feet long. These can be made for a fraction of the cost of a ready made scarf and only takes a minute to make, they also make great gifts for special friends.

Hospital Volunteers To Present Awards At Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers will be held Wednesday at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda, Mrs. Peter Behr, chairman of the Council of Volunteers, announced.

A business meeting, presentation of awards and a fashion show featuring designs by teen-agers will highlight the session. Also on the program are a luncheon and a talk on the master plan for Marin General Hospital by Jan C. Smekens, an associate in the firm of Rex Whitaker Allen and Associates of San Francisco, the hospital's architectural consultants.

The business session will review the volunteer program for the past fiscal year and will report the total fund-raising effort. The awards for service to the hospital will be presented by Dr. Gwendolyn Campion, vice president of the board of directors of the Marin Hospital District.

MRS. MARTIN Silverman of Sausalito, organizer of the Bay Area Committee to Save Biafran Children, will speak at the dessert meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation Rodef Sholom at the temple in San Rafael Thursday. The 12:30 p.m. program will feature a film shown by Mrs. Silverman on the Biafran aid.

THE MARIN County Optometric Society Women's Auxiliary donated 50 additional copies of "Mommy and Daddy, You Can Help Me Learn to See," to the Marin County Health Department for use in the Public Nursing Division. Last year the group donated 150 copies and more were needed.

Mmes. Samuel Mann, Gerald Belanger and Howard Levenson presented the booklets to the health department as a public service project requested by the department. The booklets are authored by Dr. G. N. Getman, director of vision rehabilitation at Pathanay school for exceptional children, and Dr. J. W. Streff, vision consultant to Gesell Institute of Child Development.

The booklet is directed to parents of newborn children. It is in storybook form with the child telling the parents in the first person how his vision develops. Then it continues to tell how they can help arrange his environment to help his eyesight development.

Individual copies of the booklets are available to parents from members of the Marin County Optometric Society.

MILL VALLEY Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 205 will have a salad luncheon and card party Wednesday in the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., followed by cards. Mrs. Charles Norris is chairman and Mrs. Luke Hicks, assistant.

WEDNESDAY EVENING at 8:15 p.m. St. Anselm's Institute 98, Young Ladies Institute, will welcome Mrs. William Woolery, a member of

MRS. WILLIAM WOOLERY

Corpus Christi Institute in Fullerton, and the newly elected grand president of Young Ladies Grand Institute.

This will be her first official visit in the North Bay Area and members from Institutes in Marin and Sonoma Counties are planning to attend. Also present will be Miss Eleanor Martinez of Mill Valley, the institute deputy, and Mrs. Russell Silva of Petaluma, the district deputy.

Chairman for the evening is Mrs. Jack Benz, assisted by Walter Milani, Joseph Foster, Bernard DeBisschop, Thomas O'Toole, Frank Wilson, Clarence Curtin, John Daly, Duilio Artigiani, Louis Lucarotti, Richard Bettencourt and Misses Kathleen Doyle and Loretto O'Rourke.

ADULT EDUCATIONAL classes, emphasizing recreational interests, will be sponsored by the Reed District Parent-Teachers Club for all interested Marin County residents.

Instruction in guitar, will begin Tuesday in Room 1, Del Mar School. Beginners class meets at 7 p.m.; note reading and music theory, at 8 p.m., and intermediate class at 9 p.m. There are 10 sessions. William Steele of Corte Madera is the instructor.

Beginning stitchery classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. beginning Wednesday in room 9, Del Mar School. There are six sessions. Mrs. Warren Russell of Tiburon is the instructor.

An excerise class will begin Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Reed School auditorium. There are 10 sessions. Mrs. Wayne Cain of Tiburon is the instructor.

Antique furniture restoration will be taught beginning Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 15, Del Mar School. There are six sessions. Mrs. John B. Clark of Tiburon is the instructor.

Interior design classes will begin Oct. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in room 9, Del Mar School. There are six sessions. Mrs. James L. Potts of Mill Valley is the instructor.

Simplified gourmet cooking classes will begin Oct. 13, at 8 p.m., at the home of the instructor, Mrs. Myron Kaplan, 26 Cornell Street, Larkspur. There are six sessions.

Mrs. John B. Clark of Tiburon is registrar for the series.

Express Your Mood With Shirt Style

AP Newsfeature

This season shirts are the must fashion, an expression of our everchanging time . . . varied and inventive.

How shirts are worn depends on how one feels and one's image of the moment. This is the period where everything goes.

Shirts can be worn opened all the way down to the navel with lots of chain and pearl necklaces. Or, they can be buttoned all the way up with large ties and body chains.

Shirts can look very soft, feminine and demure with a mixture of tiny pearls to long pearl ropes of the 1930s.

Melanges of scarves worn together on the wrist, around the waist or ties around the neck, all add new freshness. Large thick ropes found originally in upholstery firms are worn knotted accented with a brooch or scarf around the neck.

And, a simple shirt can be part of a folk costume, just by the addition of right accessories — Indian beads, gypsy fringe scarf, or a cowboy leather belt and scarf.

Enzyme Action

Why the enzyme push in laundry products? Laundry experts say a trade group says enzymes provide a new way of breaking down certain soils and stains into simpler forms so that they can be more easily removed by the other detergent ingredients and the washing action.

ACT New York Debut Draws Jealous Raves

NEW YOR (AP) — American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco opened last night at the Anta Theater with "A Flea in Her Ear," earning a glowing review from the New York Times critic, who wants to keep them in New York.

Clive Barnes said in his review in the Times:

"Fly at once, fly to the Anta Theater and see the American Conservatory Theater in Feydeau's 'A Flea in Her Ear.'

"It is witty, graceful, and I assure you, it provides one of the best evenings, and certainly one of the funniest, you will get in the theater this season . . .

"The cast was excellent, following Mr. Champon's relentless pace with genuine histrionic athleticism. This San Francisco troupe is surely the best acting company in the country, and I wish it could somehow be persuaded to stay here.

"After all, San Francisco has all that sun, all those Chinese restaurants and that enormous bridge. What on earth does it need with actors? They, and the company's general director, William Ball, would be much better off with us.

". . . Apart from individual felicities, I admired most the general look and feel of the production. It had style. Better, even, it had class. This was champagne — and, with all respect to this California company, the champagne was blissfully not domestic."

Classes Canceled

HONOLULU (AP) — Harlan Cleveland, president of the University of Hawaii, will give students the day off Oct. 15 to talk about the Vietnam war.

A Vietnam Moratorium Day was proposed by student groups and Cleveland, a former U.S. ambassador to NATO, agreed to cancel classes.

The conservative-oriented Young Americans for Freedom challenged the plan. YAF attorney Albert W. Evensen contended that Cleveland acted beyond his authority, and said he would seek a court injunction forbidding the day off.

Red TV Tower

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht dedicated the 1,204-foot East Berlin television tower Friday night and inaugurated his country's first color television. The news service ADN said the tower—four years in construction — is Europe's second highest building after the 1,756 foot Moscow television tower.

Topless Case Judge Spurns Reply To Critic

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Earl Warren Jr. said yesterday he would not get into a public feud with the Sacramento County sheriff and district attorney over how he conducted the bottomless dancers' trial.

Warren said the trial was properly conducted. A jury found two nude dancers innocent of lewd conduct and indecent exposure.

After the verdict was reached Thursday, Sheriff John Misterly said he would continue to arrest bottomless dancers.

"I was amazed how the judge tampered with the jury and practically forced a not guilty verdict," Misterly said.

And Dist. Atty. John Price said, "The jury was literally coerced into acquitting those people."

SPLIT VERDICT

The jury at one point wanted to render a split verdict, finding the girls guilty of one charge but not the other. Rereading his instructions about the law, Judge Warren, son of the former U.S. chief justice, said the law did not permit that sort of decision.

The girls could not be found guilty of one charge and innocent on the other — by definition of the charges, Warren said.

The jurors continued deliberations and later acquitted the two dancers, Suzanne Haines, 22, and Sheila Brendenson, 22, employees of the Pink Pussy Kat beer bar in suburban Orangevale.

Bar owner Leonard Glancy, 59, also charged and acquitted, said he planned to resume bottomless dancing with Suzanne the star of the show.

But Glancy said he wants his lawyer to get a federal court injunction preventing Misterly from arresting his dancers.

Miss Brendenson decided to quit the business to write a book she wants to call "Naked Justice."

Warren said yesterday of Misterly and Price, "They stated their positions rather strongly yesterday but I'm not going to respond to them other than to say the trial was properly conducted.

'I'M A FIGHTER'

"A guy's natural reaction is to fight back and I'm a fighter. But I'm not going to do it. To have any public squabble like this makes it difficult for the public to understand that there is a pretty good continuity between police work, prosecution and judging."

Warren added that he had never "passed the buck to the jury or to anyone else. In the past when the evidence could only result in a not guilty verdict or, as a matter of law, I saw that the defendants were not guilty, I have always taken the burden on myself."

Warren said he won't back down from his oath to defend the constitution.

"This is an oath my family always has stood for," he said.

'Enter Laughing' Set For Petaluma Staging

Petaluma's Little Hills community theater will produce the comedy, "Enter Laughing," as its next venture.

Readings for the comedy will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Petaluma High School multiuse room on Fair Street.

Little Hills Theater is part of the adult education program of Petaluma High School and is open to any interested area resident. Annual class fee is $2.50.

Rehearsals for the upcoming show will be held Tuesdays through Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m.

"Enter Laughing," written by Joseph Stein, is based on a novel by noted television comedian-producer Carl Reiner. It is set in New York during the depression and follows the antics of a young man trying to break into the theater, over the objections of his conservative Jewish parents.

The play was one of the season's 10 best on Broadway in 1963 and later was made into a successful movie.

Roles are available for 11 men and 10 women. Men are particularly needed for the show, according to Elizabeth Martin, director. The male parts include some very strong character roles, including an adventerous but naive older teen-ager, a boozing English gentleman, a Jewish papa and a cranky old shopkeeper. Several young men also are needed.

Persons interested in acting and all phases of backstage work should attend auditions next Tuesday and Wednesday, said Mrs. Martin.

Rock Music Fans Swarm Into Mother Lode Town

JACKSON (AP) — Rock music fans were lined up seven abreast for more than a mile today as they trudged a gold country road to hear 17 hours of rock music.

Amador County sheriff's deputies estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons were on hand when the music started at 9 a.m., but one of the men behind the event said he would guess 40,000 to 50,000 persons were there.

Site of the "Gold Rush" music festival is a 40-acre hillside overlooking Lake Amador, a tiny lake in the Sierra foothills where miners panned and dug for gold a century ago.

The lake is in the west end of Amador County (population 12,000) about 30 miles southeast of Sacramento. The lake is about 10 miles west of Jackson, the county seat.

Sheriff's officers reported traffic was backed up about five miles at times on roads leading into the area.

Sheriff Joseph P. Martin said his deputies were patrolling roads around the recreation area, but would not enter the festival grounds itself unless there was trouble.

One officer said there had been no reports of trouble, except for the traffic jams.

The show sponsor, Dr. James S. Davis of Stockton, could not be reached. He had said no liquor would be allowed on the festival grounds, and ordered the private policemen he hired to confiscate any they discovered.

Wagner Opera Preview Set

A preview of Richard Wagner's "Gotterdammerung" will be given by John Rockwell, opera critic and University of California teaching assistant, at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the Caroline S. Livermore Room at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The last preview of the series, discussion of "La Forza del Destino," is scheduled for Oct. 30.

Mrs. Carlo Fowler of Kentfield is ticket chairman.

Orange Crate Derby Slated For Novato

The Northern California Orange Crate Derby, sponsored by the California State Jaycees, will start at noon tomorrow on San Marin Drive at San Carlos Way in Novato, according to John Stuber, state chairman for the derby.

There are 26 contestants from 12 cities — all winners from recent derbies held elsewhere in the state. The Novato Jaycees is tomorrow's host.

"You're a pet"

Navy Queried By Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A spokesman for 20th Century-Fox said yesterday the studio feels the U.S. Navy's charges for transporting company planes to Honolulu for a new film were excessive.

The studio said the Navy is asking $134,376 for transporting 33 world War II planes to Hawaii aboard the aircraft carrier Yorktown last december for "Tora, Tora, Tora."

In a letter to Capt. G. C. Nelson of the Navy transportation department in Washington, the studio said the planes were returned by barge at a cost of $82,180.

Charlottetown is the capital of Canada's Prince Edward province and is the only city in the district.

Jewel Thief Steals Kiss, Nearly Gets Self Nabbed

LONDON (UPI)—The elderly widow of American theatrical producer Gilbert Miller was robbed of a quarter of a million dollars in jewels at her luxurious Mayfair home yesterday by a "tall, dark and rather attractive" thief who also stole a kiss before fleeing.

The kiss nearly did him in.

Mrs. Kathryn Miller was breakfasting in bed when a masked raider burst into her boudoir. While his accomplices forced the household staff, at gunpoint, to lie face down on the floor, he snatched diamond bracelets and necklaces worth $250,000.

Before fleeing, the intruder—whom Mrs. Miller described as "tall, dark and rather attractive," leaned over her bed, told her "You are a pet, you really are," and kissed her lightly on the cheek.

"I told him I would have to go and wash my face and he answered 'Don't be wicked,' said the indignant widow.

She pressed a secret alarm button linked to the police station when the bandit leaned over the bed. When the intruders realized what she had done, they sped out of the house—dropping handfuls of jewelry valued at $48,000 on the way.

Detectives arrived at the home as the three men scrambled away—two in a stolen truck and one on foot.

"This wouldn't have happened if my husband had been alive," said Mrs. Miller, who is in her 70s. "He was a champion boxer."

Gilbert Miller, who died in January at the age of 84, produced plays in London and New York. His last in London was Harold Pinter's "The Caretaker" in 1961.

San Franciscan Faces Charges In Girl Attack

A San Francisco man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of armed robbery, rape and kidnapping after he allegedly assaulted a girl in Tamalpais Valley.

Nels Martin Jr., 42, was held in lieu of $25,000 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday.

Sheriff's deputies said the 20-year-old victim reported she was waiting for a taxi at Marina Green in San Francisco when Martin drove up and pulled her into his car.

She said Martin drove her to a fire trail near Peace Lutheran Church, 205 Tennessee Valley Road, forced her at gunpoint to disrobe and raped her. After the attack, which occurred about 7 a.m., the girl ran naked from where police were called.

Deputies found the car parked in the same spot and Martin was located in the underbrush. Deputies said a .22 caliber revolver and the girl's clothes were located inside the car trunk.

The first American multicolored postage stamp to be produced featured the flag flying over the White House.

Meters Yanked Out

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — This southern Oregon city of 24,000 began plucking its 850 parking meters out of the ground yesterday after the city council voted to remove all time restrictions on parking.

The idea was proposed by local merchants in hopes of stimulating trade.

Arrival Of Birds Means 'Do Not Disturb' Sign Up

The Richardson Bay sanctuary of the National Audubon Society will be closed to boating and hunting starting Oct. 11 due to the arrival of migrating waterfowl. The sanctuary will remain closed until next spring when the waterfowl leave, announced warden Fred Ross.

The Marin Audubon Society has announced October field trips.

Monday, Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley will lead a hike to a salamander pond beyond the Point Reyes Bird Observatory in Bolinas. Hikers will meet at 9:15 a.m. at the Purity store parking lot, East Blithedale and Camino Alto in Mill Valley. Late hikers may join the group at 10 a.m. at the Observatory at the end of Mesa Road, Bolinas.

Oct. 13 Mrs. Terwilliger will lead a canoe trip on the Novato Creek. Anyone who can swim is invited to join the group at Bel Marin Keys Community Center Dock No. 4, Montego Key, at 10 a.m. Canoeists should wear gloves.

On Oct. 19 a boat trip to the Farallon Islands will leave the Spinnaker Pier in Sausalito at 7 a.m. Boaters are urged to dress for wet and cold conditions. Reservations on a first come, first serve basis, may be made with the Marin Audubon Society, Box 441, Tiburon.

Mrs. Terwilliger will lead a bicycle trek along the Corte Madera waterfront Oct. 20 starting from the parking lot behind the Corte Madera City Hall at 10 a.m.

An auto caravan for nonhikers and short walkers will be led by Mrs. Terwilliger from the Mill Valley Purity store parking lot on Oct. 27 at 10 a.m.

Unruh Calls For Point Reyes Cash

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Democratic leader Jesse M. Unruh urged the Nixon and Reagan administrations yesterday to put up the money needed to complete the purchase of private lands in the Point Reyes National Seashore.

"Nearly 35,000 acres of prime recreational and scenic land remains to be purchased by the National Park Service, and if no action is taken by the federal government this year, private landowners will sell much of this property to private developers, and it will be lost to the people forever," Unruh said in a statement.

Unruh criticized the Republican administrations of President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan for not acting to buy the land.

At its opening Sept. 21, 1868, the University of Maine had 12 students and two faculty members.

Mill Valley Library Use Off; New Charges Blamed

Book circulation at the Mill Valley public library dropped 19 per cent in September from the same time last year, Librarian Dorothy Thomas told the Mill Valley library board Thursday night.

Mrs. Thomas attributed the circulation drop from 20,366 books in September 1968 to 16,546 last month to the library use charge levied against nonresident users.

She said the library has collected $5,039 since July in library card fees from selling 311 family cards at $14 each, 59 student cards at $5 each and $1,561 from charging 25 cents for individual book loans to persons who refuse to buy a card.

Board members asked Mrs. Thomas to prepare a report for the 8 p.m. Nov. 6 meeting in the library on how to cut library costs since the use card revenues might be less than the $14,000 estimated in June, she said.

Truck Hijacker Losses Soaring In New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — In spite of intensified police protection, truck hijacking cost shippers in the New York metropolitan area $2.2 million more in the first seven months of this year than in the same period last year, according to the New York State Motor Truck Association.

The loss through July this year was $8.22 million against $5.97 million a year earlier. Recovered property this year was $2.94 million, down from $3.05 million a year earlier. The worst hijacking usually is in the final quarter of the year and, at the current rate, this year's loss could be $16 million against $10 million for all of 1968.

"The Christas stealing season is yet to come," the association said.

The trucking companies in the metropolitan area have begun a type of emergency loan by which a company hit by a hijacking can draw small sums from a sepcial fund set up by the association. The funds are to be used to pay rewards and investigative costs to recover hijacked property.

Communion Sunday

The Presbyterian Church of Novato, 710 Wilson Avenue, will observe the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow in commemoration of the Worldwide Communion Sunday, according to Rev. D. M. Rayment.

Reappointments Requested To Alto Fire Board Seats

Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District directors have asked the board of supervisors to appoint incumbent Directors Milton L. Stannard and Leonard W. Lewis to the two expired board terms since no one else had filed for the two posts, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

The board, at Thursday night's meeting, also asked the county to review and update its Civil Defense program, canceled by the state in July, so that firemen can participate in state-sponsored disaster and civil defense programs.

Directors also rejected a request by the board of supervisors that they support publicly acquisition of the Point Reyes National Seashore because the seashore is outside their jurisdiction and "the supervisors are the ones that represent the people on these matters," Heynen said.

More Backing Given To Bonds

Three more organizations have joined the list to endorse the Oct. 14 $12.7 million Petaluma and Rohnert Park high school bond election.

Urging passage of the election are the East Petaluma Civic Association, Penngrove Citizens Advisory Council and the Dunham School Parent-Teacher Association.

The election will seek approval for $3.6 million in bonds and $9.1 million in state loans to finance a 10-year building program for junior and senior high schools in Petaluma and Rohnert Park.

Sophomore Class Elects Officers

Jane Siler has been elected president of the sophomore class at Rancho Cotate High School, Rohnert Park.

Other officers chosen were Melody Miller, vice president; Teresia Kunkel, secretary; Mary Forestler, treasurer, and Susan Harris, class representative to the student cabinet.

Undegrounding Lines On Agenda

The Rohnert Park City Council meeting Monday at 7 p.m. will include consideration of an ordinance requiring all new developments to underground utility lines.

On planning matters, the council will consider the request of Mrs. Margie Horst, 7459 Boris Court, to operate a gift, craft and book sales shop at her home.

A closed-door session is planned to consider appointments to the cultural arts commission and housing element committee.

WHEN'S NEXT QUAKE?

Scientists Measuring Earth Crust's Stress

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Scientists, using instruments deep underground, are trying to learn whether there is a link between earthquakes and the rapid buildup of tension in rock.

They say they have noted a quick increase in rock tension several days before tremors or earth slippages in the Salt Lake Valley. Then the rock compresses and the tension buildup starts all over again.

Drs. Kenneth Cook of the University of Utah and Maurice W. Major of the Colorado School of Mines began measuring the tension buildup last October, using instruments designed by Major.

The equipment was installed in the records vault of the Mormon Church about 20 miles southeast of Salt Lake City and 2,000 feet underground in the Wasatch Mountains.

Cook says a tremor which measured 2.3 on the Richter scale Jan. 23 came at the peak of the lunar tide and after a rapid buildup of rock tension.

"Our observation on Jan. 23 may have hit the jackpot," he said. "But on the other hand it may have been a mere coincidence. We need more data to prove or disprove the tidal theory."

He noted that the next tremor, which registered 2.2 on the Richter scale, happened when the tide was not strong. Again, however, there had been a rapid buildup of rock tension several days before the tremor.

Cook says the causes of the buildup in rock tension are not known and that much more study is needed.

"Our results so far offer the hope — but not the promise — for earthquake prediction in the future," Cook said. "We may have to operate our instruments for several years to gather sufficient data."

Cook and Major are measuring slippage of the Wasatch fault, about 1.5 miles west of the records vault. They have attached measuring devices to long quartz rods, which they say can detect movement down to one-one-hundred-thousandth of an inch on a rod 100 feet long.

The scientists say the underground records chamber is ideal because of the constant temperature control and because of the unique location deep in granite. The methods they are using have been used before in other places, but not in a location as well suited to such tests.

Cook says valleys in Utah and in Africa both were formed by the earth's crust pulling apart. He says huge portions of the earth are gradually cracking apart.

Cook predicts that if this process continues, millions of years from now a great body of water — like the Red Sea — will separate the United States through Utah and Arizona.

Tiburon To Eye Parking Rule Changes

Amendments to the parking and loading ordinance revising parking requirements for bars, restaurants and retail commercial establishments will be considered by the Tiburon Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The amendments as proposed by Planning Director Wayne E. Moody woud require restaurants and bars to provide one parking place per three seats for the first 100 seats, one per four seats for the next 100 seats and one for five seats for anything over 200 seats. The rule now is a flat one space per four seats.

Further, it requires one off-street parking space for each 150 square feet of gross floor area for retail space, excluding restrooms and mechanical space.

The parking ordinance amendments proposed also would define the size of a parking space, require landscaping as part of a parking plan, and require that parking improvements be completed before building occupancy. It also would allow day and nighttime uses to share the same parking space.

The planning commission also will review precise plans for remodeling the Mobil Oil Co. station at 1600 Tiburon Boulevard and hear an appeal by Ted W. Steiger on the planning director's denial of a minor subdivision.

MARIN
Agency
SNELLING AND SNELLING

MESSAGE OF THE DAY
We have a complete department that specializes in sales, technical and administrative positions. Counselors are experienced consultants, skilled in their professions. Our facilities are larger and better equipped than most big city offices. Snelling and Snelling has over 500 offices thruout the United States and 16 in the Bay Area.

★ JOB OF THE DAY ★
VARITYPIST. Outstanding local busy firm has an opening for one of these. They need an experienced person with a desire to do a professional job. If you are working in the city and are tired of the commute — call us quick. You start at $450.
Call Peggy Lee

FRUSTRATED. Are you unhappy on your present job? Is the commute getting you down? Then throw back your shoulders, hold your head up high and call us about this one. You can start a new career the company will train you, if you have it — you'll be in management in 2½ years. High school grad, stable, mature, aggressive, neat and the company pays the service charge. You get at least $450 to start with raises. Call Peggy Lee or Karen Lyn.

RECEPTIONIST. Some typing good telephone voice and personality. Sharp - mature attitude, able to think a little. $500. This is a good job. I hope you can land it. Call Pat Kelly.

BOOKKEEPER. If you knew how many employers needed good bookkeepers, either full charge or trainees, you would get all excited like we are. Listen to this — full charge, work in Marin County, make to $600 to start—prestige firm — nice people — much opportunity — no commute — no smog — nice and warm. Call Pat Kelly.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY. Typing — shorthand — organizing things — scheduling appointments—generally act like and be a big shot. $500.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY for married man or mature single. By the way, you must be able to WORK. You don't sell anything, you just do a good job, work hard, and have a pride in what you're doing — you start at $2.75 per hour, more if you're worth it. Call Karen Lyn or Peggy Lee.

EMPLOYMENT COUNSELORS
We need 3 at Snelling and Snelling because we are expanding — if you are sales minded — money motivated — able to use the phone — aggressive — want to work in pleasant surroundings with nice people — then this is for you. Do you have confidence that you can work with commissions as the basis of your earnings. Our present counselors are happy, doing well, and won't pass you to the manager if you don't fit. Commissions average $600 plus per month, after the training period. During the 3 month training period, you will not become wealthy. Call the Snelling and Snelling Company for appointment.

Agency
SNELLING AND SNELLING

MESSAGE OF THE DAY
We have a complete department that specializes in sales, technical and administrative positions. Counselors are experienced consultants, skilled in their professions. Our facilities are larger and better equipped than most big city offices. Snelling and Snelling has over 500 offices thruout the United States and 16 in the Bay Area.

★ JOB OF THE DAY ★
VARITYPIST. Outstanding local busy firm has an opening for one of these. They need an experienced person with a desire to do a professional job. If you are working in the city and are tired of the commute — call us quick. You start at $450.
Call Peggy Lee

FRUSTRATED. Are you unhappy on your present job? Is the commute getting you down? Then throw back your shoulders, hold your head up high and call us about this one. You can start a new career; the company will train you, if you have it — you'll be in management in 2½ years. High school grad, stable, mature, aggressive, neat and the company pays the service charge. You get at least $450 to start with raises. Call Peggy Lee or Karen Lyn.

RECEPTIONIST. Some typing — good telephone voice and personality. Sharp - mature attitude, able to think a little. $500. This is a good job. I hope you can land it. Call Pat Kelly.

BOOKKEEPER. If you knew how many employers needed good bookkeepers, either full charge or trainees, you would get all excited like we are. Listen to this — full charge, work in Marin County, make to $600 to start—prestige firm — nice people — much opportunity — no commute — no smog — nice and warm. Call Pat Kelly.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY. Typing — shorthand — organizing things — scheduling appointments—generally act like and be a big shot. $500.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY for married man or mature single. By the way, you must be able to WORK. You don't sell anything, you just do a good job, work hard, and have a pride in what you're doing — you start at $2.75 per hour, more if you're worth it. Call Karen Lyn or Peggy Lee.

EMPLOYMENT COUNSELORS
We need 3 at Snelling and Snelling because we are expanding — if you are sales minded — money motivated — able to use the phone — aggressive — want to work in pleasant surroundings with nice people — then this is for you. Do you have confidence that you can work with commissions as the basis of your earnings. Our present counselors are happy, doing well, and won't pass you to the manager if you don't fit. Commissions average $600 plus per month, after the training period. During the 3 month training period, you will not become wealthy. Call the Snelling and Snelling Company for appointment,

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

High Cholesterol Hardens Even Plastic Arteries?

VAN DELLEN

Several facets of arteriosclerosis are difficult to understand. Take, for example, the many persons walking about with a Teflon or Dacron graft that was inserted to bypass an obstructed artery.

The blood flows through the plastic tubing for many years without difficulty. But now and then the inner lining of the graft acts like a living vessel and develops atherosclerosis. How embarrassing this must be to those who believe that the hardening process occurs only in living arteries.

I AM A FIRM, but not a fanatic, believer in the relationship between high cholesterol levels in the blood and hardening of the arteries. It is a theory that has merit.

Furthermore, it is easy to lower a high cholesterol level. A diet low in animal fats supplemented with vegetable oils and spreads is helpful; drugs such as clofibrate and thyroid do the same. Even exercise and tranquility help.

BUT HOW HIGH must the cholesterol go before it is considered abnormal? The accepted normal level in the blood ranges from 130 to 250 mg. per 100 ml. Readings above 250 are not always easy to evaluate.

The test is difficult to do and when the blood from one person is given to several laboratories, the readings vary considerably. Recent studies on 10,000 clinically normal individuals showed that the upper limits of normal may exceed 250 and the level generally increases with age. The 130 to 250 reading applies to a 20-year-old; but at 30, the limit goes to 290; at 40, 315; at 50, 340; and in 60-year-old men and women the level is 321 and 356, respectively.

These readings are on the high side. Many of the 10,000 men and women in the study had levels far below those mentioned above. These people were considered to be normal when the blood was tested.

On the other hand, we do not know whether those with levels above 250 or 300 will develop heart attacks from one to four years later.

DURING THE LAST 10 years a dozen such projects have been conducted in this country. Large numbers of people have reported annually and many who had elevated cholesterol levels have sustained heart attacks. This is why a high cholesterol reading is considered a risk factor.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

EYES OF BROWN — AND BLUE

A reader writes: I am 15 years old and was born with one blue and one brown eye. Is it possible to change my eyes either to brown or blue?

REPLY

Yes 8— by wearing contact lesses. But why?

HYSTERECTOMY INDICATIONS

M.W. writes: Is hysterectomy done only when cancer is present?

REPLY

No. Most women undergo the procedure because of fibroids of the uterus.

CONTACT LENSES

S.T. writes: Are contact lenses effective in astigmatism?

REPLY

Yes. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on contact lenses.

ACUTE ANXIETY MEANS FEARFUL

S.T. writes: What is meant by the diagnosis, acute anxiety?

REPLY

Worry or concern of short duration and often of sudden onset.

Today's Health Hint — A greasy skin encourages acne.

Marin Requests State To Share Concert Costs

If the state is going to permit a folk music concert at Mount Tamalpais State Park, it must assume any added cost needed to handle the expected congestion, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows declared yesterday in a letter to the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

The letter expressed concern over a folk music concert planned at the Mountain Theater on Oct. 19.

Barrows pointed out that a similar concert held in June of 1967 brought such crowds that the highway patrol asked for help from the county sheriff, and the overtime bill for the sheriff came to $2,700.

The state should reimburse such costs, said Barrows. "If assurance of state reimbursement is not forthcoming before Oct. 19, we will recommend that the Marin County Board of Supervisors direct the sheriff to withhold any assistance that might be needed by the Highway Patrol or the state Department of Parks and Recreation personnel," he declared.

Barrows will ask the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tue sday to support his letter.

Wind Fells Limb; Motorists Hurt

A falling tree branch loosened by high winds struck a moving automobile in Penngrove last night, sending the car's two occupants to the hospital, the California Highway Patrol said.

The driver of the car, Mark Joerger, 17, of 113 Live Oak Drive, Petaluma, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma. He suffered scalp cuts in the accident, which occurred at 11:15 p.m.

His companion, Susan Blundell, 17, of 450 Adrian Court, Rohnert Park, was reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with head cuts.

Near-Collision Puts Driver Into Fence

Daniel T. Phipps, 22, of 228 Union Street, San Rafael, was treated for a head bruise today at Marin General Hospital following an accident on Highway 101 near San Rafael.

Phipps said his car was forced off the freeway onto Francisco Boulevard, tearing up 75 feet of chain link fence, when a car swerved in front of him at 2:50 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

A nesting hen pheasant must have at least 45 days in an undisturbed nesting site to produce a brood.

Senator Slates Hearings On Cable TV Regulations

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate Public Utilities Committee will hold hearings on proposed State Public Utility Commission regulation of cable television systems.

The hearings will be in San Francisco Oct. 14, Los Angeles Nov. 3 and San Diego Nov. 19, said Sen. George Danielson, D-Los Angeles, the committee chairman.

Danielson said he will draft a bill for the 1970 session of the Legislature that would bring cable TV systems under statewide control. A similar bill failed to pass this year.

"The objective is to bring about uniform statewide regulation and coordination of a fast-growing industry which up to now has been subject to varying requirements of the individual cities and counties," Danielson said.

"California is a fertile field for cable TV, and because of its potential growth now is the time to provide for orderly — but not penalizing — regulation and coordination on a statewide basis," Danielson said.

In cable or community television systems, the firm picks up signals of various commercial stations from other cities and pipes them into homes via direct cable, somewhat like a telephone system. The subscriber normally pays a one-time installation fee and then a monthly payment.

Southern Marin Scene From The Sky

Richardson Bay communities of Strawberry, Sausalito and Belvedere appear peaceful in this aerial view toward San Francisco. Strawberry, however, seems crowded in contrast to the pastoral look it presents from land. Its view is marred only by the wrench-shaped fill area jutting along the left side of the peninsula. Strawberry was once part of a Spanish land grant of the C. J. Reid family and much of it was purchased for developing in 1945 by the late Samuel R. Neider. On the southern half of the peninsula is Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary which celebrated its 10th anniversary this year. Across the bay is Sausalito with its growing houseboat colony appearing as a larger development than the city itself. The often criticized drydocks look more like a tiny boat from above. The tip of Belvedere is the extreme left and the San Francisco shoreline edges the top of the photo by Ed Brady of Aero Photographers of Sausalito.

Today is Saturday, Oct. 4, the 277th day of 1969 with 88 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1890 Mormons in Utah renounced the practice of polygamy, having more than one wife at a time.

In 1927 Al Jolson starred in "The Jazz Singer," the first full-length talking movie.

In 1938 Dr. Eduard Benes resigned as president of Czechoslovakia under German pressure.

In 1955 a United Air Lines DC4 hit Medicine Bow peak in southern Wyoming, killing 66 persons.

A thought for the day: Shakespeare said, "Striving to better, oft we mar what's well."

Developing Of Parks On Agenda

Development and use of parks will be considered at the Petaluma City Council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, a member of the Recreation, Music and Parks Commission, will report on a proposed picnic grove at Lucchesi Park and the uses of Baseball diamonds by Little League teams at Lucchesi and Kenilworth Parks.

A new member of the commission is also expected to be appointed.

WORD-A-DAY

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Risky Business – Basing Play Upon An Opponent's Manner

According to the traditional ethics of bridge, you are not supposed to notice or to be influenced by your partner's speed or hesitation, or other manner. You may base your play upon an opponent's manner, but you do so at your own risk. The point is illustrated in a hand played in the match between the United States and the Republic of China in the 1969 world championships.

CONTINUES HEARTS

West led the ace of hearts and continued with the jack of hearts. Billy Eisenberg, playing the South hand for the United States, ruffed the second heart in his hand, and led a diamond to the king.

When West's queen appeared, Eisenberg had to decide whether this was a singleton or a false card from the doubleton queen-jack. We know what it was, but Eisenberg did not have our advantage of looking at the Eart-West cards.

Eisenberg swiftly led the next card from the dummy: the king of hearts; and East unhesitatingly discarded a spade. Now Eisenberg knew who had the jack of diamonds.

WOULD RUFF

If East had started with only the doubleton 9-7 of diamonds, he would almost surely ruff the king of hearts. South might need a discard, and East's remaining nine of trumps would not seem worth keeping.

If East were a very thoughtful player he might wonder why South was trying for a discard on the king of hearts before drawing trumps. After a second or two of consideration, East might see the plot and might discard even if he had started only with two worthless trumps.

SLAM FINESSE

But what defender could work out the situation so quickly as to discard without the slightest hesitation on dummy's king of hearts? Eisenberg shrewdly decided that East's prompt discard was based on a desire to hang onto the J-9 of trumps. Declarer took a finesse with the ten of trumps and made his slam.

DAILY QUESTION

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Your singleton king of clubs is not really worth three points as a high card as well as two points for being a singleton. It is probably worth only three or at most four points. But the hand is still worth an opening bid.

Two Airlines Talk Merger in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — American Airlines and Western Airlines reportedly have held extensive talks about merging.

The airlines are still far from agreement and for the moment no further talks are scheduled, however, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

STUMBLING BLOCK

The stumbling block to a quick agreement is Las Vegas financier Kirk Kerkorian, who acquired a 28 per cent interest in Western through a tender offer earlier in the year.

Officials at Western, headquartered here, declined to comment on the report.

It was indicated that American and Western have talked tentatively in terms of American's offering to exchange one share of its stock for each share of Western, according to the Times. American's stock traded at $32.37 a share yesterday and Western at $25.75.

MUM ON TALKS

Both American and Kerkorian aides, according to the Times, refuse to confirm or deny that Kerkorian met recently with George A. Spater, American's president, on the merger question. Kerkorian aides will say only that there have been "no meaningful" discussions.

The Times reported that a high-placed American official said his line is holding merger talks with a number of other carriers but would not identify them.

SECOND LARGEST

The official, when asked whether American might be willing to raise its offer to possibly attract Kerkorian, said if terms could be agreed upon that were equitable to stockholders of American, they would be interested.

Ultimately, if the lines reach an agreement and it is approved by federal authorities, the merger would create the nation's second largest airline just behind United.

Charges Withheld Following Arrest

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Creighton Scott Wyatt, 23, of Mill Valley, pending further investigation by the district attorney's office.

He was arrested Thursday in Sausalito on suspicion of battery and possession of dangerious drugs and marijuana following a fight with a Marin City man in Vina del Mar Park.

Species of mosquitoes vary in their favorite biting targets. Aedes aegypti, the dreaded yellow-fever carrier, prefers the body, while most other mosquitoes seem to favor the face and ankles.

EISENHOWER CARTWHEEL

Drawing of a proposed one dollar coin bearing the likeness of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower has been displayed to the House Banking Committee in Washington. The committee yesterday approved a bill authorizing minting of the coin, which like others in recent years, will be of "sandwich" metal rather than solid silver. (AP Wirephoto)

New Group Will Aid Senior Citizens

A new volunteer group, Senior Visitors, is being formed by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council to instruct art classes, organize games and lead music and story programs at the San Rafael Convalescent Hospital, announced executive director Edward Ryken.

Anyone interested in joining may obtain information from Ryken at council headquarters, 914 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Chiefs of the Northwest tribes — the Haida, Tsimshian, Tlingit, among others — strove to outdo each other's totem poles by taking on new names and emblems, and then having these self-proclaimed honors carved on larger and larger totems.

Three Would-Be Customers Sue Inn Over Service

A San Rafael real estate man and a young couple accompanying him who were refused service at the Mountain Home Inn on Mount Tamalpais have filed suit in Marin Superior Court asking $3,000 damages from the restaurant owners.

Peter Sterner said that on Sept. 9 he had been showing homes to Jerry and Sherry Finkelstein, both of whom he described as well clothed and shod, when they decided to stop at the restaurant for lunch.

The proprietor, P. T. Vincent, declared however, that the Finkelsteins were "hippies," and said "we don't want your kind here." Sterner added that Finkelstein has long hair, but that he and his wife are not "hippies."

For the "humiliation and embarrassment" suffered, the trio is asking $1,000 and an additional $2,000 in punitive damages from Mr. and Mrs. Vincent.

Rice University is at Houston.

College Of Marin Runoff Election Due Next Week

A runoff election for a freshman men's representative will be held Wednesday and Thursday at College of Marin after none of three candidates gained a majority in the two-day election ending yesterday, student body parliamentarian Delman Jackson reported.

Hal Pritchard drew a plurality, 131 votes, while Philip C. Scott drew 103 and Martin Schaaf 29 votes.

Three other class representatives were elected, and two amendments to the Associated Students constitution failed to win the necessary two-thirds vote.

Steve Berringer defeated William Acosta, 138 to 128, for sophomore men's representative. Sherri Evans defeated Elaine Strahlendorf, 122 to 51, for freshman women's representative. Rosie Shortino, who was unopposed, won 126 votes for sophomore women's representative.

The two amendments drew 159 votes, but total votes cast were 297, meaning 198 yes votes were necessary for passage, according to David Garber, coordinator of student activity.

One amendment would have given executive council officers one-year terms instead of one semester.

The other, which none of the election officials mentioned in pre-election statements, would have allowed the student body president to make his appointments within two weeks of his election in May instead of waiting until the fall semester opens.

WINE DISCOVERIES
Call 456-6660
WHEN? Very soon!
Cooperage, fermenter, lab equipment are in, so our federal license as a Bonded Winery should now be issued quickly. We have in mind the production of an unusual wine rarely found in this country, but more of that later. There will, of course, be all those distinctive "Wine Discoveries" — one or more a month; the best wines of California and the world, selected by a panel of judges headed by Fred Cherry. Memberships in the "Wine Discovery of the Month" Club keep coming in, for delivery after we open. Twelve international adventures in wine drinking, with enlightening descriptions, sent anywhere in the state — $10 per quarter, $35 per year. A great Christmas gift! Better write in for priority; great wines are in short supply, so memberships will be restricted.
HELP WANTED (Wine Lovers)
We will need all kinds of help — part time and full, paid and volunteer — as classroom assistants, tasting room salesmen, sommeliers, order takers, phone advisory service, mail order and shipping, wine making tasters. The one essential requirement: dedication to and love of wine. Drop me a line or phone 456-6660. Describe your special wine interest and we'll set up a glass of wine and an interview.
A SPECIAL INVITATION

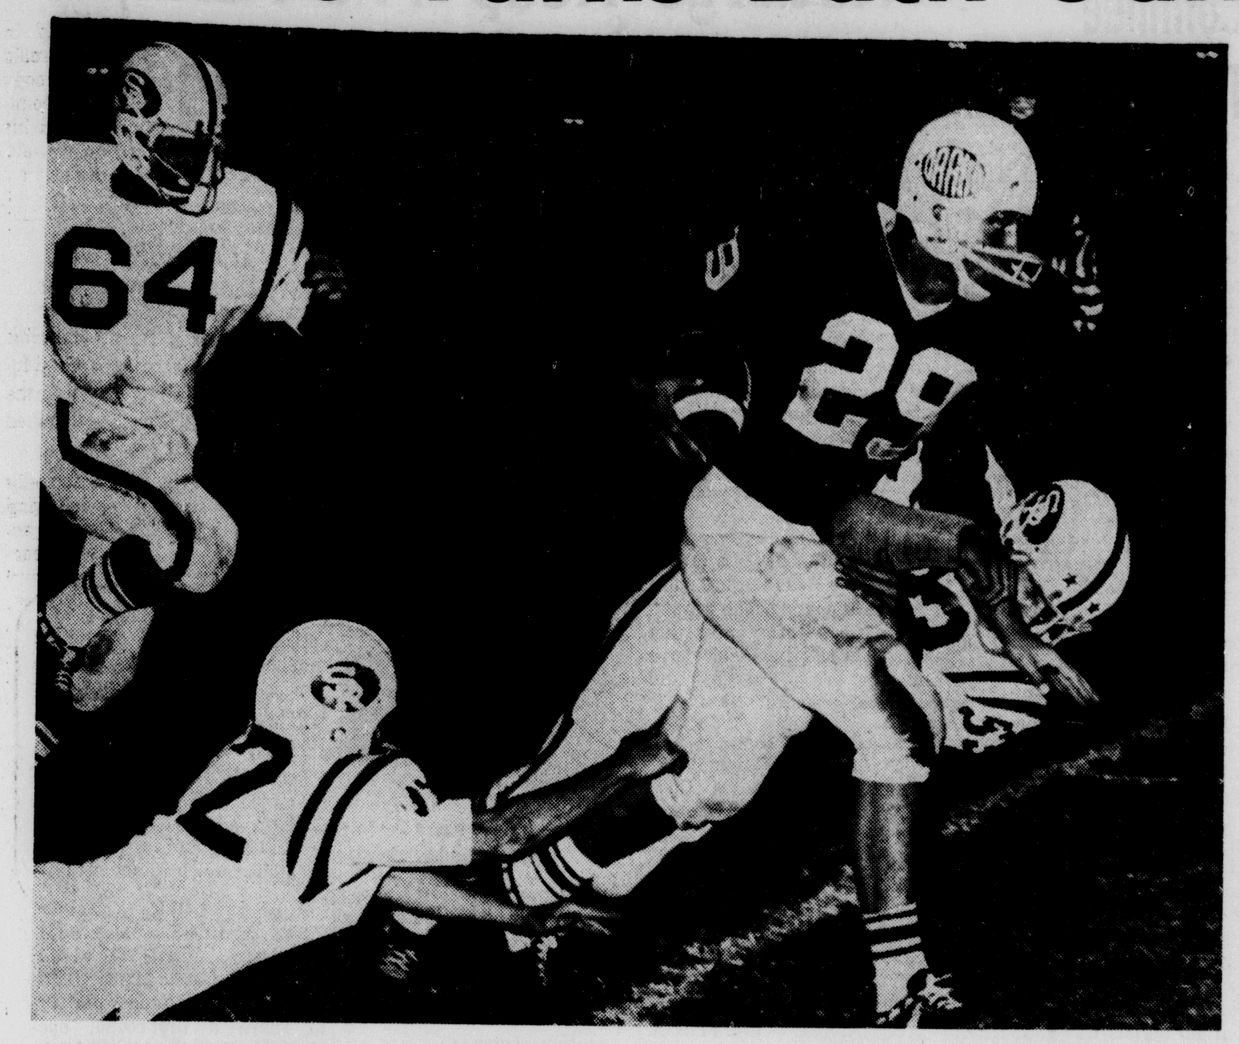
Drake Turns Back San Rafael; Petaluma Loses



THE LAST TOUCHDOWN — Drake senior fullback Bob Sutherland rambles 15 yards for what is probably his last high school touchdown as San Rafael defenders Dan Jordan (64), Lowell Widmer (12, on ground) and Dan Meredith (33) try in vain to stop him. Sutherland suffered torn knee ligaments later in the game and will be out for the season.

COMING SOON: 'OH! CALCUTTA!'

Redwood High School football coach Bob Troppmann, embroiled in an athletic hair-grooming controversy which prompted him to resign as school athletic director, found his name on the marquee as he addressed the Corte Madera Lions Club Thursday night. Troppmann, whose policy against long-haired athletes was temporhairily rescinded by Tamalpais District Supt. Bob Torrey, reportedly told the Lions some shaggy dog stories. The issue will be brought before the Tam District School Board meeting Monday night at Redwood High's Little Theater. Who gets top billing hasn't been determined as yet. (Ed Sabo photo)

SAD SONG FOR GIANTS: IT'S BYE-BYE, ORGAN

The San Francisco Giants, who let another ball club grab first place for the fifth successive year, had something else plucked from their grasp yesterday. Someone stole the Giants' electric organ.

The portable organ was missing from its home in the right field mezzanine box at Candlestick Park.

Marin Catholic Ties Rancho Cotate, 21-21

PETALUMA — Marin Catholic High School's football team finally got its offense into a going thing last night, but it was a little too late and not quite enough as the Wildcats rallied to gain a 21-21 tie with Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park at Durst Field.

The Wildcats trailed 21-7 in the final period when they put together scoring drives of 40 and 60 yards to get the tie. Dennis Finnegan scored with eight minutes left from one yard out and a conversion run by Mark Lewis made it 21-15.

Quarterback Matt Hamilton then scored on a four-yard rollout with two minutes left to tie it, but kicker Pat Charters missed the extra point which would have won the game. He also failed in a try for a field goal from 44 yards out with 17 seconds left.

The Wildcats had taken a 7-0 lead on a weird opening kickoff, when Lewis returned it to the 45-yard line, bobbled it and teammate Jerry Rupiper picked it off in midair and ran it the rest of the way in on a play that covered 85 yards.

From there on in it was mostly Rancho Cotate as halfback Mike Stephens scored three touchdowns, two on short runs and one on a an 11-yard pass from quarterback Steve Wlodarczyk.

Marin Catholic's running game was in fine form, as the Wildcats rolled up 306 yards rushing, topped by Lewis with 133 yards in 11 carries and Finnegan with 92 yards in 16 carries.

Vallejo Stops Trojans

By STEVE WYNNE

VALLEJO — When a team makes scoring a regular habit, it becomes a tough club to beat.

Vallejo High's undefeated Apaches were just that last night as they scored every time they had the ball in the first three periods to roll to a 48-26 win over Petaluma's previously undefeated Trojans in the North Bay League football opener for both clubs.

Quarterback Greg Carter blended a good passing attack with a vaunted ground game to help Vallejo jump ahead 12-0 in the first quarter.

But they Trojans did what they weren't supposed to against Vallejo — ran — and used their passing to its fullest advantage to drive to a score in the opening minutes of the second stanza. Quarterback Fred Klemenok hit half Steve Hing with a 14-yard pass to the Apache 1-yard line to set up the score, coming moments later on a Hing run.

Vallejo drove to another touchdown to take an 18-8 lead before a 56-yard Klemenok-to-Bob Garcia aerial set up the second Petaluma score, a 2-yard pass from Klemenok to Kurt Jastrow.

PASS PRODUCTION

The Apaches scored on the last play of the first half and the Trojans the second play of the second half. That touchdown was another Klemenok-to-Gracia production, a 51-yard scoring pass.

The final Klemenok touchdown strike was a 3-yard toss to Garcia in the game's final minutes.

Klemenok had another good game in the air, completing an unofficial 11 of 22 passes for 243 yards and three touchdowns. Seven of the tosses were to Garcia, good for 209 yards and 2 scores.

The Petaluma offense was built around Klemenok's passing and the running of Hing, who was the leading Trojan rusher despite coming out of the game in the third quarter.

Linebacker John Fadelli and lineman Dave Antognini were standouts on the overworked Petaluma defensive effort.

Barry Tells Warriors: 'I Will Return'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rick Barry says he will return to the San Francisco Warriors after his contract with the Washington Caps expires.

The five-year contract Barry recently signed with the National Basketball Association team calls for $1 million, the Washington Post said it had learned.

Barry's contract with the American Basketball Association's defending champions has two years remaining, at $76,000 a year, with a one-year option.

A U.S. district court in San Francisco has ruled that, pending trial, Barry must play with the Caps or no one else.

VERBAL AGREEMENT

Barry contends he had a verbal agreement that he would not have to leave the Bay Area if the Oakland Oaks moved. The Oaks were sold and moved to Washington this season.

Barry said yesterday he expects a merger of the ABA and the NBA soon.

"Salaries have skyrocketed. These guys ought to count their blessings. I can't conceive the price structure going any higher," Barry said.

Former Giant O'Connell Killed

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Danny O'Connell, 40, former third baseman for the Washington Senators, was killed yesterday when the car he was driving hit a utility pole here, police said.

Passaic County officials said O'Connell apparently suffered a heart attack prior to the accident.

O'Connell, who lived in Bloomfield, also played with the Milwaukee Braves, Pittsburgh Pirates, New York and San Francisco Giants.

China Golf Team Leads U.S. By Two

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Taiwan team of Hsieh Yung Yo and Hsu Chi San fired a three-under par 139 today to take a two-stroke lead over the United States in the third round of the 17th World Cup Golf Tournament.

Americans Orville Moody and Lee Trevino shot a combined 140 to complete the third cycle of the four-day tournament with a total 418 to trail the Chinese pairs 416.

Thailand's youthful Sukree Onsham and Suchin Suwanapongse returned a duplicate 140 for the round but tallied a three-round aggregate of 419, one stroke behind the United States for third place going into the final round.

INDIVIDUAL LEADER

Hsieh's 35-34—69 gave him a three-day individual card of 205 two strokes up in the individual competition for the International Trophy.

Sukree tied with Eleuterio Nival of the Philippines at 67 for the day's low score. Sukree, 26, was helped to his day's low with an eagle 3 on the 467-yard 15th hole.

Pirates Finally Come Alive To Post First Victory, 17-7

By GARY TISCHLER

Drake High School defeated San Rafael High, 17-7, in the Marin County Athletic League football opener for both teams last night before some 1,500 fans at San Rafael.

That terse bit of news could be nothing but bad news for some MCAL teams.

What happened was that the Pirates of San Anselmo just may have found themselves after staggering around in the dark for an awful long time, losing their first two games by wide margins to Petaluma and Vallejo.

The game started out in gruesomely typical fashion for the Pirates, who where whomped in two non-league outings. After almost an entire half, they had been pushed around by the Bulldogs, had yet to gain a first down or complete a pass that gained yardage and they were sitting not too pretty on their own 41 yard line.

KEY PLAY

Right about then, things started to click. The key play was a fourth and five on the San Rafael 46, which the Pirates made good with a 17-yard pass from quarterback Kevin Peak to Jim Forni.

Two plays later, the combination worked for a 34-yard touchdown toss and, amazingly, the Pirates were ahead, 7-0. They padded it to 14-0 in the third quarter on a 15-yard blast by fullback Bob Sutherland, set up on a nifty 25-yard pass from Peak to end Jim Dominguez. And they made it 17-0 on a 20-yard field goal by kicker John Loane, who later had a 22-yarder nullified by a penalty.

For once, the Drake defense, which had been severely punished for 66 points in earlier games, held up. In fact, the pass defense, most vulnerable to the bomb in two previous outings, was the star of the show as Drake defenders nipped off three interceptions and held three San Rafael quarterbacks to a 7-for-24 showing.

NO KEYHOLE

For San Rafael, it was a matter of not coming through with the big play at the right time. For most of the first half, the Bulldogs knocked loudly, but couldn't find the keyhole. The drove to the six and missed a field goal, they drove to the four and were stacked up, while dominating play for most of the first half.

They didn't find themselves until the whole thing was over, with Lowell Widmer finally igniting a long drive that came through with a two-yard scoring sneak by Widmer, with just 14 seconds left.

PIRATE STAR OUT FOR YEAR

Drake High School's 17-7 Marin County Athletic League football win over San Rafael last night was a costly one.

The Pirates lost top fullback and defensive end Bob Sutherland for the season. Sutherland suffered torn ligaments inside his knee after a run in the third quarter.

Sutherland was the league's leading rusher last year.

Miami, Idaho Continue TD Parade

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The touchdown parade continues in college football.

Miami of Florida whipped North Carolina State 23-13 and Idaho turned back Southern Mississippi 31-21 last night to continue the high scores compiled during the opening weeks of the 1969 season.

The Miami Hurricanes came from behind a 13-10 halftime deficit to down the Wolfpack in the Orange Bowl. Vince Opalsky, who rushed for 120 yards in 26 carries, swept left end for 24 yards to get Miami's go-ahead touchdown drive started. Soph Tom Sullivan bucked over from the three to put Miami in front for good at 17-13.

THREE GOALS

Three field goals by Jim Huff, from 22, 29 and 37 yards, out, put the icing on the cake for the Hurricanes.

Quarterback Steve Olson and split end Jerry Henden connected on three touchdown passes to lead Idaho over Southern Mississippi at Mobile, Ala.

Altogether Olson completed 32 passes and Henden snared 16 passes, both Idaho School records. One of the Olson-to Henden TD aerials was good for 41 yards. Olson also scored a touchdown himself on a keeper from the two.

Redlegs Keep The Faith, Rehire General Manager

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds have retained Robert Howsam as general manager, giving him a two-year contract, while promising word on the future of manager Dave Bristol by World Series time.

Cincinnati president Francis Dale announced at a news conference that Howsam, who came to the Reds in 1967 from the St. Louis Cardinals, had been given a two-year contract, praising Howsam as an "astute baseball man."

"I think we should have won," Howsam said of the 1969 season in which the Reds finished third in the National League's Western Division. He promised that the club would "probably have something to say," about Bristol by World Series time.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors and the Los Angeles Lakers, winners in a National Basketball Association double header here last night, play each other here tonight in the feature of another twin bill.

The San Diego Rockets, stopped by the Warriors 124-114 in last night's opener, go against the Phoenix Suns, who lost in the second game to Los Angeles 111-107.

Jeff Mullins led a third-quarter Warrior charge that decided what up to then had been a see-saw contest. He finished with 32 points. His teammate, Nate Thurmond had 21. Elvin Hayes, NBA rookie of last season, paced San Diego with 25.

Phoenix, behind 18 points in the third quarter, narrowed the gap to two points with a minute left.

Gail Goodrich, who had 31 points, and Connie Hawkins led the Suns' charge. Jerry West was high with 32 for the Lakers, who also got fine shooting from Keith Erickson in a rally that overcame a six-point halftime deficit.

San Rafael's Cadets Fall

Disaster, by now something of a regular diet for the San Rafael Military Academy's football team, came up in big servings last night when the Cadets were blasted by Kelseyville in Lake County, 58-0.

It was the Cadets' second straight loss and the third game in which they were shut out. They have yet to score, being tied 0-0 in their opener and losing their second game, 26-0.

Last night's game was strictly a slaughter, as Kelseyville scored 26 points in the second quarter for a 38-0 halftime lead.

The Cadets never got further than the Kelseyville 48-yard line. They came out in the hole offensively, being held to minus 34 yards rushing, and just one yard passing.

Walking Catfish Banned By State

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Fish and Game Commission has banned the importation, possession or sale of the so-called walking catfish which could crowd out game fish if released into public waters.

The commission said yesterday that the fish had been imported from Africa and Asia as a pet and is a predator.

In other action, a special antlerless deer hunt in Humboldt County from Nov. 15-30 was approved to control excess damage of seedling trees.

The commission said 600 permits will be issued by public drawing for the hunt which will be held in the Six Rivers National Forest and adjacent private lands.

The commission also limited waterfowl hunting to Wednesdays and Sundays after the Oct. 10 opening day on five areas in the San Joaquin Valley.

Buick Open Tourney Dropped; Out Of Gas

DETROIT (AP) — The profit squeeze in the automotive industry, scheduling problems and the inability to draw the biggest names in golf are being blamed for the death of the 12-year-old Buick Open Golf Tournament.

Buick Division of General Motors announced yesterday that it was dropping sponsorship of the tournament, which has carried a purse of $125,000 in recent years.

The Buick has never been able to draw golf's top names. One problem has been the schedule, which has alternated between early June and early July. The early June date fell just before the U.S. Open and July fell just before the British Open. Either way, most golfers shooting for the prestige tournaments chose to sit the Buick out.

RIVAL AUTOS

Another problem has been the fact that the Buick was sponsored by Buick. Some major stars, such as Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, have tie-ins with other automakers.

The schedule problem might have been solved by moving the tournament, which was played at the Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club in the Flint, Mich., suburb of Grand Blanc, to an available late summer date. But again the automotive sponsorship interfered—a late summer schedule would conflict with preparations for introduction of new models.

Jerry Rideout, public relations chief for Buick and tournament director for the past 10 years, said in announcing cancellation of the tournament that it was a victim of a reassessment of company publicity practices.

PROFITS FALL

The estimated cost of sponsorship was $225,000 and while that's not much for a corporation which had profits of about $1.5 billion last year, the auto industry is in a period of retrenchment as profits continue to fall despite rising sales.

The death of the Buick will leave Michigan without a major PGA event next summer. An attempt to start a second major tournament this summer ended in a fiasco when the sponsors of the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic were unable to come up with the promised prize money at the end of the tournament.

Smith, Koch Gain Semi-Finals In Coast Tennis

BERKELEY (AP) — Stan Smith and Thomas Koch of Brazil moved into the semifinals of the Pacific Coast International Tennis Tournament Friday.

Smith, a U. S. Davis Cup player from Pasadena, beat Australian Bob Carmichael, 6-4, 6-4 and Koch defeated Roy Barth of San Deigo, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Moving into the women's semifinals were Leslie Hunt, a 19-year-old Australian, who beat Eseme Emanuel of South Africa, 10-8, 3-6, 6-3, and Winnie Shaw of Scotland, who defeated Pixie Lamm of UCLA, 1-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Smith was to face Koch in the semifinals today. Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., was to face No. 1-seeded Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va.

Sonoma High Ties Analy

SEBASTOPOL — The Sonoma High Dragons came within inches of winning their North Bay League Section II football opener here last night but settled for a 13-13 deadlock with the Analy Tigers.

Down 13-0 at the half, the Dragons rallied behind the running of halfback Tom Xavier and passing of quarterback Dan Briggs to tie the game up with touchdowns in the third and fourth stanzas.

A bad snap from center on the extra point kick attempt in the final quarter was the difference between a win and a tie for Sonoma.

Xavier carried 15 times for 62 yards and Briggs completed 7 of 17 passes for 68 yards. Coach Bill Leone also said guard John Kelly and tackle Brian Dillman were standouts.

Raiders To Test Miami's Griese

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Griese, who has lost his title "the AFL's best young quarterback" to Cincinnati's Greg Cook, now must fight being labeled "the AFL's lease-productive veteran quarterback."

A success story for two seasons, the likeable kid from Purdue is finding it tough in American Football League year No. 3.

Miami is 0-3 and Griese's aerial statistics put him at the bottom of the league in percentage. Bob has hit only 42-of-103 tosses for 40.3 per cent, 718 yards and just two touchdowns. He was a 52 per cent thrower last fall and hit for 21 TDs.

Griese tries to pull himself out of the losing role tonight when the Dolphins meet undefeated Oakland in an early-season rematch. (The game will be televised on Channel 32 at 5 o'clock.)

Oakland rode George Blanda's last-minute field goal to a 20-17 win over Miami two weeks ago. The Dolphins played their very best and still got booted.

The Raiders, co-favorites in the AFL Western Division along with Kansas City, haven't been smooth despite their spotless record. Daryl Lamonica finally began to hit in last week's 38-23 win over Boston with four touchdown passes.

Hewritt Dixon has started slow in the rushing section, but second-year man Charley Smith has taken up the slack. Smith's 225 yards lead the AFL after three weeks.

Jim Kiick is the top Miami gainer with 169 yards and has zipped in for three touchdowns—more than any other AFL runner. Larry Csonka, 240-pound fullback from Syracuse, returns to action after five weeks on the sidelines with head injuries. Stan Mitchell, the starter with Csonka ill, was lost last week against Houston with a shoulder separation.

Miami has returned Olympic sprint king Jimmy Hines to the active list, but early-week workouts showed the Californian still has trouble holding onto the football.

49ers Actually FAVORED! In Home Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Still looking for their first victory, the San Francisco 49ers open their home season tomorrow against the Washington Redskins, 1 p.m.

Winless in six exhibition games and two regular-season encounters, the 49ers are actually favored to win this one, mostly because of Redskin weaknesses rather than their own strengths.

In his first season as Washington coach, the redoubtable Vince Lombardi has led the Skins to a 1-1 record so far with an opening-game victory over New Orleans and a close defeat by Cleveland.

The 49ers have two major problems in this one; stopping the passing game of Sonny Jurgensen and getting their own offense moving.

Against Green Bay last week, the defense performed well, but quarterback John Brodie once again had difficulty getting any points on the board.

Still, Brodie passed for 282 yards and a touchdown. The running game, most of it handled by fullback Ken Willard, rolled up only 112 yards.

The 49ers welcome back defensive end Stan Hindman to full-scale action after a shoulder injury. Running back Bill Tucker is also slated for action.

While 49er Coach Dick Nolan is concerned about Jurgensen's passing, he is also worried about the running of rookie Larry Brown, who piled up 95 yards in 14 carries against the Browns.

BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

A Smashing Debut By Marin Newcomer

Judy Hutton of San Rafael is new to Marin County bowling, so her 597 series in the Lutheran Late League at San Rafael's Country Club Bowl is quite a start.

Since she doesn't have a Marin County average, she was in the process of establishing one when she strung out games of 220, 183 and 194. It was during her third week of league play, so established her average at 163.

"I haven't been bowling in league for two years," explained Judy, a supervisor in the IBM department of a San Rafael type-setting company. "I bowled in a league in Montana two years ago and had a 142 average. Yes, that 597 series is my highest ever."

STRIKES TO SPARE — Ron Baccei's big 674 series in the 910 Travel League at Greenbrae Lanes was topped by a 261 game. . . . Bill Poulopoulos' 617 series 870 Limited Scratch League at Greenbrae included a 258 line. . . . Jerri Scheiner of the Winter Wonders League at Country Club Bowl had her highest game ever when she rolled that 233 game (an apology for that typographical error last week that called Jerri's game 223) . . . Joe Filippo of the 910 Classic was high man at Country Club Bowl with his 257 game and 632 series . . . Jarth Oates rolled a 255 line in the Twilite Twirlers League at Country Club Bowl. . . . Larry Martin rolled a 256 game to feature scores in the Northern California Merchants League at Greenbrae Lanes.

THIS AND THAT — In the Coffee Cuppers League at Greenbrae Lanes, Hilda Wickersham's 232 game led a total of six games of 200 or more . . . At Country Club Bowl, Dede Gotelli picked up a 6-7 split in the Agents 1108 League and Eileen Duane did the same in the Bowlerettes. . . . New bowler Eleanor Gamba, 119 average, rolled her first 200, a 203 in the Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. . . . Kitty Mathews was star of the San Quentin Four League with her 214-570. . . . Bob Wright (137 avg.) rolled a 211 line in the Hawaiian League at Nave Lanes . . . Barbara Eastland missed a 169 triplicate by two pins in the Mixed Mates League and Midge Moore missed an 81 triplicate by one pin in the Hi-Lo's, both at Country Club. Wayne Tobin's 573 was high score in the Hi-Lo's.

LET'S DANCE — Marin County Woman's Bowling Association is putting on its annual variety show and dance tomorrow night, starting at 9 o'clock, in the Corte Madera Recreation Hall. Larry Asay will be emcee for the 12 acts. Cost is $5 per person, and includes ALL refreshments.

Yosemite Ever-Beautiful, Also Ever-Changing

IS THE NATURAL BEAUTY of Yosemite National Park being ruined by the onslaught of automobiles and hordes of visitors?

Is the ecology being upset by the inroads of civilization?

If you listen to some alarmists, you would think so.

If you visit the park, you will find it beautiful as ever.

FOR THREE DOLLARS per person, you can take a two-hour ride around the floor of the valley on the new tramcar tour recently introduced. Unfortunately, the tramcars were designed for touring Universal (movie) Studios (whence they are leased) and are not very well adapted for sightseeing in Yosemite Valley. Their long, broad metal tops effectively cut off the upward view. They are underpowered and have to labor precariously to drag their loads up the grade to the vista point at the tunnel on the Wawona Road. On downhill runs their brakes squeak and squeal, leading one to wonder if they will hold.

The guide explains that newly designed trams are on order and, presumably, will afford better vision for passengers, more power for upgrades and more brakes for downgrades.

The advent of the tramcars unquestionably reduces automobile traffic. It is more pleasant to see the valley and its vistas from the sightseeing tram than in your own car.

The guide's spiel is better than having to extract information from a guide book or pamphlet.

But the guide's spiel at times involves some propaganda innaccuracies.

NATURE IS NOT A STATIC thing; it is dynamic.

The human view that a wilderness unvisited by civilization looks the same today as it has for a thousand years is more likely to be false than true.

Much of the Sierra Nevada Mountain range, including Yosemite, is still in the process of emerging from the ice age. It is still evolving.

An alpine-type mountain meadow is an example. It began when a glacier scooped out a hollow and perhaps deposited a moraine at its lower end.

When the glacier melts, a shallow lake or pond remains. Little by little over the ages, eroded material fills the lake or pond. Grass is the first thing to grow there; it has become an alpine meadow.

As the shore of the lake recedes, first grass, then underbrush and finally larger trees encroach onto what was lake shore. They wind up surrounding the meadow. In a few hundred years, they will overrun the meadow and it will be just a part of a forest.

WHEN JOHN MUIR and other naturalists first went to Yosemite valley about a century ago, one of the impressive facts which they recorded was the vast extent of the meadowlands, which, being open, afforded breathtaking views of the sheer granite walls rising 3,000 feet above the valley floor. Then, as now, waterfalls abounded (in season).

The park superintendent can show you some of the earliest photographs of the valley from Inspiration Point which illustrate what the earliest visitors saw.

Contemporary photos from the same point show how the meadows have shrunk as the forest continues its encroachment.

It is known that for hundreds of years before white man's arrival, Indians have periodically burned the meadows and underbrush of the valley so as to make hunting easier and to facilitate finding acorns and roots for food.

Unwittingly, they had preserved the meadows.

When white man and civilization intruded, the Indians were driven away.

White man brought cattle and sheep. Grazing performed the same function as burning. It preserved the meadows.

IN 1906, THE U.S. CAVALRY arrived to begin a 20-year stay as protectors of the area until the National Park Service was established to take over.

The tour guide will tell you that the cavalrymen drove off the cattlemen and sheepmen, protecting the valley from their desecrations.

The historic photographs will show you that the beautiful meadows began their retrogression with the arrival of the cavalry and departure of the cattle and sheep.

The Yosemite Natural History Association says that the meadows you see today "are mere remenants of the wide meadows that inspired early park visitors, including the men who had Congress set aside Yosemite Valley 'for all time' with their open park-like views of waterfalls and rock formations. Conscious of its responsibility to maintain the valley's natural beauty, the National Park Service is conducting scientific studies of the plant successions now going on."

Apparently uninformed of all this, the tour guide says simply, the meadows will maintain themselves if their natural ecology is maintained.

Obviously, the guide's zealous espousal of the cause of conservation has blinded him to the dynamics of nature.

YOSEMITE IS STILL BEAUTIFUL and as conducive to relaxation and rest as ever. Accommodations continue to improve.

Last Saturday on the travel pages of the I-J's Marin Magazine supplement there appeared an advertisement describing a Yosemite fall vacation package plan. Those of us who have tried it recommend it.

The only real disappointment is that the Park Service girl employees don't give as good slide talks as the male ranger-naturalists did in yesteryear.

Fog Dissipation

Besides costing the airlines $75 million a year and tying up maritime traffic on the bay, fog contributes greatly to creating hazardous highway conditions. Anyone who has suddenly found himself enveloped in the soft, white stuff as he drove to San Francisco knows what we mean.

Mechanical and physical methods of fog dissipating have not proved very effective. But scientists at Cornell University have found that seeding fog with tiny particles of sodium chloride works quite well. The size of the particles is the critical factor. To do a good job they must be about a hundredth the size of common table salt.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Afro-American Study Not Regional

I find the letter dated Sept. 10 to your newspaper by Ian K. McDougall both unfortunate and contradicting . . .

In his letter, Ian K. McDougall (who claims to be from Africa) advises the Tam students to "identify with America, be Americans for freedom, then Afro-Americans; be honest about the true Africa, and learn not to follow their ways but instead, lead them to ours." The last part of this advise (sic) seems to be among the myths that have existed for so long which seem to imply that African ways are inferior and hence not worth following.

Ian K. McDougall also complains that "every article deals with Kenya, and the language Swahili." I don't think that all the I-J articles have dealt with Kenya — at least the ones that I have read so far. Another point that McDougall mentioned was: "If those Negro children knew more of the real history of Africa, and its truth and facts, they might conclude that another race and language is truer of their idolization . . . than the 'Johnny Come Lately' from Kenya."

I am not sure whether McDougall has any evidence indicating that the content of the "Afro-American" courses at Tam are regional rather than continental. Furthermore, here at Tam we are not catering for the black students alone but to all the students who want to learn about African culture and Swahili. Also, since McDougall is from Africa, it would be in order if he could tell the Americans of another lanugage in Africa spoken by more black nations than Swahili. If he can name any, maybe it would be a better alternative than Swahili . .

We're Pavlov's Dog, But Who's Pavlov?

In your Friday (Sept. 26) editorial you said, "Mental health did not even appear in the Marin County budget until fiscal 1964. In the budget that year was a $10,000 item to finance the mental health advisory board in setting up a program to qualify for federal funds under the Short-Doyle Act.

"This year's county budget calls for an outlay of $2,215,000 for mental health."

Actually $1,844,876 comes from the state and federal government for which we pay for in various ways, plus $395,302 that comes from county property taxes.

In five years this is a hefty overall increase of 21,000 per cent and a 3,800 per cent increase from a county property tax funds.

When the property tax bills come out later this month, John Q. Public will understand that somebody got brainwashed. Little doubt will remain who the dog is, but how can he identify Pavlov?

LINES ON LIVING

Teach My Little Girl, Oh! School Of Life

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

The little figure moved out of the house, with her tiny hand waving in a bright, early morning. She went to school, my tiny daughter. She was happy and she was afraid. For this was her first step in the big world, the first tiny leap all by her little self. Be kind to her, World. Show her that the sweet, innocent world she knows is real, even while she may have to work hard to discover it.

Be patient with my little girl, School of Life; be understanding to her, even when she cries her temperamental tears of pampered childishness, even while she makes her screaming demands.

YOU SEE, we spoiled her a little; we didn't mind it, in fact we enjoyed it. In the home, she was boss. Everything she wanted in her young life — almost everything — she took. But the world gives no one everything he wants. Teach her, therefore, that the wisdom of life is to love what we have rather than to have everything we love. Tell her, School of Life, patiently and lovingly, that the world she will have will be the world of life she will make — not what she will take from life, but what she will give to life; not what she will grasp and hold, but what she will perceive and experience; not what life will do to her, but what she will do to life.

Teach my little girl, School of Life, what wiser living men have discovered a long time ago, that the sweetest and most precious things of life come free and must be enjoyed freely by brave spirits. And that those earned gifts are the reward of stout hearts and willing hands. And if she wills and dreams and longs long enough, she will never lose, even if she is not victor. Because the fun of life is not so much in having won, but in having dreamt, not in having gained triumph but in having tried to compete and to excel.

TEACH MY little youngster, School of Life, to be honest, to be true. Never mind the crooks, never mind the cheats, never mind the bullies. The world is still full of people who prize honesty above gold and gentleness above all power. Teach her, therefore, to have faith in humanity, even if she can't keep faith in all humans.

She will need faith. It will be everything in life to her. Give her, then, faith in peace, in hope, in truth, in the loveliness of life and light. Give her faith in herself: to believe that the individual makes a world of difference because one person, one soul is a whole world. Give her the wisdom to use that power of individuality to join the righteous cause; and the courage to defy evil even if she has to stand alone.

Teach her, School of Life, humility but not withdrawal; determination but not violence; bravery but not recklessness; gallantry but not defiance; freedom but not anarchy. And teach her to be respectful not only of the possessions of others but also of their dignity and person. Let her know that shouting is not dialogue and insult is no winning ace. Inform her that the still small voice is still the mightiest medium of communication and the lubricating oil of tenderness and persuasion is still mightier than the fist.

TEACH HER, dear School of Life, that the greatest heartaches of life are not in the things we do, but in the things we leave undone, in the dreams that haven't been dreamt, in the smiles that have not been awakened, in the friendships that haven't been evoked, in the love that hasn't been invoked — in all the thousands of little things that make the great life of man a joy or a regret.

And finally, dear, dear School of Life, be kind to my little girl and help her to be strong, for there is much to bear; to care, for there is much to do; to be brave, for there is much cowardice; to be true, for there is much hypocrisy — to find meaning in "I" and glory in "We."

How about it, School of Life? Can you do it? Try. I will do my best to try in my little School of Life — my home, my little girl's home.

Gromyko Genial, Noncommital, While Arms Race Grows Apace

NEW YORK — It hardly comes under the heading of social notes from all over and yet, in its significance, it rates little more than that. After spending 10 days at the United Nations, Andrei Gromyko has departed for home by way of a courtesy stop in Canada.

Gloomy Grom, as he is sometimes known, could not have been more genial. At the exchange of dinners with Secretary of State William P. Rogers the humorous anecdotes flowed with the vodka and the champagne. And these humorous little tales were occasionally at the expense of the rigidities and contradictions in the Soviet system.

The impression grew that Gromyko had nothing on his mind or, at any rate, nothing he was ready to disclose. His arrival in New York with Russian Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had been largely anticipated in the belief that he was bringing word of the start of the long-delayed strategic arms limitation talks. In Moscow in July Gromyko in a speech to the Supreme Soviet had spoken hopefully of an early start, looking to the limitation and reduction of both offensive and defensive nuclear weapons.

In New York he said merely that the answer would come soon and it would be favorable.

SO THE DRIFT continues for an indeterminate time and the spiral of the nuclear arms race thrusts relentlessly upward. United States tests of the multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle, MIRV, are well into the second year. The Russians are believed to be conducting firing tests of their own MIRV. America's Poseidon submarines are getting additional missiles to an ultimate total of 160. The widely held view in Washington is that the Russians are advancing rapidly on all nuclear fronts.

Each advance makes it that much more difficult to arrive at a pause and stock-taking. The threatening shadow of an accident or the consequences of the fear of a rival first-strike capability grow ever darker.

In November the Russians were eager for arms talks. The outgoing Johnson administration was anxious to make at least a token start. The incoming Nixon team said no, since they wanted to make their own survey of the lay of the land.

What has happened in the interval of nearly a year to cool the Russian approach? Is it resentment of the long American delay?

THE BEST GUESS is Moscow's preoccupation with China. This is of such obsessive concern that the men in the Kremlin relegate everything else to second place.

The theory is that announcement of the date for forthcoming arms talks between the United States and the Soviet Union would be seized on by Peking as evidence of collusion between the two nuclear giants. It would chill the possibility of abating hostilities along the 400-mile border where gunfire punctuates the propaganda war.

Another guess grows out of Gromyko's attitude during his encounter with Rogers and the Rogers team at the U.N. When pressed on policy matters he seemed to lack authority. It was as though a divided Kremlin had failed to give him clear marching orders. His one stress, after saying that the answer would be favorable and soon, was: don't prod and, above all, don't prod publicly.

More of the same, that is the cynical way to shrug this off. But for those who want to believe mankind has a future on this planet that is small consolation.

Dangerous New Revolutionist Attacks Anti-Establishment

WASHINGTON — I know no one will believe me, but you're just going to have to take my word for it. I met a college student the other day who said that all he wanted out of life was success and financial security.

He asked me not to use his name because he didn't want to embarrass his parents, so I shall call him Hiram.

"HIRAM," I asked him, "why did you decide to take this revolutionary attitude toward society?"

"I don't know exactly when it happened. I was like most of the rest of the students. I wanted to tear down the school, the society, the Establishment. I was just another conformist, and I never questioned why I was doing all the things that were expected of me.

"Then one day I thought to myself, 'There's got to be more to life than getting hit over the head by the cops.' I looked around me and saw nothing but sheep. Every student was doing his thing because someone else had done his thing, and no one was doing or saying anything new."

"SO YOU DECIDED to drop out of the student movement and become a millionaire?"

"Not at first. But I met this girl. She was really way out. She wore a chasmere sweater, a plaid skirt and she had on shoes and socks — I couldn't believe anyone would dress like that. But I got to talking to her, and she started making sense.

"She said it wasn't enough to lock yourself in a building or go on a hunger strike in your dorm. If you really wanted to change the world, you had to make a lot of money, and then people wouldn't tell you what to do."

"That's radical thinking," I said.

"Then she gave me a book by Prof. Horatio Alger, and I guess no book I ever read has had more of an effect on me."

"WASN'T PROFESSOR Alger the one who came out first with the success syndrome theory?"

"That's he. His story floored me. I mean a whole new world opened for me, and I knew no matter what the consequences were and no matter what other people thought, I was going to work hard and become rich and successful. Life finally took on some meaning for me, and for the first time I felt like a free man."

"What did you do then?"

"I discovered through this girl that there were other students on campus who felt the way I did — not many, but there were enough. So we formed a group called the 'Students for a Successful Society.' At first we had to go underground, because the administration wouldn't acknowledge us as a legitimate campus organization. But as more and more students heard about us, the SSS kept growing. We've been able to radicalize at least 200 students who would rather be rich than do their thing."

"WHAT ARE SOME of your activities to get more supporters?"

"We sell the Wall Street Journal on campus. We've opened a coffeehouse where you can read back copies of Fortune. We have a stock market ticker tape in the back of the room, and on weekends we have readings from the National Association of Manufacturers Bulletins."

"Hiram, I know this all sounds great. But is it possible that this success syndrome movement is just a passing fad?"

"No, it isn't. I know everyone calls us kooks and weirdos, but no one is going to push us around. We've already had inquiries from other campuses that want to set up similar chapters, and I wouldn't be surprised in the next few years to see what is now a minority movement become the strongest force in the country. After all, nothing succeeds like success."

Pilot, 16, Eagerly Awaits A License

By PAT ANGLE

It could happen soon in a San Rafael household: the 16-year-old son comes into the living room and asks his father if he can have the keys — to the plane.

At an age when most youngsters are worrying about getting their driver's licenses, Bruce Bell, a junior at San Rafael High School, has already completed his first airplane solo.

Last week was a big week for Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Bell of 74 Biscayne Drive. On Thursday, just 10 days after his 16th birthday, Bruce went up in a plane by himself, a single-engine Piper Cherokee Commanche.

On Friday he took and passed the test for his driver's license; for some reason, he wasn't very nervous about that.

The solo was a slightly different matter. "My father (also a pilot) warned me I'd get up there and wonder what I was doing and feel I must be crazy," Bruce recalls. "I didn't believe him — until I was up alone in that plane. I kept looking over at the empty seat and realized there was no instructor. If anything happened, it was going to be just me and the plane."

But after he made his first landing ("the hardest thing to learn"), Bruce just sat back and enjoyed the experience. "It was great — no traffic," he exclaimed.

Bruce would appear to be a natural for flying, since his father has been flying small planes for eight years and he has grown up around airplanes. Bruce made his first flight when 8, a family trip to Mexico. When he was 12 his father took the family on a trip which included stops in 48 of the 50 states (except Alaska and Hawaii) and trips to most of the major scenic attractions in the U.S.

Bruce is very proud that he was allowed to solo after only ten hours of instruction. "It took my Dad 11 hours before he soloed," he said, grinning.

He is obviously enjoying the new competition with his father immensely. "I used to think my dad was the world's greatest pilot, that he was perfect," he said. "Now I know he's a good pilot, but he does make these little mistakes occasionally and I love to catch him and correct him.

"I've even been teaching him a few new things," he continued happily.

His parents are delighted at their son's flying success; they gave him the lessons for a Christmas present last year.

"My mom is happy because pretty soon I'll be able to relieve my dad on long trips," Bruce explained.

"Pretty soon" means nearly a year, since Bruce cannot get his pilot's license until he is 17. Until then he can only fly solo or with an instructor.

As soon as he gets his license, he wants to take his family up and show them what he can do. Soon after, he'd like to fly to Hawaii ("I've been there and it's a great place"). Transoceanic flight in a small plane will present Bruce with certain technical problems. "I won't be able to take any passengers or luggage," he explained, "because I'll have to have the whole plane filled with gasoline." He is more than willing to send his luggage on ahead.

Hawaii will be a challenge, but Bruce sensibly admits he wants to start off small when he first gets the license. He has already decided he will make his first licensed trip to — of all places — Chico. Why does he want to fly there? "Because my dad says it is a nice field" and, perhaps more importantly, "because it's an easy flight and there are no big mountains in the way."

Flying has opened up exciting new career possibilities for the teen-ager, who has just about decided he's he'd like to become a commercial pilot, "unless something better comes along."

Bruce is enthusiastic about the advantages of being able to fly. "My dad has taken several men on various trips, like fishing in Mexico, and the men pay for the trip," he said. "I'd like to do something like that when I get my license."

ONLY ANSWER — Sharon Walter, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walter of Kentfield, plans to devote the next two years working with the Campus Crusade for Christ. She believes that Christ is the only answer to many of the problems facing collegians today. (Independent-Journal photo)

Recent U.C. Graduate Will Sell Christ To Collegians

By ANNE BARDWELL

A young Kent Woodlands woman who believes Christ is the only answer to the current radical student movement plans to spend the next two years selling Christ to college students.

Student involvement in radical causes, drugs and violence is an outward manifestation of an inward search for something positive in which to believe, says 22-year-old Sharon Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walter of 99 Upland Road, and a June graduate of the University of California at Berkeley.

"Christ, that is a personal relationship with Christ, presents an alternative solution for them," Sharon says.

Sharon believes so strongly that Christ is where it's at, she has donated the next two years of her life to work as a staff member of the Campus Crusade for Christ, an evangelical Christian movement for young people.

Campus Crusade does not try to sell organized religion to students, she says, but, instead, tries to reach as many students as possible with its message about the benefits of a personal relationship with Christ.

"Churches take away your religious freedom," Sharon argues, because "they don't emphasize the personal relationship; they set up laws, not relationships."

The main thrust of Campus Crusade is toward freshmen — "We want to talk to freshmen before they get sucked into the other kind of activities" — and this is the field in which Sharon will work once she completes her training.

"Students need something to commit themselves to," Sharon says, and the "radical force can be very powerful with students who are looking for something to join, something to hang onto."

Although she also believes change is necessary if the society is to survive, Sharon rejects the student radicalism because "it's a destructive force."

Radical students, she says, "want to destroy in order to create" and she believes that progress will come only through changing people, not institutions. "Once the people change the institutions will change," she argues.

Students are receptive to the Christ message, Sharon says and many are actively seeking some kind of personal faith. "I've never found anyone who is unwilling to talk to me."

In fact, she says, the need for faith is so strong that one out of every four freshmen contacted by Campus Crusade "accepts Christ."

Sharon herself "accepted Christ" in December following a personal crisis which culminated in her dropping out of the University of California at Davis, which she had attended for three years, and entering Berkeley.

Although she was majoring in sociology, Sharon says she really didn't have any idea of what she wanted to do with her life. "I was learning how to earn a living, but I didn't feel I was learning how to live," she says.

"I was looking for something and sought it in relationships with people, trying to fill a vacuum which only can be filled by a relationship with Christ."

And in this, Sharon believes she is just like thousands of college students across the country.

"There will be riots and revolution unless students find an acceptable alternative for their lives," she warns. "I want them to choose Christ as that alternative."

GUEST — Rev. William Scholes, a field services executive of the National Council of Churches, will be guest speaker at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. His appearance is part of the church's observance of Worldwide Communion Sunday.

Fall Retreat Scheduled At Seminary

The Marin Ecumenical Committee for Action (MECA) will hold a fall retreat Oct. 17 and 18 on the St. Peter Chanel Seminary campus in San Rafael to make plans for the coming year.

Opening speaker at 8 p.m. Oct. 17 will be Rev. John O'Connor of St. Raphael's Catholic Church, who is also a director of the Catholic Social Services Agency of Marin.

The following day workshops will be held on housing, education, youth and economic development.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Jan Bergman, 9 Diego Drive, San Rafael.

Gate-Crashing Tactics Now Thing Of Past

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — What started out as only an individual, a list of names and a bristling manifesto—which shocked and often angered white Christians—is a developing organization today, with new officers, a staff, a growing budget and moderated mood.

It also is increasingly manned by ministers of the gospel—Negro clergymen both of mainly white and black denominations, Protestant and Roman Catholic. Its church gate-crashing demonstrations have ceased, at least for the time being.

"From the beginning, we knew the whole confrontation thing would pass in time," says Rev. Calvin B. Marshall, recently elected president of the Black Economic Development Conference. "At this stage, it's in the background."

INITIAL PROCESSES

The organization has cleared initial processes for incorporation under New York State law, set up offices in a Brooklyn church, and in addition to its immediate working capital, appears marked to receive much more from the churches.

But a prime asset—and the one which made the financial prospects possible through action of the predominantly white Episcopal Church and leaders of 33 denominations in the National Council of Churches—was the firm backing of Negro clergymen.

Their influence, and the confidence shown in their assessment of the situation by white fellow churchmen, is what produced the large-scale potential funding of an agency that started with little but roving disruptions and wordy belligerence led by James Forman.

"We've entered into a new phase now of honest negotiations, feasibility studies and program development," Dr. Marshall, 37, said in an interview. "Real progress is being made. We're taking on definite structure, with some staff, many volunteers and with field inquiries and research studies going on."

A BIG PLEDGE

The commitment of church money has stirred sharp criticism.

But church officials say it was a matter of upholding trust in those most aware of needs in the black community—the churches of Negro clergymen, who were designated to receive the funds to use for black economic advancement.

Officials also point out that the actions specifically rejected the manifesto's inflammatory ideology, and they maintain that the organization that issued it is taking on a modified nature, under black clergy influence.

Makeup of the organization's 25-member steering committee has been altered to make it more representative, particularly of black churchmen. It now includes eight clergymen and several church lay leaders.

Among them are Rev. J. Metz Rollins, a United Presbyterian, and the Rev. M. L. Wilson, a Baptist pastor, both of New York, both top officers of the National Committee of Black Churchmen named to get the major church funds.

The committee also includes black notables in other fields.

Forman, the original leader, was made director of a fund-raising arm, United Black Appeal. Although black clergymen consistently defend him publicly, some privately deplore his abrasive manifesto ideology and disruptive tactics. Although sidelined from his leading role, he remains a steering committee member.

'DON'T DOMINATE'

Dr. Marshall, pastor of the Varick Memorial (AME) Zion church in Brooklyn where the organization has its main office, said it "now has a broad representation of churchmen, but they don't dominate it."

He said committee members hold varying views of the manifesto's ideology but all are united on its program proposals, including a Southern land bank to underwrite cooperative farms, black industrial, printing and communications trading facilities, a black skills research center and other projects.

Besides the potential large church funds, the organization already has received about $24,000 from individual congregations and church groups.

PIPERS LAUNCH CENTENNIAL

The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael is currently observing its 100th anniversary. Centennial events began a week ago Friday night with a Scottish supper complete with Scottish bagpipes and dancers. Leading the procession was the Prince Charles Junior Pipe Band. Leading the group into Canoles Hall was Jeff McNear.

TO LEAD SERVICES—Othor A. Daniels, pastor of the Church of Christ, 18 West Crescent Drive, San Rafael, will speak at a series of meetings to begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday through the following Friday. General theme of the talks will be "New Testament Christianity."

Folk Songs To Be Featured At Special Service

Aldersgate Methodist Church of San Rafael will mark Worldwide Communion Sunday tomorrow at 10 a.m. in a contemporary setting with the use of folk songs as liturgical music.

The choir will be composed of members of St. Anselm's Catholic Parish in San Anselmo and Aldersgate.

A special offering will be taken to support work among the refugees of the Middle East, to supply food and medicine to Biafra and work in Vietnam.

Mill Valley Speaker

James E. Pike, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday at the First Church of Christ Scientist of Mill Valley. His lecture is titled, "Life Without Doubt."

MORTGAGE TO BE BURNED AT RITES

St. Rita's Catholic Church in Fairfax will celebrate final payment of its parish debt with a mortgage burning ceremony tomorrow.

Preceding the ceremony an all Latin High Mass will be celebrated at 5 p.m. by Rev. Jeremiah Gleeson, pastor of St. Rita's. The mortgage will be burned during a reception in the parish hall.

A BUILDING

Dialogue On Unity Turns To Reality

LONDON (AP) — A parish where Roman Catholic and Church of England theologians met to talk about unity two years ago is now building Britain's first comprehensive Catholic-Anglican church.

The theologians, appointed by Pope Paul VI and Archbishop Michael Ramsey of Canterbury, wound up their debates by declaring that "a principal concern is the possible common use of churches. We believe that the witness and mission of the Church make such action imperative."

The Rev. Alan Carey, vicar of Cippenham near Slough, an industrial suburb 20 miles west of London, and the Rev. David Woodward, his Roman Catholic colleague, took the leaders at their word.

THE ANSWER

The Anglicans were pressed for space and were thinking of a new church anyway; the Roman Catholics had been hearing Mass in a wartime hut and private homes. The two priests decided a joint church was the answer.

The Anglican and Catholic bishops for the area approved. Catholic Bishop Thomas Parker also approved "occasional joint services" although he ruled against joint Eucharistic services.

The energetic parish priests have taken a 99-year lease, from the body which handles Church of England real estate deals and investments, on a two-acre site near the Slough (pronounced as in now) industrial development. They have formed their congrations into a company, which has been registered as a charitable trust to avoid taxation.

"One of our aims," they say, "is to demonstrate to everyone the remarkable measure of reconciliation that exists between us—by the design of our new building, by pooling our resourses, working together in charity, by the enjoyment of each other socially and by the shared concern for each other's likes and dislikes."

PRO DIRECTING

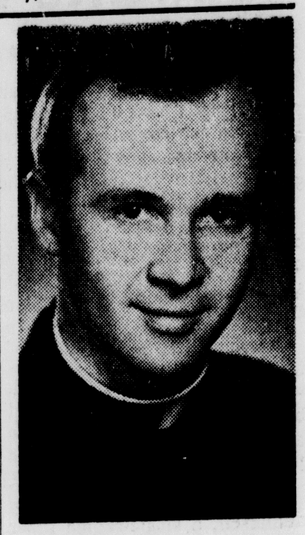
The task of finding $72,000 for the building has been handed to a professional fund-raising body, backed by lunches and coffee meetings, and gifts pledged from collections in some churches in Holland.

The seating area for 300 will be arranged so that several activities can take place in the church at the same time, set off by screens.. The Stations of the Cross will be moveable and so will the confessional.

Cippenham has about 20,000 nominal Anglicans, although only about a hundred are regular churchgoers. The Roman Catholics claim 700 communicants.



NEW VICAR—Rev. David Scofield will celebrate his first Holy Eucharist as vicar of St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Inverness at the 9:30 a.m. services tomorrow. Selected last spring to succeed Rev. Francis W. Read, Father Scofield's last post was as first assistant priest of the Church of Our Most Holy Redeemer, Clerkenwell, London. He was ordained an Episcopal priest in May 1964.

Horace Richard Oakley, 47, of San Francisco, arrested July 4 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $100.

Joseph Wesley Cothran, 55, of 16 Alma Court, Petaluma, was placed on three years' probation, fined $250 and ordered to serve 10 days in jail. He was arrested May 19 in San Rafael.

Allen Ralph Kelly, 28 of 51C Lomita Drive, Mill Valley, was placed on six months' probation and fined $125. He was arrested June 3 in Sausalito.

Harry Paul Vidler, 40, of 5 Yolo Street, Corte Madera, arrested Sept. 18 on Highway 101, was placed on six months' probation and fined $200.

Special Meeting On Ferry Strike

A special meeting of the Marin Transit District board will be held at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in the supervisors' chambers of the Civic Center.

Seymour Kashin, district general manager, said directors will be asked to loan to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District one of his staff members on a temporary basis to help operate the Tiburon ferry, which is now on strike.

The bridge and highway district is considering chartering two ferries from strikebound Harbor Carriers and resuming service to San Francisco.

Communion Sunday

Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Tiburon will observe Worldwide Communion Sunday tomorrow with Holy Communion at the 9 and 11:15 a.m. services.

Bruce Strafed On Aviation Viewpoint

Chairman David B. Vail of the Marin County Aviation Commission lashed back today at the Marin County Administrator for suggesting that the commission could be phased out because "it tends primarily to be a special purpose lobby."

Vail, in a letter to the Board of Supervisors, accused Administrator Alan Bruce of being prejudiced and power hungry.

The county's concerns in aviation are much broader than the present Gnoss Field north of Novato, declared Vail.

"Aviation means much more to this county than weekend pilots flying Piper Cubs; it is big business and big transportation and getting bigger."

A well-rounded commission with a variety of backgrounds and experience can give much more valuable advice to the county supervisors than a county staff whose resources available for aviation are extremely limited, he declared.

"There is a further reason, however, for independent advisory commissions . . . the administrator's office appears to be in the position of being able to stifle and suppress staff opinions at variance with the administrator. This is particularly true in the case of aviation toward which the administrator has long displayed ill-concealed hostility . . .

"We also have reason to believe that the administrator has muzzled staff members and has even interfered in their communications with the commission. And we know that the administrator's control over the board's agenda can keep matters disfavored by him from coming before the board."

This, said Vail, is all the more reason why an independent commission should be able to bring to the supervisors "views other than those that reflect the administrator's personal prejudices."

"We record our distress that the principal executive responsibility of the county is entrusted to one who horizons are so narrowed by prejudice and whose judgments are so encumbered by pique and the desire for personal power."

Folk Mass To Be Service Feature

"The Winds of God," a folk mass, will be presented tomorrow at the 10 a.m. service at St. Luke Presbyterian Church, San Pedro Road, corner of Bayview Drive, San Rafael.

Participating under the direction of James Groves are the chancel choir, Jubal Bell Ringers, and six guitarists from St. Raphael's Catholic Church, directed by Barbara Reardon.

SWITCHBOARD HAS ANSWERS ONCE AGAIN

Switchboard of Marin has reopened after a summer of reorganization.

The telephone information and referral service will be open from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily to provide information on jobs, housing, counselling, recreation and entertainment and emergency services such as temporary housing and legal, medical and psychiatric assistance.

High school students may participate for credit in work experience programs at Switchboard, director Guy Bachelis reported. The volunteers work with a trained staff.

Switchboard is working toward formation of a community center which would also house other groups interested in service, he said.

Bachelis said volunteer help is still needed and interested persons may call or come to the office at 1017 D Street, San Rafael.

Suit Versus Rafferty Censorship Is Killed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An appeals court has thrown out the San Francisco Board of Education textbook censorship suit against state schools chief Max Rafferty, saying Rafferty had agreed not to threaten to revoke credentials of teachers who use two textbooks he considers obscene.

In a three-page opinion yesterday, the 3rd District Court of Appeal ruled that because of Rafferty's official reply to the lawsuit, the subject was moot and "no useful purpose will be served by issuing a restraining writ."

The San Francisco Unified School District had sought a restraining order to keep Rafferty from following through on a threat to revoke the credentials of teachers who used the two books.

Rafferty said he considers both books — Eldridge Cleaver's "Soul On Ice" and two plays by LeRoi Jones, "Dutchman" and "The Slave"—to be patently obscene.

The school district had approved both as supplementary textbooks for use in senior high school classes on "literature by black authors."

The suit stems from a letter by Rafferty on Aug. 15 in which he said both books were "obscene and profane." He also said individual teachers might be placing their credentials in jeopardy by permitting the use of the books in classrooms.

In their ruling, the appellate judges said Rafferty's reply to the charges conceded "that as a general proposition it is doubtful that the state Board of Education has authority to revoke the teaching credential of an employee using a book adopted by the employee's governing board."

The reply also said Rafferty and the Board of Education and the Committee of Credentials "have no intention of threatening, and will not so threaten, the revocation of teaching credentials . . . for use of books. . . ."

Rolling Car Breaks Motorist's Leg

A 68-year-old San Rafael woman fractured her left leg yesterday when her car rolled down a hill, crashed throough a fence and did extensive damage to a house and swimming pool at 852 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, police said.

Ann Wallner of 1012 Mission Street was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital. Police said the reason the car rolled down Denning Way and into John C. Reynold's house is unclear at this point.

Light Pole Collision Injures Teen-Agers

Two 18-year-old San Rafael youths were injured at 1:30 a.m. today when a car struck a light pole on Embarcadero Way, San Rafael, police said.

Driver Lazaro G. Mejia of 210 Mission Street was in fair condition with facial cuts and a broken right arm and Larry Suldickas of the same address was in fair condition with facial cuts.

San Rafael Chamber Sets Water Fete

A marine holiday, featuring a giant boat parade and free boat rides, will be held on the San Rafael Canal Nov. 2, sponsored by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

The event, similar to ones held other years, is expected to draw about 200 boats for the parade, Bruce Thompson of the planning committee indicated.

Trophies will be given for outstanding boats in four categories: best holiday theme; most unique design; best overall decoration, and most representative by a yacht club.

Deadline for entries is Oct. 17 at the chamber, 824 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The boat parade will begin at 1 p.m. at the Birdcage marker and judges will be commodores of local yacht clubs.

During the morning, from 9 a.m. to noon, free boat rides will be available at Seaway Marine and Channel Boat Sales, through the San Rafael Canal.

Santa Rosan Is Fined $500 On Firearms Count

A Santa Rosa man has been fined $500 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court after changing an innocent plea to guilty on the charge of exhibiting and firing a gun which stemmed from a motorcycle gang brawl in Petaluma on May 16.

Arthur Eugene Worrell, 27, previously had been charged with attempted murder, but the charge was dropped on July 2 by Judge Alexander J. McMahon when witnesses called by the district attorney's office failed to identify Worrell as the person who shot at them during the fight on Hopper Street.

Worrell, also charged with hit-run driving at the time of the attempted murder charge, heard that charge dismissed when he pleaded guilty to the lesser count.

In addition to the $500 fine, Worrell was given a 90-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year.

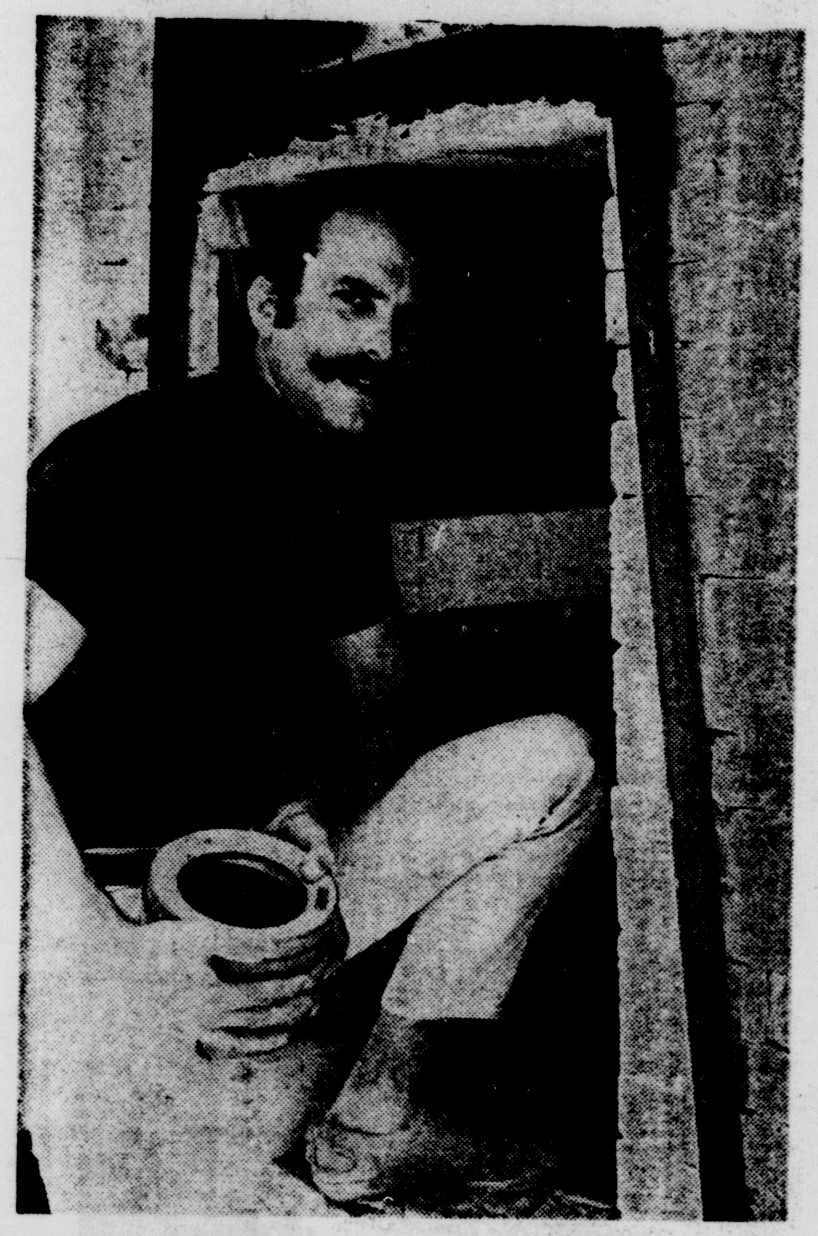
Craft Gives Stinson Beach Potter Both His Livelihood And Pleasure

Dale Roush Creates Ceramics With The Flavor Of Ancient China



POTTER Dale Roush poses with some completed ash trays that he has taken from one of the two kilns he designed and built himself for his Stinson Beach home studio.

No mere leisure-time artist and craftsman is potter Dale Roush of Stinson Beach.

From his clay-bodied, glazed creations he earns his livelihood, and that of his wife, Lone, and their 2-year-old daughter, Michele.

Yet no hobbyist gets more pure pleasure from his craft than does Roush.

"Pottery is just a hell of a lot of fun," he says.

BEHIND ROUSH is an outstanding educational background that includes a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from the University of Illinois in industrial design, another from the same school in crafts, and a Master of Fine Arts Degree in pottery from the New York State School of Ceramics (Alfred).

For some time he was resident potter of the Archie Bray Foundation at Helena, Mont.

Now he and Lone, a fine potter in her own right, operate their own pottery along Shoreline Highway overlooking the Stinson Beach lagoon.

ROUSH IS ONE of those rare ceramists who do all their own work, from beginning to end, and glories in it. Thus he formulates all his own clay bodies and glazes, often working with the local clays.

Too, he has designed and constructed two kilns for his pottery. One is used especially for salt glazing, a process in which he has a special interest. His works are fired at stoneware temperatures.

THE TALENTED and sensitive hands of Stinson Beach potter Dale Roush carefully shape a ceramics piece to one of his original designs, while he throws at the wheel. Roush will be one of many artists and craftsmen who will be displaying their work next Saturday and Sunday at the Mill Valley Art Festival at Old Mill Park.

Roush's pottery tends to have an Eastern feeling, reminding many viewers of ancient Chinese bronze work. Yet it still maintains a strong stoneware appearance.

HIS DESIGNS are always original, and the results both decorative and functional.

Says wife Lone of her husband: "He respects the materials with which he works, and his pottery shows it."

Roush has exhibited at the

His work has been seen frequently in Marin County and elsewhere in the Bay Area.

MARINITES WILL have another opportunity next weekend to inspect and admire Roush's pottery when he exhibits at the annual Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival to be held 9 a.m. to dusk Saturday and Sunday in Mill Valley's Old Mill Park.

In his booth Roush will be featuring a wide variety of ceramics including hanging planters, wine sets, mugs, bowls, steins, platters, goblets, spice jars and other decorative pieces.

All around him, other dedicated and gifted artists and craftsmen will also be showing their work.

Roush and others like him are proof that an art or craft can be both a very serious endeavor and "a lot of fun."

SOME OF Dale Roush's finished ceramic pieces rest on a table after firing. Note the varied shapes and sizes, and the differing textures and qualities of the glazes. Roush formulates all his own clay bodies and glazes.

A CERAMIC PIECE on the wheel begins to gain height and take shape as potter Dale Roush bends over it and works carefully. His finished products often take on something of the appearance of ancient Chinese bronze work, even while retaining a strong stonework look. Both decorative and functional attributes are stressed.

"Will My Moire Dress Dryclean Acceptably?"

Very likely it will, but—Moire is a design which is applied to the surface of a fabric. It is set by the pressure of hot rollers. Taffeta, plain weave cottons, velvets, fur pile and printed fabrics may receive patterns by the use of chemicals and mechanical methods. However, because the moire lustre and shadows are applied with heat, pressure and moisture, sometimes these same agents may dull or remove the design.

Sometimes moire designs are permanently applied on heat sensitive fibers like acetate and nylon. Also, a resin treatment will make the moire design on some cottons permanent. A fabric treated for water repellency or crease resistance will be more likely to retain its pattern. At any rate, consult your professional drycleaner for his opinion on cleaning any moire design.

The Men Who Trace The Boundary Lines

They've Played Key Role In Development Of County

By DON KEOWN

Surveying is an old practice dating back to the dawn of history when man first began building structures and calling the land around him his own.

Records chronicle the activities of Babylonian and Egyptian surveyors, the latter, recognized as among the nobility, being charged with the tremendous responsibility for retracing the boundaries of landholdings in the fabulously fertile Nile River Delta after the yearly floods.

Yet most Americans today have only some faint ideas as to the work performed and the responsibilities assumed by the land surveyor.

THEY KNOW that George Washington was the most famous of our surveyors as well as the most prominent and beloved American of his time and all-time.

They know that the surveyor works with something called a transit.

As they know that he deals with boundaries, right-of-ways and easement lines, sometimes in a manner involving something called "metes and bounds."

But beyond that, their information is hazy and even incorrect.

IT IS TO fill in the gaps and to correct the misinformation that Marin County surveyors are joining their colleagues across the state in a Land Surveyor Week observance starting today that will be devoted largely to an educational program.

In California, the observance is being conducted by the California Land Surveyors Association, and in this county by that association's Marin chapter.

The state association was formed in 1966 with a number of Northern California surveyors active in its organization.

IN APRIL, 1967, an organizational meeting for a Marin chapter was held, and the unit here became the first to apply to the state association for a charter as an affiliate. The certificate was received in December, 1967.

The state organization boasts a membership of more than 300 land surveyors, while the Marin chapter claims better than 75 per cent of the more than 20 practicing surveyors in this county.

Once a month meetings are held on the second Thursday with every third gathering being a dinner affair. The October meeting will be held next Thursday at Sabella's restaurant.

GENE LOCKTON, the current Marin chapter chairman, says the organization has done much to encourage cooperation in the profession. Previously, surveying was very much a field of individualists, with each surveyor generally going his own way.

The surveyors' tasks in Marin County have, from the outset, been complicated by the fact that most of its land was originally laid out by the Mexicans and Spanish as large ranchos, with boundary lines meandering over hills and through valleys.

A typical description was that given for the church holdings in 1834 when the Mexican government secularized the Mission San Rafael Arcangel:

"... FROM THE Arroya de las Animas down the Canada of the Arroya de las Baulenas to the shore, and on the opposite or southern side of the Arroya de San Antonio de las Tomales, and from Puenta de Quentin to the mouth of San Antonio Creek along the Bay."

Confronted with such terminology and perhaps the worst boundary confusion of any California county, surveyors working in Marin outside those few parcels of land laid out later in a rectangular pattern under the direction of the U.S. Land Office had to rely upon a method called "metes and bounds."

The method, in essence, describes land boundaries in terms of cardinal directions and measured distances that tie in with permanent objects or landmarks and with already existing boundaries.

A RESULT has been parcels in irregular shapes and often never really precisely determined.

Using modern instruments and techniques, today's surveyor still finds himself engaged frequently in retracing those old descriptions and attempting to coordinate those instructions with the conditions he finds existing now.

"This," says Lockton, "is where the land surveyor must exercise the skills of his profession."

"One of the major tenets guiding the surveyor in a determination of a boundary," he continues, "is the rule that he can survey only by adhering as closely as possible to the intent of the original survey.

"IN OTHER words, he cannot make independent decisions or changes. This is the province of the courts."

Marin newspapers have recorded 1850 as the date for the first "official survey" of San Rafael, in which Myers and McCullough laid out blocks in 300-foot squares to accommodate 12 houses plus barns, stables and other outlying buildings. Four years later, G. Black surveyed the land around the

They Work With Transit And Chain

Through the years that followed, surveyors played key roles in the development of the county.

NAMES SUCH as those of a Captain Eskoot (Marin's first county surveyor, taking office in 1850), Hiram Austin, George M. Dodge, George L. Richardson and John C. Oglesby (the last elected county surveyor) deserve prominent places in any Marin history.

Today's surveyors work with the aid of new instruments as well as techniques that were not available to their predecessors.

From the early days of the settlement of our country until the end of the 19th Century, the "chain" was the normal measuring device.

IT WAS QUITE literally what the name implies — a metal chain of 100 links, 66 feet in length. Thus 80 "chains" made 5,280 feet or a mile, with one square mile comprising 640 acres or a section of land. This section could then be easily divided into halves, quarters, etc. And a quarter section could be measured as a square with sides 40 "chains" in length.

Direction in the earlier days was determined by compass, which was succeeded by the surveyor's transit, a refinement permitting excellent accuracy in the measurement of angles.

The steel tape replaced the "chain" as another step forward, making the measurement of distances, thanks to its lighter weight, a much less laborious task. In surveyors' terminology, however, the tape is still referred to as "a chain."

IN THE EARLY 1920s, European instrument-makers produced new concepts in angle-measuring instruments, manufacturing transits that were available to the average surveyor at a reasonable price and could measure directly and accurately to a few seconds of arc.

These transits, called theodolites, are used today by most professionals in land surveying.

Along with the development of finer instruments for ground work came rapid improvement in the art of photogrammetry or aerial surveying. Until lately, its principal use was for the production of contour maps showing the configuration of the land. Recent advances, however, allow the surveyor to employ it in surveying and defining points to be used in certain larger boundary surveys.

AND WHILE the steel tape is still the most often used distance measuring tool, the electronic field has produced devices that measure distance through light and radio waves, the most common equipment of this kind are the Geodimeter (using light waves) and the Tellurometer (using micro waves).

The computer, too, is having its impact on the surveying profession, freeing the surveyor from much tedious office computation.

Yet more refined instruments that will measure angles and distances quite literally by the push of a button are in the research and development stage with the electronic industry.

EVEN WITH these, Lockton stresses, "the greater part of the surveyor's work will still be dependent upon his know-how and his ethics."

It will continue to be dependent, too, upon the "monuments" that serve as the fixed points in boundary descriptions.

Both commonlaw and California state statutes give priority to a figure designated on the ground according to these stakes or other monuments placed in the soil at the time of a land division over the surveyor's written description in terms of "metes and bounds."

When a conflict exists, the monuments prevail. Or as an old saying in the profession goes: "The corner is where the surveyor puts it; not where he said he put it."

Thus a surveyor on an assignment usually begins by searching out the point where the original stakes were placed when the land was first divided.

"THE BEST possible survey," says Lockton, "is the survey made with a shovel that uncovers the original corners."

If those original corners cannot be located, the latter-day surveyor must then "retrace" the steps of the original surveyor in accordance with the description made at the time of the division, sometimes abandoning his theodolite for a compass in order to approximate more closely the work of the original surveyor.

At times the "monument" involved is not a stake at all. It may be as abstract as the boundary line of an adjoining property. Or it may be a natural landmark. In Marin County, Red Hill serves as an example of one of the most important such monuments around for survey purposes.

"IN THE FIELD," Carlos Talamantez of Engineering Field Services, San Rafael, sights a transit, while James Thompson, seated on curb, studies maps and notes. The two men are searching out the corners of a property lot, the most common task of the land surveyor today.

THERE'S DESK work to be done in surveying after the field work has been completed, so back at the Engineering Field Services office Joe Grippi, left, and George Colson pore over some calculations.

AGAIN, OLD and carefully constructed fences bounding small parcels may be considered as "secondary monuments" on the commonsense assumption that a prudent man would not knowingly build such a fence other than along his correct property line. When property parcels were so large as to warrant indifference toward the exact dimensions of his holdings, or where motives might be subject to question, are other matters.

Marin surveyors note with approval the increasing attention being paid by local governments to the perpetuation of landmarks, with planning agencies requiring permanent, easily accessible monuments at frequent intervals in new subdivisions.

Today, Marin County has nearly one million recorded descriptions of land parcels. Many are duplications, but all hold a prime or potential interest for the surveyor when he turns explorer and historian to retrace the history of a boundary line.

WHO EMPLOYS a land surveyor and why?

George Colson of San Rafael, secretary-treasurer of the state association, answers:

"A person generally has the occasion to employ a land surveyor only once in a lifetime — but it is an important occasion. And since such employment is so infrequent, the average person is not always aware of when or how he should go about selecting a surveyor or what to expect of him.

"A survey should be made before purchasing real estate, before dividing any parcel of land for sale, and prior to the construction of any structures on property in which you have an interest.

"THE SERVICES of a surveyor then can be far less costly in time, money and worry than the expense of moving a building or defending a law suit later."

The surveyor should be employed, Colson adds, on the basis of competency, not price. And a competent surveyor should have entered the profession with the advantages of "a sound mathematical education, a good imagination and a strong back."

Surveyor Week In Marin

Old Profession Honored By An Observance

An average of 10 years of practical experience is required to develop a young aspirant to a professional level as a land surveyor. He can then apply to the state for his land surveyor's license. To qualify, he will have to be verified as to background by four professionals and will have to prove the required experience.

HE NEXT takes an examination given in two parts of eight hours each on two separate days. Upon successful completion of the examination, he is issued his state license to practice land surveying.

California has been licensing its land surveyors since 1891.

One of the complaints of California land surveyors and a subject of controversy is that state law through an exemption also permits registered civil engineers to practice land surveying without what the surveyors feel to be the necessary specialized training and experience.

THE SURVEYORS' state association is advocating legislation to end this exception to the otherwise tight licensing requirements.

Bill Lockett, secretary-treasurer of the Marin chapter, stresses that it is not the surveyor's purpose to tell the holder what land he owns, but rather to work from the legal description and mark off physically what that description represents.

NINO FARIA, a chain man for land surveyor Gene Lockton, uncovers and "gives the line" on an old granite monument marking the boundary of the Rancho Punta de Quentin as surveyed by "Mathewson, U. S. Deputy Surveyor," in September of 1858.

A VERY RARE old U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey marble monument that once stood on the hill above Santa Margarita Drive in San Rafael, where it was placed around the turn of a century, is now preserved and protected in a nearby garden.

If requested to do so, he will report encroachments on the property. He will mark property corners with stakes or other monuments. And he will furnish a map showing those markings.

THERE ARE, Lockett says, four types of surveys:

The lot survey with a monument set in each corner of the parcel involved; a topographic survey showing features such as buildings, fences, unusual elevations, etc.; an architectural survey, showing the same features as the lot and topographic surveys plus utilities, building setbacks, future streets, zoning, etc.; and the American Land Title Association or extended coverage survey required to supply a title company with the location data necessary for issuing extended coverage title insurance.

The surveyor, Lockett says, cannot ordinarily tell a client in advance what his charges will be, "since the difficulties encountered normally cannot be anticipated, and the cost is based on the time required to make the survey."

HE POINTS out that "the land surveyor renders a highly technical and complex service, working as a member of a professional team that may also include an attorney, the title company, an architect and an engineer.

"Quite literally, he prepares the foundation upon which your project is built.

"In cases of controversy he appears in court as your expert witness if necessary. No one other than he can assume responsibility for the correctness and accuracy of his work."

IN MARIN, the land surveyor may be seen at work at jobs other than boundary surveys, often as the employees of public bodies.

Marin County Public Works Department surveyors, for instance, are involved in road right-of-way and construction surveys. Water and sewer districts employ surveyors, as do the utility companies.

Sometimes their work takes Marin surveyors outside their home county.

George Colson's Engineering Field Services, for instance, has been active in extensive surveying for the huge Bay Area Rapid Transit construction project, putting to use one of Colson's own inventions, a system controlling tunneling machines by the use of laser, in more than three miles of tunnel construction.

FROM METAL chain and compass to laser beam, computer and push-button electronics represents a drastic change for the profession.

What must remain unchanged, Marin's land surveyors are determined, are the ethics and integrity of their profession.

It is to that goal that they have dedicated their association and the Land Surveyors Week they will be celebrating during the next seven days.

For, in the words of the proclamation signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan: "The property rights of the citizens of this state are made meaningful through the skill and dedication of responsible land surveyors who locate, landmark and map property lines . . . ."

Breaking Down The Barriers Between Music And Listeners

Marin's Wynn Westover Has His Own Approach To Problem

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Sausalito conductor-teacher Wynn Westover believes that, because many music lovers no longer listen to and really hear music, special effort is required to enable musicians to communicate with their audiences.

He is also convinced that in order to do this barriers must be broken down between the conductor and performers and their audiences. This is the objective of his Westover Chamber Orchestra, which he recently moved from San Francisco to Sausalito.

WESTOVER WILL demonstrate his theories tonight in the first program in a three-concert series he will conduct this season. The program of classic, romantic, impressionistic and modern music, featuring pianist Mario Fenninger and baritone

CONDUCTOR-TEACHER Wynn Westover, left, of Sausalito, leads his Westover Chamber Music Orchestra at a Martin Luther King memorial concert last year at the Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco. A soloist was opera baritone Walter Hinton, right, who will be a soloist tonight for the orchestra's concert at the College of Marin's Fine Arts Theater.

WYNN WESTOVER believes in preparing audiences for the music to be heard in his Wynn Westover Chamber Orchestra concerts. An important preparation technique is to offer introductory comments about the over-all concert program and before each piece.

PEOPLE OF ALL ages enjoy participating in the concerts of the Wynn Westover Chamber Music Orchestra. Here Westover sings one of the important themes from a work about to be performed, then has the audience repeat it with him.

How To Make Good Listeners Out Of A Concert Audience

Wynn Westover Has Developed His Own Special Techniques

Walter Hinton as soloists, will be performed at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater of the College of Marin Fine Arts Building in Kentfield.

Before relaying the Westover explanation of how he overcomes non-listening habits to really communicate music, a brief resume of his musical background will show how he has developed to this point.

Westover holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree with high distinction and honors from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. He attended Columbia University graduate school in New York City for two and a half years and received one associate and two licentiate diplomas in music from Trinity College of Music in London, England. (Stanford considers the licentiate equivalent to its Master's degree.)

HE STUDIED conducting with various conductors before directing a number of chorus and orchestra groups in and around San Francisco since 1966. He has also been a reviewer for San Francisco symphony and opera seasons since 1966 and has performed as a violin soloist.

Since 1965 Westover has taught his own method of sight-reading, rhythm and ear-training that stresses mental hearing of music as it is read, in the adult education program of the College of Marin and, since 1966, for the University of California extension division.

His most recent activities have been as director of the Tillmany Orchestra in San Francisco and as instructor of music theory, orchestration and conducting at the Community Music Center in San Francisco.

LAST YEAR Westover founded his present orchestra, which performed John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King memorial concerts at Nourse Auditorium and the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco.

In the current concert season of this orchestra he plans to demonstrate his beliefs on changing listening habits and his theories for breaking down musician-audience barriers.

"Destructive, non-musical sounds of our modern civilization and the meaningless, constant presence of some kind of music," he says, "have brought about the condition in which people no longer listen.

"SOUNDS OF traffic — rumble of trucks, auto horns, running motors, jet planes — added to the bombardment in the home of electric appliances and the continual noise of radio and TV have blunted our ability to care about what is heard.

"The teen-age rock and roll with its fantastic volume of sound is the young people's way of circumventing the non-listening habit. Unfortunately the high decibels lead to deafness. There must be another way."

One way, in concerts at least, he believes, is to break down barriers between audiences and performers.

"ALTHOUGH THIS is the trend in all the arts," he says, "because the need to communicate is very strong in society today, I came to the idea myself because communicating fully is a deep-seated necessity for me.

"I found that many people may come to concerts with either a preconceived notion of what the music will be, and therefore feel they know all about it, or with no idea at all of what to expect. Either way is bad."

But before anything can be done about either attitude, Westover maintains, the environment must be right. Careful attention to comfort so that people can enjoy the music is important, he insists. Proper ventilation and light are crucial as well as a friendly, informal atmosphere permitting the concert-goers to respond not only as individuals but as a group, feeling free to communicate with each other.

THE NEXT problem, says Westover, is one of focusing attention, since people come in from the street influenced by many sounds and sights and with psychological attitudes determined by immediately preceding experiences.

The same approach is possible, he explains, whether they come with preconceived or no ideas at all about the music, which ranges in style from baroque and classical to contemporary.

In either case, Westover, having arranged for as comfortable and friendly an environment as possible, may begin by giving an introduction to the entire concert, then continuing with comments before each piece.

HE SAYS HE relies most heavily on audience participation to focus attention, singing the important themes of a piece himself and then having the audience sing them with him or perhaps clap the rhythm.

With classical music, to establish a fresh point of view, he promises to emphasize in his comments what is pertinent to modern-day audiences and conditions, possibly disclosing little-known or recently-discovered information about the music.

One advantage of contemporary music, Westover says, is that it can help to break down barriers more easily since people are not so likely to have preconceived notions about it.

WESTOVER SAYS, "Music is a vital necessity in day-to-day

After 21 years, Ed Sullivan is still doing the best impersonation of Ed Sullivan. Tonight's guests will be Clint Eastwood, Flip Wilson and Phyllis Diller.
Ed Sullivan—8:00.

NEW. About the only thing in show business Leslie Uggams hasn't done is star in her own show. This year, that all changes. Tonight's guest will be Don Knotts.
Leslie Uggams 9:00.

Preferred by more double agents than any other show on television. This year Leonard Nimoy joins Peter Graves and the IMF team.
Mission Impossible 10:00.

Find out what's been happening all day. Join John Weston for Eyewitness News at 11:00 followed by Harry Reasoner at 11:30.

CLAPPING THE RHYTHMS of a work to be performed by his Westover Chamber Music Orchestra is another technique conductor-teacher Wynn Westover uses to increase audience attention to and appreciation of the music. So here he both sings and claps as he prepares an audience for a piece the orchestra will then perform.

and minute-to-minute living so that changing the approach to concert going is extremely important.

"Music affects our lives unconsciously when we are awake or asleep. Behind every activity is some rhythm to which we move and do our chores or play. Every person experiences the energizing effect of marches, the flow of the waltz or bossa nova or the intellectual stimulation of a Bach fugue.

"There are melodic, harmonic and rhythmic vibrations in our natures that we are mostly unaware of except when consciously listening to or playing music.

"OUR FEELINGS and thoughts are strongly affected by the last music we played or sang or heard on radio, television or at a concert. This music may determine our reactions to problems, our thoughts and decisions.

"Who has not had moments when he could not stand to hear a certain piece or kind of music? Many times our own inner rhythms and harmony demand to be heard.

"Frequently we notice how words that are trite and superficial as spoken become, when accompanied by appropriate harmonies, filled with genuine feeling and communication. For example, in movies or on television the music of the sound track legitimizes the scene and dignifies the words.

"I BELIEVE every person has his own vibration rate, rhythms and harmonies. Too often our unconscious music vibrations may sway us from logic and reason or bind us in conformity. Or they may make us more aware of the presence of God in nature and us — yet, on the other hand, may dull our awareness of spiritual values.

"Many of us sense that we are different persons with different people. Upon first meeting we sense the vibration of a new acquaintance and frequently temper our own vibration to fit the new person and situation. We adjust for better communication of ideas and feelings — all too frequently simply to expedite material matters, ignoring our own basic need to vibrate musically as ourselves.

"All artists, whether in music, drama, literature, painting or dance, communicate their intentions and emotions to their audience. A nervous person, overly concerned with acceptance, will strike that same chord in his audience."

THE PRIMARY intention of the Westover Chamber Orchestra, Westover says, is to play music so that it quiets superficial vibrations and allows the audience to experience their own inner responses, free from alien influences.

The program to be heard tonight will be performed again at the San Francisco College for Women and at Chabot College in Hayward.

On Nov. 16 Westover will return to the College of Marin with an ensemble concert featuring late romantic French composers.

ALERT AND HAPPY expressions on the faces of some of the members of an audience at a Wynn Westover Chamber Music Orchestra concert demonstrate the success of conductor Westover's techniques for breaking down barriers between audiences and musicians so that listeners can become totally involved in the music. Such a response is, for Westover, ample reward for his special efforts.

The Travel Pages

ONE OF THE fascinating tours available to visitors to Bangkok is the two (by air) or three-day (by motorcoach) visit to the Angkor Wat ruins at Siem Reap just across the Thailand border in Cambodia. Terraces, monuments, temples and towering statuary date back centuries and awe the western tourist.

Touring Out Of Bangkok

Thai Company Offers Trips To Up-Country

Want to take in the "elephant roundup" that highlights the fall season in Thailand's "up-country" at Surin north of Bangkok?

Or does a two to four-day trek to Chiengmai, the picturesque capital of Northern Thailand, hold more appeal?

Or you may prefer a tour to Angkor Wat, across the border in Cambodia to inspect some of southeastern Asia's most fabulous ruins.

Better yet, if time permits, take in all three of these unforgettable sights while you visit what was once known as the Kingdom of Siam.

MARY PRICE of San Rafael Travel Service, recently returned from two months in the South Pacific, Orient and East Asia, says all three excursions are available through the Cheshire Cat Travel Service in Bangkok.

And Cheshire Cat's president, Mrs. Pussadee Napombejara, was in the Bay Area this summer to acquaint travel advisers of the area with the tour possibilities in her country.

One of the most popular excursions for western tourists, she said, is the full-day "forest-train tour" of traveling by private car or train to witness the roundup of elephants, as well as domesticized elephants at work.

THERE ARE even free rides on a tame jumbo for would-be cowboys, Thailand-style.

Mrs. Napombejara recommends that the trip be made by train for the most rewarding scenery enroute.

The trip to Chiengmai can be made by air with a two or three night stay in an air-conditioned room with bath. A four-day trip by train also includes a first class sleeping berth with the rail ticket.

CHIENGMAI dates back some 700 years and is famed for its silver work and other metal crafts, as well as its cotton products and its beautiful girls.

At 1,000 feet elevation, it offers an escape from hot and humid weather that is especially pleasant in October and November.

After visits to the silver and weaving villages, many travelers take a short excursion on to Mount Suthep and its famous temple.

Thailand State Railways trains are comfortable and offer an express service to Chiengmai.

THREE DAYS, according to Mrs. Napombejara and to Mrs. Price, are the minimum one should spend at Angkor. The Great Wat or Angkor Wat is but a part of the temples and monuments to be seen and admired. The Bayon in the center of Angkor Thom is a series of terraces and galleries with towers covered by colossal stone faces — 200 smiling gods whose sweetness of expression contrasts with their awesome size.

King Javarman VII, a busy builder, was responsible for most of the monuments.

The traveler who views them will be seeing great works that many tourists have never even heard of, let alone seen.

CHESHIRE CAT offers a three-day all-inclusive motorcoach trip. If time is short, there is a two-day air trip.

There are a number of full and half-day tours from Bangkok into the countryside including one to the former capital city of Ayuthaya with its massive and ancient bronze Buddha, its elephant corral and a summer palace. It can be reached by boat, coach, car or train.

Then there is the Kra Peninsula some 25 miles west of Bangkok with the famous shrine, The Golden Cheddi, towering 350 feet into the air.

TO THE northwest a motorcoach takes you to the famous "bridge over the River Kwai," built by Allied prisoners during World War II, connecting Thailand and Burma over the Three Pagodas Pass, and immortalized by the fine movie. There's a full-day boat ride through jungle and mountains.

Cheshire Cat also offers a schedule of city tours in Bangkok, taking in such sights as the national museum, the Imperial Palace, the Emerald Buddha and the Wat Benchama Bopit marble temple.

Sports contests including Thai boxing matches are yet another attraction.

Mrs. Napombejara did not over-estimate the attractions of her colorful country, according to Mrs. Price, during her visit to this area. And more and more westerners are making Thailand their destination or a stopping point when they travel westward.

NOTES TO TRAVEL BY

World Academy Schools for Foreign Study, Post Office Box 2385, Cincinnati, Ohio, has added two new courses of study that will include Soviet Russia and Israel in its 1970 study-and-travel programs and bring to 18 its number of accredited courses. . . . P & O Lines has published an expanded 1970 edition of its brochure, "The Six Worlds of P & O," that can be obtained by writing the steamship company at 155 Post Street, San Francisco. . . . Through Dec. 15 and again from Jan. 10 through Jan. 31, Switzerland is offering reduced transportation and hotel rates for senior citizens traveling in that country.

Icelandic Airlines is offering a rate of $265 per person for two traveling together for its two-week ski vacation package, with planes departing New York on Fridays and Saturdays for Luxembourg, where there are overnight accommodations and a rental car to carry the traveler on to the Chalet Vagabond in Leysin, Switzerland, for lodging and breakfasts in dormitory-style rooms. . . . American President Lines has scheduled a six-day round trip cruise to Baja California from San Francisco Dec. 27 for its SS President Wilson.

'But Where Is My Baggage?'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every day in scores of airports around the world, thousands of plane passengers and airlines personnel are faced with the problem of "The Mystery of the Missing Bags."

It happens so often that guide books and those pocket-sized language dictionaries should include "Where is my luggage?" in their lists of helpful and common phrases for the traveler.

AIRLINES spokesmen admit baggage handling is one of their biggest headaches.

And it could get worse when the 350-passenger Boeing 747 super jetliner goes into service.

No overall figures are available but the Civil Aeronautics Board reported that two major American airlines alone shelled out two and a half million dollars for lost baggage claims in 1967.

Industry sources estimate about two million bags will be "misdirected" or otherwise "mishandled" this year. They note that will be only a small percentage of the total 225 million pieces the airlines expect to handle, while conceding this is little consolation for the traveler whose bags have vanished somewhere in the wild blue yonder.

THE PRIMARY responsibility for seeing that your bags arrive at the same time you do rests on the airlines. But there are some precautions the traveler should take on his own.

Here are some tips from veteran air travelers and the Air Transport Assn., which includes most of the U.S. air carriers:

Make sure you can easily identify your bags. A common cause for missing luggage is the look-alike bag. Some travelers don't even bother to check baggage tags and will grab the first one that looks familiar. Put some distinctive personal identification, such as tags or stickers, on the outside of the bag. I have a dab of red paint on the corners of my popular brand suitcase; another veteran traveler ties brightly-colored ribbons on the handles of his bags.

PASTE A business, personal card or identification sticker available from most airlines, in the inside of the bag just in case the outside tags and markers are torn or scraped off during handling.

Remove all old destination tags and stickers when getting ready for the next flight, at home and along the way. Baggage handlers may be confused by old routing tags and leave the luggage on the plane when it should be taken off, or unload it at the wrong airport.

If your trip involves changing planes or airlines, make certain your ticket is written up with ample time between connections for checked-through luggage to be transferred. And on long flights, make allowances for weather, mechanical and other delays between connecting planes.

BAGGAGE CARRIED free of charge on international flights is limited to 66 pounds for first class and 44 pounds for tourist and economy. In addition, passengers may bring aboard airlines or similar type bag, coat, camera and other such items which can fit under the seat.

Domestic airlines go by size rather than weight. Each passenger may check two suitcases: one with total measurements of 62 inches — length, breadth and thickness—and another of up to 55 inches total measurement. Carry on regulations are about the same as for international flights.

But travel as light as possible.

GAINING POPULARITY on overnight and weekend trips are the small suitcases which slide under the seat. Garment bags also can be carried aboard most planes and stowed in the overhead compartment or in the coat rack.

But extra insurance should be taken out to cover possible loss if you carry valuables in your luggage.

If you can't find your luggage when you arrive at your destination, contact the airline representative. He will start the back-checking.

IN THE SUBMARINE gardens off Bermuda, two skindivers pause to take in the underwater beauty of coral formations, semi-tropical fish and multi-colored vegetation.

The Wonder World Under Water

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

While man looks forward to exploring the mysteries of outer space, millions of American and other adventurers already are discovering a strange new world here on earth.

It is the world under the oceans and seas.

Thanks to the mask, snorkel and fin, skindiving has become one of the most popular aquatic pastimes for young and old around the world. Estimates of the number of skindivers in the United States alone run to more than 10 million.

IN PAST YEARS, most tourists had to be content with viewing coral reefs and sea gardens from aboard a glass-bottomed boat. Diving equipment was expensive and only for the experienced.

Now, virtually anybody in good health who can swim can go down for a closer look at the colorful formations, strange vegetation and unusual creatures of the sea. And the cost of mask, snorkel and flippers is well within the average vacation budget.

Today, too, jet planes have brought the best diving sites in the Caribbean, Mediterranean and Red Seas—and even in far-off Australia — only hours flying time from the United States.

I GOT MY baptism as a snorkler in the Caribbean off Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands. I got hooked after reading a little folder called "Flora, Fauna and the Sea" which I found in my room at the Little Dix Bay resort, containing information on the reefs, fish and plant life in the area.

Snorkeling is, in fact, the number one guest activity at the secluded resort on the island which lies across Sir Francis Drake Channel from the U.S. Virgin Islands.

I made my first dive at The Baths, a jumble of huge granite boulders in the sea which form quiet pools where schools of tropical fish dart in, around and through underwater grottoes.

"IT'S REALLY amazing," said General Manager David Brewer of the boom in snorkeling. "Guests sit around reading books on fish instead of dancing at night. They get to the point that if they don't see a barracuda, they feel hurt."

Little Dix Bay offers regularly scheduled guided tours to offshore reefs. Equipment may be rented and instructors are available.

The guide and his party usually swim along the surface, looking down at the reef through their glass-faced masks and breathing through their snorkels. When visibility is poor, snorkelers must hold their breath when diving under water for a closeup view.

THE LEADER "ups divers" by a prearranged signal and then provides information on the reef and fish. The pace is slow to permit swimmers a full inspection of the underwater world.

What goes on underwater?

It's a silent but colorful world, with surprising visibility — as much as 200 feet and sometimes more. Thousands of reef fish, splashed with brilliant colors, sweep back and forth in close formation as if on cue. They range from tiny guppies to ugly groupers which can weigh up to 200 pounds. Other game fish common to Caribbean waters include mackerel, kingfish, snappers, amberjacks, jewfish, hogfish and dolphins.

IN DEEPER waters or the more isolated reefs — which novice skindivers should avoid — there may be sharks and barracuda, huge turtles and giant moray eels. Even experienced skin and scuba divers give them a wide berth.

There are numerous excellent shallow and deep water diving sites off the American and British Virgin Islands. Guides, equipment and boats are available on the main islands.

For the more experienced divers, there are the reefs near Anegada Island — about 10 miles north of Virgin Gorda but still relatively unexplored because of the difficulty of getting there.

JUST ACROSS Pillsbury Sound from St. Thomas is St. John, site of the U.S. Virgin Island National Park which includes Trunk Bay with a beautiful reef in shallow water for the less-experienced skin diver. Park rangers guide snorkelers along the reef where the various types of fish and coral are identified and described by underwater markers.

Skindiving could add a new dimension for the traveler seeking the unusual — after all, more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface is covered by water.

How The Wolfpack Lost Sea

THE GERMAN NAVY IN WORLD WAR II by Edward P. Von der Porten; Crowell, 274 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

Wolfpacks of German submarines came very close to sinking England in World War II's early days.

Between June and November, 1940, more than 200 merchant ships were sunk in the North Atlantic Ocean. A million tons of foodstuffs, fuel, raw materials, arms and other goods never reached the desperate isles.

Edward Von der Porten looks at this epic struggle for survival with a dispassionate eye. He describes the strategy and tactics of Grand Adm. Karl Donitz and his U-boat commanders.

Outweighed by British men-of-war, Donitz used his own surface ships cautiously, while going all-out in submarine warfare.

Concentrating his attacks in shipping lanes west of the British Isles, Donitz developed deadly techniques such as the wolfpacks.

The German goal was to torpedo more ships than England and her allies could construct. They almost succeeded. Hundreds of ships went to the bottom, carrying thousands of sailors to sea-bottom graves.

Early in the war, U-boat commanders surfaced and picked up survivors. This maneuver made tham sitting ducks for British destroyers and the practice was abandoned. Some passenger ships were torpedoed, but the evidence indicates that German U-boat captains usually thought they were attacking troop transports—fair game.

British radar and American mass production eventually defeated the U-boats. British techniques for locating and depth-charging subs became so efficient that in "Black May" of 1943 41 U-boats—one-third of Donitz' subs at sea—failed to return. Donitz withdrew his underwater fleet from the North Atlantic.

ADM. KARL DONITZ
Deadly techniques

Adolf Hitler apparently never grasped the function of naval and submarine operations. If more subs had been built, the British might have been forced to capitulate by 1941—another of history's ifs.

The name Von der Porten sounds like a German naval historian whose work is made known through translation. The author is actually a native son living no farther away than Santa Rosa, where he is an instructor at the junior college.

He has put together a crisp, well-organized history, in fact done well enough to bear an imprimatur from Admiral Donitz himself — still alive in West Germany.

Many books have been devoted to such episodes as the sinking of the Bismarck, the scuttling of the Graf Spee and action in the North Atlantic . . . episodes which Von der Porten covers. While his treatment of such incidents is briefer and less dramatic, an overall perspective is given which enables the reader to grasp the successes and failures of the Hitler-dominated German naval strategy.

A Critical Look At Controversial Soldier

MACARTHUR AS MILITARY COMMANDER by Gavin Long; Batsford/Van Nostrand, 243 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

When he died in April, 1964, at 84, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was still an enigmatic, controversial figure. And the victim of the biggest sacking in American military history.

This biography by Australian military historian Gavin Long is not likely to clarify matters or to set well with the general's admirers.

Long pictures him as egocentric, supersensitive, melodramatic, imperious; an erratic military strategist, and perennially suspicious of civilian leaders in Washington.

He was brilliant, Long points out, born to command, handsome, lucky, courageous and idealistic — and something of an anachronism all his life.

Some of the men who worked with and under MacArthur were intense in their loyalty and admiration — most were otherwise.

"I studied dramatics under MacArthur for five years in Washington and four years in the Philippines," was the way Gen. Dwight Eisenhower described his staff service.

Long was a newspaperman covering MacArthur and the Southwest Pacific area operations against the Japanese in World War II. He observed a MacArthur who stayed in his Brisbane command post for a year before visiting island battlefronts while second-guessing tactics. He heard the general make victory claims that squared not with combat results. MacArthur managed news so as to glorify victories and minimize all else. Australian victories were given short shrift and Australian combat superiority to both Americans and Japanese in jungle warfare was ignored, the author states. He claims the general regarded news as a political and military weapon and a means for self-glorification.

Long does not rate MacArthur as a brilliant strategist either in the Southwest Pacific, in World War I, or in Korea later. The general was cautious, too cautious, in pushing the Japanese out of the islands threatening Australia. Others conceived the island-skipping attacks that isolated thousands of enemy troops — jumping from Guadalcanal to Bougainville in the Solomon Islands, and eventually beyond Rabaul to Morotai and the Spice Islands, then to Leyte, Samar and finally the recapture of Luzon and Manila.

When the A-bomb ended the war, MacArthur handled the surrender and reached the apex of his career with military rule of Japan from 1945 to 1950. He got along well with Asian leaders and offered enlightened democratic ideals for reshaping Japanese institutions. This was done with shrewdness and a quality of statesmanship. He overcame problems that could have disrupted the relatively smooth resolution of Japanese-American animosities.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR
As World War II general

When North Korea invaded South Korea, MacArthur assumed command of a United Nations army, mostly Americans. His daring landing at Inchon was a brilliant success and led to defeat of the North Korean army. But MacArthur, and most others, misread China's intentions. A surprise Chinese invasion almost defeated the allies.

Eventually a stalemate was achieved, but MacArthur wanted the support and approval to attack China. He bolstered his purview with a public statement that found support in Congress. Harry S. Truman was outraged, as he had been many times before, and sacked the general for advocating his own brand of foreign policy.

MacArthur returned to his homeland a hero, gave his "old soldiers never die" speech and faded from global prominence. Eighteen years later, the man and his views on fighting Communism in Asia, are still relevant, still controversial.

Long's biography is a reasonable man's look at a man who was often unreasonable. But the author misses the length and breadth of his subject — a man for the ages, right or wrong. MacArthur awaits an Andre Maurois to tell his story.

Warm Glow Of Wisdom From New Chaim Potok Novel

THE PROMISE by Chaim Potok; Knopf, 359 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Suzanne D. Stamler.

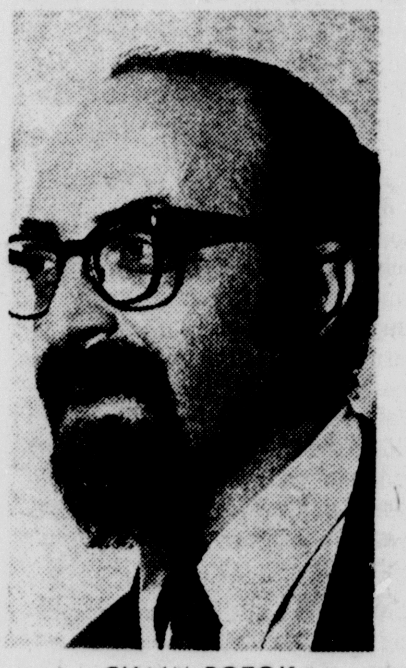
Growing up in a ghetto in Brooklyn amidst dark, brooding Jewish orthodoxy and Hasidic fanaticism, the young are faced with the ordeal of remaining loyal to their ancient heritage without breaking their sacred promise to be true to themselves and their scholarship.

The two boys whose childhood friendship began in Chaim Potok's earlier book, "The Chosen," deepens as they approach manhood in "The Promise"—a manhood fraught with frenzied religious and political cross-currents of McCarthyism and extremism generated by the wary who survived World War II with a death camp religious ferocity or a political paranoia.

Reuven Malter is the gentle son of an enlightened rabbi. His scrupulous scholarship and simple honesty challenge the hypocrisy and danger of blind religious devotion and the authenticity of unscholarly passages in the Talmud, the ancient book of Jewish law. Striving to emulate the breadth of his father's vision and liberate himself from a narrow adherence to Jewish life and law, Reuven, in preparing for the rabbinate, undergoes the test of coming to terms with his rebellion against dogma. Bitterly assailed and ridiculed by his unbending orthodox teacher, Rav Kalman, who fights him with the same ruthlessness with which he fought to survive in Nazi death camps, Reuven quietly and respectfully maintains a scholarly and tenable position. Gradually he gains the respect of his adversaries and succeeds in achieving a coveted position in the graduate school of rabbinical studies.

Deeply dedicated, Danny Saunders is driven to attain perfection in a secular profession after refusing to fulfill his destiny as a spiritual leader of the Hasids, his religious sect.

With a holiness akin to Alyosha Karamazov and an alertness of an Albert Einstein, Danny's brilliant beginnings as a clinical psychologist are seriously jeopardized when he chooses to follow an unorthodox form of treatment to cure young Michael Jordan, the precocious son of a much maligned free-thinking father and professor of Jewish philosophy.



CHAIM POTOK
Two from a ghetto

Tension builds as Danny summons Reuven to enter with him into the twilight world of Michael's catatonic silence.

Finally in a dramatic explosion of energy, Michael returns to reality, writhing with hatred for his parents.

"How can you love a religion that makes people hate other human beings? I hated it — God, God, God I hated it. I wanted to crush it — I wanted to burn it. And my father is trying to teach it. He loves it, Reuven — I hate anything that does that to human beings. It wasn't only his name 'they' attacked . . . it was my name too!"

In the end, Danny's daring and Reuven's courage result in dazzling breakthroughs for both.

Chaim Potok writes with an urgency that evokes empathy and nourishes the soul.

"The Promise" is a book of complex plots and double climaxes. It is here that the author, in trying to amplify his theme, falls short of real excellence.

In attempting to heighten the impact of his message, he tends to exaggerate events and out comes implausibility. He would have us believe in the severity of Michael's illness without offering convincing background information outside the pale of societal pressure.

The love affair between Danny and Rachael lacks credibility and obviously is drawn to restate the difference between 20th Century Judaism and parochial Hasidism.

All in all, however, the book has the warm glow of wisdom that reaches beyond the mind and pierces the heart.

SAN FRANCISCO by editors of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine; Lane, 288 pages, $9.95 until Dec. 31, 1969, and $11.75 thereafter.

During the trial of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four other critics of our Vietnam policies in Boston's federal court on charges of conspiring to aid, abet and counsel violations of the selective service laws, Jessica Mitford sat with the press.

There was, however, not the slightest chance that this intellectually brilliant, sharp-tongued and opinionated woman would render anything like the objective and impartial account to which the newspaper reporter traditionally aspires.

She was a fully committed advocate, as bitterly opposed to the draft laws and the war in Vietnam as any of the defendants.

Her book, "The Trial of Dr. Spock," is, therefore, a highly subjective document, sympathetic to the defendants, scornful of the prosecution, the court and the "establishment" for which they acted.

Yet, despite this deep personal involvement in the cause, it should be added that this book does not find Jessica Mitford at her best. She is not quite the bitingly witty author, for instance, who took on the undertakers so devastatingly in "The American Way of Death." There are times when we come upon the rapier-like thrusts of the old Jessica Mitford. But more often, she seems to have allowed her personal feelings to get in the way of her writing and to blunt its usual cold, sharp edge.

Nevertheless, the book serves well as a resume of the case, providing one reads it for the decidedly partisan report that it is.

Dr. Benjamin Spock, Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., Michael Ferber, Mitchell Goodman and Marcus Raskin, she tells us, deliberately courted arrest because they desired to test the legality of the war in Vietnam and the draft laws, and to establish the extent to which the private citizen's freedom of expression is protected by the Bill of Rights.

But, she charges, the government dodged such a confrontation by charging the five men, not directly with violations of the draft laws, but with a conspiracy. And the conspiracy theory, she continues, is so confused, so vague, so shadowy and so complex that not even the experts can agree upon its definition.

Thus, she concludes, the country was denied a clearcut ruling on the issues at a time when such a decision was vital to the nation. And the risks and sacrifices of the five men largely were wasted.

She seems genuinely surprised, as well as angered, that the government did not play by the rules proposed by Dr. Spock and his co-defendants. But there was never any evidence that the two sides were even engaged in the same "game."

She views the growing use of conspiracy charges, particularly in politically oriented cases, with a grave concern that seems well merited. An ultimate appellate court decision in favor of the defendants did nothing, she adds, to nullify or really control this dangerous weapon, but instead charted a safer course for its employment by later prosecutors against other dissidents.

Miss Mitford's coverage of the trial itself is most noteworthy for its spotlighting of the bias of the presiding judge, 85-year-old Francis J. W. Ford, as prejudiced against the defendants as Miss Mitford was in their favor. And a prejudiced judge is a far more serious matter than a prejudiced writer. Miss Mitford is not the only observer to note the judge's injudicious imbalance, and she documents it convincingly.

Her account, too, points up the disunity among the defendants and their lawyers, a strange situation among alleged conspirators. In so doing, she brings again to our attention an old problem among liberals and radicals who rarely can subordinate their personalities to group action on behalf of the ideas and causes to which they are committed. They are often prima donnas and disdain the chorus.

Only Dr. Spock and his attorney, Leonard Boudin, really appear to have acted consistently with selfless wisdom and courage, although the other defendants were high-minded and also have their moments.

Those jurors who did agree to discuss the case with Miss Mitford after the verdicts displayed a dismal lack of understanding of the issues and the evidence. For instance, there seemed not the slightest reason other than whim for acquitting Raskin while convicting the other four. And they plainly took their cue from Judge Ford.

It is an interesting book on an important legal case that might have been far more significant, had the issues been truly joined. And Jessica Mitford, even in a below par performance, is anything but dull or lacking in persuasion.

THE EDITORS of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine have contributed another hefty and impressive addition to the growing library that covers San Francisco pictorially.

Entitled simply "San Francisco," this newest volume has a number of things to recommend it to admirers of the fascinating city beside the Golden Gate.

To begin with, it combines history with the present. You get a resume of the city's past before sampling its contemporary sights and moods. The more than 400 illustrations include both scenes from San Francisco's youth and from its maturity.

The Sunset staff has striven for photographs that depict this much photographed city differently, and to a considerable degree has succeeded, although the book is not without its pictorial cliches. An evaluation of the originality of photographs is, of course, an individual thing, and some will find this collection fresher and more satisfying than others.

The major disappointment of the book lies in its use of color, a field in which Sunset can excel. Too many of the 32 pages of full-color plates in this book have taken on a gaudy, unnatural appearance in their reproduction, pretty perhaps, but unreal. The black and white photos fare much better.

Such Marin photographers as Michael Bry, Madison Devlin, Phil Palmer, Hal Roth, Anna-Jean Cole and Pirkle Jones are represented, as are the likes of Ansel Adams, Richard Brooks and Phiz Mozesson.

A major asset of the book is the appendix on rough paper that contains a chronology of highlights from San Francisco history, an explanation of street and place names, a description of Bay Area historical landmarks, and a bibliography of selected readings on San Francisco compiled by Richard Dillon.

Sunset is uniquely fitted to produce a book on San Francisco because of its long association with the city and its considerable resources in this area. It has done a commendable, if not brilliant, job, and "San Francisco" will undoubtedly find its way into many, many Bay Area homes as a cherished possession to be made available to visitors to introduce them to the sights, the flavor and the moods of one of America's most fascinating metropolitan regions. And many of these, no doubt, will want to take a copy home with them.

"MARRIED Today, Single Tomorrow" (Doubleday, $6.95) is an attempt by a husband and wife, Sacramento attorney Kenneth Donelson and legal researcher Irene Donelson, to provide counsel that will ease the distress and problems resulting from a marital breakup.

The Donelsons emphasize the legal aspects of divorce, but do not confine themselves wholly to that facet. They also offer guidance on the emotional, financial, sexual and social problems and questions that arise. The advice is applicable principally to women, but men as well can benefit from the contents.

The book represents, its coauthors says, the "distillation" of experience from thousands of divorce cases that they have studied. Their final word: Divorce need not mean the end of living, but instead can mark a beginning, if approached and carried out with commonsense.

Sleuths & Suspense

GATE OF IVORY, GATE OF HORN by Philip Craig; Doubleday, 191 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

Author Philip Craig, an English professor, has concocted a story that is suspenseful, at times thrilling, at times zany, and nearly always very funny.

Thrown together are a professor of English who wants to find Beowulf's tomb, his niece, his niece's boy friend — Luther Martingale — and a Swede named Beorn Wiglafson.

It's Martingale and the Swede — drinking, playing poker, sailing the Atlantic in a small boat, reading selections from Beowulf — who provide a fast pace, color and a good knock-down-drag-out fight. The professor and his niece, however, are nutty, too, and along with the other two barely survive shipwreck in the Baltic Sea.

But Beowulf's tomb? Even if there was a Beowulf? Pointless questions.

There was never a "Gate of Ivory, Gate of Horn" except in fiction — this and other fiction — but author Craig makes it seem real in an unusual way. Don't look for the conventional murder mystery — not here.

Some New Books For Juniors

Guide dogs for the blind receiving their training on the streets of San Rafael and elsewhere in Marin are a common and heartwarming sight.

Then "Banner Forward!" (Dutton, $6.95), by the Los Angeles professional photographer and animal breeder Eva Rappaport, should hold a special appeal for Marin youngsters.

With her typewriter and her camera, Mrs. Rappaport tells the story of one dog, Banner, a golden retriever, from birth, through puppyhood to maturity and status as a fully trained guide dog serving a blind mistress.

The schooling takes place at and around the Guide Dogs for the Blind center just outside of San Rafael, so that the pictures have the added attraction of familiar settings. And Mrs. Rappaport has re-created with careful authenticity exactly what goes into the preparation of a guide dog and its companion.

The result is an unusually meaningful and interesting book.

Some other new books for the juniors:

"Sing, Little Mouse" (Crowell, $3.95) is an unusually rewarding nature book by Aileen Fisher about one boy's search for a mouse that could sing like a bird. The verse by which Miss Fisher tells the story has a musical quality in itself that is irresistible. And her nature and animal lore is authentic and fascinating. To this add some splendid illustrations by Symeon Shimin, and you have an extraordinary book.

"The Train" (Grosset and Dunlap, $1) by Jean Fritz, with illustrations by Jean Simpson, is part of a Ready-to-Read Series worked out with educators for children just mastering the printed word. In this one, the readers share little Pedro's excitement and activities during a train trip, made all the more entertaining by some excellent artwork. Some other new titles in what promises to be a popular series with small ones and parents: "The Dog and the Wolf" by Annie Decaprio and Victor Lazzaro, "The Dinosaur and the Dodo" by Miss Decaprio and Allen Shapiro, and "The Hippopotamus" by Bobbi Herne and Jeanne Hunt Miller. The last is especially well-done.

Will television ever completely replace the parent-told bedtime story in the affections of children? Let us hope not. Let there always be a place in the home for such books as "A Treasury of Bedtime Stories" (Grosset and Dunlap, $3.95), a collection of favorites that have been proven certain tot-pleasers through the decades. Such stories as "The Gingerbread Boy," "Rumpelstiltskin" and "The Emperor's New Clothes" have retained their charm through generations. The 37 stories included in this book should be good for many hours of pleasure.

For 3 to 8-year-olds, "Nobody Scares a Porcupine" (Westminster, $3.75) by Jean Horton Berg tells why nothing frightens Little Porcupine, except, that is, for one small thing. And from it all the other animals learn a lesson about courage. Robert L. Jefferson's sketches are simple and pleasing to the eyes of small ones.

"Words to Know" (Doubleday, $5.95) by Harry Bricker and Yvonne Beckwith, New Standard Encyclopedia editors, is one of the best "learning" books for small children to come along in some time. Described as "a new picture dictionary in simple story form," it introduces the child to a number of useful words beginning with each letter of the alphabet and uses them in sentences that contribute to a little story. Each such sentence carries its own illustration by Dan Siculan. And each featured letter has its own color key. "Words to Know" will serve beautifully as a picture book for the pre-schooler and even better as an engaging learning tool for the child just beginning to read.

Eight of France's 12 Nobel Prize for Literature winners are represented in "Voices From France" (Doubleday, $3.95), selected by Miriam Morton. What results is an anthology of 10 short stories by the likes of Albert Camus, Anatole France, Romain Rolland, Jean-Paul Sartre, Francois Mauriac, Andre Gide, Frederic Mistral and Roger Martin du Gard. Miss Morton has chosen stories of enduring or contemporary interest with strong appeal for young people, and, with one exception, has done the translations herself. It is literature at its finest.

Janosch is one of those rare author-illustrators still producing entertaining children's books in the tradition of the past. The latest is "Bollerbam" (Walck, $4.75) and it begins, appropriately, "Once upon a time. . . ." It goes on to tell with pleasing text and splashy, colorful pictures the story of a cross-eyed cannoneer in a mythological kingdom and winds up with a little lesson on peace. Refna Wilkin did the translation. An amusing book imaginatively done, but somewhat overpriced.

In "The Origins of Man" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50) writer John Napier and artist Maurice Wilson explain evolution to young readers. Napier is the famed head of the primate biology unit at Queen Elizabeth College, London, and director of the Smithsonian Institution's primate biology program as well. The book is a strictly scientific explanation of man's development, avoiding oversimplification and writing down to the young reader. Not all children will be interested, but some will find the subject fascinating.

A Coloring Book With A Lesson In Tolerance

Morrie Turner, the self-taught black cartoonist whose "Wee Pals" is a popular comic strip with Independent-Journal readers, has done a different kind of coloring book for San Francisco's Troubador Press.

Entitled "Black and White Coloring Book," it uses the integrated child characters that Turner does so well to offer some simple and interesting lessons about minority contributions to our culture and country, and about the value of tolerance.

Famous black figures from our history are portrayed full-page, and facing them the Wee Pals characters discuss their accomplishments. There is coloring to be done on both pages.

Mal Whyte, the Marinite who heads Troubador Press, calls the book "the only one of its type of its quality" and reports that it is receiving an enthusiastic reception, especially from schools and from such groups as the National Council of Christians and Jews which bought a gross of the books for its regional offices.

On The Stereo Scene

By WILLIAM LAFFLER

Two kings of the keyboard play some beautiful music on their newest records.

And both—Roger Williams and Peter Nero—lean heavily on the movies for source material.

On "Love Theme from 'Romeo and Juliet' and Other Great Movie Themes" (Kapp KS-3610), Williams builds up his own brand of excitement in rippling through 11 compositions written for films.

Some of the numbers, such as "I Will Wait For You" from "The Umbrellas" and "More" from "Mondo Cane," are almost ancient, but Roger's vibrant fingers breathe new life into them.

In addition to the "Romeo and Juliet" title number, there are a couple of contemporary themes—"And I Love Her" from "A Hard Day's Night" and "Georgy Girl."

Williams, as usual, takes charge, but he has a fine orchestral backdrop.

On "Love Trip" (RCA Victor ISP-4205), Nero plays "Theme from 'The Quiller Memorandum'," better known as "Wednesday's Child," and other film numbers, among them "You Are There" from "The Naked Runner" and "The Right to Love" from "Two on a Guillotine."

And he adds some non-movie selections, such as "Blue Fantasy" and "If You've Got a Heart."

Phil Moore Jr., a highly regarded jazz pianist, switches to wind instruments and gets odd but pleasant effects on "Right On" (Atco SD 1530). Moore plays an Electra Melodica, an Echoplex, the Hohner clavinet and also a Fender-Rhodeselectric piano.

Four of the numbers, including "Nappy Head Child" and "Right On," are Phil's own compositions. He is supported by a good percussion band.

Tape deck reel-to-reel: "Enoch Light and the Brass Menagerie" (Project 3 X 5036), an Ampex tape release, puts an all-time great orchestra leader before a responsive group of musicians in a selection that includes "Blowin' in the Wind," Lennon and McCartney's "Fool on the Hill," "Wichita Lineman," "I've Gotta Be Me" and others.

Cassette of the Week—"Stage and Screen Spectacular" by Ronnie Aldrich, Stanley Black and Frank Chacksfield (London X 84130).

A NURSERY RHYME FABLE

"Mary, Mary, visionary,
How does your garden grow?"
"With weeds, dead seeds, and cockleburrs
And dream flowers all in a row."

"Arthur, Arthur, idleness-scoffer,
How does your garden grow?"
"Filled and tilled and pulverized
And real flowers all in a row."

"Mary, Mary, visionary,
How long does your garden last?"
"Through summer drought and autumn storm
And winter's wildest blast."

"Arthur, Arthur, idleness-scoffer,
How long does your garden last?"
"From early spring through blossoming
If I work in it all the year past."

"Mary, can you smell those dream flowers?"
"No, but if you dream them up good enough,
Does it matter?"

"Arthur, what is the scent of your real flowers?"
"It is the sweet experience

Handyman's Page

WEAR PROPER apparel in the workshop. Avoid loose fitting clothing, gloves or neckties while around tools that rotate. And wear face shields, goggles or glasses when working with grinders, drills, etc., or if the cutting operation is a dusty one. Protect those eyes at all times.

THE OWNER'S manual is the best source for each particular power tool's applications and limitations. Before a new tool is even taken from its box, the manual should be read carefully and the instructions understood thoroughly. A power tool is a very serious responsibility.

Safety Is First Rule In Power Tool Use

Today's do-it-yourselfer usually has a home workshop that's a powerhouse of equipment.

The never-ending list of new electrical power tools on the market has made every man a handyman. But, although they're great time and labor savers, these tools must be handled with care.

Like any electrical equipment, safety first is the key to their proper use. And this means that every operator should know all the safety rules.

The speed at which a power tool operates is the first safety point to bear in mind. An electrical power saw, for instance, can cause serious injury in less time than it takes to make one motion with a hand-operated saw.

THE OWNER'S manual is the best source for each particular tool's applications and limitations. A power tool is a very serious responsibility, and the manual should be read and understood thoroughly before a tool is even taken out of its box.

Ground every electrical tool unless double-insulated. Ungrounded tools can cause burns and shock capable of killing. Even a slight shock can lead to loss of control of the tool, which could result in injury.

Moisture, such as perspiration or standing on a wet surface, can lower your resistance to voltage and then even a low-voltage current would be able to pass through your body.

SO, IF A TOOL is equipped with a three-wire grounding system, it should be plugged into a three-prong receptacle. If an adapter is used to fit a two-prong receptacle, the adapter wire must be attached to a grounded circuit. Under no circumstances should the third prong ever be removed.

Inspect your power tools often. Grinding wheels do crack; electric cords do wear and fray; saw blades do loosen. A poorly maintained tool wears out faster and is more hazardous.

But, if you are going to repair a power tool, first disconnect the source of power. Plan your work, make sure you know what you are doing and take whatever precautions are needed for safety.

TRADITIONALLY home workshops have been catch-alls for everything from old newspapers to stray pieces of lumber. Cluttered areas or benches and power tools just don't mix. Make sure there's plenty of clear work space with good lighting.

Keep the area clear of children and pets. Visitors and wandering guests could get everybody into a lot of trouble — no one should be in your work area but you.

Other important safety precautions offered by the Power Tool Institute:

Don't force a tool—It will do the job better at the rate for which it was designed. And a small tool or attachment was not designed to do the job cut out for a heavy-duty tool.

WEAR PROPER apparel—Do not wear loose-fitting clothing, gloves or neckties when you are around tools that rotate. And wear face shields, goggles or glasses when working with grinders, drills or if the cutting operation is dusty.

Secure work — Use clamps or a vise to hold work. It's safer than using your hand and it frees both hands to operate the tool. Make sure you are secure also. Keep proper footing and balance at all times.

Store idle tools — When not in use, tools should be stored in a dry, high, locked-up place, out of the reach of children.

Installing The New Floor Covers

Professional house services are dwindling, but manufacturers are providing alternatives.

New products are being introduced that will make it possible for a homemaker to do some jobs with a minimum of skills.

For example, carpet tiles with adhesive backing are available, and one needs only a bump-free floor and a good back to pull off a pretty good job. Individual tiles can be removed for washing, and with adhesive backing renewed, they may be set again into place.

A DEN MAY provide a small area for experimentation.

These carpet tiles — and those being introduced from Europe that are touted as requiring no adhesive — will be a boon to stores where storage of bulky home furnishings may be a problem. Some manufacturers predict that all carpet eventually will go the way of tiles.

Vinyl tiles also have become a do-it-yourself project now that a proper adhesive has been found to insure a permanent floor by do-it-yourselfers.

A new "instant floor," recently introduced by Goodyear, emphasizes the ease with which a floor may be put down. Each carton of adhesive-backed vinyl contains eight 12-by-12-inch tiles (eight square feet). The cost is about five cents more a square foot per tile than the company's conventional tiles, which require adhesive and a professional tiler.

DIRECTIONS ON the package may appear to be involved, but the job dissolves into these basics: Determine how much tile is needed, prepare the floor surface by smoothing and removing protuberances, find the starting point, lay tiles and fit border tiles into place.

The tile is cut before backing paper is removed.

If one has qualms about such a project, one might do a trial tile run in a closet or another small area.

Sheet vinyls may be installed without adhesive by a do-it-yourselfer. A 12-foot roll may provide a seamless floor if the room is no larger. The manufacturer (Armstrong) suggests using a molding around the floor or doors where the vinyl ends for a smooth finish.

If room is larger than 12 feet, adhesive may be used at seams.

A GOOD FLOOR venture for a lady do-it-yourselfer might be putting down bathroom carpet using one of the kits. These give instructions, and provide a pattern for fitting carpet around fixtures. It gives her an opportunity to test her skills for larger jobs.

Another great help to home decorators is a window shade kit that comes with everything except the fabric. The directions on the box, packaged by Stauffer, are complete, but one must have patience.

The pre-cut shade cloth has an adhesive coating on one side that is activated with heat. The four-step method suggests that you apply your decorator fabric to it with a hot iron, and says that the permanent bond will seal the special cloth and fabric.

THE SHADE cloth has been available to do-it-yourselfers for some time, but the advantage of the complete kit is that, in addition, it contains roller, slat, shade pull, mounting brackets and screws.

The homemade shade can provide a unified look. You can match the shade's fabric to chairs, bedcovers, wallpapers or whatever to make the room look more interesting.

THE FINAL STEP in laying an all-vinyl floor is fitting the border. Tile should be measured and marked before adhesive backing is removed.

WHY FALL IS BEST AS PLANTING SEASON

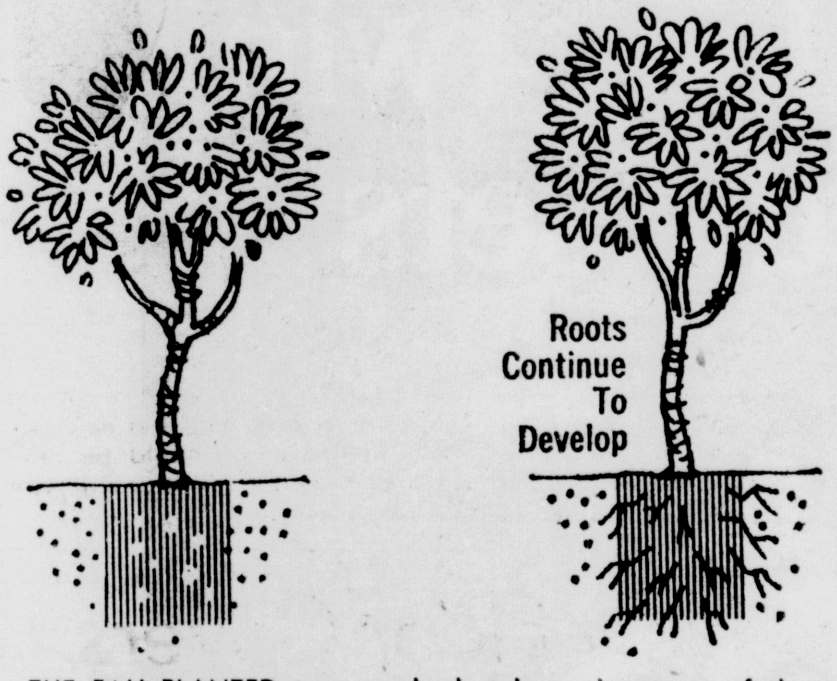
There are four good reasons why you should plant your trees or shrubs in the autumn.

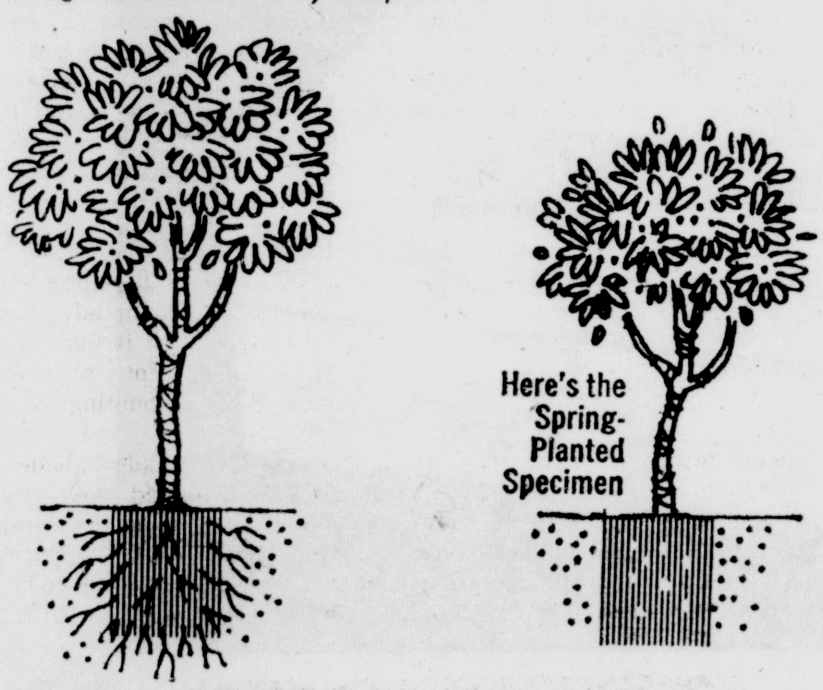
Fall planting follows and escapes the heat of the summer. Fall planting precedes the cold of winter. Fall planting takes advantage of the winter rains. And fall planting makes full use of that vital surge of early spring growth.

In Marin, almost all shrubs, trees, annuals, perennials and ground-covers can be planted in the fall. There are a few exceptions such as the citrus, hibiscus, lantana, philodendron and other frost-tender tropicals.

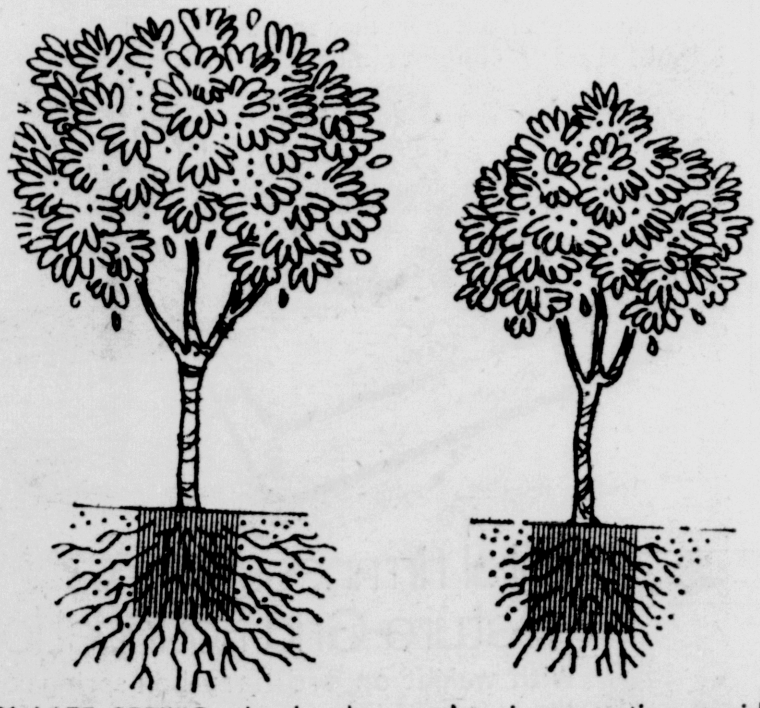
But visit the nearest nursery now and you will see a wide array of beautiful plants waiting to be set in the soil of your garden. Early October is the ideal time to do so.



THE FALL-PLANTED tree or shrub takes advantage of the warmth retained by the soil and at left begins to send its roots out. And while, at right, there will be little or no top growth in winter, the roots will continue to develop slowly, using the food stored by the plant.



THEN COMES spring. Roots of the fall-planted shrub or tree at left are still developing in the cool, moist soil of early spring. But the roots of the specimen planted in the spring are developing but slowly. Top growth is beginning to show on both plants.



BY LATE SPRING, the lovely weather is promoting rapid progress. But the fall-planted specimen at left with its well-developed root system has a decided head start over the more recently planted one at right. It has been able to take full advantage of the surge of spring growth.

It's Time To Plant Vegetables, But Select The Proper Ones

Gardening Page

A recent national garden survey reveals that Americans are growing more vegetables now than they have since the wartime days of the Victory Gardens.

And, gardeners in Marin are no exception. Nurserymen report greater-than-usual interest in vegetable gardening.

This fact comes as no surprise, especially at this time of year. California gardeners can plant in October and count on a bountiful harvest in a season when most easterners can only dream of it.

Chief consideration of cool-season vegetable gardening is what to plant.

FOR WINTER, plant the vegetables that bear edible roots or tops. Of all the fruiting vegetables, only peas are to be planted now. Frost-tender items such as tomatoes are warm-season crops.

The likes of carrots, radishes, beets, turnips are cool-season crops. Likewise spinach, chard, lettuce, cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower.

Some items are available as small transplants in nursery flats. Ask your nurseryman whether you should plant seeds or transplants from nursery flats.

HALF THE FUN of harvesting a home crop is reaping a quality product. To insure the best possible return, prepare the soil before planting.

One way is to turn the soil deeply ahead of time and add liberal amounts of manure or compost before planting. If time is a factor, use a nurseryman's planter mix, which can be turned into the soil. Seed or transplants may be set-out immediately into this composition.

Keep the new planting moist at all times. Winter rains are just ahead, but don't rely on them to do the job for you.

Finally, prepare for possible heavy rainfall by insuring good drainage.
